When one has a plump chicken that may not prove very tender eating this is the best method of cooking it: Clean and joint the fowl. Place it in the large bean pot in layers, with a teaspoonful of pepper, a tablespoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of dried parsley and one pint of corn cut from the cob. If corn is not to be had, use fresh lima beans. Cover the contents with water and bury the pot in hot ashes and coals. Let it remain for two hours and a more savory dish is not to be had. Tomatoes and rice cooked in the bean pot is an excellent dish. Wash one cupful of raw rice and use one quart of tomatoes, canned or fresh ones, cut small. Put half the tomatoes in the pot, and half the rice, balance of tomatoes and rice. Add also a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of pepper. If curried tomatoes and rice are wanted, add a tablespoonful of curry powder. Cover the bean pot and bury it in hot ashes and coals. Let cook for one hour.

Another good vegetable dish is made in the same manner, substituting potatoes and onions. Slice the vegetables very thin, place in layers salt and pepper, add half a pint of water and cook as directed in a preceding recipe.

Fresh lima beans and corn cut from the cob can be cooked in the same way. Use three-fourths pint of each vegetable, half a pint of water, with a teaspoonful of salt, and half a teaspoonful of pepper. If canned vegetables, one half of the time will be required for cooking, except when rice is used.

This bread is excellent eaten hot or cold. Partly fill the iron pot with water, and set it where it will keep up a steady boil. Sift two cupfuls of cornmeal, one cupful of white flour, a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of saleratus into a bowl. Mix in half a pint of syrup and one pint of sour or buttermilk. If these are not obtainable, substitute water and add a teaspoonful of lard. Pour into the well greased mold, put on the lid and drop into the boiling water. The water must come up at least two-thirds on the mold. Keep boiling four hours. Remove from the mold into a pan and place before a bed of hot coals for half an hour, turning occasionally so all sides may be browned. This makes a loaf that will fill a two-quart mold when baked.—Eleanor M. Lucas.

Neuralgia

is Rheumatism of the face. Uric Acid left in the blood by disordered kidneys lodges along the nerve which branches from the eye over the forehead, and across the cheek to the side of the nose. The cause is the same as in all Rheumatism—disordered Kidneys. The cure is likewise the same—

SIMPLE DRESSES.

Cool Gowns For Hot Days—Serviceable Country Dresses.

If coolness is desired, do not starch your summer gowns. For morning wear nothing is more comfortable than unlined piques, hollands and the old fashioned prints, and for smart gowns chiffons and fine makes of muslin mounted over soft silk, which is much cooler than the stereotyped glace taffeta of past seasons. A great many smart costumes are made of taffeta without linings of any sort. Stout people, of course, cannot follow such a style, for they feel the heat more than their slighter sisters.

TUCKED SHIRT WAIST.

A really flimsy muslin gown is of very little use in the country except for garden parties. The dresses that look best in the country are swiss muslins, linen piques and delaines. The latter look light, but possess a certain substance and solidity, for they are well able to stand visits to the washtub.

The old fashioned print or zephyr dress is always charming and looks well when simply made, with a flat sailor collar of the material, hand stitched and veined.

A simple but effective tucked shirt waist is here shown. It is made of old rose glace linen. The tie and collar are also of the same.

Sleepin' in yer trundle bed,
An' yer hear a buzzin', creepin'—
Creepin' round yer drowsy head,
Such a gentle kind o' buzzin',
Seems like some one's sayin', "Cousin,
Cous-in, cous-sin, cous-s-sin, cous-s-s-sin!"
When yer ain't got no sich kin,
Head's in under quick sh' cheat 'er!
It's a low down femayle cheater
That's a-lyin'
An' a-tryin'
To break in.

For she knows yer only hidin'
An' yer got ter rise ter breathe.
So she'll hover round thar buzzin'

Say, I'm axin'
Did she swat?

If yer git as hot as tinder,

For she'll hustle back a-buzzin',

The late king of Prussia once sent to an aid-de-camp, Colonel Malachowsky, who was brave, but poor, a small portfolio, bound like a book, in which were deposited 500 crowns. Some time afterward he met the officer and said to him:

"Ah! Well, how did you like the new work which I sent to you?"

"Excessively, sire," replied the colonel. "I read it with such interest that I expect the second volume with impatience."

The king smiled, and when the officer's birthday arrived he presented him with another portfolio, similar in every respect to the first, but with these words engraved upon it:

"This book is complete in two volumes."

"A few words, my lord. I am thirty years of age."

"Well?"

"Your elder brother is a physician."

"This is impertinent and irrelevant."

"It may sound so, my lord, but it means life or death to me. I understand that you take a great pride in the phenomenal success of your brother?"

"I do, but what possible bearing can that have upon your case?"

"Simply this: Your brother, the doctor, examined me a year ago and predicted that I would live at least twenty years more. It would certainly undermine his reputation as a scientist should I die before that time."

A WHIFF OF OLD VIRGINIA.

Extracts From a Racy Letter From Mr. W. A. Whitney.

Mr. John Whitney, 587 Aylmer street, has received a letter from his son, Mr. W. A. Whitney, who is at present at the Blue Ridge Springs, Virginia, for the benefit of his health. Mr. Whitney is a graceful writer, a successful magazine contributor, and the Examiner thinks that the following extracts from the letter to his parents, briefly describing a corner of "Ole Virginny," will be read with interest;

Dear Father and Mother, — I came down here from Lynchburg last evening for the sake of the quiet and the "spring waters." A pen picture could not possibly convey an idea of the natural beauty of this place. It is located at the base of the Blue Ridge Mountains in a deep valley, with a growth of sycamore hiding it from the railroad traveler. I am sending you to-day a copy of a Lynchburg paper in which you will find a few of the daily arrivals mentioned. I shall leave here for Roanoke to-morrow morning, and expect to spend next Sunday at Danville, Va. I was at Lexington, Va., last week and visited the Lexington Military Academy, where many of the famous Confederate generals received their early education in the art of war. In the Academy grounds is a mortuary chapel, dedicated to General R. E. Lee, and containing a recumbent statue of that noble old man. The statue is perfectly beautiful, and it is hard to look upon the deeply lined face of the marble "presentment" of the southern hero, who died of a broken heart, without feeling the tears in one's eyes. Lexington is a centre of Virginian aristocracy, and stands as a type, as nearly as possible, of what the "old South" was. Lexington was the objective point of many a hard fought battle during the Civil War. I met some lovely people there, and was treated like a brother and a friend. I only wish that you dear ones could see this Cumberland and Blue Ridge Mountain country. Every foot of it is rich with historical associations, and the scenery is most beautiful. Near this place are the ruins of what before the war was the resort of Virginia's aristocracy, now going to decay and choked with second growth trees and weeds. It is very sad to contemplate.

The mountain air and these healing waters are doing me good, and I am meeting with fair success in my business. My only care now is that you shall keep well and happy. That is my first and chief concern. . . . I have drunk four quarts of spring water since nine this morning, and expect to drink four more before bedtime. It is just like swallowing air bubbles. I only wish that I could send you a barrel of it.

It is growing quite cool down here, and I expect that you have had frost up your way. There are seven "niggers" to the square rod down here. If there are more I would say so. The Virginia women are perfectly lovely, and I have lost my heart a dozen times since I came down here, but I have saved the best part of it for my Mammy and Pappy. I have written some long business letters to-day, and now I am going to close the only letter I have enjoyed writing.

THE FOOT RACE.

Perhaps no local sporting event in recent years aroused so much interest as did the foot race in the driving park yesterday afternoon between Mr. George Taylor and Mr. Fred McGrath. Taylor won the Schneider Cup last year in a one hundred yards race open to the county, defeating Rutherford of Norwood. During the past year there has been considerable speculation as to whether McGrath or Taylor was the speedier, and when a challenge appeared in the local papers in which McGrath expressed his willingness to race for the cup, the supporters of both runners, and they were legion, rallied around their favourite.

The excitement yesterday at the driving park, when the above mentioned sprinters met, was intense. Shortly after two o'clock, the two runners took the scratch, awaiting the crack of the pistol in the hands of Archie Moore. McGrath, (who represented the Athletic Section of St. Peter's T. A. S.) appeared like a Lilliputian alongside his strapping opponent, who certainly looked as if he could cover the distance in several bounds. Both runners were in splendid condition, and when Archie Moore directed the athletes, the crowd settled back in breathless anxiety. Crack! went the pistol, and the runners were off, with McGrath in the lead, who made an easy finish, with about two yards of space between him and his opponent. The heat was done in 10 2-5 seconds.

The enthusiasm of McGrath's supporters knew no bounds, but there were two heats in the race yet, and George Taylor's friends felt confident that he would redeem himself in the second heat. The starter lined them up again after one heat in the 2.30 horse race was decided. The pistol shot rang out again, and away the runners went, with Taylor holding a good lead. Then was witnessed a feat that is rarely seen on a race track. McGrath made a magnificent plunge or leap and passed his opponent, reaching the tape ahead of Taylor and doing the dash in 10 3-5 seconds.

Fred McGrath was immediately taken in hand by his friends and escorted to the fence, and it was only some minutes afterwards that George Taylor came over and shook hands with the little champion, congratulating him, and expressing the wish that he would always hold the Schneider Cup.

LACROSSE.

The Toronto Telegram sizes up the Copper Cliff and Oshawa lacrosse teams in the following terms; — If Copperclift played up t otheir true form, and they likely did, they have been over-estimated by their critics. They are a fairly good bunch of players, taken individually, with a lot to learn about team work, and perhaps a thing or two about stick handling as well. Barlow is evidently the king pin of their home, and when he is stopped there is not much left for the defence to do except take away the ball. Their combination is of two kinds, a wide lob, one that is generally intercepted, or a short pass, one that the players fail to get. In Dunn they have a really good fielder, and Bobby Pringle has all his old time speed. Oshawa defence played well all through, and the home was brilliant and ragged by turns. Way, the young goal keeper did not get a great many to stop, but he handled most of them well, and did a lot of good work behind the flags. Kerwin and Shields did most of the defence work, the latter playing the game of his life and coming as an unpleasant surprise to his old college chums from the north, who are said to have thought him not good enough for them this year. Munro at centre, did good work, and Donald Hall was the star of his home, though Raymer was always in the game, and often dangerous.

Shamrocks' victory over the Capitals at Ottawa on Saturday came as a surprise to most followers of the game in Toronto. While it was admitted on all sides that the Irishmen were the better team and would ultimately land the championship it was generally believed that, feeling they could lose the game and still win the championship, the Shamrocks would not go at the Senators with a do-or-die determination. However, when the news came Saturday night, "Shamrocks 4, Ottawa, 2," the situation was quickly summed up, "The Irishmen had their money up." And so it proved. Shamrocks went to Ottawa to make a killing—and they evidently made it. One man is said to have dropped $1,000, and there are others, for Ottawa people always look on betting on the Caps on Ottawa grounds like finding money.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Argonaut rugbyists begin practice this week.

The executive of the O.R.F.U. will meet on Saturday, September 20th, when the schedules will be arranged.

This is the last week of the Eastern Baseball League. If Toronto wins four of its seven games it will win the penant.

Owen Sound lacrosse club cleared $500 on the season. There is keen rivalry among those northern towns in all lines of sport.

Pitcher Altrock, of last years Toronto team, has been signed by the Boston American league team for a term of two years at $3,600 a year.

The outlook for the international yacht race this month, between the schooners, Chorita, of Toronto, and the Helen, of Rochester, is not very bright.

The Dunlop trophy race at Toronto, on Saturday, was won by the Royal Canadians, its four men being the first to finish. The Queen City Bicycle Club was second.

It is now stipulated in the rules of the O.R.F.U. that the wings of the side in possession of the ball must not use their hands or arms, but can block with their bodies only. This will give the referees and umpires a good chance to see who the offenders are.

THE CANOE.

(Toronto Evening Star.)

It is a sheer waste of words to denounce the canoe and to recommend young men to use skiffs or punts instead. They will not do it. The only way to put a stop to canoeing would be to prohibit the manufacture and use of them, and to do this would be absurd. The canoe is absolutely indispensible to many people in the back country serving the purposes of horse and wagon, railway and steamer. It is the means of getting about, where there are rapids and portages; it will carry a load in the water, and can itself be carried on land. To enforce a law against canoeing would require the services of a greater army than was sent out to supress the Reil rebellion, for the muscular sunbrowned men up north would laugh at such a law.

Of course it is not these men who get drowned, and it is not their canoes that upset. It is very seldom that a canoe is to blame for the death of anyone, for in these drownings the canoe is but a conveyance in the disaster, not the cause of it. Young people who were not fortunate enough to get spilled out the first time they entered canoes—so learning caution—are careless and receive their lesson when they are wholly unprepared for it. Some of those who go paddling are unsuited to the task, and should never venture on the water except on steamer licensed to carry passengers. Walking on a wharf is another safe way of going on the water, and this could properly be recommended to some who try to paddle and sail to the peril of their acquaintances. But this is the risk people run in the world, that they must take the consequences of their acquaintanceships. The canoe cannot be brought into disfavour with those who know its merits—its lightness, the ease with which it may be handled, its speed, its grace and more than all the soft yielding with which it receives its occupant and the silence with which it feels its way through the consenting waters.

THE TAYLOR-McGRATH SPRINT.

Next to winning a race, the best thing is to accept defeat in a manly, sportsmanlike manner, such as did Taylor after the dash with McGrath yesterday. He warmly shook hands with McGrath, congratulated him, and frankly acknowledged that the best man had won the race.

Shorter Hours for Barbers.

Alive C. LeGros has decided to close his Tony Tonsorial Parlours every evening at 8 o'clock, except Saturday nights. This is the rule in all the best barber shops in the cities, and why not in Alive LeGros'? The barbers in Peterborough have been toiling all kinds of hours, day and night, and get no fair show for exercise or out door recreation. Barbers need shorter hours as much, and more so than most other trades. I hope my customers will take notice and help the boys out by getting their work done before 8 o'clock p.m. I have four chairs running all the time and no one need be disappointed. Alive C. SEES THE SHOE TRADE

Hon. Mr. Tarte Inspected the Shoe Factories of Montreal.

MINISTER'S REPLY TO THE GLOBE

Tuesday's Article in That Paper Categorically Treated — Globe, He Says, Free to Say Whatever It Likes About Him—Situation of the Country Prior to Confederation Recalled.

Montreal, Sept. 17.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte, continuing his investigation of manufacturing companies with a view to giving them more protection, visited yesterday the boot and shoe factories of Messrs. J. & J. Bell and of the Ames, Holden Co. They all, of course, wanted more protection, and La Patrie, in concluding the reports of these visits, adds:—"One word pronounced by one of those present summarizes the whole situation. He is a Liberal, but a protectionist, and he was asked how he could vote for the Liberals with the program of 1893. He replied:—'If I ever believed that they had any intention of applying that tariff I would have voted against them.'"

The Minister's Reply to The Globe.

Hon. J. I. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, was at his office in the postoffice building when a reporter called, with a copy of yesterday's Globe article about him. On reading the article he smiled and said:

"I am not astonished at The Globe's language towards me.

"As to the influence of that paper, however, you can see it in the result of its efforts during the electoral campaign of 1900, it spoke in support of the Liberal cause. The elections came, and Hon. Mr. Mulock was the only Liberal candidate who returned victorious out of the fourteen seats in and around Toronto. Mr. Archibald Campbell, who succeeded Mr. N. Clarke Wallace was elected after saying exactly what I said, not for the first time, but ten times before the Prime Minister and his colleagues. The Globe is absolutely free to say what it likes about me. I know it represents influences which for a long time have been hostile to me.

"It is astonishing to me to see how some people refuse to notice and accept the true condition of the public mind. What I ask, what I sincerely believe the majority of the country demands, is a readjustment of the tariff in a truly Canadian sense. During the last session Hon. Mr. Fielding, speaking on behalf of the Government, announced a revision of the tariff for the next session.

"The general situation vividly recalls to my mind the situation of the country, at an earlier period, in 1866, 1867 and 1868, just after confederation. A group of young men, including Louis A. Jette, L. O. David, Cleophas Beausoleil, Wilfrid Laurier, Henri Joli. Hector Fabre and others had founded the Parti National, the national party, advocating the protection of national industry. They stirred public opinion during two or three years. Sir John Macdonald was beaten on the Canadian Pacific question, and Mr. Alexander Mackenzie formed his Cabinet. The Liberals of the Province of Quebec were forced to renounce their ideas for protection.

"What happened?

"The Conservative party took possession of the policy of the Liberals of Lower Canada, making of that policy their great armed combat. You know the result of the elections of 1878.

"The Globe displays wilful malice in attacking me because I travel a great deal. With the exception of my trip to the Great Lakes, which I made for the purpose of studying the country, I have not made an official visit to any place in Ontario or Quebec without having been invited and pressed to do so. On Sept. 19 I shall be at Orillia on the invitation of the Liberal Association. Mr. Calvert, the chief Liberal whip, has invited me on behalf of the Middlesex Exposition Company to be at Strathroy on Sept. 25. I have a dozen other invitations to visit Ontario. Shall I refuse them because it displeases The Globe?"

Mr. Charlton Speaks.

Lynedoch, Sept. 17.—John Charlton, M.P., discussing the recent utterances of Hon. J. Israel Tarte upon the tariff question, made at Halifax, Montreal and other places, stated that he had given careful attention to Mr. Tarte's utterances, and that he deemed them to be of very great importance, and to express much significance, coming as they did from a very prominent member of the Government, and one of the most pronounced personalities in public life in the Dominion of Canada.

As to theories, Mr. Charlton said that he had concluded to be governed by practical conditions in his course as a public man, and to let theories stand aside. If we were to build up a nation in Canada we must have a proper degree of self-assertion and stand upon our rights. He believed that the majority of the Liberal electors of the Dominion were with him in the views he had expressed.

To Go to Whitby.

Whitby, Sept. 17.—Hon. J. I. Tarte is shortly to pay a visit of inspection to Whitby harbor, and action was taken by the Town Council last night directing the Mayor to invite the Minister of Public Works on the occasion of his visit to address a public meeting in the Music Hall upon national questions.

Middlesex Criminal Assizes.

London, Sept. 17.—The trial of Dr. Graham and Emma Agnes Mayo, nee Kilbourne, charged with causing the death of the latter's infant child, was proceeded with in the Criminal Assizes yesterday. The Crown closed its case, which Judge Lount remarked was weak against Dr. Graham. Mrs. Mayo's husband was called, and the judge on four occasions warned him that he need not testify against his wife. The case goes on this morning.

The grand jury indicted John McArthur, charged with the killing of Gus Ninham, an Oneida Indian.

COAL STRIKE SAID TO BE BROKEN

The Llewellyn Coal Company Has Granted Their Miners An Increase of 10 Per Cent. and an 8-Hour Day—The Miners, Therefore, Hopeful—Gompers Visits Mitchell—Operators Also Meet.

Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 17.—The first break has come. The Llewellyn Coal Company granted a 10 per cent. increase and an eight-hour day to their men yesterday.

Following this came the announcement by District President John Fahey that the miners had won the strike.

Thirty men of the Royal Oak Colliery, owned by the Llewellyn Company, went back to work, but they were persuaded to go home and wait until the other and larger companies announced concessions.

It is believed here among the miners that the strike is really ended, and that the surrender of the other coal companies is merely a matter of time.

Gompers Sees Mitchell.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 17.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived here yesterday and at once went to President Mitchell's headquarters, where he met National Treasurer Wilson and the district presidents of the United Mine Workers.

Mr. Gompers and the executive officers of the Miners' Union held a lengthy conference.

When the conference adjourned at 1 o'clock for dinner, Mr. Gompers was the only one who would talk on the deliberations. He said the strike situation was discussed in all its phases; the finances were found to be in good condition; the relief funds were coming in promptly, and there was no reason why the strike should not be kept up without inflicting any hardship on the strikers.

He was asked whether it was proposed to levy an extra assessment in order to help the miners. He declined to answer the question. He also refused to say whether the American Federation of Labor will be convened in extra session to take action on the strike.

Operators Also Meet.

New York, Sept. 17.—A conference of the leading anthracite coal interests was held yesterday at the Philadelphia and Reading Company's offices.

The precise subjects of the conference could not be learned, but it was announced in advance of the meeting that no concessions would be granted, and that recent events of a semi-political character would not be seriously considered.

Violence at the Mines.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 17.—Strikers waylaid two non-union workmen near the Pennsylvania colliery at Mudtown yesterday morning and so badly injured them that they may die. The men were returning from their night's work when caught by the crowd. John Didano was clubbed to insensibility and was removed to the Pittston Hospital. The other man's name could not be learned. He was removed to his home.

Three Italian laborers, while on their way to work on a sewer trench near Throop yesterday morning were mistaken for non-union miners and assaulted by a big crowd of strikers. One of them is reported dead.

Trainmen Want More Pay.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Freight trainmen of the western railroads received reports yesterday from various cities to the effect that all the lodges of the United Order of Railway Employes had voted for the filing of a demand for higher wages. This demand is to be made within the next 30 days.

Italian Laborers Throw Stones.

Thorold, Ont., Sept. 17. — There was a small-sized riot on the G. T. R. track about two miles east of here yesterday afternoon. The trouble arose over a dispute between one of the foremen and the Italian laborers, who are laying the track here. The Italians stopped working and went up the hill, leaving the three foremen below. They then began throwing stones at the three latter men, and so injured one of the men that three stitches were required to close a gash over the left eye. The riotous Italians were sent to Niagara Falls, where a charge was laid against them.

Says Shooting Was Accidental.

Fort Erie, Ont., Sept. 17.—Jack Herman, manager of the International Athletic Club, was committed for trial by Magistrate Logan yesterday for shooting John Mathers, a Buffalo cab driver, at the club house Monday night. Herman will be given a jury trial in December in Welland. Herman gave bail at Welland last night, and returned to Buffalo. Herman says the shooting was accidental. Mathers' wound is not serious.

Babson Did Not Drown.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 17.—The whereabouts of Charles B. Babson of Atlin, B. C., the gold mine owner, who became insane early Monday morning and forced his bride of a day to walk through the streets in her night dress, have not yet been discovered. The police do not believe he drowned himself, and incline to the theory that he is now wandering at large in a demented condition.

IN LABOUR'S INTERESTS.

At the Trades and Labour Congress at Berlin, the report of the Executive for Ontario showed that the Ross Government is foremost in both professed interest in the cause of labour and in practical legislation, something directly in line with the principles of true Liberalism, whose essential spirit is progress, improvement, and general betterment of the masses. During the eighteen years the Conservative Government was in power at Ottawa, though importuned time after time by those interested in the progress of labour, it could only be brought to the point of placing one law upon the statute books in the interests of labour, and that was the enactment setting apart the first Monday in September as Labour Day. In contrast, the Executive for Ontario, reported at the Berlin Congress, that in one short session, that of 1902, the Ross Government procured the passage of no fewer than eight enactments, "in 'which the interests of labour were advanced," and in addition to this the Executive reports favourably upon the friendly reception by the Government of a delegation which was granted an interview in labour's interests. The bills referred to were bills respecting the Temiskaming and Northern Railway bill; to amend the statute law respecting holidays; amending mechanics' and wage-earners' lien act, respecting aid to certain railways (regarding payment of current rates of wages,) respecting electric railways, (protection of men operating cars,) amending the Ontario factories and street railways and councils of arbitration for settling individual disputes act.

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

The Globe has the following upon the tariff question:—"A tariff for Canada," "Canada for Canadians," is a policy upon which most of us can unite, even if we cannot all agree that a tariff for manufacturers is necessarily a tariff for Canada, or that the interests of all Canadians are covered by the resolutions of the Manufacturers' Association. No one proposes to legislate for the destruction of Canadian industries, or even deliberately to destroy industries that have been built up under the system of high protection. Tariff stability is a condition of high value to all the interests of the country, but still even a tariff must be subject to changing circumstances, and the necessities of revenue and illegitimate outside competition may conceivably create the necessity for self-protective measures.

The American tariff is frankly, even ostentatiously, protectionist, and it is open to Americans to contend that such a policy best conserves their national interests, and that so as they do not make special discriminations against Canada we have no basis upon which to charge unneighbourly treatment. So we have a right to frame a tariff solely with a view to the interests of Canada, and we think Liberals can produce overwhelming evidence to show that under moderate tariffs Canada has had her best growth and her best prosperity, and that all the facts and circumstances of the hour tell against a return to the system which was discarded five or six years ago. The mass of Canadians, we imagine, are neither free traders nor high protectionists, but practical people, who demand a commercial policy framed to provide ample revenue and promote the general interest, and sufficiently flexible to bend to changing circumstances and conditions."

NO ANNEXATION.

Our American cousins are perennially anxious for the annexation of Canada to the United States, and every possible indication is seized upon to support the possibility, the wish being evidently father to the thought. A Chicago journal regards the great influx of Americans into our Canadian Northwest as likely to result in the creation of an important annexation sentiment. No fear of that. The new comers will find the conditions of our civilization so superior in their essentials, that they will have no desire to subject them to deterioration, by bringing them under the domination of American conditions. It is granted that the Americans excel us in what is known as "hustle," and business activity. But "business," and the accumulation of money, without nice regard to the means, is not the highest good, nor is the liberty that easily merges into license. The highest social conditions, the best home life, and the best citizenship depend upon due submission to moral restraints and respect for moral obligations and upon a general respect for what is good. The acquirement and possession of money, without regard to the possession of these higher conditions, represent a sordid materialism that cannot consist with the highest personal, civic and national development.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Conservatives of British Columbia are "sprucing up," and looking for a policy. Mr. Whitney will have to look sharp or he will be the last to find one.

"If prosperity" says the Ottawa Journal, "is any criterion, the lowering of the tariff during the past five years has been enormously in the best interests of Canada; tariff decrease has been a blessing, tariff increase was the curse."

The Detroit Street Railway Company pays the corporation of the City of Detroit $5,000 for privilege to run its cars in the city. It's different in Peterborough; it looks as if we shall have to pay them something handsome to run at all.

The Tories, remarks the Globe, are very unlucky fellows. They created the West, created the commerce of Canada, and created all the industries of Canada. But, strange to say, all these prosper more under Liberal than under Conservative rule. No sooner do the Tories go out than the West begins to fill up, factories are enlarged and work day and night, and Canadian exports increase at the rate of $14,500,000 a year.

Nothing succeeds like success. Since Canada, under Liberal rule, has forged ahead till it holds a commanding position in the world's eye, some of the Yankee papers that used to sneer at our reciprocity proposals and indulge in brutal and insulting language toward our nationality are seriously discussing better trades relations with Canada. Keep agoing. One of these days we shall have United States nabobs visiting Ottawa to ask for terms, and the terms will be made there.—Hamilton Times.

Morgan, the multi-millionaire, is, it is stated, to form a "trust" to Christianize the Philippines. If the "Christian" combine works anything like the United States Government methods to civilize the Philippinos by slaughtering them in hot blood, Mr. Morgan will soon find an absence of raw material upon which to expend the energies of his Christian combine. Such ideas are simply blasphemious and show that the doctrine of organized greed is being pushed to a finish. The good Lord will take a hand in settling matters one of these days. There's a limit to man's impious audiciy, whether it is shown by an ordinary sinner or a millionaire tyrant.

A GROWING INDUSTRY.

Canada may be a little slow, but the growth of the cement manufacture does not go to show that they fail to take advantage of their opportunities. The raw materials of cement—shell marl and clay—abound in Ontario, and there is a home market for the product, which is used in constructing canals, dams, breakwaters, piers, bridges, conduits, sidewalks, floors and fireproof buildings. In 1891 the first Portland cement was produced in commercial quantities in Ontario, the output being 2,-035 barrels, valued at $5,082. In 1897 the quantity was 96,825 barrels, and the value $170,362. In 1900 the quantity was 396,726 barrels and the value $598,021. In 1901 there was an increase of quantity to 350,-660 barrels, but a decrease of value to $563,255. That is a good record of growth for eleven years, and with the reduction of price the consumption of cement will be sure to greatly increase. Before long we may expect to see many houses built with cement as the principal material for the walls, and perhaps for the floors and roofs also. Besides the domestic product, Canada imported last year 5,675,768 worth of cement, of which $230,584 came from Britain, $228,245 from the United States, $112,936 from Belgium, and $70,170 from Germany.

A MARKET FOR CANADIAN ARSENIC.

There are several arsenic mines in Hastings and Addington Counties, Ontario, and the report of the Bureau of Mines says the refined white arsenic analyzes 99.6 to 100 per cent. of arsenious oxide, the only impurity being silica in a finely divided state, and it commands the highest price in the market, owing to its excellent quality. Arsenic is produced in England, Prussia, Saxony, Italy, Spain, Austria and Portugal, as well as in Canada, and the question arises whether a market can be found for any large quantity that may be obtained in this country. The German product is largely used in Aniline dye works, in making Paris green, Scheele's green, arsenical salts, and in glass works. English arsenic is mainly employed in making sheep-dip, Paris green, paints and glass. So far Canadian arsenic has been used in making Paris green and paints at Montreal, but most of it has been exported to the United States, where none is produced, but six to nine million pounds annually imported. Canada's imports of arsenic were 1,115,-697 pounds in 1895, but only 159,263 pounds in 1901.

Various preparations from arsenic are useful as insecticides and for spraying trees, but the cost limits the use for these purposes. White arsenic, or compounds made from it, may be used as a weed-killer for destroying rank vegetation, as a vermicide for all parasites on animals, as a hardening substance in babbit metal and lead bullets, as a flux in making the finer grades of glassware, and as a fixing substance for aniline dyes in calico printing. Used with barnyard manure, arsenic kills weeds and bugs, and it is thought that it might be used extensively to get rid of the Canadian thistle and wild mustard plant, which are far too common in many parts of the country. The report concludes that the field for the employment of arsenical vermicides and insecticides is practically unlimited, and the consumption in Canada is certain to increase enormously, providing the selling prices to consumers are reduced to a figure allowing universal use on fruit, vegetable and stock farms. All the white arsenic which might be produced from arsenical ores in Ontario could be absorbed in these two important uses, if the retail price of the manufactured article were considerably lowered. — Hamilton Times.

Declines to Run.

Dubuque, Ia., Sept. 17.—Speaker Henderson of the House of Representatives, finding that his views in respect to the treatment of trusts by reducing the tariff, in whole or in part, are not in accord with the views of many of his party in Iowa, has declined to accept the nomination for Congress, and has withdrawn from the race.

Wilhelmina Opens States General.

The Hague, Sept. 17.—Queen Wilhelmina opened the States General (Parliament), in person yesterday. She appeared to have completely recovered from her illness. Her Majesty was accompanied by her husband, Prince Henry, and the Queen Mother. Among the bills announced were measures increasing educational facilities, restricting compulsory vaccination, pensioning teachers, regulating lotteries, abolishing the State lottery and amending the sugar law.

KING COMMITTED.

Coroner's Jury at Rodney Sends Murderer For Trial.

Rodney, Sept. 17.—Without visible emotion Charles King yesterday heard the jury's verdict, which formally accuses him of having shot and killed Willie Freeman. As the prisoner was taken away to jail the wise men of Rodney gathered around the village church and vented their theories on different versions of the case. The revolting crime is partially obscured by the extraordinary circumstances surrounding the case and leading in a clearly defined way to inevitable violence. Stripped of its legal verbiage, the jury's conclusions charge the prisoner with having murdered the 15-year-old son of his employer, Sept. 9, by firing a load from a shot gun into his victim's head.

The evidence heard yesterday was brief and largely a repetition of the testimony offered Monday. Mrs. Schlieuhauf, sister of the victim; Colin McPherson, a neighbor of the Freeman family; Farmer Holtzel and Undertaker Cullen were on the stand. Their evidence related to the confession of King that he had fired the shot, the position in which the little body was found in the stable loft and the absence of powder stains on the corpse. Detective John Murray was not called upon for evidence.

The witnesses established beyond question all the material circumstance that the prisoner had said he shot the boy because he was jealous of the family favors he received, and with the hope that if he was removed the affections and property of the Freemans would be transferred to him. Crown Attorney Donahue said that the preliminary trial would probably occur about Sept. 29, and the case hurried to the regular docket.

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The anxieties of the sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are absolutely worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

For these reasons we announce that our proprietors are the principal shareholders in

"FORCE"

This big O and that big E stand for two little words that represent what is necessary for every advancement we make in life—OUR EFFORT.

Effort means activity, physical and mental. Activity uses up vitality and wears away tissue. Vitality and tissue must be rebuilt or health departs. Body-building material comes from proper food. Food, then, of the proper kind, makes effort possible. Effort makes the man. Your doctor will tell you that the whole wheat kernel contains every element necessary for building up each part of the human body, and that barley malt is the best natural tonic. "FORCE" is composed of the whole of the wheat and barley malt, ready cooked, in the form of a crisp, delicate, delectable flake, and contains in just the proper proportions those elements required for nourishing strengthening and invigorating the human body.

THE MUNICIPAL CONVENTION.

Borrowing on United Credit—Arbitration Where There Is a Franchise.

Montreal, Sept. 17.—At the Union of Municipalities Convention yesterday morning the question of financial relief for the municipalities was discussed, and as the result the matter was referred to the Executive Committee to draw up a plan for the purpose of borrowing on united credit, with the object of having the Provincial Government first lend their sanction to the plan and afterwards securing the approval of the Dominion Government.

Ald. Stroud of Ottawa introduced a resolution, which was adopted, that in the case of all franchises granted by the cities or towns to corporations a stipulation should be made that in the case of difficulty between the said corporation and its employes the same should be settled by a board of arbitration.

FREE TO MILLIONS.

A Valuable Little Book Sent Free for the Asking.

Medical books are not always interesting reading, especially to people enjoying good health, but as a matter of fact scarcely one person in ten is perfectly healthy, and even with such sooner or later sickness must come.

It is also a well established truth that nine-tenths of all diseases originate with a breaking down of the digestion, a weak stomach weakens and impoverishes the system, making it easy for disease to gain a foothold.

Nobody need fear consumption, kidney disease, liver trouble or a weak heart and nervous system as long as the digestion is good and the stomach able to assimilate plenty of wholesome food.

Stomach weakness shows itself in a score of ways and this little book describes the symptoms and causes and points the way to a cure so simple that anyone can understand and apply.

Thousands have some form of stomach trouble and do not know it. They ascribe the headaches, the languor, nervousness, insomnia, palpitation, constipation and similar symptoms to some other cause than the true one. Get your digestion on the right track and the heart trouble, lung trouble, liver disease or nervous debility will rapidly disappear.

This little book treats entirely on the cause and removal of indigestion and its accompanying annoyances.

It describes the symptoms of Acid Dyspepsia, Nervous Dyspepsia, Slow Dyspepsia, Amylaceous Dyspepsia, Catarrh of stomach and all affections of the digestive organs in plain language easily understood and the cause removed.

It gives valuable suggestions as to diet, and contains a table giving length of time required to digest various articles of food, something every person with weak digestion should know.

No price is asked, but simply send your name and address plainly written on postal card to the F.A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., requesting a little book on Stomach Diseases and it will be sent promptly by return mail.

ABOLISHES SWORDS.

New Militia Order Issued for the Instruction of Cavalry.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT CHANGES.

Lord Dundonald, in the Introductory Paragraphs of the Order, Sets Forth Instructions For Canadian Cavalry —Why the New Cavalry With the Rifle Will Be the Most Effective.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Lord Dundonald has lost no time in putting into operation the lessons of the Boer war. A militia order issued last evening prohibits the Canadian cavalry from taking their swords into the field, and intimates that our mounted troops are to consider the rifle as their principal weapon. A program of instruction for cavalry, based upon experiences in South Africa, is set forth in detail. The introductory paragraphs of the order are as follows:—With reference to the memorandum on instruction to cavalry, the General Officer Commanding desires to call the attention of all ranks, who have hitherto looked upon the sword as their principal weapon, to the following observations: Wire fencing, enclosures, smokeless powder, the increased range and accuracy of arms of precision, all tend to diminish the power of men who depend upon shock action for success. On the other hand, the mobile rifleman is of more importance than ever. The new cavalry soldier should learn from the infantry soldier and the engineer all that is useful to him, while, above all things, retaining the dash and "go" of the old cavalry soldier, and maintaining to the full the name and spirit of his old regiment. The General Officer Commanding is aware how strong tradition is, and how some men cling to the sword, with its associations. It may be possible later on to arm men with a light sword bayonet, adapted for use on the rifle, or for thrusting men mounted, a sword that would require but little practice or drill for its use; but whether that is done or not, the future of cavalry lies with the most efficient possible use of the rifle. In giving up the weapon of shock action, which most certainly can afford but few opportunities of fighting to those who wear it in comparison with the opportunities that cavalry armed with the rifle will have on modern battle-fields, the General Officer Commanding desires to impress upon all ranks of the cavalry that they are not giving up opportunities of distinction, but adding to them. In the next war, if a man wishes to see everything, take part in everything and have great opportunities of fighting, the force to belong to is the new cavalry, whether they be called hussars or dragoons, or any other name.

Sharkey, who joined the banker at a table where he had been for several hours drinking with Mrs. Libby J. Phillips and Mrs. Nellie Casey.

Thomas J. Sharkey is held in $10,000 bail, and Mrs. Libby Phillips and Mrs. Nellie Casey in $500 bail each, as witnesses.

VICTORIAN PARLIAMENT DISSOLVED

Premier Irvine Issues a Manifesto to the Electors.

Melbourne, Victoria, Sept. 17.—Following the dissolution of the Victorian Parliament yesterday, in consequence of an adverse vote recently on the Government schemes for retrenchment, the Premier, W. H. Irvine, issued a manifesto to the electors appealing to them to prevent their own servants from paralyzing the administration. He said that in order to avoid a serious deficit, the Government decided on a graduated reduction of the salaries of public servants, and that thereupon the mass of the state employes became rebellious and a strike on the state railroads was openly organized, and, in consequence of the pressure brought to bear on them by the malcontents, the Assemblymen voted against the Government.

Besides the money found in a satchel was a Pulman ticket reading from Springfield, Mass., to Newport.

Horsepower Measurement.

A horsepower is the force required to lift a dead weight of 33,000 pounds one foot a minute. To find the horsepower of an engine, multiply the area of the piston in inches by the average steam pressure in pounds per square inch. Multiply the product by the travel of the piston in feet per minute and divide that product by 33,000. If an engine is rated at seventy-three horsepower, it will raise 33,000 pounds one foot seventy-three times in one minute.

New Window Blinds at Half!

You can have no idea until you have seen this remarkable offering of 2,000 window blinds how many new styles there are at a small cost. They consist of all the made up stock ready to ship in the largest window blind factory in Canada. It is, unquestionably, the biggest single shipment ever brought to town. It was a case of mere room being imperative in the factory, that the entire lot was sold out to us at 50c on the dollar. And it is a case with you of "double your money's worth." For example—40c. blinds for 20c; 50c blinds for 25c; 65c. blinds for 35c., and so on. A. H. Stratton & Co.

BACHELORS' CONTRIBUTION

To the Debt Reduction Fund of George Street Methodist Church.

A very successful social evening was given last night by the young bachelors of the George street church in aid of the church debt fund. The duties of chairman were performed by Mr. J. Jeffries in his usual happy manner, and a most delightful programme was contributed by Mrs. Daly, Misses B. Parnell, and C. Belleghem, and Messrs. F. Turner, Joliffe and Bowers. The two last young gentlemen have recently come to town and have proved themselves quite an acquisition to musical circles, being the possessors of most pleasing voices. Mr. Jolliffe delighted the audience with "Heroes and Gentlemen," and in response to an encore the song "Out on the Deep" was given. Mr. Bowers' tenor voice was heard to good advantage in the solo, "Loyal Sons of Canada," which also drew forth an encore. Miss Belleghem's excellent voice seldom gave more pleasure than in the rendition of "O, Dry Those Tears," in addition to which she very kindly sang "The Barque of Dreams." Mr. Turner's solo, "The Skipper," and Miss Parnell's selection, were also pleasing numbers. Dr. Metzler, who was present, gave a short address, and the programme concluded with a solo, "Bride Bells," given by Mrs. Daly in her usual delightful manner. Refreshments and a social half hour brought to a close a very pleasant evening.

POLICE COURT.

At this morning's sitting D. J. Markham, who gives his residence as Lindsay, which, if it is not a fact, may be regarded as prima facie evidence of lack of self respect, confronted the "beak" under a charge of drunk and disorderly. Though his condition and actions when arrested, were self evident proof of the correctness of the charge, he pleaded not guilty and said he would continue to do so no matter how much evidence was given. The prisoner was therefore remanded to permit him to "sober up" and to permit of obtaining evidence.

Two lads were arraigned charged with breaking into the boat house of Mr. John Eynon on Monday, Sept. 8th. It appears that Mr. Eynon's canoe was taken from the boat house down the river, and left on the river bank at Hastings and the two lads, it is said took train for Montreal on a "general toot." The case was enlarged till Friday—one of the boys being remanded and the other securing bail.

TWO HOURS IN THE ARMY.

Graphic "Living" Pictures of the British Soldier From the "King's Shilling" to the Commander-in-Chief.

There was a fair sized audience or, rather, gathering of spectators, in the opera house last night to witness the presentation of a series of most graphic moving pictures, showing the life and career of a soldier in the British army. The pictures, which were generally clear, and astonishingly life-like, took Tommy Atkins up from the time of his enlistment, and followed him through his varied experiences in barracks, camp and field. The pictures were most life-like. Zola's most intense realism was but a dream, compared to the realistic pictures shown. In the manual exercises one was surprised in spite of himself, when at the order arms, he did not hear the thud of the rifle butts on the ground. This was but a type of the reality of army life and incident brought before the spectator, in a score of scenes. While one may not particularize throughout, it may be mentioned that the "swimming parade" was so realistic that as the plunging Tommies struck the water with a splash, those sitting near the stage, involuntarily dodged the water drops. The pictures all through were excellent and gave a very vivid idea of army life, and the originals must have been taken by an artist. This applies to several Canadian and other scenes, which were also put on. In effect they seated the spectator on the cow-catcher of a locomotive and took him through a sweeping and changing vista of South African veldt, and kopje, through the wonderful Forth Bridge in Scotland, the Victoria Bridge, Montreal, and the Sarnia Tunnel. Nothing but seeing these wonderful pictures can give one a conception of the vivid idea they give of the scenes and incidents represented. One would not be surprised at Desdemona eloping with Othello, if the "moving incidents by flood and field," had taken the form of the pictures of "Our Army." Several well sung illustrated songs are introduced by Mr. Kyle. So enthusiastic was the audience that it was decided to repeat the entertainment to-night, with a matinee for schoolchildren. Those who were not present last night should repair their mistake by taking advantage of to-night — they will be rewarded with a high-class entertainment, which keeps interest on the stretch from beginning to end.

DEATH OF PATRICK McNAMARA

A Former Citizen Passes Away in Buffalo Highly Respected.

The following referring to Mr. Patrick McNamara, son of Mr. P. J. McNamara, of Buffalo, formerly of Peterborough, and taken from a Newcastle, N.Y., newspaper, will be read with sad interest by the many friends of the family in town:

Patrick McNamara, superintendent for William Hanley, of Bradford, who has the contract for the erection of the building of the Lawrence Savings & Trust Company, the Trinity Episcopal church and the T. W. Phillips residence, passed away at Buffalo Sunday night. The sad news was received in this city Monday afternoon.

Mr. McNamara came to New Castle during July 1901 and resided here until two weeks ago when he took ill. He consulted a physician and was instructed to return to his home as he was threatened with typhoid fever. He did as instructed and when he arrived home he was compelled to take to bed from which he never arose. He was about 33 years of age, and leaves a mother and father, sister and two brothers in Buffalo.

Early in his career he secured employment with Contractor Hanley, who has erected some of the largest buildings in the country, and who has a dozen or more large contracts on hand all of the time. Young McNamara seemed to be especially adapted to the business he entered and in a short time he became the confidential adviser of his employer. He also was superintendent of the largest jobs, and Mr. Hanley placed great reliance upon his judgment, and gave him full charge of his outside work.

In his home city, Buffalo, Mr. McNamara was truly popular and his demise was a crushing blow to his relatives and friends. He was an active and hard working member of Buffalo Council of the Knights of Columbus and attended several of the meetings of St. Mary's Council in this city during his stay here.

Not only among friends was he beloved and esteemed but his loss is keenly felt by the men who worked under him. The workmen employed by Contractor Hanley in Newcastle were made very sad on Monday when they received word of the demise of their foreman. They held a meeting on Monday night and purchased flowers, which were sent on to Buffalo for the funeral, which took place in Buffalo on Wednesday morning. In the summer-time of life, with such a promising future for acquiring wealth and honour, the death of the young man is particularly sad.

THE LAST DAY OF THE RACES.

Programme Even Better Than on Monday.

A VERY SATISFACTORY MEET.

The Directors to be Congratulated on the Great Success of Their First Effort—Results of Yesterday's Racing.

The second day of the races proved even more successful than the first in point of attendance and in the card which was furnished, and it is pleasing to announce that the management of the Turf Club are now in a position, financially, to undertake arranging a race meet for next year which will rank with the best given on any half mile track in the province. Mr. Sid. Passmore, of Orillia, who officiated as starter, has handled the flag at a good many race meets in his time and his statement to the effect that the Peterborough races were the most successful at which he has acted, should be a guarantee to horse owners as well as to the outside race-going public that the local Turf Club is composed of men who intend putting up a first class programme at all of their meets. The directors are to be congratulated on having secured a man of Mr. Passmore's ability and experience for the important position of starter and the entire satisfaction which he gave contributed in no small way to the success of the meet.

It is said that spots may be discovered on the sun and in the case of the Turf Club meet something must be said of the error which was made in respect to the race classed as the Gentleman's Road Race. This was an event which was intended all along should bring together those of the local horses, which are not classed as race horses, but as gentlemen's roadsters which they kept for their own pleasure and not for monetary profit. A large number of horses of this class intended entering until the word was passed around that a number of what might be styled "professional" race horses were being entered. It was only another step to allow professional jockeys to handle the reins and instead of the public witnessing an amateur race amongst the gentlemen of the town and being able to judge as to the horsemanship displayed the race degenerated into a free-for-all, where a professional driver was allowed to drive in his shirt sleeves. No fault was found with the race as a race. In fact it was the best of the meet, but it wasn't a gentleman's road race, and that was what the public wanted to see. Apart from this one error the directors, without exaggeration, can be said to have put on a two days' programme, which was run off without a kick being entered by the public, the owners or drivers, something of which no Association in the country can boast.

2.30 Class, 1st heat:

A good field of well known campaigners faced the starter in the 2.30 class, including, Lilliputian, W. Simpson, Colborne; Minnie S., Wm. Smith, Woodbridge; Commodore K., Geo. Powell, Orillia; Babylene, R. H. Abbott, Kingston, and Nellie Billings, V. B. Woodruff, Oshawa. At the first turn, which is a bad one for an inside horse, if it is not well up, Lilliputian's nose was cut off by Commodore K. and Babylene, the former taking the pole. The horses raced in this position to the wire in the first half, when Babylene collared Commodore K. The grey gelding was unable to stall her off and lost his position. Lilliputian challenged Babylene on the back stretch and the fight was a game one, but Billy Simpson's beautiful little black mare was too nimble for the Kingston horse and led the bunch into the home stretch. Minnie S. came with a rush at the wire and beat Babylene out for second place. Commodore K. was a good 4th with Nellie Billings tailing up.—Time 2.29 3-4.

Free for all, 1st heat:

In the Free for All there were six entries, but John R. Gentry, Red Pat, Rob Roy and Matt. all dropped out on learning that Little Buck and Hal Forest intended to go for blood. Opinions all season differed as to which of these horses was the best and both owners had decided that the Peterborough track was the one on which the question could be fairly decided. When this was understood, the owners of the other horses withdrew all acknowledging that they were outclassed by the two flyers who intended settling the matter of supremacy. Hal Forest drew the pole. The start could not have been better and the race was most exciting from the moment the word was given, as Little Buck challenged immediately and forced the big bay to go his first quarter in .32—an .08 clip. Hal Forest could not stand the pace and went up in the air, he caught again almost immeiately but went up again on being pressed and Little Buck took the lead at the turn coming off the back stretch. The half was made in 1.09 3-4, Little Buck easing up somewhat when Hal Forest was off his feet. On the back stretch, on the last half mile, Hal Forest made a hard drive to regain his place and pressed the little broncho pacer closely but, it wasn't the big fellow's day and he broke just as the pair were rounding into the home stretch and neck, giving Little Buck the heat.—Time 2.21 1-4.

2.30 class, 2nd heat.

Lilliputian was never challenged in this heat although Babylene, Commodore K. and Nellie Billings were bunched in the order named, for the first half. Minnie S. went all to pieces in the first quarter and had almost to be brought to a walk before she would settle down. She made up an enormous quantity of ground, however, before the finish and escaped being flagged.— Time 2.29 1-4.

Free for all, 2nd heat.

Great excitement was caused in the first half mile in this heat of the free for all by Hal Forest's drive in the back stretch and around to the wire. He almost took the lead away from Little Buck, getting his nose in front once or twice but this was apparently the best he could do, and on the turn he dropped back. The quarter was made in 33 1-2, the half in 1.06, the three-quarters in 1.42 1-2 and the mile in 2.19 1-4.

2.30 class, 3rd heat.

Both Babylene and Commodore K were able to out off Lilliputian at the first turn as the little mare seemed to be a trifle slow in scoring up and getting away. It was only a matter, however, of waiting until the good footing on the back stretch was reached before Lilliputian had her place again. Nellie Billings came very strong to the wire at the half and had them all beaten could she have kept her feet, but just as she got in front of the grand stand she gave a couple of big buck jumps and dropped back to last place. Babylene was second and Commodore K. third.

Road Race.

The gentlemen's roadsters were now called out, those responding being Dr. Bradd's Fairy Lawn A., Peterborough; W. Leahy's Cadillac, Lakefield; D. Owen's Kitty R., Campbellford; T. Hetherington's Dairyman, Peterborough; and Frank Montgomery's Kitty B., Parry Harbour. The horses were given the word in the order named. Kitty B. out in and took the pole at the first turn, and Kitty R. moved up from last place to third, belind Fairy Lawn, on the home stretch. The first three finished in the order named, with Cadillac fourth and Dairyman hopelessly in the rear. Time, 1.15 3-4.

Free-for-all, third heat.

The third heat of the free-for-all proved to be the final one, as though Hal Forest was lapping on Little Buck all the way he never could head him. Time, 2.19 1-4.

Road race, second heat.

Kitty B. was never headed from the start but Kitty R. was able to move up from third to second place. Fairy Lawn dropped back to third and Cadillac was fourth.

Road race, third heat.

The crowd began to move as this heat was called, as it was supposed to be the final, but the Little Campbellford mare, Kitty R., was able to beat Kitty B. out for first by a nose in a wildly exciting finish. This necessitated another heat and the crowd cheered and shouted when Kitty R. was again able to get under the wire first. Cadillac got his chance in this heat and was second. Fairy Lawn was third again and Kitty B. had to be satisfied with fourth place, as though she actually came in second yet she had been doing too much running and was set back.

Kitty R. and Kitty B. had now two heats each to their credit and the deciding one brought every soul in the grand stand to their feet. It was the prettiest and closest race of the day. The four horses got away close together, with the exception of Fairy Lawn who was several lengths behind. In the back stretch the quartette moved along in a bunch that looked as if it could be covered by a horse blanket, so close were they. Around into the home stretch they came together, and it was in doubt until the last second whether Kitty R. would win out or whether Dr. Bradd's big mare would get under the wire first, as the latter came with a magnificent rush at the last. Kitty R., however, was the winner of the heat and race. Kitty B. made a good third, with Cadillac close up for fourth.

SIZING UP KIPLING.

M. A. P. Tells of the Bewildering Complexity of His Character.

Somehow Mr. Kipling's photographs had not prepared me for the fact that he is distinctly a little man. Had he lived a less active and healthy life he would have been puny. As it is, he is just a little man, with a little man's thews and sinews, neither fat nor thin, neither over nor under developed. A brewer's lorryman could pick him up and walk away with him under one arm—but I don't know that he would go very far. Although he is obviously "fit," there is no ruddiness in Mr. Kipling's cheeks. His complexion has been tanned and bronzed into a healthy, clear, light mahogany. To a physiognomist the face is rather baffling. The eyes, "the windows of the soul," are obscured by the gold-rimmed spectacles, whilst the thick, dark moustache masks that other sure guide to character, the mouth. Nor is the nose particularly distinctive. But from the eyebrows much may be gleaned. Black as night, immensely thick, as night, and lying very close to the eyes, they seem to indicate strength of character, fire, productive activity. With ordinary eyebrows he might be commonplace looking, but those he has lift him out of the ruck as regards appearance. When one adds to these brows a forehead, in its lower lobe that of a mathematician, in its upper that of an idealist, and the jaws and chin of a man of action, one begins to understand something of the bewildering complexity of Kipling's character, in which the poet jostles the mechanic, the soldier, the philosopher, the traveler, the recluse.

As regards the outer man, Mr. Kipling dresses as only the very rich or very famous can afford to do. On this occasion he wore a dark grey flannel suit, obviously not cut in the vicinity of Bond street, a striped linen shirt, and—horresco referens — a very low striped turn-down collar, of which about an eighth of an inch was visible above the coat. Round this was a large black tie—not a bow—of the kind worn chiefly by elderly city clerks. Other "items" were a straw hat, new, and probably purchased most reluctantly for the occasion, a gold band round the third finger of the left hand, and black shoes, unduly laced.—M.A.P.

HE WAS PARALYZED.

Unable to Walk or Raise His Hands to His Head.

A More Unfortunate Case Could Scarcely be Imagined Than a Husband and Father in This Wretched Condition

Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—The experience of Mr. Joseph Brown, an employee of the Oshawa Malleable Iron Works, should be a lesson to every sick person.

Some five years ago, Mr. Brown, who is a hard working, industrious, and sober man, began to feel a stiffness and soreness in the calves of his legs. This gradually increased till he had lost all power in his limbs and arms. He could not have raised his arms to his head to save his life and for over four months he he could not stand or walk alone a single step.

All the doctors treated him and gave him up. Then he consulted a Bowmanville doctor who told him he could do nothing for him and advised him to go to the hospital in Toronto where they might be able to help him a little.

To the hospital he went in January, 1898, and remained under treatment for over four weeks. Twelve doctors told him he could not recover and that nothing could be done for him. He was getting worse every day and when removed to his home in Oshawa was like a baby unable to move.

His father-in-law, Mr. John Allin, had heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and suggested that Mr. Brown try them. He did and he says:

"I used altogether twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and by the first of May I was able to start work again in the shop and I have never been sick or off work a day since.

"I am sure I owe my life, health and strength to that great remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills."

The Lesser Evil.

"Oh, papa, it will break his heart if I refuse him!"

"Huh! It'll break my bank account if you don't!"

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. A CANADIAN TEACHER.

Tells of a Meeting With Lord Milner and Baden-Powell in the Heart of South Africa.

Writing from Johannesburg on July 10, R. M. A., one of the Canadian teachers sent to South Africa writes to The Toronto Telegram:

Yesterday we put on all our best clothes and went to "Sunhyside," where Lord Milner dispensed hospitality to us and made a speech from the "stoep" of the plain-looking red brick house, which has even less pretension in an architectural way than our vice-regal residence at Ottawa can lay claim to. Our cabby put us down at some distance from the house—why, we couldn't understand, and he was too uncompromisingly Dutch to be remonstrated with. We waded through the reddest and densest and dryest dust that ever could have been deposited upon the face of the earth, before we reached the beautifully decorated marquee, where a marvellously well-dressed crowd sat about at little tables, and servants in dark green livery flew around here and there and everywhere with all sorts of nice things. We had a delightful time meeting many of the second Canadian contingent, with whom we compared experiences, being introduced to some of the New Zealanders and the Australians, and finally, to our great delight, running across Mrs. Lyttleton, General Lyttleton's wife, whom we had met at Mrs. Alfred Lyttleton's in London.

"Have you been introduced to His Excellency?" she said, as soon as she had shaken hands. (She knew me at once, though I hadn't the faintest idea who she was till she told me.) "No," I said, despondently. "We are not to be presented. Only the heads of the departments are to be granted that privilege." I was feeling rather sore, I can tell you, after hobnobbing with dukes and duchesses in England, although I realized that it was rather hard on Lord Milner to expect him to shake hands with nearly nine hundred people. Of course, royalty does go through that ordeal occasionally, but then they can go and put their crowns on and look in the glass afterwards, which is a sort of consolation. However, I smothered the reproaches of my conscience, and allowed Mrs. Lyttleton to go off and hunt up the great South South African statesman, which she did, and presently I was talking to him, and he was asking me how his friends in London, the Victorian League people had treated us. Up to that time I had imagined that it was the British Women's Emigration League who had done everything for us, but I did not betray my mistake to Lord Milner.

Afterwards I was introduced to Baden-Powell, who, in the uniform he wears in the picture with which we are all so familiar, ran about from group to group talking, laughing, and telling stories in the most informal manner. I can hardly say that he did not look like that picture, but somehow I was unprepared for the red hair and the huge freckles which spread even over his ears and his neck, and above all I was disappointed that his eyes were on a level with my own. He looked at once for my Canadian badge, and then he asked me if I could sing "The Maple Leaf." "Yes," I said, "I can, but you are not going to ask me to do it right here and now, are you?" "Oh, no," he said hastily, as if he thought I might possibly begin before he could stop me, "but I have some Canadian troops who can't sing it. What about 'Goo-goo Eyes?' Can you sing that?" "No," I said, despondently. "Why," he protested, "I could listen to it all day long, but my men won't sing it for me." And then the crowd surged up between, and the hero of Mafeking drifted off to talk nonsense to somebody else. I liked him much better the next day, when he lectured before the conference on the cultivation of habits of observation, and proved himself a veritable "Sherlock Holmes," of whom, I am told, he is an ardent disciple. He knows the original Sherlock, Dr. Bell, of Edinburgh, and told us some stories about his wonderful powers which prove that Conan Doyle (Sir Conan, now, isn't he?) did not exaggerate so very much after all. For more than an hour the man of war, in his new role of lecturer, held the attention of a huge audience.

There have been numbers of other entertainments provided for us—a reception by the Mayor and the town council, a huge picnic a few miles out of the city, and some hockey tournaments played by the Orange River Colony girls against the Transvaalers.

This Johannesburg is a wonderful place. I don't believe even London could show a greater diversity of types. I go out in the morning, over to the Wanderers' Club, where the conference meetings are held, and on my way I see hundreds and hundreds of men. They swarm like flies in a third-class restaurant, on a hot day. The military element seems to predominate, though perhaps I get that impression because I look more at them than I do at their less stockily attired fellowmen. I can't help looking at them, they are so almost universally handsome, well set up, and spick and span. They are the only people who look really clean in this dust-cursed city. However, there is the brilliant, unfailing sunshine, to make one, to some extent at least, forget the dust, and there is always the infinite variety, the blaze of color, and the fascination of novelty. We are all going home to-day, with sadly depleted purses, for the shops are irresistible. I could not help smiling to myself at the theatre last night, where we were taken to see Barrett's in "The Silver King," when I looked about me at the elaborate toilettes and thought of the advice we were given about the sort of clothes we should need. The women here dress with an extravagance that bewilders one, and apparently the teachers are determined not to be outdone. I shall be glad when I get back to camp and can knock about in my comfortable old clothes.

Arbitration Begun.

Hamilton, Sept. 16.—The arbitration of the trouble between the Electrical Workers' Union and the Cataract Power Company was started yesterday morning at the Board of Trade rooms. H. N. Kittson, chairman, announced that the board will sit six hours a day. By agreement the strikers' side of the case is to be heard first. Mr. Mitchell, the president of the union, was the first witness examined. He was questioned as to the duties of the men, hours of labor, wages, etc., and also asked as to the basis of the claim for shorter hours and higher wages. Representatives of the company were present.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Adress F. J. Regarded in Different Ways.

That one can obtain more favors by "jollying" than by being brusque is just as true as "one can catch more flies with molasses than with vinegar."

Two young men have lived in a boarding house in West Twenty-third street for some time, and one has the reputation of being a "jollier," while the other is quick spoken and of a bearish disposition. The young men are friends and usually breakfast together. Their respective standings in the estimation of the dining room maid may be judged from the way in which that damsel shouted their order—both had requested steaks—down the dumb waiter shaft recently:

"A nice beefsteak, a trifle rare, for Mr. Wood; some meat for Baldwin."

Sold at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

Most Dreadful of Skin Diseases

A Chronic Case of Eczema of 30 Years Standing Cured by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The demand for Dr. Chase's Ointment during the summer months is enormous. It is during the warm weather especially that there is such great suffering from eczema and similar skin diseases. That Dr. Chase's Ointment is a thorough cure for this torturing disease is proven in hundreds of cases similar to the following:

Mr. G. H. McConnell, engineer in Fleury's Foundry, Aurora, Ontario, states: "I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. For about thirty years I was troubled with eczema, and could not obtain any cure. I was so unfortunate as to have blood poison, and this developed in eczema, the most dreadful of skin diseases.

"I was so bad that I would get up at night and scratch myself until flesh was raw and flaming. The torture I endured is almost beyond description, and now I cannot say anything too good for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has cured me, and I recommend it because I know there is nothing so good for itching skin."

Few people realize the suffering caused by eczema and other itching skin diseases. This is an example of what Dr. Chase's Ointment is doing in the way of relieving suffering mankind. Many of the cures it brings about are more like miracles than anything else; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE ELDER SOTHERN.

A Couple of the Celebrated Comedian's Practical Jokes.

Many stories are told of Sothern's original methods of entertaining his friends at dinner, and possibly the most amusing is that of the bashful guest. When, late in the dinner, this friend was announced, Mr. Sothern exclaimed, "Let us all hide under the table," and down they all went save Mr. Sothern himself, who remained seated. When the tardy guest entered, Mr. Sothern rose and received him with exquisite courtesy, saying, "When your name was announced, my guests, for some unaccountable reason, all hid under the table." After a few moments of discomfort one by one they crept out and back to their seats.

I heard from both Mr. Sothern and Mrs. Vincent this account of an outburst of fun at a dinner given by him in his parlor at the Revere House: As the guests, ten in number, were gathered about the open fire before dinner a stout, pompous waiter, afflicted with short breath, added the last touches to his dinner table, already spread. Ten large, square pieces of bread were placed with mathematical precision one at each plate, and then he left the room to bring the wine. Mr. Sothern saw his opportunity and, calling his dog, cried: "Tiger, the bread! Quick, Tiger!" And the nimble little greyhound bounded lightly upon the table again and again as he heard his master's imperative "Watch the bread!" until each piece had been removed to a dark corner near the fire.

Upon the waiter's return all was silence. The expectant look upon Mr. Sothern's face showed only that dinner was awaited. Standing for a moment, bewildered, the waiter, seeing no bread upon the table, hesitatingly turned to the door, then retraced his steps to the table, examined it carefully and hurriedly left the room. He soon reappeared with a fresh plate of bread, and again at each plate a piece was carefully placed, and he retired with the empty plate. "Quick, Tiger! Fetch it again! More bread! More bread!"

And once more each piece was removed before the grave waiter reappeared, and all were again silent. One look at the table and one at the guests, and there remained no doubt. Those poor, hungry actors had eaten it! With a look of contempt he announced dinner, and after all were safely seated at the table he brought a third plate of bread and with a fork placed it, with a gesture of scorn, piece by piece for each person and for the host. The merry scene soon disarmed his hostility, and before the evening was over the bread in the corner was revealed.—Mrs. Lucy Derby Fuller in Century.

Measles and Ammonia.

A Detroit woman who labors among the poor children of the city was telling her experiences.

"One day there was a death in the neighborhood; a little girl died, and the children were visibly impressed. They told me about it in unison.

"'It was better for her, wasn't it, missus?' one little girl said philosophically.

"'What was the trouble?' I asked.

"'Oh,' another spoke up, 'she had measles and ammonia on the lungs and a lot of things.'

"I was of course deeply impressed by the 'lots of things,' but more so by the 'ammonia on the lungs.'"

Knew What to Do With It.

A miserly landlord was going round collecting his rents the other day. At one house he was greatly interested in a little girl who watched, open mouthed and open eyed, the business of paying over the money and accepting the receipt.

He patted her on the head and started out to search his pockets, saying, "I must see what I have got for you." After searching his pockets for some time he at last brought from a remote corner a peppermint. As he handed it to the girl he said, "And now what will you do with that?"

The little girl looked at it, then at him and replied, "Wash it."—London Answers.

A Useful Rhyme.

If poisoned, take mustard or salt, tablespoon,
In a cup of warm water and swallow right soon.
For burns try borax and a wet bandage, too;
If blistered, then oil and dry flannel will do.
For children's convulsions warm baths are the rule;
With castor oil dose, too, but keep the head cool.
Give sirup of ipecac when croup is in store;
For fainting stretch patient right out on the floor.
To soak in hot water is best for a sprain;
Remember these rules, and 'twill save you much pain.

Discerning Germs.

"What is this stuff?" asked the testy husband, sputtering over a mouthful of the strange dish which he finds on the breakfast table.

"That," answers the thoughtful wife, "is the new health food."

"It ought to be healthy," declares the husband. "I'll bet no germ of any sense would try to live on it!"—Baltimore American.

Assured Approval.

"The singer has made great strides in the profession, hasn't she?"

"Yes, indeed. Formerly, when she received an encore, she sang; now she usually smiles."

Those Girl Friends.

treated in this way, with a great deal of fullness around the feet, have the waists simply made, with insertions of kilting and touches of black braid.

Next to serges come flannels, and these are much used for yachting and even country wear, while Parisians are wearing spotted flannels instead of the plain shades popular last year. Alpaca in pastel shades is also a favorite. The smartest colors are green and blue. Alpaca lends itself admirably to strappings, and for this purpose either the material itself or satin ribbon may be used.

The coat shown in the cut was seen recently at the races. It is of pale gray cloth, with revers and cuffs of ivory panne embroidered in black.

TO A TROUT.

Thou solitary tenant of my creel,
Thou only victim of my feathered hook,
Though "skunked," I scarce could more disgusted feel
Wert thou still swimming in thy native brook.
For thee alone I've walked ten weary miles
And, what is worse, must walk them back again.
For thee alone I've crawled through stinging brush
And clambered over harsh barb wire stiles.
Slept troubled slumber in the ice cold rain
And soaked myself in grasses all too lush.

And what art thou, thou slim and speckled mite?
Scarce large enough to save thee from the act
That makes it crime for five-inch trout to bite.
A worthy "speckled beauty," for a fact!
Where, tell me where, were all thy sluggard kind
That I could not inveigle them to rise?
In all the summer season they will find
No more persistent fisherman than I,
No bait more tempting than my high priced flies,
Yet thou alone art here. Dost thou know why?

And now my tired footsteps must I turn
Along that hilly road that homeward trends
And, spent and footsore, bear with unconcern
The jibes and jeers of all my loving friends.
For once they cast their scornful eyes on thee,
Thou smallest of thy kindergarten school,
They'll take a keen delight to point me out,
For all the mocking, scoffing world to see,
As that weak minded, idiotic fool
Who fished two days and only caught one trout.

She Would Talk.

A clever Montreal society girl, but an incessant talker, was for once nonplussed.

At a dance one evening she rested between the dances on a sofa with her partner, when suddenly she observed a mutual friend to herself and partner, the mutual friend being a popular "Col." and handsome. She readily drew aside her skirts to make room for the "Col." and exclaimed with coquettish air as he seated himself: "A rose between two thorns." The Colonel smiled and said, "you spoke too quickly, I was going to say something original." She then exclaimed, with a saucy air, "Oh, is it too late." The Colonel answered, with a bewildering smile: "Oh, no; I was going to say a tongue sandwich."

Scores of Uses

While Dr. Chase's Ointment is best known on account of its wonderful control over eczema, salt rheum and piles, it is found to be in almost daily demand in many homes as a cure for chilblains, chaflings, pimples, sunburns, burns, scalds, and each and every form of itching, irritated or inflamed skin. It is invaluable in every home and as a soothing and healing application knows no equal.

Very Simple.

A rather simple looking lad halted before a blacksmith's shop on his way home from school and eyed the doings of the proprietor with much interest.

The brawny smith, dissatisfied with the boy's curiosity, held a piece of red-hot iron suddenly under the youngster's nose, hoping to make him beat a hasty retreat.

"If you'll give me half a dollar, I'll lick it," said the lad.

The smith took from his pocket half a dollar and held it out.

The simple looking youngster took the coin, licked it and slowly walked away whistling.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

The London News says; The committee in charge of the affairs of the London Rugby Football Team are doing all in their power to make the team a success as well as a credit to the city of London. London will place a team upon the field that will be composed of local talent, of which there is plenty, and a team that will make a big effort to capture the Intermediate championship. The outlook is brighter than at any time in the history of the game here. Gordon Crawford has been chosen captain pro tem. The team when picked, will elect their own captain.

The Executive Committee of the Ontario Rugby Football Union will meet in Toronto on Friday evening next, when the senior and intermediate schedules will be drawn up and other arrangements for the coming season will be made. Three teams so far have signified their intention of playing — Senior Argonauts, Ottawas and Hamilton. Kingston has not as yet made application for admission to the senior series. Peterborough, Argonauts II, Hamilton II and London, are the teams which so far have announced their intention to play in the Intermediate. The junior series cannot be fixed until next week.

A match will take place next Saturday on the oval at 4.30 between the T.A.S. team and the town.

Members of the town team are asked to turn out at the Y.M.C.A. tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock for a run.

The Collegiate Institute boys had their first practice last night and will turn out again to-morrow afternoon at 4.30.

Dundas has organized a Rugby football club and will enter the junior series of the O.R.F.U.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union Executive will meet at the Rossin House on Friday night to draw up the senior schedule and possibly that for the intermediates. There will be three teams in the senior series. Whatever applications for the junior series are in will be considered at this meeting, but the time does not expire until Sept. 25. London's suspension and other matters will be considered.

GOLF.

Unfortunately the Sturgeon Point players find it impossible to play the local golf Colts on Friday and the match will have to stand over for the present.

Competitors in the Stratton Trophy are reminded of the fact that the first round must be finished by Thursday.

BOWLING-ON-THE-GREEN.

Skip Dixon succeeded in defeating Skip Moore by the following score at the green last evening:

W. McCreary	K. G. Lech
A. Waddell	R. Sturgeon
R. M. Waddell	G Giroux
F. H. Dixon, sk...19	D. H. Moore, sk...7

Skips who are participating in tomorrow evening's match of Benedicts vs. Bachelors are urged to have their players on the green at 7.15 sharp.

BASEBALL.

Toronto looks like a pennant-winner in the Eastern League. She turned down Worcester, and Buffalo, the runner up, was only able to play Jersey City to a tie yesterday.

What may go down in baseball history and make him as famous as O'Hagan was accomplished by Police Constable Harry Downs, of London, on Thursday afternoon in the baseball game between the police force and Wolseley Barracks' nine, when the blue coat, unassisted, retired three men. Downs was playing third base. No one was gone, and Beales and Farnsworth were on second and third bags respectively. Dunlevy was at bat, and drove a hot liner between third and short. Beales and Farnsworth, both believing the drive to be safe, began to advance. Downs, however, by almost a superhuman effort, got his fingers on the ball, and once there it stayed. Beales was passing him at the time, and quick as a flash he touched him. That made two hands gone. Farnsworth had meanwhile made a race for home, but when he saw that Downs had gathered in Dunlevy's terrific smash he made a dash for the third sack. Downs had also started for the same corner, and it resolved itself into a race between the bluecoat and redcoat as to which should arrive at the bag first. Downs proved to be the speedier, and outran Farnsworth, thus completing a triple play unassisted. Only a few of these plays are on record, the most recent being that of O'Hagan, of Worcester.

FRAZERVILLE'S ANNUAL PICNIC

The Wind-up of the Picnic Season.

The twenty-fourth annual Frazerville picnic, commonly called Archie Reynolds' picnic, because it was instituted, and for years "personally conducted" by Mr. Archie Reynolds, will be held again this season on Thursday, September 18th. The excursion to Jubilee Point will be run on that date, per steamer Water-Lily and ice barge, with music for dancing. A good programme of sports will be run off at the Point. The boat will leave the Peterborough wharf at 8 a.m. Tickets, gentlemen, 40 cents; ladies, 25 cents. Meals at the hotel at the Point for 25 cents.

DOURO.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Thomas Hammond of Douro, near Lakefield, died on Sunday, after a week's illness. He was about 65 years of age, and leaves a wife, but no family. The funeral procession passed through town on Tuesday and interment took place in the Roman Catholic cemetery at Peterborough.

Local politics have wakened up betimes in this beautiful township, and in spite of the coal strike the pot is beginning to boil. The candidates for the municipal elections next January are beginning to come forward, and jump into the electors their sentiments in township questions and pump out the sentiments of the electors towards the respective candidates.

For the reeveship rumour, which is pretty near right in this case, promises us a three-cornered fight. Mr. James McCliggott is a candidate for the chief magistracy of Douro, Mr. James Quinn is another, and no doubt the present reeve, Mr. Dennis Moloney, will contest the claims of his two opponents.

In Ward No. 1, Mr. Geo. Garbutt will be a candidate for the council. In Ward 2, Mr. Bartholomew Leahy and Mr. Chas. Curtis, the present representative, will be candidates. In Ward 3 Mr. Michael McCann is a candidate. He is making a vigorous canvas thus early in the day, and James Condon and J. R. Allen, the present councillors, will no doubt again be candidates.

USE YOUR BRAINS.

There is nothing in business that requires more science to do really well than advertising. It is easy to advise many things, but on the whole it must be studied as an art. That advertising pays is an axiom. The most successful merchants of today are immense advertisers. But they are original in method, and use space in the best newspapers. He who would win the golden prize of success in the mercantile world must rely upon his own clear intellect to put his wares intelligently before the public in plain, business-like statements. It is a trite saying that "God helps those who help themselves." There is nothing to be gained by appealing to personal prestige. The fact that in the early days, when there was little or no competition, you succeeded without advertising, will be of no avail now. Many a fine, old business has been ruined by an insane prejudice against adopting modern methods. You must advertise or be shoved aside by your wide-awake, hustling competitor. Without honesty of purpose and integrity in presenting to the public the various articles you wish to dispose of, true and permanent success would seem to be impossible.

Shorter Hours for Barbers.

Alive C. LeGros has decided to close his Tony Tonsorial Parlours every evening at 8 o'clock, except Saturday nights. This is the rule in all the best barber shops in the cities, and why not in Alive LeGros'? The barbers in Peterborough have been toiling all kinds of hours, day and night, and get no fair show for exercise or out door recreation. Barbers need shorter hours as much, and more so than most other trades. I hope my customers will take notice and help the boys out by getting their work done before 8 o'clock p.m. I have four chairs running all the time and no one need be disappointed. Alive C. THE FATE OF ANDRE.

Tyrrell Brothers Say Instruments Found Up North Were Not Theirs.

It was reported in Dawson in July, that Prof. Bell, of the geological survey, had denied the report that Andre's instruments had been found. The story he declared to be a canard, and the instruments to be those left by J. B. Tyrrell and Handbury.

Messrs. J. B. and J. W. Tyrrell, who have both been on expeditions in the North, were seen in regard to the matter. "We left our instruments behind," said J. B. Tyrrell, "at a point near Great Fish river, below Chesterfield inlet, in the winter of '93 but we got them again in '95. So they cannot be mine. As far as Handbury is concerned he never left my instruments behind. My brother can tell you how the story started about the instruments. Andre and I were in communication for some time, and the last letter I received from him was the very day he left Tromsoe on his last voyage. He had written to me inquiring about the country, as he had read my reports on the great unknown lands in the north. He was particularly anxious to find out what kind of game he could depend on for food. He asked all those questions of a man who would expect to land in an unknown country. He was anxious to know how the natives would treat him. While he said that he did not expect to touch that part of the country, yet he might probably come down there. I was very much interested in his undertaking and gave him full particulars of what to expect and find."

J. W. Tyrrell was in that part of the country two years ago on an expedition to find out what the great barren lands were like and to see if there was a connecting link between Great Slave Lake and the Thelon river. He also surveyed the Thelon and Handbury rivers. While on his return voyage he met with a Hudson Bay trader who told him that some Eskimos had told him that some of their tribe had killed three white men, and afterwards found cloth and instruments, which from their description seemed like the outfit which Andre had taken with him.

The way the trader got the story was that the Esquimos had seen three strange looking men. They were white, and the Eskimos said the white men had fired on them. They retreated, but made a circuitous route and killed the men. They described a great tent as being as big as a hill, and with a small opening. They even tore off some of the material of which the balloon was built. The instruments were surely not those of the Franklin expedition, for most of the instruments of that ill-fated expedition were recovered in 1855.

Mr. Tyrrell, while not giving much attention to the matter at the time, says there may be a possibility of there being some truth in the story, for how could Eskimos create such an idea as the finding of instruments? How could they conceive a thing which they had never seen, such as their description of the balloon? It does not strike Mr. Tyrrell as an extraordinary coincidence, yet he says it deserves careful thought.

The Canadian's Amende Honorable.

A Canadian who was out with the last contingent and who was in the battle of Little Hart's River, tells rather a good story at the expense of the Imperial Yeomanry, who were familiarly known as "Dewet's Remounts," from the facility with which the wily commander took parties of them into camp.

A party of Canadians scouting one day west of Klerksdorp caught sight of a troop and made to approach. As the newcomers made off the Canadians followed, and after a long chase caught up with the body, who proved to be Yeomanry. The non-recognition had been mutual, each party taking the other for Boers.

The officer in command of the Yeomanry, a young lieutenant, was at the end of his temper at the conduct of his men, and his humor was not improved by the merciless chaffing of the Canadians. At length, stepping up to the Canadian officer, he spoke his mind freely, protested that he was as good a man as any Canadian who ever set foot in Africa, and invited the officer, if he did not believe it, to step to one side and fight it out there and then. The Canadian promptly stepped to one side, pulled out his flask and offered it to the angry lieutenant, whose outraged feelings were quickly assuaged by this recognition of his mettle.

STOCK MARKETS.

Close Money Weakening Exchange

New York, Sept. 16th, 1902.—Close money is weakening exchanges. We are on the verge of drawing the yellow metal from Europe. Money, like any other property or commodity, always goes where it can secure the greatest returns. If money is worth only from two to three per cent. as it is at present in London, and the continental centres, and well above six per cent. in New York, it is bound, in the natural order of events, to work its way westward across the Atlantic. The probable duration of the close money period will be about three or four weeks. It will not be, as has been the case in times gone by, unobtainable, but merely more costly than ordinarily. It does two good things—restricts the tendency under present bullish conditions to reckless and over-speculation, and will, like the magnet, draw gold from Europe. We are in the midst of a gathering of one of the greatest crops in our history. It is calculated the money value of the present crop will exceed the value of any previously harvested in this country, by between 200 and 300 million dollars. Security markets must move in harmony with this fact, specially when we consider our industrial activities to be at present at their highest water mark, and every important record is a new and favourable one. President Ripley, of Atchison, says prospects of west cannot be exaggerated, and the west is offering more freight than can be handled. Flurries in money rates should not frighten holders of standard shares into selling them. If they do, they will see them quoted very shortly at materially higher prices.

Summary.—The remarkable strength of the market yesterday and to-day under extremely adverse circumstances, due to the money situation, strongly and emphatically illustrated the excellent ground upon which values rest, and foreshadow the probability of the great sharp advance yet ahead. The grangers of bear positions and the market at present strongly indicates the advisability of buying and holding securities at the present time. Recoveries were general throughout the list. All issues to-day sold higher than the best prices of yesterday, yet we are supposed to be in the throes of contracted funds. We are ultra-bullish upon the market. Events of the past two or three days are greatly stimulating our bullish inclinations for the future. To-morrow's letter—"Appertaining to Money." Money closed at four per cent. Sales 435,400.

THEY MURDERED FOUR

Fournier, Self-Confessed Accomplice, Tells the Story.

BLAMES SHOOTING ON LABELLE.

The Wiping Out of Four French-Canadians in the Yukon—Murders Planned Deliberately, Money Being the Motive — Two Eastern Men Killed in a Mine Shaft Sunday.

Dawson, Sept. 18.—(Toronto Globe Special.)—Fournier, the confessed accomplice in the murder of four French - Canadians — Constantine, Beauddin, Bouthillette, on the island below Stewart River, in July, and Gilbert Dufor, near Circle City, below Dawson a week later—asserts that Labelle did the shooting in each case. The murders were planned deliberately, the motive of the crime being money. Labelle was found in a Nevada mining camp by a Northwest mounted police detective. His brother-in-law, F. Leonard, barrister, Montreal, is hurrying to Dawson to defend Labelle. Both men are now in jail here.

Two Killed in Mine.

Robert Haddock, Kingston, Ont., and Daniel Mackenzie, Prince Edward Island, were killed on Sunday while descending a mine shaft. The cage dropped, killing them instantly.

The News at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Sept. 18—Controller White of the Mounted Police has no knowledge of a confession by Fournier. Cleophas Labelle, arrested in the States, has made certain admissions which may or may not be used against him. Their nature Controller White refuses to disclose, but they tend to incriminate Labelle, as an accessory. The crime for which Labelle and Fournier are to be tried is the murder of one Bouthillette and two others. The three murdered men were members of a party that set off from White Horse in a boat. They disappeared, and the discovery of Bouthillette's body with several bullet holes in it revealed the fact that a murder had been committed. Suspicion fell upon Fournier and Labelle. The former was kept under surveillance in the Yukon, and finally arrested. Labelle had gone to the western States, but was traced by a clever piece of defective work, and consented to return without formal extradition proceedings. He is known under two or three aliases, and has lived in Chicago.

CHENG TU FU MUST FALL.

Unless Help Is at Hand 50,000 Boxers Will Take It.

London, Sept. 18.—Cabling from Shanghai, under date of Sept 17, the correspondent of The Daily Mail says that Cheng Tu Fu, capital of the Province of Szechuen, is surrounded by 50,000 Boxers, but that their attempts to take the city have so far failed. Without immediate help, however, Cheng Tu Fu must fall.

Eleven Converts Killed.

Pekin, Sept. 18.—The United States Minister, Edwin H. Conger, has presented to the Chinese Foreign Office a letter from Dr. Canright, the American missionary of Cheng Tu Fu (capital of the Province of Szechuen), describing the massacre of native Christians there in July. Dr. Canright says that 11 converts were killed by Boxers.

Acquitted of Child Murder.

London, Ont., Sept. 18.—Dr. Alexander Graham and Mrs. Emma Agnes Mayo (nee Kilbourne) were yesterday afternoon found not guilty of the charge of having murdered the latter's infant child. Mr. Justice Lount charged strongly in favor of the prisoners. He told the jury that if they found any part of the evidence of Mrs. Clark, upon whose story the case for the Crown practically depended, to be disproven, then they should disbelieve the whole of it. His Lordship warned the jury against making any mistake, and told them it would be far safer to err upon one side than the other, for they could not call back the dead. The jury were out only 35 minutes.

May Be Murder.

Woodstock, Sept. 18.—Jacob Selby, 26 years of age, colored, is lodged in the county jail here, charged with assaulting James Clark, a West Oxford farmer, who now lies at the point of death in his home, five miles west of here, as a result of blood-poisoning setting in in a wound inflicted on the side of his head by a blow from a bottle, struck, it is alleged, by Selby, who had a row with the injured man at the hotel in Beachville.

Absorbed Nine Steamships.

London, Sept. 18.—A news agency says that the Norfolk and North American Steamshipping Company, owning nine large steamers, trading between England and the United States in connection with the Lehigh Valley and Reading Railroad, had been taken over by the Morgan Shipping Combine. The agency's announcement adds that this report has created a sensation in local shipping circles.

Tarte in Jocular Mood.

Montreal, Sept. 18.—At the Dentists' Association dinner last evening, Hon. Mr. Tarte spoke in a patriotic strain. He was in a jocular mood, saying that he did not know how long he would be a member of the administration.

THE FUEL PROBLEM IS AN ACUTE ONE.

What are we Going to do About it—Coal Soaring in Price and not Obtainable Wood High in Price Also—Can we Use the Trent Valley Canal to Help the Situation?

The Toronto Star thus wrestles with the question:—"What are the people going to do about coal this winter?"

An expert says there is a shortage of twenty million tons. The ordinary person is not impressed by such figures, but he understands the significance of the statement that there are towns all over Ontario in which there is not a ton of coal, and where the dealers cannot, at present, procure any, and cannot guarantee to deliver any this winter. They may get all they need, and they may get none. The householder realizes the danger that confronts him when he goes to three or four coal dealers in Toronto, and is unable anywhere to buy his winter supply at any price.

How will it turn out?

There are people in Toronto who find it sufficiently hard to heat their houses with coal selling at $6 per ton. What will these people do if there is not enough coal to supply the demand?

Toronto is only one city of many. There is the same shortage in a hundred cities, and all will join in bidding up the price if the supply is not equal to the demand when cold weather settles down on us.

If there is a coal famine this winter, there will be developed among the shivering masses of people in the cities a very bitter feeling against the coal barons, and trusts and combinations generally. Nothing could produce a more disturbing effect than to have following a year of plenty — at the zenith of a period of prosperity—a coal famine, with people freezing for lack of fuel or half-starving themselves in order to buy enough fuel to half-warm their homes. It will appear to be a needless outrage on society, this famine, perpetrated by act of man in a period of plenty. All socialists and levellers will find the public mind ready to entertain proposals for preventing the perpetration of such a wrong. There will be those who will seek not only protection for the future, but revenge for that already endured.

If the people of North America are half-frozen this winter, there will probably be a revolt against the economic conditions that could thus produce famine and hardship in a land of plenty.

THE SITUATION IN PETERBOROUGH.

Substitute the name of Peterborough in the above paragraphs and the situation applies pretty much to this town.

Yesterday a householder went from one coal dealer to another, only to be told in succession that no dealer had any coal, and could supply none, either for love or money, especially love. At last one dealer was found who had a small stock that he could spare at $10 a ton, and in a few days he could not count on filling any orders even at that price. At the woodyards hardwood is held at $6 per cord for four foot wood, and $6.50 for sawn—22 inches. Even hemlock slabs and other sorts of mill wood, have shared in the rise. Slabs which were $3 per cord a few days ago are now $4.50. The School Board has fortunately contracted for a supply of fuel at a reasonable price, so that in the case of many children they will only be able to be warm when they are at school—a piece of good fortune to that extent for many children will stand to suffer from cold at home.

As suggested the other day, the Trent Valley Canal may be used to give us some relief. From the Warsaw Road bridge, just the other side of Armour's Hill, the Trent Valley Canal is open, or can be opened, for navigation as far as Balsam Lake, giving access, more or less directly, to a large area of wooded country, along about 500 miles of shore line. What is to prevent some enterprising person from embarking in the enterprise of supplying wood to the town. He could bring wood down the canal and be able to deliver it in Peterborough at a reasonable price, with a handsome profit. The canal is open as far as mere navigation is concerned, but lockmasters have not been appointed. That, however, is a detail that could easily be arranged, and someone in authority might be less profitably employed than in making a move in the direction mentioned.

For the problem of fuel supply in Peterborough this winter is a really acute one, if, as is asserted, no hard coal is obtainable in Peterborough for any length of time at even $10 per ton, and if hard wood has advanced to the price of coal, and soft wood to the price of hard wood. Toronto reports no hard coal, and the strike at the mines shows no immediate signs of being settled.

Under such circumstances, the purchase of fuel by hundreds of persons of limited means will be impossible, except at wholesale sacrifice of other necessities, and in many cases not even by such a sacrifice.

At thought of the howling winds of winter, so near at hand, it makes one shiver to contemplate the possibilities of discomfort, injury to health, and actual suffering, which will be consequent upon an inadequate supply of fuel.

The Plans Will be Discussed This Evening.

MR. TARTE'S COURSE.

The remarkable activity of the Minister of Public Works in forming the text for many newspaper critics, and not a few of the writers are assuming that Mr. Tarte has at heart some deepiaid scheme for his own political aggrandizement. The Toronto World, for illustration, wonders if he is looking after the leadership of his party, while the Mail and Empire views his recent course as indicative of his desire to injure the Finance Minister. The Globe to-day, in a semi-jocular vein, attributes to him a desire to assume the responsibilities of all his colleagues in the Cabinet. We imagine, says the Toronto Star, that none of these guesses are near the truth. Mr. Tarte is blessed with wonderful energy, a keen intellect, and great public spirit. In addition to these most admirable qualities, his public career would indicate that he is impetuous, courageous and impressed with the desirability of always saying what he thinks. In combination these attributes create the Mr. Tarte we all know, and in explanation of his recent actions it is hardly necessary to seek further afield. He believes in protection—and says so. He desires to know more about the position of the manufacturers—and goes to them for the information. We may doubt the expediency of his course. There is no reason to doubt its honesty.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

The Brantford Expositor thus refers to a case in which a delicate phase of Woman's Rights are involved:

Widespread interest has recently been excited by a case brought in New York against a milling company by a plaintiff, who complained that her right of privacy had been invaded. A lithographic company had printed, and the milling company had circulated as an advertisement of their flour, some prints upon which appeared the likeness of a young woman, above which were the words, "Flour of the Family," and below the name and address of the milling company. A young woman claiming to be the original of the portrait brought suit against both the maker and user of the advertising matter, claiming that she had been greatly humiliated by the scoffs and jeers of persons who had recognized her face and picture on the advertisement, and that she had been made sick and had been put to the expense of employing a physician, by reason of which she had suffered damage. She prayed to be compensated in damages and for an injunction restraining the further circulation of the picture. The relief sought was grounded solely upon the proposition that the circulation of the advertisement, without the complainant's consent, constituted an invasion of her rights of privacy. The court decided (1) that the law as it stands upon the statute books does not forbid such publications; and (2) that even the principles and rules governing a court of equity cannot avow that there is a wrong, but no remedy known to the law, and then create a remedy without the authority of law. The court suggested, however, that legislation covering such cases might be passed.

Possibly if we could look into the young lady's heart we should perhaps find that her real grievance was not the picture itself, but that the picture was not good enough—"made her look horrid, etc." Or she might foresee fearful possibilities of where the practice, if allowed to go unchallenged, would lead her and possibly other pretty girls. Instead of figuring on a milling advertisement as the "Flour of the Family" she might figure on a poulterers' advertisement as the "Duck of the Family" or the "Goose of the Family." However, the young lady had a decided grievance. The invasion of the rights of privacy, the vulgar parade of private affairs is a great and growing evil. Sanctity of the home does not seem to be respected by, especially, American, newspapers and the popular craze for notority leads advertisers to take liberties with private individuals, not with any object more evil than their own advantage and with the idea that a pretty girl will be flattered by having her picture printed for public admiration, even if for the purpose of emphasing the merits of "Dobson's Best Strong Bakers."

CANADIAN POWER OF ASSIMILATION.

Professor Bryce, of Manitoba University, Winnipeg, grew enthusiastic to a Montreal newspaper man over the successful progress of the nationalization of the varied foreign elements which are so largely helping to fill up the vacant and boundless acres of the Northwest. He says the new elements are rapidly developing a national spirit. He has no fear either from the large so-called American element which is settling in the Northwest. He regards it largely as a movement of repatriation—many of these "Americans" being Canadians, who were sent abroad by less prosperous conditions, and are now returning to their native land, with whose institutions they are in sympathy, and into whose citizenship they will fit very easily. It is not a case of off with the old love and on with the new, but a case of return to their first love. Speaking in regard to the objection sometimes urged against foreign immigrants —that is from outside the Empire.

"I have no sympathy," declared Dr. Bryce, "with the absurd opposition to foreigners as immigrants going to the West. No doubt settlers from the British Isles would be preferable; but these cannot be obtained in sufficient numbers to fill the vast plain of the West. It comes with very poor grace from the people of the older provinces, many of whose ancestors were Hessians, in the Bay of Quinte district; Germans, in Waterloo County, Ont.; and Lunenburg, N.S.; from from Mennonite and Tunkers in York and adjoining counties of Ontario and from Pennsylvania Dutch all over Western Ontario, to raise this objections. The descendants of these elements in the older provinces are to-day among the very best of our people, and the younger generation of the foreigners of the Northwest, from their industrious and economical habits and from their willingness to learn the English language and Canadian customs, will certainly be worthy of the confidence of the people of older Canada.

"I have little fear of the Americanization of the Northwest from the large number of American settlers who are coming in. To begin with, these settlers are coming in with considerable means, having sold their farms in their old homes. They thus in many cases purchase improved farms in Canadian settlements and at once become a part of the Canadian community. Even in Alberta, where blocks of American have taken place, large numbers of these so-called "Americans" are returned Canadians or their children.

"As to the character of these Americans, some of them, it is true, may be reckless and irreligious; but I have met many of them who are most devout, and attach themselves at once to the churches and institutions of their new home. They are all anxious about education, and avail themselves of the opportunities of our school laws. They express themselves as being exceedingly pleased with the stability of our laws and the law-abiding character of our people. Many of them express their preference for our Canadian laws to those they have left behind them."

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE NORTHWEST.

Prof. Bryce, Winnipeg, Moderator of the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church, speaks thus respecting the missionary work of the church;

"The Presbyterian church, is I believe the strongest church in the Northwest. It has had the opportunity of taking the lead in all missionary effort; it has laid itself out to follow the railway settlements; to visit the mining camps, and be the first on the ground in the agricultural settlements. A special instance of the way in which they have adapted themselves to the circumstances of the case is found in the Yukon, where the building which is the church on Sunday is utilized during the week for social purposes. It is provided with writing tables, magazines and innocent games, while a blue flag flying from a pole on the roof shows the transient where he can find a comfortable spot to smoke, read, write or otherwise amuse himself."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Hog cholera has appeared near Woodstock. What a panic such an outbreak in the vicinity of Toronto would create among its citizens!

The Montreal Star is guilty of municipal lese majeste. In its re of the municipal "Synod" in Montreal it refers to the "sassiety" mayor of Toronto as C.A., instead of O. A., Howland.

The Toronto World says that "Hon. Mr. Ross has just one card." Yes, But that one card's a trump, and an ace at that, and with North Renfrew about to be dealt to him, he will be able to play the deuce with Mr. Whitney's hopes of success.

Each man is probably entitled to about $50 pay and $25 colonial gratuity. Some claim they drew very little pay since they were enlisted.

New York, Sept. 18.—Sir Robert Bond, Premier of Newfoundland, arrived here Tuesday on his way home. When seen at the Waldorf-Astoria regarding his interview with Acting-Secretary of State Adee on the subject of the fisheries reciprocity treaty with Newfoundland, Sir Robert said: "Nothing was accomplished. I had hopes that something could have been done to further the interests of the treaty. The fact is the present policy of the United States Senate is not one which favors reciprocity treaties, so there is nothing to do but let the matter rest. It is a pity that it should be so. The treaty would be the greatest of benefit to both countries, and I was ready to make every possible concession, so that a final decision could be reached."

Softening the Blow.

The cashier of a certain firm had absconded, and the staff of clerks were deciding on a fit and proper person to acquaint the head of the firm of the fact on his arrival.

Ultimately the matter was left in the hands of the head clerk, possibly because none of the others cared to undertake the responsibility.

There had been a dogfight in the street, and a small crowd was just dispersing as the chief's carriage dashed up.

"What's that crowd after, Jorkins?" demanded the head of the firm.

The chief clerk thought he recognised a chance of breaking the news gently and seized it.

"The vacancy, sir," he replied.

"Vacancy? What vacancy?"

"Cashier, sir."

"But we want no cashier, Jorkins."

"Beg pardon, sir; but we've a vacancy for one!"

"Jorkins, are you mad?"

"No, sir. That is, sir, I don't know, sir. Fact is, sir—all the cash is gone and—and"—

"Well?"

"The cashier's gone with it, sir."

From the way the old man took it the clerk thought he might just as well have blurted it out at the start.

LOOKED INTO THE CRATER.

Two Venturesome Natives Had Narrow Escape on La Soufriere.

Kingstown, St. Vincent, B. W. I., Sept. 18.—Both craters of La Soufriere have been active since September 11.

The top of the mountain usually is covered with clouds, but being exceptionally clear of them yesterday morning, two natives named Cummings and Adams ventured to ascend the volcano, and reached the summit of the old crater. On September 8 this crater contained water; it is now nearly filled with sand, and has a funnel-shaped cavity in the centre. Cummings and Adams saw flames rising from three distinct places in the crater. They had a narrow escape.

About Drainage

You know the deadly consequences if a house is badly drained. Only a madman or a criminal would himself incur the risk, or subject others to it, for one unnecessary minute.

But do you realise the danger of a badly drained body? Are you aware that it poisons the blood, the very fountain of life?

"FORCE"

"OR" is a little word but gigantic in possibilities.

Success, happiness, practically all of the good things of life, depend on good health.

Most of the failures, the woes of life, rest their origin and continuance in bad health. The possibilities represented by the OR in "Good Health or Bad Health" certainly are gigantic, aren't they? Proper food more than any one other thing represents the difference between good health or bad health.

Any physician will tell you that a proper mixture of the whole of the wheat and barley malt is preeminently a proper food, one that builds normally, tones evenly, nourishes sufficiently, every organ of the body.

"FORCE" is composed of the whole of the wheat and barley malt scientifically combined in the form of a delicate, crisp flake. It cannot lose its good qualities in faulty cooking for it is ready to be put on the table when it reaches the house.

There's another OR worth considering—a hot kitchen fire on a hot summer day OR no kitchen fire.

SPARK FROM THRESHER.

Set Fire to Wheat Field Burning Thirteen Acres.

Carberry, Man., Sept. 18.—A serious fire was very narrowly averted yesterday afternoon on the farm of Harry Bartley, a North Cypress farmer, residing about four miles north of this town. A threshing outfit operated by Mr. Stephens of Virden, while passing along the road, set fire to a field of wheat which was in shocks. The stubble took fire quickly, and the flames soon swept over a large area. Only by the most strenuous work was a disastrous fire avoided. Thirteen acres of crop were destroyed.

Dominion Trades Council.

Berlin, Ont., Sept. 17.—The whole of yesterday morning's session of the Trades Congress was spent in the discussion of the report of the Special Committee on Revision of the Constitution, amending clause No. 3 of the constitution by eliminating the provision for representation on the Congress of Knights of Labor assemblies, and providing that where there is an international body the national shall not be recognized. The clause providing that only one central body in each town or city shall be recognized was adopted. This closes out the representation of the Knights of Labor.

NOTIFIES AMERICANS AND JAPS.

Rear-Admiral Charles Beresford Tells at New York That England Has Learned Much From the South African War —Sir William Allan's Opinions of the British Navy.

London, Sept. 18.—In a despatch from Odessa to the correspondent of The Standard it is stated the Russian Government has announced that it will take effective measures to suppress the poaching operations of Americans and Japanese among the seals on the northeastern coast of Siberia. The measures will be enforced by three fast gunboats.

What England Has Learned.

New York, Sept. 18.—Rear-Admiral Lord Charles Beresford arrived on the Kronprinz Wilhelm for a stay of a fortnight. He said in the course of conversation that he believes England has learned much from the South African war, and that both the military and naval branches of the country's defence have improved much, and will continue to improve.

Sir William Allan on British Navy.

London, Sept. 18.—Nothing daunted by his recently conferred knighthood, Sir William Allan, advanced Radical member of the House of Commons, addressing the Gates Head Liberals yesterday, created no little sensation by describing the British navy as a phantom fleet with a skeleton crew. He declared that the navy was short 14,000 firemen, 2,000 engine-room artificers, and 900 engineers. Sir William declared also that if the admiralty would build, arm and man ships as it should this could be done on half the money now expended. He said the admiralty was a gigantic muddle, and that its old Conservative system needed reformation.

KENT IN BAD BOX.

Facts Seem Closing Around Him That He Killed Ethel Dingle.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Sensational testimony was adduced at the inquest in the Kent-Dingle tragedy at yesterday morning's hearing. It was shown that the razor lay in the open hand of the dead woman; that the hand was bloodless; that he must have died as soon as the wound was inflicted, and it was nearly impossible that the wound was self-inflicted. But, on the other hand, it was proven that Kent arose from the bed after he was wounded; that some of the letters are bloody; that he washed his hands, and that he was partly dressed when discovered, although hidden under a mass of quilts.

It is hinted that the prosecution's theory is that Kent killed the woman and tried to kill himself; that he wrote the letters after her death, and forged her signature. One of his letters was to his father, and contained a will, in which he disposed of his property. It rounded up with the statement:

"It's all off with your Uncle, Dudley."

A comparison of the signatures on one letter addressed to the coroner, providing for the burial of the bodies at Forest Lawn in Buffalo, shows a remarkable similarity, and an expert is quoted as saying both signatures were penned by the same hand.

VALUE OF TESTIMONY.

Greater Than Assertion.

There are none of us so hardened but that when we have been able to aid our fellow creatures by conferring a benefit or bringing a little comfort into their lives we like to have appreciation shown. This generally affords more pleasure than the performance of the act itself, and in this connection the following letter from a Paris, Texas, lady is of more than usual interest: "Dear friends,—I address you as such, for you have been such to me. I suffered for three years off and on with piles. I was treated at the hospital, and the new and eleagnt hospital, of Memphis; they only gave me temporary relief. I came west, thinking the change of air and water would benefit me; five months ago the bleeding piles came back on me, and bled so much that I thought I would die. I have had four of the finest doctors in this section of Texas; all they did was to finally nearly let me go to my grave; all they wanted was a big sum of money from me and to operate on me. I said no, no surgeon's knife would enter me; if it was my time to die God knew it, and when I died I would die all together. I had no faith in you, but I sent and got a box of your Pyramid Pile Cure; in two days the blood flow had slackened to one-half the amount, and in one week I felt so much better I walked four blocks and did a little housework. I was not bleeding then; in three weeks I was well. God bless you for putting such a wonderful medicine within the reach of suffering men and women. I shall never cease to recommend your medicine eine or be without it; also I used your Pyramid Pills. Sallie A. Hearndon." Testimony like this should be more convincing than all claims and assertions, and should leave no doubt in the mind of the reader as to the merit of the remedy. Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price. Write Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their book on cause and cure of piles.

THE QUESTIONS OF TO-DAY.

Minister of Methodist Conference Says Every Employe Should Receive a Living Wage and Have Pleasant Places.

Winnipeg, Sept. 18.—At the session of the Methodist General Conference yesterday the report of the Committee on Sociological questions was presented by the Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, in which the attitude of the church toward the influences at work in the progress of the world was expressed. It recognized a want of harmony between the principles of Christianity and the inequitable conditions that mark the present social relationship. The church had not always fully recognized the importance of the social conditions. The feeling was expressed that every employe should receive a living wage, and that there should be a reduction of the hours of labor where practical. Also that there should be sanitary conditions which would make work a pleasure, affording leisure for recreation and social and intellectual development. The weekly day of rest, it contended, should be preserved and a weekly half-holiday on Saturdays provided, where possible. The right of employes, also of laborers, to combine was admitted. A law to provide for compulsory arbitration was favored, and the need of honorable election contests and the preservation of purity of the ballot-box was insisted upon. The increase of gambling in the Dominion was deplored.

Rev. W. H. Harvey presented the report of the Committee on Sabbath Observance, which consisted chiefly of a statement of the situation. The committee recommended that all ministers continue to urge more close observance of Sunday upon the people.

RESOLUTIONS NUMEROUS.

Thirty-Two Submitted and the Labor Field Pretty Well Covered.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—The entire morning session of the Trades Congress yesterday was devoted to the delivery of the annual address by the President and the reception of resolutions. There were thirty-two resolutions submitted, and referred to committee, and among them were resolutions denouncing the act for settlement of railway labor disputes by compulsory arbitration, asking that provision be made in Mr. Blair's railway amendment bill for compulsory equipment of all rolling stock with proper safety appliances; that the Dominion Government investigate the grievances of British Columbia Indians and fix annually the price paid fishermen for salmon; that passages be constructed through open street cars for the protection of conductors; that a protest be sent to Hon. G. W. Ross against the apathy shown in the enforcement of the factory act; requesting the Postmaster-General to recognize the claims of letter carriers to better remuneration; condemning unnecessary parading of troops in case of labor troubles; urging trade unionists not to join the militia unless the country is invaded; placing the Gurney Foundry Company of Toronto on the list of unfair firms.

A public meeting was held in the Opera house last evening, presided over by J. A. Flett of Hamilton, at which different labor leaders addressed a crowded house.

Got Lame Back or Lumbago.

No need of that now. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic however if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere, in large 25c. bottles.

MORE "MAIL" MOONSHINE.

Absurdly Unfounded Rumour of an Early General Election—Hon. Mr. Stratton "Inspired" no Statement to That Effect—A Tissue of Trumpery Trivialties.

The Toronto Mail and Empire has been moon struck again. Periodically it has attacks of this kind. Time after time, it seizes upon or invents some absurd rumour and makes it more ridiculous by its strained inferences. Some time ago it gave prominence to a political canard in regard to a coalition, which had not even a ghost of foundation in fact. It has grown tired of ringing the changes on this illusionary subject, and in to-day's issue it blunders upon another mare's nest. The Mail says;

"The Peterborough Times, a subsidiary organ of Hon. J. R. Stratton, which first announced the negotiations for a coalition that have been going on since the middle of June, has come out with an announcement that there will be another general election in the near future. It states that, inasmuch as Messrs. Whitney and Foy will not endorse it, and they have the confidence of their supporters, there can be no coalition.

"The Times' article, which, it is announced, comes from a correspondent in Toronto, continued thusly;

The Government, therefore, has decided to fight the bye-elections to a finish, and if no relief is forthcoming, which is said to be exceedingly improbable, they will again appeal to the country. If the latter course is adopted, as seems almost certain, it is thought that Mr. Ross will carry several seats that should have gone with the Government at the last elections, had they been properly managed.

Mr. Whitney says that Mr. Ross must quit. This statement, however, must not be accepted without a grain or two of salt. Mr. Ross, with a majority of one, is certainly in a better position than his opponent to carry on the affairs of the country. Mr. Whitney says that his supporters are loyal, and cannot be induced to accept office under Mr. Ross, and that when a Speaker is elected, the parties will be a tie, and a deadlock will result. Provided the courts and bye-elections will not interfere, this is the correct view of the case. Therefore, an appeal to the country must be made by either one party or the other, and Mr. Ross says that he will stay till after the people hand in their verdict.

The Mail continues:

"That the Peterborough Times has been the indirect voice of Hon. J. R. Stratton since the opening of political hostilities in April last has never been denied, and the interesting point of it is that an early appeal to the people is forecasted.

"The Mail and Empire was informed yesterday that Liberal workers had been instructed to get ready for a general election within sixty days. A genral eelection can, however, only take place on the initiative of Mr. Whitney. Hon. G. W. Ross cannot constitutionally again make an appeal to the people unless he puts in his resignation.

"Three of the most prominent Liberal members of the House, Messrs. James Conmee, Charles M. Bowman and Sam Clarke were at the Rossin House last night, and were shown the Peterborough Times' declaration. They said that the apprehension of an election was nonsensical to them."

There is nothing whatever in the rumour, quoted by the Mail, nor in its deductions from it, and Hon. Mr. Stratton neither inspired nor suggested the article referred to by the Mail. There is also no truth whatever in the Mail's suggestion that any journal, besides the Examiner, is, or has been "the indirect voice of Hon. J. R. Stratton." And there is besides nothing in the rumour of another general election before the regular time, four years hence. Mr. Ross has a majority, and is, therefore, under no necessity to appeal to the people for a support he already possesses. The Mail and other Conservative organs may speculate and keep guessing, but they cannot change facts, and they will find when the election protests are decided and the bye elections held that Hon. Mr. Ross will meet the House with a comfortable majority. It was no wonder that three of the most prominent members of the House laughed at the nonsensical rumour of another early general election. It's enough to make a horse laugh unless he were ass enough to place the slightest dependence upon any statement the Mail might make or endorse in reference to its political opponents. When the Mail and Empire says so, it isn't so, as has been shown a score of times within the past nine months.

PLUMAGE AGAIN THE RAGE.

Beautiful Effects in the Parrot Shades—A Variation of the Toque Shape is Very Popular.

The business streets were crowded yesterday afternoon and evening, and the drygoods stores were thronged with ladies attracted by the fall openings in millinery and mantles.

Some very exquisite effects are developed in the trimming of the hats this year. Ostrich plumes and tips will be the favourite trimming for dress occasions, and there is also an immense assortment of wings, quills, birds and similar things. This is essentially the season when the tender heart of the bird lover will be disturbed by the belief that the plumage her neighbours wear is taken from some little helpless feathered things. Blues and greens--the parrot shades-as they are called, will be very popular, especially in velvets. Shaggy felts and chenille hats will be worn to a great extent,and for early autumn wear flower hats, composed principally of asters or autumn leaves with folds of velvet.

In shape there is a revival of the original form of touque, and of large hats, with floppy trims, but in the general run there is but slight modification of the styles that were worn all summer.

The first hat to be admired is of felt, faced with black felt, and trimmed with a large white bird and black velvet ribbon, caught with a fancy buckle. The second hat is of fawn felt, with appliqus of brown velvet, on the draped crown, and a Bird of Paradise for trimming. The third is a simple affair of pale grey rough felt, trimmed with black velvet, a fold of the same outlining the edge of the brim.

The large picture hat is of long haired white felt, with tiny black patches. The trimming is composed of white miroir velvet and a long, white plume.

The hat of black miroir velvet is trimmed with black ostrich tips, and faced with folds of white chiffon. The draped turban with the smart aigrette and bow at the side, is made of a changeable blue miroir velvet that tinges on green. Additional trimming is formed of beads of fur. The last of the hats is in a sort of exaggerated sailor shape and is trimmed with fancy velvet and wings.

The fashionable veils have a fancy mesh, many of them being embroidered as well. The monogram veil is rather the latest idea, and deserves to take rank with the peculiar fancy that has made girls at various times label themselves with their pet names in the form of a brooch or a belt buckle. The letters are not worked solidly ,but with cross lines of a coarse thread, on a veiling of chiffon, makine, or gauze. The same style of veil was adorned with flags, or the name or initial of her craft by the yachting woman, this summer. College pennants are applique on her veil by the college girl. The newest French veil is an embroidered and shaped affair in Brussels net, on which tiny, flowers are outlined with pink, leaves with faint green, with here and there a slight touch of grey. Another of the novelties is in fancy black effect, over which little silk dots, encircled with white, are scattered. The ends of the veil are worked in leaf patterns of black.

The general effect of all the new collars and short capes is to broaden the shoulders as much as possible. The feather boa, like the plume trimmed hat, is decreed to be the thing this season. Lace and chiffon, and kindred materials are not relegated to the background, however, but still hold their own, though made flatter, and wider than earlier in the year. The favourite form will undoubtedly be in cape effect with fancy ends. One of the novelties hailing from Paris is of black chiffon the same width its entire length, and gathered at the ends. The tendency is to have the boa of the same shade as the dress, the effect being very pretty. A model of this description to wear with a navy blue gown, was of chiffon of the same shade, the entire width of the material, and three yards in length. The ends were trimmed with deep accordion pleated ruffles, with a narrow ruching of chiffon at the top and bottom. A boa of grey chiffon similarly made has ruchings of rose pink chiffon, and is fastened with a rose-like knot of the pink chiffon. A white and green boa has its accordion pleated ruffles of white chiffon edged with green velvet bebe ribbon, and is caught at the throat with a cluster of green leaves.

AN EVENING WEDDING.

Celebration of Nuptials of Miss Annie M. McIntyre and Mr. William B. Curtis.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated last evening at half-past six o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Samuel J. McIntyre, River Road, Auburn, when his youngest sister, Miss Annie Mabel, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Wm. Edwin Curtis, youngest son of Mr. Jas. Curtis, of Douro.

The nuptial know was tied by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., Rector of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, under an arch of ferns and flowers, in the presence of a large number of friends.

The bride entered the drawingroom upon the arm of her brother, to the strains of the Wedding March, very capably played by Miss Maud Curtis.

The bride wore a handsome gown of brown hernietta trimmed with applique and velvet, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Minnie Sutcliffe attended the bride and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, while the groom was ably assisted by Mr. G. G. Pratley.

The house was prettily decorated with ferns and flowers in anticipation of the pleasant event, and the effect obtained was charming. After the ceremony an elaborate and enjoyable wedding supper was served in the dining room. The tables were artistically and beautifully decorated. During the evening many congratulatory favours were bestowed upon the bride and groom. The wedding presents formed a large and handsome array, and were an eloquent tribute of the high esteem in which the happy couple are held. A pretty gold broach was the gift of the groom to the bride, while the bridesmaid and Miss Maud Curtis were presented with gold stick pins.

The happy couple left on the nine o'clock G.T.R. train, amid showers of rice and good wishes, for a short honeymoon. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will take up their residence at Auburn.

T. A. S HONOURS TWO MEMBERS

Who Have Done Nobly on the Athletic Field.

Messrs P. J. Kelly and Fred McGrath Presented With Handsome Gifts Last Evening.

That Messrs. P. J. Kelly and Fred McGrath have won a warm place in the hearts of the members of St. Peter's T.A.S., was demonstrated last night in the demonstration, or, rather, ovation accorded them in St. Peter's T.A.S. rooms. The lecture room, as well as the apartments adjoining, were crowded with a gathering that showed by their enthusiasm that they were proud of the two young men whom they had gathered to honour.

Mr. John O'Brien, president of the T.A.S., occupied the chair, and on behalf of the society welcomed the gathering to the rooms. An excellent musical programme was then introduced, which consisted of a brilliant pianoforte duet by Misses M. McCabe and M. Doherty, excellently rendered vocal solos by Miss L. Hallihan, and Messrs. James Browne and J. Peace, and a number of phonographic selections by Mr. J. McCabe. The different numbers were warmly encored.

The numbers of the evening, however, were the presentations. Mr. Fred McGrath, whose victory of Monday in the one hundred yards dash, is fresh in the minds of all, was called to the platform and when he made his appearance he was cheered to the echo. When the enthusiasm had somewhat abated, Mr. Will Crowley stepped forward and read the following address, the presentation being made by Mr. Jas. O-Brien.

Mr. Fred McGrath,—

Your friends desire to take advantage of this social evening in order to extend to you their congratulations on the victory you have achieved on the athletic field during the past week.

We have watched your progress in athletics with considerable pride, ever since your school days up to the present occasion, and your record in the different events you have entered has been characterized by a desire to be a thorough and gentlemanly athlete, and a determination to elevate athletics as far as it lay in your power.

Not only have you won the esteem and admiration of your friends on account of the many good qualities which you possess, and which are always in evidence both on and off the field, but also the good wishes of your opponents, who commend you for your probity and your high sense of honour.

It is not merely in words, however, that we wish to extend our congratulations. We desire to offer you something of a tangible nature—something that will serve to be a reminder in the future of the fact that you have friends who have watched your record with an unusual degree of pride. Therefore, we ask your acceptance of this gold watch, chain and locket, coupled with the earnest wish that your future, not only as an athlete, but also in whatever sphere your talents are directed, will be crowned with success.

Fred McGrath was unable to "toe the scratch," so to speak, for some little time, but he assured those present, that he was proud he won the race as a member of St. Peter's T.A.S., and desired to thank the members for the encouragement and support given him. He had words of praise for the ladies, whose presence at the race on Monday showed that he had won their esteem. He concluded by thanking his friends for their magnificent gift.

Mr. P. J. Kelly, who was a tower of strength on the T.A.S. Lacrosse team during the past season, was next called to the platform, and as was to be expected, was given a warm welcome. Mr. Kelly leaves for the Grand Seminary this week, and the lacrosse boys took advantage of the occasion to present him with a handsomely framed photographic group of the club as a slight recognition of his services. The following address was read by Mr. R. J. Begley, the presentation being made by Mr. Eugene McNicholl;

Mr. P. J. Kelly:

Dear Sir,—The members of St. Peter's T.A.S. Lacrosse team learn with regret of your departure from town and deplore, from a lacrosse point of view, that the season now closed is the last of your active association with the game. On this occasion we beg to tender you our acknowledgment and recognition, as earnest as words can make them, of the important services you have rendered our club. An expert in lacrosse both in your knowledge and practice of it, your influence in our team in addition to being a practical factor in helping win games, has been of an elevating character and has served to show those with whom you have acted, as well as others, how the game should be played and that it is possible to, at the same time, play first-class lacrosse and to maintain the standard of moral requirements and the bearing of a gentleman. You have taken both a moral and practical interest in our club, and if, when you are no longer associated with it, we win success, we feel that much of that success will be due to the lessons which your example as a player on the field, furnish. Feeling sure that your interest in our club is sincere, we feel equally sure that your kindness will regard with value some little memorial of your associates on the T.A.S. lacrosse team. We therefore ask your acceptance of this framed photographic group of the members, with the wish that in after years when you shall have gained the position of prominence and usefulness in Holy Mother Church and the world to which your ability and piety point, that you may still have reason to regard with pleasant recollections the faces of our team, who will have made corresponding progress and creditable records in their several walks of life.

Signed on behalf of St. Peter's T.A.S. Lacrosse Club,

JOHN O'BRIEN,
President.
T. J. BEGLEY,
Secretary.
JAS. O'BRIEN,
Treasurer.
E. McNICHOL,
Captain.
R. J. BEGLEY,
Manager.

Mr. Kelly in replying to the address thanked the boys fo rtheir handsome gift and assured them he would always remember his warm friends in the lacrosse club. He paid a warm tribute to Mr. Fred McGrath, and closed by wishing the Athletic Department of the T .A. S. every success in the future.

Rev. Father McColl was next called upon, and in a splendid address he congratulated St. Peter's T.A.S. on the progress it was making in its different departments, commended the nature of the entertainments provided, and assured the members of his co-operation and assistance. He also paid a warm tribute to Mr. Fred McGrath and congratulated him on capturing the Schneider Cup. Rev. Father McColl's remarks were very warmly applauded.

Rev. John O'Brien followed with a speech bristling with genuine humour. He congratulated Mr. Kelly on the gift he had received, which was a fitting close to his career as a lacrosse player, and next proceeded to eulogize Mr. Fred McGrath, who, he stated, was not only a first class runner, but a young man who possessed all the good qualities that gentleman should possess. He congratulated him on his victory, and also on receiving at the hands of his friends the magnificent gift of a gold watch. If the watch, he said, ran as fast as Fred, it would certainly have to be set back, a thing he hoped that would never happen the recipient.

Rev. T. J. Crowley closed the speech making with a neat little address, in which he bestowed words of praise on the two young men whom the gathering had honoured that evening. Their record was a creditable one and he was delighted to be present to assist in honouring them.

The proceedings terminated with the National Anthem.

The photographic group presented to Mr. P. J. Kelly is the work of Mr. R. M. Roy, and is splendidly executed. Mr. Kelly leaves for the Grand Seminary on Friday, and played his last game of lacrosse with the boys in Campbellford on Labour Day. "Teck," as he was called among his friends, knew all about the game.

The gold watch, chain and locket presented to Fred McGrath, is a beautiful gift indeed. Inside the case is engraved "Presented to Fred McGrath, by his friends, Peterborough, September 15th, 1902." On the locket Mr. McGrath's monogram is placed in raised letters.

EDGAR NORTON'S STORY.

English Actors Seen Through the Eyes of a Pair of Cockneys.

Edgar Norton of Viola Allen's company tells the following story:

He happened to be in a bar or saloon in London when he overheard two cockneys discussing the merits of popular English actors.

Said one: "No, we ain't got no really good hactors now."

"Git hout," said the other.

"That's straight! 'Oo 'ave we bloomin' well got?"

"Well, there's Beerbum Tree"—

"'E ain't nuffink to speak of!"

"'Ow do yer like George Halexander?"

"'E ain't much."

"Charley 'Awtrey?"

"Sumtimes 'es orright."

"Well, wot about 'Arry Irving," (convincingly)?

"Well, wot about him?"

"'Ow about 'is Macbeth?"

"Rotten."

"'Is Loocy the Eleventh?"

"It ain't grite."

"'Is 'Amlet?"

"Oh, passable, passable!"

"Well (triumphantly), ow about 'is Shylock? Ain't that tricky?"

"Yus (musingly), yus; it's werry tricky, I grant yer, but — but it's werry wulgar to my way o' thinkin'."

About Old Colonial Furniture.

In some old records, prepared by a diligent collector of colonial furniture, the interesting fact is discovered that in the inventories of the first 75 houses of Hartford, Conn., there are recorded but 150 chairs. This included the time from 1641 to 1659. The scarcity of chairs is attributed to the limited facilities for transportation of the early settlers. This state of affairs made the use of stools as seats very general, and also accounts for the great popularity of the old chest, which came over in the capacity of packing-box, or trunk, and served the double purpose, when in the home of a receptacle for linen and other articles, and a bench or seat for two or more persons.

Another cause of the higher price of the old imported pieces is that they are often of the finer and more fragile patterns, and were originally of more intrinsic value than the pieces brought over by our forefathers with a view to active service. Of course, the historic value of even a common piece of furniture that was part of an American colonial household is of greater import to the patriotically inclined, but it is often impossible to develop any certain information concerning the antiquity of these, so that, merely as good examples of the furniture of that time, and for better condition of the individual piece, the favor has lately been given to the importations of the collectors. A considerable amount of the carved oaken furniture of the early eighteenth century was made here, and, naturally, is of cruder workmanship than the old English make.—N. Y. Evening Post.

"Must Be Vera Wee Ones."

An Englishman walking through a certain part of Scotland with rod and reel, came upon a tiny loch, which he thought held out promise of a day's good sport. Patiently he fished for three hours, moving steadily from spot to spot along the borders of the little pond, but no success came to him. At last he accosted a boy, who had stood for ten minutes watching him, with mingled surprise and curiosity.

"My little lad," said the Englishman, "can you tell me whether there are any fish in this pond?"

"If there be ony, they must be vera wee ones, sir," returned the boy, "for there was nae water here until it rained yesterday."

WON'T CURE EVERYTHING.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a Specific Remedy for all Stomach Troubles.

It is not claimed for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets that they will cure anything but Stomach Troubles.

Of course where there is any indirect result of Stomach derangement it disappears when the Stomach is restored.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do cure all diseases of the Stomach and digestive organs.

They are made for this purpose only. Compounded carefully, and carefuly prepared, they may always be relied upon to instantly relieve and, if used perseveringly, to permanently cure, Dyspepsia Indigestion, Heartburn, Bloating, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache Biliousness, Sallow Complexion, Bad Breath, Furred Tongue, and any and all results of a tired or deranged Stomach.

They also cure Constipation, which is a result of bad digestion and poor Liver action, for they set right the tardy organs and encourage and assist them to do their duty.

The large white tablets are composed of diastase and pepsin—the very best digestive agents known to modern and advanced medical science. These digest the food—all of it—without any assistance from the stomach itself, and in this way allow it to rest and get better.

The small, brown Tablets are for the Liver and Bowels and act as a gentle laxative when such is needed. They are without doubt the very best Liver medicine, and never fail to do the healing and restoring work for which they are compounded.

Together these two Tablets form what has been proven over and over again to be the very best treatment for all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

All in one box—price 50c.—at all dealers.

If your stomach is giving you trouble buy and use a box.

TWO PERORATIONS.

From Hay's Eulogy on McKinley and Blaine's Eulogy on Garfield.

It is a curious coincidence that on Feb. 27, 1882, and on Feb. 27, 1902, a secretary of state of a murdered president delivered a eulogy of his dead chief before the houses of congress. Mr. Hay, primarily a writer, showed the essayist in his oration on McKinley. Mr. Blaine, primarily a speaker, showed the orator in his oration on Garfield. Here is the peroration of Hay's eulogy of McKinley:

There is not one of us but feels prouder of his native land because the august figure of Washington presided over its beginnings; no one but vows it a tenderer love because Lincoln poured out his blood for it; no one but must feel his devotion for his country renewed and kindled when he remembers how McKinley loved, revered and served it, showed in his life how a citizen should live and in his last hour taught us how a gentleman could die.

Blaine's oration on Garfield ended with this famous passage:

As the end drew near his early craving for the sea returned. The stately mansion of power had been to him the wearisome hospital of pain, and he begged to be taken from his prison walls, from its oppressive, stifling air, from its homelessness and its hopelessness. Gently, silently, the love of a great people bore the pale sufferer to the longed for healing of the sea to live or to die, as God should will, within sight of the heaving billows, within sound of its manifold voices. With a wan, fevered face, tenderly lifted to the cooling breeze, he looked out wistfully upon the ocean's changing wonders, on its far sails, on its restless waves rolling shoreward to break and die beneath the noonday sun; on the red clouds of evening, arching low to the horizon; on the serene and shining pathway of the stars. Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world he heard the great waves breaking on a farther shore and felt already upon his wasted brow the breath of the eternal morning.

THE PARADISE FISH.

One of the Wonderful Piscatorial Rarities Found in China.

The oddest of all piscatorial rarities is the paradise fish of China. Like the German canary and one or two other species of bird and fish, this little finny beauty is the product of cultivation only, there being no place in the world where it is found in a wild state. In the land of the dragon they are kept and cultivated in ornamental aquariums, each succeeding generation of the little oddities exhibiting more diversified colors. The male is the larger of the two sexes, measuring when full grown three and a half inches. The body is shaped very much like that of a common pumpkin seed sunfish, its color surpassing in brilliancy any fish heretofore cultivated for the aquarium. The head of macropodus (that's his generic name) is ashy gray, mottled with irregular dark spots. The gills are azurine blue, bordered with brilliant crimson.

The eyes are yellow and red, with a black pupil. The sides of the body and the crescent shaped caudal fin are deep crimson, the former having from ten to twelve vertical blue stripes, while the latter is bordered with blue. The upper surface of the body is continually changing color—sometimes it is white, at others gray, black or blue. The dorsal and anal fins are remarkably large, hence its generic name—macro, large; podus, fin or foot. Both fins are shaped alike and are striped with brown and bordered with a bright blue. The dull colored ventral fins are protected by a brilliant scarlet colored spine, extending three-fourths of an inch behind the body of the fin. The pectoral fins are well shaped, but transparent and colorless.

Mounting a Horse.

A careful bicyclist learns to mount from either side of the wheel, since the emergency may arise at any moment, says the London Chronicle. One would think that the horseman would be equally careful to provide for possibilities and accustom himself to mounting indifferently from the off side and the near side. But if he were to venture to mount on the right side—which is the wrong side—in a hotel stable yard the hostler would probably demand the price of a gallon as the statutory fine, and the horse would collapse with surprise. What is the meaning of this convention? It appears in odd places. Not only does the trick horse in the circus canter from right to left, but the after dinner wine passes the same way. "The way of the sun" is the current explanation, which is absurd.

Foiled by Humidity.

Noiselessly, but with all his might, the burglar tugged at the bureau drawer.

In vain.

It refused to open.

He tugged again.

"Give it another jerk," said a voice behind him.

The burglar turned.

The owner of the house was sitting up in bed and looking at him with an expression of the deepest interest on his face.

"Jerk it again. There's a lot of valuable property in that drawer, but we haven't been able to open it since the damp weather began. If you can pull it out, I'll give you a handsome royalty on everything that's"—

But the burglar had jumped out through the window, taking a part of the sash with him.

Precaution.

"I hope that people will say the world is a little better because I lived in it," said the intensely serious young man.

"Well," answered the cold blooded politician, "the best way to arrange that is to employ somebody to write your biography now so that you can overlook the transaction."

Something of a Storm.

Stranger—The cornfields here are in a terrible condition. Been having a hailstorm, haven't you?

Farmer Wayback—Waal, I dunno. Some folks said it was hail, but my opinion is it was icebergs.

SLEEPING CAR TRAGEDY.

What Happened In the Berth When a Bottle Was Opened.

"Dear me!" said a girl suddenly. "It was just this time last year we made that dreadful sleeping car trip and had such horrible adventures because we didn't have a corkscrew.

"Gertrude was half sick, almost had insomnia and had a malt tonic with her which, the doctor said, she could take if she was sleepless. After everybody was abed in the car she whispered to me that she couldn't sleep and thought she had better take some tonic. Would I hold the glass while she opened the bottle of malt? I held the glass and kept on holding it. She had forgotten to bring a corkscrew and was getting the cork out with a penknife. I must stand ready to hold the glass the very minute she got the cork started or the effervescent stuff would be lost. How I was going to hold it in the proper spot in a pitch dark sleeping car berth I didn't know; but, at any rate, I felt cheerfully willing to try.

"'Here, hold the glass; hold the glass!' cried Gertrude. 'Oh, pshaw! I'm not quite ready yet!'

"Several false alarms like this occurred. I promptly held out the glass—several times—somewhere in the pitch dark, and then Gertrude would say:

"'Pshaw! I can't get this old cork started! Why didn't somebody bring a corkscrew?'

"Finally, while I was sitting up in the dark, half asleep, holding the glass and awaiting the signal from Gertrude, she evidently got the cork started without having time to mention it, for there arose a tremendous fizz, all in the dark, and a stream of something awfully thick and sticky struck me right in the eyes and trickled down all over my sleeping car gown. Gertrude's giggle could be heard above the roar of the train. To say that I was angry doesn't describe matters at all. Gertrude managed to grab the glass and save a little of the tonic, but I got the most of it on myself and on the pillows and sheets of the berth.

"In the morning we were terribly afraid to face the porter, but he only said:

"'You all ladies done had bad luck wid your beer las' night. You done split dat beer all ovah the place.'

"The tonic did Gertrude's insomnia no good, for she giggled offensively now and then during the night."

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

Most Dreadful of Skin Diseases

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The demand for Dr. Chase's Ointment during the summer months is enormous. It is during the warm weather especially that there is such great suffering from eczema and similar skin diseases. That Dr. Chase's Ointment is a thorough cure for this torturing disease is proven in hundreds of cases similar to the following:

Mr. G. H. McConnell, engineer in Fleury's Foundry, Aurora, Ontario, states: "I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. For about thirty years I was troubled with eczema, and could not obtain any cure. I was so unfortunate as to have blood poison, and this developed in eczema, the most dreadful of skin diseases.

"I was so bad that I would get up at night and scratch myself until flesh was raw and flaming. The torture I endured is almost beyond description, and now I cannot say anything too good for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has cured me, and I recommend it because I know there is nothing so good for itching skin."

Few people realize the suffering caused by eczema and other itching skin diseases. This is an example of what Dr. Chase's Ointment is doing in the way of relieving suffering mankind. Many of the cures it brings about are more like miracles than anything else; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 6

A MARTYR FOR LIBERTY

A Notable Event in the National History of Great Britain—How Gibraltar Was Captured From Spain.

Lord William Russell, son of William, the fifth earl, was born Sept. 29, 1639. After spending some years on the Continent he returned to England at the Restoration of Charles II. On entering Parliament Lord William inveighed against the corruption of the Cabal, the influence of France, the dishonorable commencement of the war with Holland, and the fraud practised upon the bankers. He also carried up to the House of Lords the Bill of Exclusion against the Duke of York at the head of more than two hundred members of the Commons. This Bill, setting forth that the Duke was a Papist, declared him incapable of succeeding to the Crown. The King and the Duke determined to be revenged upon Russell and the other leaders of the Whig party. The object of the great Whig plot, says Macaulay, "was to raise the nation in arms against the Government. The lesser plot, commonly called the Rye House Plot, in which only a few desperate men were concerned, had for its object the assassination of the King and of the heir presumptive." Charged as participators in the Rye House Plot, Lord Russell, the Earl of Essex, and Algernon Sidney were arrested. Russell was arraigned at the Old Bailey for high treason, July 13, 1683. Infamous witnesses easily satisfied a packed jury. As they were about to withdraw the prisoner said, "I call Heaven and earth to witness that I never had a design against the King's life." But the jury pronounced the fiat that condemned Russell to the block, and sentence of death for high treason was forthwith pronounced. Burnet thus describes the final scene, "Tillotson and I went with Lord William in the coach to the place of execution. He prayed by himself. Then Tillotson prayed with him. After that he prayed again by himself, and then undressed and laid his head on the block without the least change of countenance, and it was cut off at two strokes." Russell perished on July 21, 1683, in the forty-fourth year of his age, leaving a name to be remembered and revered wherever truth has a sanctuary or liberty a shrine.

On July 21, 1704, the British fleet came to anchor before Gibraltar, and the Marines, under the command of the Prince of Hesse Darmstadt, landed on the narrow sandy isthmus which connects the famous rock with the mainland, and called on the Governor to surrender. The Governor replied stoutly that he would defend the place to the last extremity. The next day Admiral Sir George Rooke gave orders for cannonading the town. It commenced soon after daybreak, fifteen thousand shots being discharged in five or six hours, when the South Mole head was demolished, and the Spaniards driven every quarter from their guns. Captains Hicks and Jumper, who were nearest the Mole, immediately manned their pinnaces and entered the fortifications sword in hand. The Spaniards exploded a mine which killed about a hundred men; but Capt. Whitaker, supported by seamen, took by storm a redoubt between the town and the Mole. The Governor capitulated on July 24, and the Prince of Hesse entered the place with his Marines, amazed at once by the strength of the place and the ease with which it had been taken. Gibraltar has been known in history from a very early period. The Phoenician navigators called it Alube, which the Greeks corrupted into Calpe, its classical name. With Abyla (now Ceuta) opposite it formed the pillars of Hercules, long held to be the western boundary of the world. Many attempts have since been made to retake the Rock, especially between 1779 and 1783, when for three years and seven months our garrison there had to sustain a siege against the combined French and Spanish forces. The area of the rock is about two square miles, and it is the smallest dependency of the Empire, but it is a very important one, and serves to protect our trade in the Mediterranean. Many important improvements in the dock and harbor are still in progress. The governor is always a military officer of high rank.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

"Looping the Loop."

Look before you loop.

A loop in time saves nine lives.

A loop in the air is worth two in the bush.

Loop me, loop my dog.

There's many a slip 'twixt the loop and the inquest.

It is a long loop that has no turning.

Those that loop near glass houses should not throw stones.

Who loops with "Diavolo" should have a long spoon brake.

It's an ill loop that brings no manager good.

A looping bike gathers no moss.

'Tis looping makes the world go round.

Brevity is the soul of loops.

You can lead a horse to the aquarium, but you can't make him loop.

Procrastination is the thief of the loops.

Half a loop is worse than no chute.

A loop is as good as a broken neck to a blind man.—From Punch.

Coronation Chickens.

A correspondent, the wife of a clergyman in Devonshire, sends a London, Eng., paper, the following most strange story, for the truth of which she vouches: "When the date for the coronation was fixed for June 26 we determined to have some coronation chickens, and a hen was duly set on thirteen eggs to hatch out on that day. But with no result, for on the appointed day we found all the chicks dead in their shells.

As soon as we heard the coronation was to be on Aug. 9, we again set a hen on 13 eggs, and on Saturday last (Aug. 9) 13 strong, buff Orpington coronation chickens were hatched out.

"The strange part of it all is that the non-success on June 26 is our only failure this year."

BLACK GOWNS.

Thin Materials the Vogue—Black Veiling Very Popular.

A great deal of black is being worn. The black net gown, inlet with motifs of cream guipure lace, embroidered with ecru silk or intermixed with Paris lace, is very fashionable, but these gowns are invariably mounted over shiny silk or over white, cream or biscuit tints.

A gown of black silk veiling is very smart if it has a godet frill covered with pin tucks and is joined on to the skirt by a deep insertion of crochet lace. The bodice can have a low, sleeveless foundation of white taffeta to match the underskirt and a high, almost close fitting, overbodice of crochet lace draped with veiling to simulate a bolero. The front of this bolero does not meet, but there are two straps of velvet, fastening with paste buckles, to connect the fronts. The sleeves of tucked veiling have banded undersleeves of unlined lace.

The dress illustrated is of black veiling over white silk. The skirt is elaborately trimmed with tucks and diamonds of black chantilly over the white silk. The waist has a tucked yoke of chiffon, with a shirred band over the bust and upper arm and two tabs of the unlined veiling finished with the diamond shaped chantilly pieces. JUDIC CHOLLET.

BEAUTIFUL LAND OF NOD.

Come, cuddle your head on my shoulder, dear,
Your head like the goldenrod,
And we will go sailing away from here
To the beautiful Land of Nod,
Away from life's hurry and flurry and worry,
Away from the earth's shadow and gloom;
To a world of fairer weather we'll float off together
Where roses are always in bloom.

Just shut up your eyes and fold your hands,
Your hands like the leaf of a rose,
And we will go sailing to those fair lands
That never an atlas shows.
On the north and the west they are bounded by rest,
On the south and the east by dreams;
'Tis the country ideal where nothing is real,
But everything only seems.

Just drop down the curtains of your dear eyes,
Those eyes like a bright bluebell,
And we will sail out under starlit skies
To the land where the fairies dwell.
Down the River of Sleep our barque shall sweep
Till it reaches the mystic isle,
Which no man hath seen, but where all have been,
And there we will pause awhile.

I will croon you a song as we float along
To that shore that is blessed of God,
Then, ho, for that fair land, we're off for that rare land,
The beautiful Land of Nod.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Erasing the Evidence.

Deep in the bark of the old beech tree that stood on the river bank the young man carved the initials of her name.

Then he called her attention to them.

"But your initials, just above mine," she said, "look as if they had been cut there a year or more ago."

"They were, dear," he replied.

"And mine," she continued, looking at them a little closer, "seem to have been worked over from others already there."

"Yes, dear," he replied with noble candor, "I have to change them every year. That is one of the penalties of these summer resort engagements."

Henry Is a "Trusty."

"Well, my goodness!" exclaimed Mrs. Peck. "It says in the paper that a young man in Washington has been sentenced to thirty days in jail for being in love."

"He's in luck," said Henry. "He might have got a life sentence but for that."

It is thought that there will be trouble when Mrs. Peck has analyzed the true inwardness of that remark.

Spared His Blushes.

"I couldn't get out of marrying her," Henpeck explained. "When she proposed, she said: 'Will you marry me? Have you any objection?' You see, no matter whether I said 'yes' or 'no' she had me."

"Why didn't you just keep silent, then?" inquired his friend.

"That's what I did, and she said, 'Silence gives consent' and that ended me."

Goat Wanted.

Wifey (who is doing her own cooking now)—I can't seem to make little enough of anything. I wish some poor, hungry creature had what we have left every day.

Hubby (who hasn't much appetite lately)—Yes; we ought to keep a goat. They say a goat can eat anything.

Scores of Uses

While Dr. Chase's Ointment is best known on account of its wonderful control over eczema, salt rheum and piles, it is found to be in almost daily demand in many homes as a cure for chilblains, chafings, pimples, sunburns, burns, scalds, and each and every form of itching, irritated or inflamed skin. It is invaluable in every home and as a soothing and healing application knows no equal.

The Careful Grocer.

"John," said a butter dealer, "always put in a couple of sheets of paper when you weigh. Customers will think you neat and cleanly in your business. They don't like to have their butter slopped on to a scale that, for all they know, has never been washed. And, besides, there's a good profit in buying paper at a halfpenny per pound and selling it for 18 pence."—London Standard.

Combined with Tar, Tamarac, Tolu and other herbs, they go to make up Four T's, the only positive cure known to-day for whooping cough and bronchitis. A 25c bottle cures an ordinary cough in 24 hours. A Business Man's Sarcasm.

"My dear sir," exclaimed the man who is painfully accurate in his use of language, "that sign in front of your shop is improperly punctuated."

"You don't tell me!" exclaimed the prosperous merchant.

"Yes, sir. You have omitted a comma"—

"Don't tell me any more. I can't bear to think of it. Here I've made only two or three paltry millions out of this business. When I think of the billions I might have made if that comma had been present, I am overwhelmed with remorse.

PRESBYTERY OF HASTINGS.

Important Meeting Held at Hastings.

Report of Proceedings—Infant Baptism Considered—Puestion Referred to Synod—A Call to Warkworth —The Referendum.

At Hastings on Tuesday, the 16th of September, 1902, the Presbytery of Peterborough met, according to adjournment, and was duly constituted by Mr. Potter, Moderator.

There were present besides the Moderator, Dr. Torrance. Messrs. Bennett, Ross, Thompson, Johnston, Reeves, McIntosh, Hunter. Kannawin, Sinclair, Campbell, Atkinson, Yule, MacDonald, Camp, Ministers, and Oakman, Clark, Harrison, Gardiner, Roxburgh, Taylor, Elders.

Commissions were received on behalf of the following Elders as representatives of their several Kirk Sessions, and their names were added to the roll of the Presbytery, viz., R. Harrison, St. Paul's, Peterborough; Matthew Gardner, Millbrook; Duncan Robertson, Cold Springs; Wm. Fowler, St. Andrew's, Peterborough; Alexander Skeene, Harwood; Joseph Taylor, Keene; and W. E. Roxburgh, Norwood.

The minutes of the former quarterly meeting having been printed, and in the hands of the members, were held as read, and were sustained.

The minutes of the pro re nata meeting in Peterborough, on the 12th of August, and of the meeting at Havelock on the 9th September, were read and sustained.

Mr. McIntosh was appointed Moderator for the next six months, and took the chair.

A docket was read, to which it was agreed to adhere as the order of business.

Mr. Thomson laid on the table a call from the congregation of Warkworth, to the Rev. J. F. Macfarland, B.A., of South Mountain, in the Presbytery of Brockville, signed by 91 members. There accompanied the call a guarantee of salary of $750, and manse, and other relative documents.

Messrs. Black, Spear and Carlaw, representatives of the session and congregation were heard in support of the call, testifying as to the harmony of it, and their desire for an early settlement.

On motion of Dr. Torrance, the conduct of Mr. Thomson was approved in moderating in the call, the call itself sustained as a regular Gospel call. The call, with relative documents, was ordered to be forwarded to the Presbytery of Brockville, with request that it be disposed off at as early a date as possible.

Mr. Thomson was appointed to represent the Presbytery in support of the call before the Presbytery of Brockville, when the time comes for its consideration.

It was decided to make provisional arrangement for the induction of Mr. Macfarland, should his translation be granted. Mr. Thomson was appointed to preside and induct; Mr. MacDonald to preach; Mr. Lord to address the Minister, and Mr. Reeves the people.

The fixing of the date of the induction was left in the hands of Mr. Thomson, the Moderator of Session, who was instructed to notify all the parties concerned.

Presbytery resumed the consideration of the question of the baptism of infants, whose parents are not in full communion with the church, left over from last meeting.

After lengthened conference, led by Mr. McIntosh, it was eventually agreed, on motion of Mr. Bennett, to overture the Synod of Toronto and Kingston on the subject, and to ask for answers to the following questions:

1st. What constitutes church membership on the part of parents?

2nd. What is the full import of the question put to ministers at the time of Presbyterial Visitation, as found in our Book of Forms, "Do you administer the Sacrament of Baptism in an orderly way?"

3rd. Is it proper to administer the ordinance of Baptism to the children of non-communicants, who are prepared to enter into the same engagements that would be required of them if they were seeking Baptism for themselves?

4th. Should a minister of our church recognize Baptism administered by other churches, in cases where our church would not allow it — that is to children of parents who are not Christians, or should he baptize them when they apply for membership in our church?

The report of the Committee on "Aids to Worship," was deferred until a future meeting.

The reports of delegates to Augmented congregations were next next called for.

Reports were received from Mr. Kannawin, who had visited Janetville and associated stations; from Mr. Johnston, who had visited Springville and Bethany, from Mr. Campbell, who had visited Warsaw, and from Mr. Reeves, who had visited Havelock. These reports were at a later stage referred to the Augmentation Committee for consideration, with instruction to report at a meeting of Presbytery to be held in St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, on the 1st October.

Mr. Sinclair was associated with Mr. Lord, as joint convener of the Augmentation Committee.

The Presbytery adjourned to meet again at 2 o'clock, and was closed with the benediction.

Wm. Bennett, Clerk.

Same day and place, Presbytery met at 2 o'clock, according to adjournment, and was duly constituted by Mr. McIntosh, Moderator.

Reports were called for from the from the delegates who had visited the several mission fields.

Mr. Yule reported from Apsley and Clydesdale. In connection with this report Mr. Evans, the missionary from Apsley, was heard as to the present state and future prospects of the field.

The delegate who had been appointed to visit Cardiff, had not yet fulfilled his appointment, but would do so at once, and send his report to the convener.

Mr. Thompson presented a very interesting report from the Cordova field.

Mr. Anderson, one of the members of the Financial Board, was heard as to the progress of the work and as to the wishes of the people.

Messrs. Hunter and McIntyre reported from the Oak Hill and Harvey fields, respectively, as to the prosperity of the work in each field. These several reports were referred to the Home Mission Committee for their consideration. The Committee will report at the meeting in October.

Letters were read from Messrs. Ross and Somerville, tendering the resignation of their respective charges of Roseneath and Norwood.

It was agreed to cite the congregations of these two charges to appear for their interests at a meeting to be held in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, on Wednesday, the 1st October, at 9 o'clock, a.m., when the resignations will be considered.

The Committees appointed to examine the Session Records of Hastings and Springville, reported that these were correctly kept, and recommended them to be attested accordingly.

Messrs. McIntosh and Bennett, ministers, and Mr. Harrison, elder, were appointed to support the overture on baptism on the floor of the Synod in Toronto in May next.

A communication was read from the clerk of Synod, calling the attention of the Presbytery to the fact that, owing to action of Assembly in investing the several Synods with enlarged powers, additional Standing Committees in each Presbytery needed to be appointed.

The following Standing Committees were in consequence appointed:

Evangelistic Services — Messrs. Thompson and Yule, ministers, and Harrison, elder.

Foreign Missions — Messrs. MacDonald and Camp, ministers and I. Tayor, elder.

In view of the action of Synod in agreeing to pay travelling expenses to meetings of Synod in the cases of those who are over 50 miles distant from the place of meeting, it was agreed that the rate for the Synod and Presbytery fund be increased from 12 1-2 to 15 cents per family.

A communication from the Convenor of the Synod's Committee on Evangelistic Services was referred to the Committee of Presbytery on the subject.

The following resolution was adopted in connection with the coming referendum: Moved by Mr. D. A. Thompson, seconded by Mr. Sinclair—"We call the attention of the members of Presbytery to the recommendations of the General Assembly on Temperance, and at this time specially urge all members to use their influence for the suppression of the liquor traffic."

Mr. Bennett read the report on statistics. The report was received and its contents noted.

Mr. Bennett gave notice of motion for the next meeting, that delegates to Assembly shall be elected at next meeting in December, and that the rule of electing some commissioners by rotation shall for the time be suspended.

Mr. Kannawin gave in the report of Committee on Superintendence of Students. The exercises prescribed were all sustained and the following students on Mr. Kannawin's report were ordered to be certified to their respective colleges, viz., — Messrs. Dinguid, Evans, Shearer, Pickup.

The next meeting of Presbytery was appointed to be held in the Walton Street Hall, Port Hope, on the 9th December, at 2 o'clock.

On motion of Mr. Sinclair, the Rev. John Kilman, of Edinburgh, was nominated as a fit and proper person to fill the vacant chair of Apoligetics and Homiletics in Knox College.

The Clerk reported that he had corresponded with a member of Presbytery who had been absent from two consecutive meetings, as directed.

The reasons for absence were stated and were pronounced satisfactory.

On motion of Mr. Hunter, Mr. Beattie, of Cobourg, was granted leave of absence from his congregation for six months, for reasons assigned.

The Clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Lord that a report on Augmentation would be called for at the meeting to be held in Peterborough on the 1st October.

Presbytery adjourned to meet in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, on Wednesday, the first October, at 9 o'clock, and was closed with the benediction.

NORTH POLE IS THERE

Peary Back Without It So That Bernier's Chance Is Yet Good.

PEARY MADE SOME DISCOVERIES.

The Windward With the Explorer Arrived in Sydney, C.B., Thursday Morning—Mrs. Peary Recovering From Illness—Some Details of His Latest Dash For the Pole Gathered in an Interview.

North Sydney, C. B., Sept. 19.—Lieut. Peary arrived from the frozen north on board the Windward at 8.15 yesterday morning. Dr. Dedericks was also aboard. Peary did not discover the pole, but on the last dash made important discoveries. He says: "My last dash for the pole was most successful. I was further north than 83.27, my previous record. Mrs. Peary is recovering from a fortnight's illness."

Peary gave the following interview: Having left Erik Harbor on the Ellesmere coast Aug. 29, we reached Payer Harbor on Sept. 16, crossing Ross Bay by sledge and boat about a week later. March 3 my advance party, in charge of Hansen, left for Conger. On March 6 I started with the party of eighteen sledges, leaving Percy in charge at Payer Harbor. Conger itself was reached in twelve marches. Eight marches more took up to Cape Hecla. The north end of Robertson was all open across to the Greenland coast, and patches of water extended northward as far as the eye could reach. On April 1 I started again on my journey across the Polar Sea, accompanied only by Hansen, four Eskimos and six sledges. This section of the trip was exceedingly dangerous. One march was exceedingly torturous, and owing to the character of the floes our course was defected considerably to the west. At last, at 84, 17 N. Lat., northwest of Hecla, the polar pack became impassable, and further efforts to advance were reluctantly abandoned. Our return journey was far more dangerous and unpleasant. We encountered new leads and foggy weather, and the foggy weather made traveling difficult and oftentimes exceedingly dangerous. We regained Hecla on April 28, and were delighted to reach Conger, in safety on May 3. Cape Sabine was reached on the 17th. A few days later I proceeded north as far as Cape Louis Napoleon, returning June 1.

TOBACCO INQUIRY.

H. P. Witton Says Combine Cut Off Natural Channels of Trade.

Hamilton, Sept. 19.—Judge MacTavish of Ottawa yesterday, as royal commissioner on the tobacco trade of Canada, heard evidence in the Court House. O. E. Fleming of Windsor represented the petitioning tobacco manufacturers, C. S. Campbell, K.C., of Montreal, represented the Empire Tobacco Company and the American Tobacco Company. T. P. Owens of Ottawa is the secretary of the commission. There were also present M. B. Davis, Montreal, president of the American Company; H. S. Bourke, Montreal, secretary of the Empire Company; Mr. Orchard, Toronto representative of the Empire Company, and H. B. Witton, vice-president, and J. W. Lamoreaux, secretary of the George E. Tuckett & Son Company.

Evidence was given by F. P. Healy, bookkeeper for Lucas, Steele & Bristol; Emil Engel and James Kirk, tobacconists, and H. P. Witton. Healey's evidence showed his firm had declined to fill an order for the Erie Tobacco Company's goods, because it had a contract with the Empire and American companies. Engel and Empire goods. Mr. Witton said his Kirk both expressed a preference for firm maintained there was a combine. It had not been able to get its Karmak cigarettes in the hands of the jobbers or dealers because they signed contracts with the American and Empire companies. The inducement was a reduction of 5 cents a pound. The combine, he asserted, cut off the natural channels of trade.

On the inquiry being resumed yesterday afternoon, H. C. Beckett, second vice-president of Gillard & Co., wholesale grocers, was called on behalf of the Empire Company. He testified that his company had signed the contracts of the two companies, but it was at liberty to sell other goods. It was simply a question of profit and volume of trade; considering the 5 cents a pound off tobacco offered by the two companies. If the firm was asked to sign a contract to sell Tuckett cigars exclusively, it would do so.

Klondike Meat Combine.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 19.—A special to The Post Intelligencer from Dawson says:

"Dawson meat men are organizing a combine to control the stock in the Klondike. Their plans are fully matured. At a meeting representatives will arrange for the absolute control of all the meat in the market. The combine will have to take care not only of all the stock in hand, but all that have been contracted for, the value of which will amount to more than $1,000,000. Restaurants, hotels and large mining companies are laying in large stocks of meat in anticipation of a sharp rise in prices."

Three Brantford Firemen Injured.

Brantford, Sept. 19.—Last night at the fire which caused the Snowdrifts Company $90,000 and George Watts & Sons $70,000 loss three firemen were injured by falligg walls. Fireman Woodley was cut about the head, but not seriously. Fireman George Kingsville was on a ladder at the third storey window, and when the ladder fell out he jumped to save himself. He was hurt about the knees, ankle and foot but it is thought no bones are broken. Fireman Charles Brown was hurt about the head and shoulders. The nature of his injuries are not known, but he is the worst hurt of the three. Kingsville and Brown were taken in the ambulance to the hospital.

THE TRADE OF CANADA

Sir William Mulock Addresses Manufacturers' Association.

"MARKETS UNDER THE FLAG."

Development of Canadian Trade With Australia, New Zealand and South Africa Advocated—Good Feeling Shown Towards Canada—Everything We Manufacture Wanted in South Africa.

Toronto, Sept. 19. — Sir William Mulock addressed a representative meeting of the executive of the Manufacturers' Association yesterday afternoon on the matter of developing Canadian trade in Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

At the outset Sir William Mulock thanked the association for the honor of the invitation to address them. "I may say," he went on, "that the Canadian government is of the opinion that valuable markets under the flag outside of Canada await the enterprise of the Canadian people; and we are of the opinion that more and more as time goes on it becomes essential for us to develop trade thruout the world and not to lose sight of the great field that lies in the countries inhabited by our own people. The outside world has no interest in Canada except the interest of the trader, but our kinsmen in South Africa, New Zealand, Australia and at home—all are interested in developing this trade in every part of the empire, and we in Canada must not ignore the importance of developing each part of the empire so as to be a source of strength in the time of peace as well as in the time of trouble.

"I am sure the association will always render the government aid in assisting in the development of trade between the different parts of the empire. The two ought to work hand in hand to that end and work with the utmost frankness, and with an interchange of views much good can be accomplished. In reference to South Africa, the Canadian government being of the opinion that there is a great market to be developed there, providing Canadians show their usual energy, we have endeavored to bridge over the sea and bring the producer and the consumer closer together. [Applause.] The ocean is the connecting link to-day; we have two great oceans connecting us with the great consumers of the world, and we being the highway of the world, it is the duty of all governments and good patriotic citizens to make use of our splendid waterways to bring our products to the markets of the world.

"Recent events have made Canada well and favorably known in South Africa, and that circumstance will be a helpful feature in securing trade. In England the business men of Canada are certainly no less welcome to-day in consequence of the good feeling towards our country there. I feel more confident now than ever of the success of the new line to South Africa. Only the other day I received a letter from a gentleman, who stated that he had already shipped three thousand packages of butter via the line, and another letter, from a party stating that he had shipped one cargo of cheese and expected to do the same in the next two sailings. [Applause.] The steamship line, I may say, will send as many ships a month as the trade will warrant. It has been shown how much can be accomplished in a very short time in these days, and when the spring opens we will certainly be sending away many more and will continue doing so until the whole trade of that country is captured.

"I was told by Sir Alfred Hime, premier of Natal, that it was of the utmost importance that we should send our agents to find out the wants of the South African people. It is important that we do not make a bad start; a good start is everything. I, therefore, consulted with the steamship authorities on the matter, and they at once granted nominal transportation rates to that country. [Applause.] In the course of a further conversation Sir Alfred told me that there was scarcely anything that the Canadians manufactured that the South African people did not want and were ready to buy from us."

As to trade with Australia, he said it was his firm hope to soon see established a steamship line between Canada and that country via Cape of Good Hope. The carrying out of this scheme will depend largely upon the success met with by the South African line. The parties having to do with the one would have to do largely with the other. A gentleman in New York told him they had a monthly service between that city and Australia and that half of the cargoes were of Canadian goods. On learning this he ascertained the names of the Canadians who were supplying the products and wrote them advising them not to make a contract for any length of time, so that if we established a line they could transfer their patronage to it. [Applause.] And he had received several satisfactory replies.

Roumanian Jews Coming Here.

London, Sept. 19.—In a despatch from Bucharest, Roumania, dated Sunday, Sept. 14, a correspondent of The Daily Express says the emigration fever among the Jews of Roumania still continues and that within the last three months 4000 Jews have left the country. To-night the correspondent goes on: A party of 250 left for Canada and the United States, and small parties of Jews leave the larger towns of the country almost daily. Altho the reason given by the emigrants for leaving is their inability to obtain works, the Jews steadily refuse to take up farm labor.

COALITION IMPOSSIBLE.

Those who are inclined to agree with Mr. Goldwin Smith that there are no issues between Mr. Ross and Mr. Whitney to prevent their acting harmoniously in a coalition Government, should remember that there is all the difference between motion and rest. Mr. Ross represents progression and development; Mr. Whitney represents retrogression and stagnation. If Mr. Ross and Mr. Whitney should coalesce to carry on a government, the latter would, judging from his past record, be a brake upon the wheels of progress. He acts in that capacity now, but, to a large extent, harmlessly. If he had a position of authority, his influence would be a damper upon the spirit of advancement, and energetic activity, which this province needs to insure the realization of the future, which the development of her natural resources will bring. Mr. Ross and Mr. Whitney would not pull together twenty-four hours if the latter showed the same lack of progressive spirit in a Cabinet that he has shown as leader of the Opposition. A coalition is at best a forlorn hope, and Mr. Ross has not reached that stage yet. He has a majority in the House, and is responsible for the good government of the country. The really heroic captain does not desert his ship while a plank of her holds together. Mr. Ross is not the man to desert his post because a little difficulty confronts him. Capacity is proved by overcoming obstacles, and the men that overcome obstacles are the men we want to manage our affairs.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The cry now is that there is a shortage of ammunition in Canada, there being only one shell and cartridge factory. Only give us coal and the ammunition may take care of itself.

In the Bank of England a shovel is used to handle the gold coins, but if coal prices continue to rise, the bank scoop will not carry any more precious freight than the shovel of the coal heaver.

We are pretty shaky on the fuel question here, but not so bad perhaps, in other important respects, as New South Wales, where, owing to continued drought, water is so scarce that plunge baths are prohibited by the authorities.

Mr. Borden has made two speeches in British Columbia up to date, and in each he has attacked the British preference. We hope, says the Manitoba Free Press, he will still be of this mind when he reaches Manitoba. A lively attack on the preference by Mr. Borden to a Manitoba audience would make Liberal votes in plenty.

The London, England, Standard says:—"Ginger wine, which has been sold for years as a temperance drink, was proved at the Bishop's Stortford Petty Sessions, yesterday, to contain as much alcohol as champagne, and five beerhouse keepers were fined the nominal sum of half a crown, without costs, for selling it without having in force licenses to sell wine." The question is whether the ginger wine was extra good, or the champagne extra bad.

The Toronto world says that the N. P. was twenty-four years old on Sept. 17th. Not so. At the time it died at the hands of the elections in June 1896 it was seventeen years and nine months old. It was succeeded by the true National Policy under which the commercial life and properity of the country, which was languishing under the spurious National Policy, has advanced by leaps and bounds. Political economists may prate of the advantages of fiscal systems, but that is best which gives the best results, as has been done by the Liberal National Policy.

THE LEATHER AND SHOE TRADE

The following from the Montreal Herald, shows how the leather and shoe trade has improved under the Liberal tariff:

The leather trade, in all its branches, has flourished in Canada under the new dispensation. It was affirmed at Ottawa, not long ago, that the shoe manufacturers supply from ninety to ninety-five per cent. of of the Canadian market. That ought to satisfy the reasonable men they are known to be. In Montreal, particularly, they are doing well. They are adding to their establishments. One of the most important of the large constructions now under way in Montreal, is a shoe factory that will probably be the largest in Canada. And these local indications of prosperity are borne out by the figures found in the trade returns. Let us look them over.

The foundation of leather is the hide, on which, by the way, there is no duty. For the period before 1897 imports of raw hides were as follows;

1895	1,766,620
1896	1,764,251
1897	2,435,975
Average	2,063,020

For the period following (the returns for 1902 are not available yet) the imports of hides were;

1898	$3,601,382
1899	3,877,991
1900	4,120,443
1901	3,954,804
Average	3,954,804

The importation of hides is seen to have been practically doubled in the later period, and we may suppose that a good deal of the increase found its way as leather into the Canadian shoe factories. Exports of leather increased in the period an average of only $160,000 a year. The rest of the extra two millions' worth of hides, with all the additional value given to them in the tanning, must have gone into the home factories. In fact, the home factories are using less imported upper leather than they did under the Foster tariff. Aggregate imports for the respective four-year periods were;

	Pounds.
Four years 1894-1897	1,219,068
Four years 1898-1902	1,181,743

Imports of sole leather, which used to average half a million dollars' worth a year, have been reduced to a figure considerably lower. And while the home manufacturers have been handling all this extra trade that must have come to them as a result of the greater purchasing power of the community, the increased import of shoes has not been very considerable. The average importation under the Foster tariff, in the four years before the revision, four years of hard times, when people did not indulge the luxury of American fancy footwear, was $305,960; the average in the succeeding four years, when money was flush, was $503,571.

Clearly the shoe and leather industry is in no very bad way. Perhaps, it was worth while to have attention drawn to the fact.

TWENTY-FIVE HOUSE PLANS FOR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

We have just received from the publishers a copy of their new book containing plans and specifications, with perspective and sectional views, for twenty-five houses of various sizes from two rooms up. This handy, compact and very useful volume contains, in addition to the foregoing, valuable information relative to building such as the number of shingles required in a roof, amount of plaster for a house, quantity of materials required for building a house, and many other facts of permanent and practical value.

Any one of the plans is worth much more than the price asked for the whole book. It is useful to every architect, builder, mason, and carpenter, and particularly do we urge all who anticipate erecting a new or remodeling an old dwelling to send for a copy, as its fortunate possessor may save hundreds of dollars by following the suggestions it contains. It must prove of great value to any person who is interested in securing a new home. With the assistance of this handy little volume, an architect's services may be dispensed with, as an contractor can erect a building from the plans and specifications it contains.

A copy of the book will be mailed, postpaid, by the publishers, Geo. W. Ogilvie & Co., 166 to 174 South Clinton street, Chicago, Ill., upon receipt of 25 cents in postage stamps.

SMUGGLER OF CHINESE CAUGHT.

Wong Had Long Posed as a Friend of U.S. Officials.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 19.—Wong, a notorious smuggler of Chinese, has been caught red-handed by United States Commissioner Healy and Inspector White and deported to China. Wong resided in British Columbia and posed as a friend of the United States. If Chinamen desired to get a free trip home he would tell them where to cross the line to insure being caught and deported, and would then inform the Immigration Department of the place and time of their crossing.

While the United States officials were concentrated at that point he would send a score or more Chinamen, who desired to get into the States, over the line at another point.

MINERS' STRIKE SOON TO END.

Complete Settlement of the Difficulty Is Predicted Within a Very Short Time —Buffalo and Chicago Rumors.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The Evening News published a special despatch from New York yesterday in which, after referring to the failure of the politicians to settle the anthracite strike, continues: "Unpromising as the outlook seems, The News correspondent is first to state, with a degree of conviction amounting to certainty, that the settlement of the strike is imminent; that it will be reached within the next few days, and that it will be effected by direct negotiations between the miners and J. Pierpont Morgan. Events are rapidly shaping themselves in this direction at present. This will take the entire question out of politics and place it where it belongs, namely, upon an industrial basis. Moreover, the plan of settlement will be so shaped that there will be no humiliation to any individual or interest concerned. The next move in the strike, therefore, will, it is believed, be made by the miners themselves in submitting the entire question to Mr. Morgan and asking him to pass on its merits. Such action on the part of 150,000 workers will imply an unprecedented act of confidence and will place it in Mr. Morgan's power to bring the strike, now in its fifth month, to a satisfactory ending."

A Big Company to Yield.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Word was received in Chicago last night from Henry Weaver of the Weaver Coal Company, who is in Buffalo, that the anthracite coal strike will soon come to an end, that one of the largest mines in the heart of the disturbed district in Pennsylvania is about to give in to the strikers and that other mines will directly follow the example of the leader.

Soldiers quelled the disorder within the city. Fourteen Boxer leaders and several other rebels were executed. A new viceroy and new military officials are now on their way to Cheng-Tu-Fu to assume charge there.

Robbing the Bass Nursery at Galt.

A member of The Star staff, who is spending his holidays in Galt, boasts in a letter to a friend that in one afternoon on the Grand River he caught 40 bass. The aggregate weight of the catch was 25 pounds. He says the hall is the best ever made in the Grand River around Galt. All we have to say is that our young friend should be in jail. In the first place he caught over three times the legal number of bass, and in the second, if the catch only aggregated 25 pounds, the majority of the fish must have been under legal weight. It's time the Galt police woke up and saved the Grand River bass from the attacks of such marauders.—Toronto Star.

Jam For the British Army.

A curious feature of the war has been the discovery of jam by the British soldier. To judge from Mr. Brodrick's printed reply to a question in the house of commons, jam has leaped from the rank of a household delicacy to the position of a military necessity, without which a campaign can hardly be conducted to success. Thirty-four million, five hundred and eighty-two thousand, seven hundred and sixty-two pounds of jam were consumed during the war by the army, most of it manufactured in this country, the rest of it in the colonies. It is computed that in the year 1900 alone thirty train loads of jam, at 300 tons to a load, were sent to the front, and that the army consumed more than half its own weight of jam in that time.

"FOR CE"

FIRST CHOICE are the words for which these big letters stand.

FIRST CHOICE of an article of diet should be one that not only is pleasing to the taste but also gives nourishment, strength and vigor. Each organ of the body thrives upon a different food element and in order that every organ shall have just the proper amount of work these elements must be furnished in certain proportions. Whole wheat, any good doctor will tell you, contains all the elements for building up the whole body and in just the correct proportions. Most of us already have abused our stomachs, and this organ has been overworked. It requires a tonic and assistance in the work of digestion. Malt is the best tonic.

"FORCE" is a combination of the whole of the wheat and barley malt, delivered to you ready cooked, and ready to serve in the form of a sweet, crisp, delicate flake of exceedingly pleasing flavor.

THE CLACK PROBLEM.

Loafing Natives a Menace in South Africa —Unrest Among Zulus.

London, Sept. 19.—Cabling to The Daily Express from Cape Town, the correspondent says the unemployed natives in the rebel districts have become a serious problem. They have squandered their pay and are now penniless. Their loafing constitutes a menace in the districts where they are found.

Unrest Among Zulus.

Durban, Natal, Sept. 18.—Uneasiness is felt here in consequence of reports of unrest in Zululand, where trouble appears to be imminent. The Times of Natal says the feeling in Zululand between Boers and natives demands active government intervention. Dinizulu is regaining his prestige and is regarded as dangerous. The Zulus still have the arms with which they were provided during the war. Since the Zulus were killed by the Boers in the Vryheid district, the paper continues, a bitter feeling has prevailed among the natives, and this threatens to culminate in a serious collision.

FREE TO MILLIONS.

A Valuable Little Book Sent Free for the Asking.

Medical books are not always interesting reading, especially to people enjoying good health, but as a matter of fact scarcely one person in ten is perfectly healthy, and even with such sooner or later sickness must come.

It is also a well established truth that nine-tenths of all diseases originate with a breaking down of the digestion, a weak stomach weakens and impoverishes the system, making it easy for disease to gain a foothold.

Nobody need fear consumption, kidney disease, liver trouble or a weak heart and nervous system as long as the digestion is good and the stomach able to assimilate plenty of wholesome food.

Stomach weakness shows itself in a score of ways and this little book describes the symptoms and causes and points the way to a cure so simple that anyone can understand and apply.

Thousands have some form of stomach trouble and do not know it. They ascribe the headaches, the languor, nervousness, insomnia, palpitation, constipation and similar symptoms to some other cause than the true one. Get your digestion on the right track and the heart trouble, lung trouble, liver disease or nervous debility will rapidly disappear.

This little book treats entirely on the cause and removal of indigestion and its accompanying annoyances.

It describes the symptoms of Acid Dyspepsia, Nervous Dyspepsia, Slow Dyspepsia, Amylaceous Dyspepsia, Catarrh of stomach and all affections of the digestive organs in plain language easily understood and the cause removed.

It gives valuable suggestions as to diet, and contains a table giving length of time required to digest various articles of food, something every person with weak digestion should know.

No price is asked, but simply send your name and address plainly written on postal card to the F.A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., requesting a little book on Stomach Diseases and it will be sent promptly by return mail.

KILLED AT MABERLY.

C. P. R. Fireman Meets Death on the Railway.

TWO MEMBERS OF CREW INJURED

Toronto-Montreal Express Ran Through an Open Switch and Was Partially Derailed—Locomotive and Four Express Cars Badly Wrecked—Sleepers Escaped the Shock But Passengers Were Shaken Up.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—An open switch was responsible for a fatal wreck on the C.P.R. at Maberley early yesterday morning. The Montreal Express was partially ditched and Fireman William Ross of Toronto was instantly killed. Engineer Alexander Rose, a Toronto man, was badly injured, and F. A. Peters, an extra fireman in the cab, was slightly hurt. J. K. Moores, a Chicago traveling man, and Miss Maggie Wolf of Buffalo, passengers, were slightly injured by being thrown from their seats.

The heavily loaded train left Toronto Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock. Considering the speed of the flying train and the many passengers it is remarkable that a frightful disaster did not result. As it was the coaches did not go into the ditch, but the locomotive and four baggage and express cars were badly wrecked. The big engine turned completely over and landed in the ditch a twisted mass of iron with the mutilated body of Fireman Ross underneath.

The express had slowly slowed down as it entered the Maberley yards. The proper signals were set, showing the track clear. The officials are unable to determine whether the switch had been left open carelessly or by design. In fact it is not absolutely certain that the switch was open. The locomotive took the siding exactly at the switch, however, and Engineer Rose says it must have been open. The tumbling cars tore the track up, as well as the switch, and obliterated any trace that might have explained the cause of the engine's sudden plunge. The velocity of the train and the weight of the many coaches carried the whole mass of train's length up the track after the wheels left the rails. The passengers were badly shaken up, but the sleepers escaped the shock.

Two hours were required in getting a special train from Smith's Falls to send the passengers through to their destination. Fireman Ross' body will arrive in Toronto this morning. His residence at present is Havelock.

Conductor Cameron Killed.

Hamilton, Sept. 19.—Early yesterday morning, in the Stuart street yards of the Grand Trunk Railway, John Cameron of Sarnia Tunnel, a freight conductor was killed. How he met his death no person knows, but it is supposed that he was struck by the express which leaves here at 12.-30. About 10 minutes after the express pulled out Cameron was found lying at the side of the track in a dying condition. One foot was severed from the leg and his face and head were badly crushed. He was also injured about the body. He died soon after being taken to the hospital.

The deceased was one of the oldest and best-liked freight conductors on the road. He was 55 years of age and leaves a widow and grown up family.

Killed in Ottawa.

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—Michael Lecroix, a married man with a large family, was oiling a governor in the Ottawa Electric Light Works yesterday morning when he came in contact with a live wire, and was hurled to the ground. His skull was fractured and he died two hours later.

Met a Terrible Death.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 19.—While making an inspection yesterday, William Jeffries, in charge of the gas ovens of a Charlotte blast furnace, met a terrible death. The ovens are large and are filled with gas, which is drawn off from coke and coal used in furnaces. A fire is kept burning under each of the ovens, and gas inside ovens is at all times intensely hot. Jeffries, who was on top of one oven, lost his balance, and fell in. The hot gas baked the flesh to the bone, and the skin was browned like a crust of bread. Death was instantaneous.

Suicide by Drowning.

Petrolea, Sept. 19.—Harry Richmond, a liveryman here, committed suicide by drowning early yesterday morning. Deceased had been despondent for some time, and money troubles contributed to his worry.

Big Ones on the Top.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—On the information of Inspector Lick of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, a summons has been issued charging G. A. Bernard of Niagara with exposing for sale twenty-five baskets of peaches in which those on the surface gave false representation of the contents. The peaches were found in the possession of a local grocer, who had bought them from a commission merchant acting for the accused.

Arrested in Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—J. D. Feller of Plattsburg was arrested yesterday, charged with stealing $1,000 in jewelry from Plattsburg parties.

Harry C. McKirnan, late of Kansas City, was arrested here yesterday, charged with forging the name of Theodore Brush of Kansas City. McKirnan is a son of the late Joe Beef of Montreal.

STOCK MARKETS.

Appertaining to Money.

New York, Sept. 17th, 1902.—We quote to-day broker A. Housman, as to the money situation. He has been remarkably correct in his market views the past two years, and consequently we deem his opinions expressed below of value. He goes on to say that money is like water—it finds its own level. The present high rates will soon bring plenty to New York. There is no sentiment in banking, and it is not as if there was any stagnation in money in the country as a whole. There is plenty of money in the middle west, and it will pour in from there and from Europe as fast as it can get there. A large amount was shipped from there on Friday, and by Wednesday will certainly make its effect felt here. We shall soon ship large quantities of grain and cotton to Europe and the money returned from exportation will soon pour in and ease the situation here. Cases like this soon find their own solution. The stringency now is greater than usual, due to the unparalleled prosperity of the country. Every wheel is turning and the crops to be moved are exceedingly heavy. There never was such a demand for money for actual business needs. When money is in demand for legitimate purposes it means that the country is prosperous, and when interest is down to one and two per cent., then something is wrong. Several other prominent bankers expressed practically the same opinions on Monday. It is in our opinion better to buy stocks when money is close and the markets consequently down a few points than to loan it to the other fellow to purchase with. He will make more out of it than you will if you accommodate him. Money is not scarce due to fear or distrust, but merely on account of the immense demand for it. It will speedily adjust itself. The current situation, brought about by the above state of affairs, create a splendid opportunity for you to come into the market and purchase stocks to advantage. Once the situation is cleared, you will be able to dispose of your purchase at a good profit. There is every reason in the world for anticipating a much higher range of values this fall for the early winter months.

Summary.—Money still easier to-day, as anticipated. Gold is on its way here from South London and Australia. The latter will be paid out in New York by telegraphic order, thus saving transit across the continent. We believe gold will be soon drawn from Europe in considerable quantities. Stocks were exceedingly strong. Manh. was aggressively bought, and crossed 137. S. Pac. sold above 79, Union 110 1-2, Norfolk within a fraction of 77. Despite close money, stocks are again not far from top prices. Atchison was in heavy demand, as was St. Paul, despite yesterdays apparent attempt to fool people into belief that heavy inside liquidation was in progress by the execution of 100,-000 shares, order given by a prominent house. We are exceedingly bullish on the present market. Money closed last loan at seven per cent. Sales, 451,300.

Some Good Market Propositions.

New York, September 13th. — Union Pacific looks awfully good at current prices. Buying on the recent decline on the recent money scare was plainly observable; while not aggressive, as far as bidding was concerned, it took the stock offered liberally. There is no question that purchases of UP on all moderate recessions, will return handsome profits very shortly. The next dividend on the stock is almost certain to be at an advance figure. Mop looks well also; the Gould party remain very bullish upon theis specialty and predict still much higher prices for the stock when the money situation clears. The advance in the shares has not been in the nature of a market turn, but upon coming important developments in railway affairs for the Mop territory and upon the large gains in earnings, also the net showing which will be made by the company in the coming year. Mann looks well also; the buying early part of the week has been of the best possible character, and the stock, part of the time, under very adverse conditions, has been aggressively strong and actually bid up by the demand. Mann will sell materially higher this fall. Some one continues to accumulate Atch and St. Paul —the buying was discernible all the early part of the week and recoveries were sharp, whenever extreme selling pressure was removed. These issues will also bear careful watching. An easy ten points will be possible to be made very shortly by espousing, the bull side by either of them. The Southern Pacific folks maintained a splendid market for their specialty during the money episode. Advantage was taken of the recession in the market price to purchase liberally. This demand was so urgent that it kept the market from falling within from 3 to 5 points as low as they could ordinarily have done under existing circumstances. SP is on its way to par and will beperfectly safe to have on hand at any price below that figure. C O and Norfold, also the coalers, were all well sustained through the stressful period. We think well of all of these and if bought with fair margin behind them, and an ordinary supply of patience, profits will be reaped. Copper and sugar have many friends also. The market price of these two is bound to improve. We think unusually well of the entire market.

A Record Breaker.

The following telegram received from the manager of the Trenton Opera House in reference to McKinney Bros' Minstrels, speaks for itself:

Manager Opera House, Peterborough: McKinney Bros. broke all records of my house. The best minstrels I ever had. (Signed) P. J. O'ROURKE.

The McKinney Bros' Minstrels appear in the Bradburn Opera House to-morrow, matinee and night. Plan at Ormond & Walsh's.

A Valuable Connection.

The Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada announces the appointment of Mr. Henry Sutherland, formerly managing director of the Temperance and General Life Assurance Company, as its agency director, a newly-created office, and one which affords scope for his well known ability as an organizer and business-getter. Mr. Sutherland's success in life insurance is well known to all in the business, from the Far East to the Far West, and the conspicuous success which he made of the Temperance and General Life speaks abundantly for the future with both a progressive and strong institution as the Imperial Life. The Imperial Life and Mr. Sutherland should both find the connection a highly satisfactory one.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ALL SAINTS'

Rev. J. H. Teney Preached the Special Sermon.

CHURCH NICELY DECORATED.

Services Conducted by the Rector, Assisted by Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt and Rev. C. W. Hedley.

The annual harvest festival of All Saints' church was held last evening, and was well attended, the church being quite filled. Rev. J. H. Teney, of Omemee, was the special preacher, and he delivered an excellent sermon from the text, Gen. viii, 22, "While the earth remaineth, seed time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease." It was a sermon, beautiful in diction, delivered with grace and ease. It pointed out the faithfulness of God to His promises, and to many others as well. The whole earth speaks of the goodness of God. The duty of thanksgiving, and the beauty of the character which goes out to the Creator in love were pictured in eloquent language and apt illustrations. The duty of giving was the second topic of the discourse, and was made clear and pointed, and could not but justly appeal to every heart not callous with earthly satisfaction.

The service was conducted by the Rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, the Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, and Rev. C. W. Hedley also taking part.

The special music was an enjoyable feature of the service, and the choir deserve every praise for their care and attention in every part. The rendition of the hymns, as well as the promptness and smoothness of the special services and anthem, and the shading and expression, showed the sympathy in a beautiful and heartfelt service. The organist, Miss Bullen, was a great help, in her careful and successful accompaniment, and rendering the prelude and postlude of the service very nicely.

The church is very tastily decorated and from the abundance of work and material, of flowers, fruit, vegetables and grain, as well as harvest implements, kindly loaned by the Peterborough Hardware Company, one can judge of the bounty of the Heavenly Father, and of the devotion of the congregation who thus expressed their love.

A YOUNG TRAMP

Fourteen Years of Age In Court This Morning—His Adventures.

Percy Milligan, who a few days ago was arrested on a charge of stealing a canoe from a young man named Eynon, came up for hearing in the Police Court this morning, and proved to be one of the most interesting persons that has been before Magistrate Dumble in some time. Percy is a tramp in the proper sense of the word. Although he is only 14 years of age, he admitted, when in the box, having stolen rides on the various railways of the country from as far west as Brandon and as far east as Portland. And in addition to this Milligan has been to the Old Country, having gone across with cattle.

His father is a Sergt.-Farrier in South Africa. Young Milligan induced another young lad from town to go with him on the last expedition which was down to Montreal. They started out by way of Otonabee River and Rice Lake in a canoe which they stole and which they abandoned on the shores of Rice Lake. They walked to Hastings and then managed to steal rides on various freight cars until they got to the Canadian metropolis. They kept a diary of their trip, extracts of which were read in court to the amusement of those present.

The Magistrate read the two boys a good sound lecture and allowed them to go on suspended sentence.

At the Police Court this morning a man was fined $2 and $7.40 costs for striking a boy with a whip.

SALVATION ARMY NOTES

In Connection With the Local Corps—The Musical Festival.

The musical festival of Tuesday last was a success, first, in point of excellence. The music was fine and showed ability on the part of those who gave it. The cornet solos by Staff-Captain Morris of Toronto, were simply delightful, to say the least, and all the other numbers on the programme were excellent. Then the attendance was good and showed a love for music which was gratifying. Rev. Mr. Potter of St. Andrew's, presided in a happy way, and made everybody feel quite at ease. It was an enjoyable evening.

Staff Captain Page is an English lady who now acts as private secretary to Miss Booth, Toronto. Her subjects at the local barracks next Sunday, we would judge, will be instructive and helpful. They are as follows; 11 a.m., "Valueless, under three aspects," and at 7 p.m., "Nettles."

The local corps has sent out two candidates for training recently, viz., Master Frederick Hodge, who entered the training garrison at Toronto, on September 15th, and Miss Rebecca Sherwood, who for the present assists at the Millbrook corps.

The barracks is to have a new coat of paint on the inside in the near future, which will much improve its appearance.

That unique service, a Hallelujah Wedding, is to take place on Tuesday, September 23rd, at 8 p.m., when a happy couple will be united 'neath the colours as man and wife. Staff-Captain Creighton, of Toronto, will tie the knot. After the service a wedding banquet will be served in the basement for the congregation. Joy and success to them, we say.

SUPPOSED YOUTHFUL BURGLARS

Break Into a Residence Near Havelock.

On Tuesday noon the residence of Mr. A. Deck, who lives about a mile north of Havelock, was broken into and the sum of $13 stolen.

From information obtained by Mr. Deck, John Ferguson, Thos. Sinclair, Chas. Lindsay and John Sinclair, all of the vicinity of Tweed, were apprehended on Wednesday afternoon by Constable Williams, but while on the way to Magistrate Mathieson's residence, Ferguson bolted and ran, making his escape into the woods north of the village.

The other three youths, who are not of a very prepossessing appearance, underwent a preliminary examination but no direct evidence could be obtained in the absence of T. Ferguson. John Sinclair was locked in the cells, Thos. Sinclair and Lindsay being let off.

St. John's Harvest Festival.

The annual Harvest Festival of St. John's will be held on Thursday of next week. The church will be decorated as usual, the service special and the sermon will be preached by Rev. Canon Welch, St. James' Cathederal, Toronto.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

BOWLING-ON-THE-GREEN.

Several score of bowlers assembled at the Green last evening to witness the match between the Bachelors and the Benedicts, and the lawn presented quite an animated appearance for several hours. The Bachelors were once more triumphant, for although Skip Stratton was fourteen shots up his confreres, Skips Kerr and Giroux, were seventeen down between them. The Green was in fine shape, and the evening proved to be a most enjoyable one. The scores were as follows;

Benedicts.	Bachelors.
C F Holmes,	Jas Maude,
K G Lech,	Alex Weddell,
E W Cox,	J McIntyre,
R Kerr, sk.....16	H Armstrong, sk.19
E Runnals,	C Seymour,
D H Moore,	H L Thornton,
F H Dixon,	W K Hall,
G Giroux, sk...8	R M Waddell, sk.16
W Talbot,	R H Bradburn,
G K Martin,	R Brown,
W Salisbury,	J McCreary,
A H Stratton, sk.....19	A Terrill, sk...5

Total—Benedicts, 87; Bachelors, 40.

As the season draws to a close, the bowlers appear to grow more and more enthusiastic and doubtless a number of additional six rink matches will be played within the next couple of weeks.

LADIES' GOLF.

The second draw in the Stratton Cup is as follows;

Miss A Hall vs Mrs R M Dennistoun.
Miss Halliday vs Mrs Sanderson.
Miss A Dennistoun vs Miss Burnham.
Miss McBain vs Mrs Campbell.
Miss G Dennistoun vs Miss Clementi.
Mrs Stanley vs Miss L Davidson.
Miss Kate Hall vs Miss Archer.
Miss D Hall—bye.

The draw for the first round of the Club championship is appended;

Miss D Hall vs Miss Clementi.
Mrs Sanderson vs Miss Halliday.
Miss Kingan vs G Dennistoun.
Mrs R M Dennistoun vs Miss K Hall.
Miss Archer vs Miss J Dennistoun.
Miss A Dennistoun vs Mrs Campbell.
Both draws must be finished Sept. 27.

THE TURF.

In racing, the gate receipts are what chiefly interest the management, but the gait receipts are what concern the turfmen. One gets a gate on to make money and for the same reason the other gets a gait on.

It seems that there are not any spots on the sun after all, at least as far as the management of the recent Turf Club races is concerned. The Gentlemen's Road Race, concerning which there was so much discussion in regard to the entry of race horses and the use of professional drivers, was in reality declared off, as the rules called for five to enter and four to start in all races. In place therefore of the Gentleman's Road Race the committee put an event on the card which might be styled a named race. If this explanation had been made to the public at the time of the race there would have been no occasion for the comment which naturally arose when the horses came upon the track. Now, however, that the public know the facts of the case, the action of the directors must be commended in arranging a race which proved to be one of the best, if not the best on the entire programme.

RUGBY.

At a meeting of St. Peter's T.A.S. rugby football club last evening it was decided to make application for the admission of the fifteen into the junior series of the O.R.F.U. The application will come up for consideration at Toronto this evening.

Kingston will not even enter a junior team in the O.R.F.U. this season. Next year there may be a revival in Kingston rugby circles. It is perhaps just as well that old scores were buried, and that silence should reign in the arena. A rest is always good. Then will come the Phoenix-like revival.

The first practice match of the season will take place at Nicholls Oval tomorrow afternoon at 4.30. The following will be the teams—

Town Team—back, Hogg; half back, Armstrong, H. Burnham, McPherson; quarter back, McClellan; scrimmage, A. Noble, F. Burnham, Thornton; wings, Dillon, Rickey, Watson, Bradburn, Robinson, Graham, Cameron, Walkey, Collins, Craig.

T.A.S.—back, J. Dorris; half backs, Crough, McNichol, Kearney, McGrath; quarter back, Derocher; scrimmage, Dainard, Dineen, Hurtubise, J. O'Brien; wings, J. McDonough, M. McDonough, Hickey, J. Anglesey, Grady, L. Doris, Lynch, Meaghar, Crowley, Hoolihan, D. O'Brien, B. Doris.

Any other players whose names are not down are asked to turn out. There will be practising on the grounds from four o'clock.

Dr. V. McWilliams has kindly consented to referee.

LACROSSE.

Good lacrosse comes high, but Brantford must have it. The management of the Brantford team is said to be some $600 or $700 in the hole, not because the gate receipts were not large whenever championship games were played, but because there was not a sufficient number of such games. There have also been several exceptional charges to be met. However, the management has given our people a splendid summer's sport with the C.L.A. championship well in sight, and anything that they may require of a financial charater to make a successful wind-up of the season will doubtless be cheerfully forthcoming.—Brantford Expositor.

The Ottawa Journal sizes up the Shamrocks as follows: — The Shamrocks have fought their way through the league schedule and now occupy first place, with no one to dispute their claims. They have yet to meet Cornwall, but this does not affect the championship. They have lost one match, and that was when their team was weakened by the absence of Hobbin and McKeown, and Robinson was partially crippled. True, they have had two close shaves with Cornwall, but in neither had the Shamrocks their full championship team on. In the Cornwall game in Montreal, when Cornwall left the field with the score 4 to 4, having all the best of the play, O'Reilly was played at inside home, and Jack Brennan was not on the team. In their match in Cornwall, called on account of darkness, neither Hobbin nor McKeown were on. So when the whole season is considered, it is pretty safe to say that there is no team in the league that can defeat the Shamrocks when the full team is playing. They haven't got all the best players in the league. But the team works better together and is better balanced than any team of 1902.

Copper Cliff, Sept. 18.—Before a crowd of nearly 1,000 people one of the most interesting games of lacrosse ever played in New Ontario came off here to-day. The match was the last game of the semi-finals, between Oshawa and Copper Cliff. The grounds which have recently been improved by the Canadian Copper Company, were in grand condition, and the game was fast and furious from the start. Mr. H. Gillespie, of Orangeville, refereed the game to the entire satisfaction of both sides. The ball was faced about 3 o'clock, and in three and a half minutes actual play, Whitehead scored for Copper Cliff on a clean pass from Barlow, and in another six minutes Barlow scored again for the Cliff. The Copperclliffers by this time were in high glee over the anticipated result of the game, the finish of the first quarter showing fine scientific combination on both sides, the Cliff if anything getting the best of it. Oshawa, by accident, scored the third goal, and at the end of the quarter the result was two to one in favour of the Cliff. In the second quarter both teams started off in good style. Bobby Pringle distinguished himself by his dodging and general headwork, and in eleven minutes Copper Cliff scored another to their list, and in a minute and a half more another. It now looked as if the whole team was out to win as they were playing lacrosse to a man and outplayed their opponents at every stage of the game. In ten minutes more Oshawa scored the last game of the day, and from then on simply played a defence game. The score at the finish of the second quarter was four to two in favour of the Cliff. Oshawa bunched their entire team in front of their goal, leaving but one man outside of centre position. The home team endeavoured to penetrate the defence and rained shot after shot on the goal keeper, who saved the round for Oshawa. The game was comparatively clean, the referee being seldom called upon to exercise his authority. Copper Cliff played ten men to eleven for twelve minutes of the game. For the home team mention must be made of Dunn, at centre, Barlow and Whitehead on the home, and McKay, Hammond and Anderson, on the defence, in fact every man on the team acquitted himself nobly. After the game the people of this town think that on the merits of the two teams Copper Cliff should be in the finals and have not been over-rated. Oshawa won out in the semi-finals by a score of 8 to 6.

HOCKEY.

Port Hope is taking the lead over Peterborough in the matter of providing a new hockey rink for next winter's sport, having already let the contract. The work in Port Hope is to commence immediately. Mr. F. W. Galbraith secured the contract.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Toronto's defeat by Worcester yesterday puts Buffalo decidedly in the running, and the home team will have to win three of the four games with Providence to capture the pennant. Manager Barrow decided last night to play off the postponed game with Providence from the last series, and double-headers to-day and to-morrow will bring the season to a close.

The date for the final game between Oshawa and Fergus has not yet been fixed by the President. Copper Cliff has entered a protest against Oshawa.

THE COAL STRIKE.

President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor Predicts the End.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 18.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement issued yesterday, takes a hopeful view of the strike situation. He said:

"At this time it is impossible to say exactly when the strike will terminate, but after careful enquiry into the situation at the mines I am convinced that the struggle will end by agreement. The wage earners and the general public are generously contributing to the aid of the miners. It is essential that this aid be extended and continued.

"If the manhood of the miners is to be maintained they must at least have bread for their wives and little ones, as well as for themselves. The declared attitude of the president of the anthracite railroads has not, apparently, changed. Despite this fact, I am fully convinced that the strike will end through agreement, with improved conditions for the miners and the union maintained."

Miners Going Elsewhere.

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 18.—The exodus of anthracite mine workers from the Schuylkill region continues, because the strikers have given up hope of an early settlement. Yesterday forty certified miners left for Wise County, Virginia, where they will be employed in the soft coal mines. It is estimated that 2,000 mine workers have gone to Irwin, Madison, La Trobe and Greensburg bituminous coal fields and upward of seven thousand are said to have secured employment in the Pittsburg district.

Virginia Output Increasing.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 18.—Mines on New River are increasing their output daily and are working about half the regular force. Miners are being forced out of the company houses every day, and as the weather gets colder they must either move away or go back to work.

Welsh Coal at $4 a Ton.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—Mr. George Johnson, Dominion statistician, discussing the coal famine, suggested bringing coal from Wales, and said that a Montreal dealer had ordered 80,000 tons and that it can be laid down there at $4 a ton.

MANY FARMERS INTERESTED.

Henry Cohoe Must Pay For Advertisement in Farm Advertiser.

Toronto, Sept. 18.—A decision of interest to farmers, and involving, it is said, $150,000 was given yesterday by Judge Morgan. The judgment is for $80, and is against Henry A. Cohoe, c. Norwich, Oxford County, farmer. The claim upon which the suit was brought was assigned to W. B. Russel of Pembroke by J. J. Daly, who, from 1887 and until recently published here The Canadian Farm Advertiser.

It was for advertising Mr. Cohoe's farm for sale, and was in the form of an agreement, one of upwards of 2,000. By this agreement the farm was to be advertised by Daly three years, unless sooner sold. Whether sold or not, and if sold, whether through the agency of The Farm Advertiser or not, the contract provided that Daly was to receive 2½ per cent. of the sale price, on the price advertised. Daly afterwards obtained loans on these contracts. For the amount Mr. Russel advanced Daly assigned to him his claim against Cohoe. Cohoe set up the unsuccessful defence that he was only liable in the event of the sale of his farm, declaring that the agent who got him to sign the agreement said as much. Judge Morgan held that the agreement was binding.

WON'T CURE EVERYTHING.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a Specific Remedy for all Stomach Troubles.

It is not claimed for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets that they will cure anything but Stomach Troubles.

Of course where there is any indirect result of Stomach derangement it disappears when the Stomach is restored.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do cure all diseases of the Stomach and digestive organs.

They are made for this purpose only. Compounded carefully, and carefuly prepared, they may always be relied upon to instantly relieve and, if used perseveringly, to permanently cure, Dyspepsia Indigestion, Heartburn, Bloating, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache Biliousness, Sallow Complexion, Bad Breath, Furred Tongue, and any and all results of a tired or deranged Stomach.

They also cure Constipation, which is a result of bad digestion and poor liver action, for they set right the tardy organs and encourage and assist them to do their duty.

The large white tablets are composed of diastase and pepsin—the very best digestive agents known to modern and advanced medical science. These digest the food—all of it—without any assistance from the stomach itself, and in this way allow it to rest and get better.

The small, brown Tablets are for the Liver and Bowels and act as a gentle laxative when such is needed. They are without doubt the very best Liver medicine, and never fail to do the healing and restoring work for which they are compounded.

Together these two Tablets form what has been proven over and over again to be the very best treatment for all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

All in one box—price 50c.—at all dealers.

If your stomach is giving you trouble buy and use a box.

HOIST WITH OWN BOMB

Skaguay Branch of the Bank of Commerce Wrecked.

A RACE WITH DEATH FOR $20.000

Death Claimed the Would-Be Robber, But the Plucky Bank Officials Escaped —Man Was Blown Up by Dynamite Which He Carried as a Threat —A Desperate Man's Deed.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 18.—A special to The Times yesterday from Skaguay, Alaska, says about 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon an unknown man walked into the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a revolver in one hand and a dynamite bomb in the other, and demanded $20,000, threatening to blow all into eternity.

Cashier Pooley and Teller Wallace were the only two men in the Bank. Wallace ducked to get his gun, and ran quickly to the back of the room, calling for Pooley to do the same.

"No, you don't," yelled the man, and dropped the bomb.

The clerks had just gotten out of the window. The bank was wrecked. The robber's head was smashed and one arm torn off. People living above the bank were blown into the air.

Judge Price, formerly prosecuting attorney, who was entering the bank at the time, was hurt, but not seriously. The dynamiter died without regaining consciousness. The bank lost about a thousand dollars, chiefly in gold dust, which was lying on the counter.

Wallace a Toronto Man.

Toronto, Sept. 18.—There is little doubt that the teller who figured in the escapade was James Wallace of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Wallace, 1 Clara street. He was for years a member of the Queen's Own Bugle Band, but left that institution when he went to the United States. Three years ago he came to Toronto from East Orange, N.J., to attend the golden wedding of his father and mother, who are now residing at the above address. From Toronto he went to Atlin, where he entered the service of the Bank of Commerce. From Atlin he was transferred to Nelson, and thence to Skaguay.

Wallace has several brothers in Toronto. One is P. C. William Wallace attached to No. 1 Division; another is Jeremiah Wallace, head messenger of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, here.

WILL STRENGTHEN JAMAICA.

Great Britain Begins Construction of New Batteries at Kingston.

London, Sept. 18.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Kingston, Jamaica, says the construction of a new battery of six-inch guns has been begun at the eastern extremity of the harbor there. This forms part of the general scheme for strengthening the British naval station at Port Royal, in anticipation of the completion of the Panama Canal.

Another battery, the despatch says, will be constructed on the Palisadoes Sand Spit.

It is learned that the British authorities are exhibiting unusual activity in connection with their fortifications in the West Indies with the view of strengthening the strategical positions there against any eventualities consequent upon the construction of the Panama Canal.

These efforts are not confined to the improvements of the defences on British islands, but include a careful inspection and analysis of the fortifications of other powers which have territory in the Caribbean Sea.

Will Augment Garrison.

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 18.—In connection with the plans for strengthening the fortifications of Kingston, it is announced that the British War Department has decided to augment the garrison here by about 500 men.

U.S. MARINES LANDED.

Guarding Passenger Trains to and From Panama—Fight Near Mindi Station.

Colon, Columbia, Sept. 18.—American marines are now traveling as guards on the passenger trains to and from Panama. The U. S. cruiser Cincinnati landed 50 marines yesterday morning and also sent ashore a small rapid-fire gun, which was placed on a railroad truck protected by iron plates. A small detachment of insurgents was seen near Mindi station. The Government troops attacked the enemy immediately and drove them back. A colored woman, from Jamaica, who was in the vicinity of the skirmish, was killed.

President Castro Retreating.

Willemstad, Island of Curacoa, Sept. 18.—President Castro of Venezuela has retreated from Ocumare before the advance of revolutionists. The Venezuelan Government's situation is critical. From all points come reports of desertions of Government soldiers to the ranks of revolutionists, and the general impression in Venezuela is that the last important incident of the revolutionary war is approaching.

Record Homestead Entries.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—Homestead entries into Manitoba and the Territories for July and August of the present year enormously exceed the entries for the same months of 1901. In July last year the entries numbered 921, and in August 768. July this year the figures were 2,623, a net increase of 1,702, while for August they were 1,922, a net increase of 1,154. The total increase for the two months was 2,856.

Mr. Tarté's Program.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—The Minister of Public Works went to Montreal yesterday afternoon to attend the banquet of the Dental Association last night. He leaves Montreal this morning for Orillia. He will attend the Fair there, and also the banquet on Friday night to be given by the Orillia Liberal Association.

STILL HOPEFUL.

Farmer Joshua Jimson's Views on the New Inventions.

"I used to trimble," said Joshua Jimson, inserting a new straw between his teeth, "every time I heerd of another inventions. First there was the mowin' machine. Thinks I, 'Goodby to the poor boys that's been makin' a livin' workin' on the farms!' But, gol hang it, I can't see's it ever made any difference as fur's needin' help's concerned. Then we got the reapers and binders and these thrashin' machines hat do the hull blame thing at wunst. Well, when them things commenced to come along, I says:

"'This is the end of it fer the farm hand. He may just as well go away somewhere now and lay down and die. There ain't no use fer him no more.'

"But farm hands seems to be about as scarce as ever and mebby a little more so. So I've just made up my mind I ain't goin' to worry another darnashun bit about it. Let the inventors keep on inventin' all they please. I guess they'll be somethin' fer the rest of us to do, no matter how many patent rights they keep gittin' out. Why, look at them there automobiles. When they first got to racin' around, Judd Hawkins says to me:

"'Josh,' says he, 'I guess this is goin' to end it.'

"'Why so?' says I.

"'When they git to runnin' wagons without horses, they won't need no hay ner oats,' says he, and them's the things where the farmer makes most of his money, because they're the easiest to raise.'

"'Don't you worry,' says I. 'You just wait and see what happens.'

"Well, now look at it. Here they've got so many automobiles kitin' around you wouldn't hardly think the horses could keep from feelin' lonesome, specially in the cities, but blamed if oats ain't higher almost than I ever heerd of em afore. You can't make me believe that God A'mighty's goin' to let a few inventors down here upset his whole calkilation and leave a lot of stuff lay around useless to spoil. Them's my sentiments, and I ain't ever goin' to worry about it again."

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

Hamilton's Pills Cure Constipation.

Getting Acquainted.

"Mamma sent me over to ask if you could let her have a cupful of coffee till tomorrow morning," said the little girl.

"Certainly," replied the mother of the family that had just moved in. "You are our next door neighbors on the north, are you not?"

"Yes'm. Mamma said she didn't really want the coffee. She wanted me to notice what kind of dishes you had on your table."

Incredible Fish Story.

A friend of ours spent yesterday afternoon fishing for big fish in the bay, says The Belleville Ontario. Several hours were spent at a "sure thing" spot, where he had been guided by a man who is used to catching whoppers. He says when he put away his rod at night the hook contained the same bait that he put on when he started, and that it was quite in good condition. Who believes it?

Remarkable Recovery From Nervous Collapse.

A Methodist Minister Tells How He was Rescued From a Helpless Condition by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses unusual control over the nerves and rekindles nervous energy when all other means fail, is well illustrated in the case described below. Mr. Brown was forced to give up his ministerial work and was so far exhausted that for a time he was positively helpless. Doctors were consulted and many remedies were resorted to, but in vain. Every effort to build up the system seemed in vain, and it is little wonder that the sufferer was losing hope of recovery when he began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Rev. T. Brown, Methodist minister of Omemee, and late of Bethany, Ont., writes; "A year ago last November I was overtaken with nervous exhaustion. For six months I did no work, and during that time I had to be waited on, not being able to help myself. Nervous collapse was complete and though I was in physician's hands for months, I did not seem to improve. At any little exertion my strength would leave me, and I would tremble with nervousness.

"From the first I used a great many nerve remedies, but they seemed to have no effect in my case. I had almost lost hope of recovery when I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and began to use it. As my system became stronger I began to do a little work, and have gradually increased in nerve force and vigour, until now I am about in my normal condition again. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best medicine I ever used. Not only has it proven its wonderful restorative powers in my own case, but also in several others where I have recommended it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Remarkable Recovery From Nervous Collapse.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses unusual control over the nerves and rekindles nervous energy when all other means fail, is well illustrated in the case described below. Mr. Brown was forced to give up his ministerial work and was so far exhausted that for a time he was positively helpless. Doctors were consulted and many remedies were resorted to, but in vain. Every effort to build up the system seemed in vain, and it is little wonder that the sufferer was losing hope of recovery when he began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Rev. T. Brown, Methodist minister of Omemee, and late of Bethany, Ont., writes; "A year ago last November I was overtaken with nervous exhaustion. For six months I did no work, and during that time I had to be waited on, not being able to help myself. Nervous collapse was complete and though I was in physician's hands for months, I did not seem to improve. At any little exertion my strength would leave me, and I would tremble with nervousness.

"From the first I used a great many nerve remedies, but they seemed to have no effect in my case. I had almost lost hope of recovery when I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and began to use it. As my system became stronger I began to do a little work, and have gradually increased in nerve force and vigour, until now I am about in my normal condition again. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best medicine I ever used. Not only has it proven its wonderful restorative powers in my own case, but also in several others where I have recommended it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

AT HATFIELD HOUSE

ENGLAND'S LATEST GRAND OLD MAN IN RETIREMENT.

Lord Salisbury Will Spend the Rest of His Days in Studying Chemistry and Electricity—The Routine of His Days as They Are Now Passed—An Ideal Closing of Existence.

Lord Salisbury will spend the rest of his days at Hatfield House, the home of the great Cecil family. With the exception of a brief tour on the Continent next month, the ex-Premier of England will remain in practical seclusion from now on.

Hatfield House, the noblest country seat in England, is but half an hour's journey from London, in a northerly direction. The great wrought iron gateways of the Salisbury estate face the railway station. Hatfield House itself is but five minutes' walk from the railroad platform.

Lord Salisbury has long been desirous of leading a life of retirement. Eight years ago he became so absorbed in his private chemical experiments and the study of electricity at Hatfield House that he refused to go to London, except on the most urgent Parliamentary business.

Since the death of his wife, three years ago, Lord Salisbury has become more self-centred than ever. He has dropped from his visiting list many of his most intimate friends, and Hatfield House has become a solemn cloister.

Lord Salisbury's study on the second floor of the great, rambling house has been turned into a chemical laboratory. Here the ex-Prime Minister spends many hours each day, going over chemical reactions, and working with test-tube and retort. Glassware of every description litters up the room, and he is never more at peace with himself and the rest of the world than when working out a chemical problem.

The only real recreation now taken by Lord Salisbury is an early morning spin on his tricycle. He seldom leaves the grounds surrounding Hatfield House, however, and since Lady Salisbury's death, has never cycled through the streets of Hatfield town.

The only chance the friends of Salisbury will now have of seeing him will be at the occasional "garden parties" which will be given at Hatfield House. Here the retired statesman will appear for a few moments.

The immediate family of Lord Salisbury—that of Lord Cranborne, his eldest son—takes good care the retired statesman is not left too much alone or with strangers. For some years it has been noted that the mind of the great Minister has been failing, and recently he has made so many mistakes, from lapses of memory, that he has to be pretty carefully looked after.

The latest story going the rounds since the famous mistake he made of taking someone else for Lord Roberts, after a two hours' interview, relates to someone he noticed walking through his library while he was talking to his son. As the person referred to passed near Lord Salisbury the latter remarked to Lord Cranborne:

"Who is that person with the rather bright face?"

"Why, that's your secretary," was the astonished answer.

When the question of Lord Salisbury's retirement was first seriously mooted many speculations were indulged in as to the manner in which he would spend his time. Some suggested that, as he had been interested in literature as a young man, he would doubtless devote himself to writing and political speculation. Nothing could be farther from his purposes.

It will be remembered that when Lord Salisbury began his career he had to make his own living by the pen in London. The struggle was a very hard one. Being a younger son, his father had left all the immense possessions of the house of Cecil, together with the title, to the present Marquis' eldest brother. It was only through the death of this brother that the late Prime Minister came into his fortune.

Having had to make his living by writing, Lord Salisbury holds literature to be a most distasteful pursuit. His appointment of Alfred Austin to succeed Lord Tennyson as poet laureate was an expression of the contempt in which he held literature in general. Outside of chemistry and the study of physics, Lord Salisbury cares little for mental work. The burdens of state have weighed heavily upon him, and he assumed them only at the earnest solicitation of the late Queen Victoria.

No one can blame Lord Salisbury for wishing to retire from public life to such a place as Hatfield.

The history of this famous family seat is closely woven with that of England itself. In the Doomsday Book survey, dated 1086, Hatfield is mentioned as containing enough land for 40 hides, meaning from 3,000 to 5,000 acres, and "pennage for 2,000 hogs." So, even at this early date, the estate was a very considerable one.

The first mention of Hatfield is during the reign of King Edgar, when the manor was presented to the Abbey of Ely. The abbey was made a bishopric and Hatfield became the bishop's residence. The first Hatfield House was built by Morton, Bishop of Ely, in 1479.

King Henry VIII. coveted Hatfield House, which was really a palatial residence, and when Thomas Goodrich became Bishop of Ely, Henry, in characteristic fashion, insisted on the bishop exchanging Hatfield for some tracts of land in the North of England.

Thus did Hatfield become crown land. Here Princess Elizabeth was educated, studying under Roger Ascham. Elizabeth lived at Hatfield in close seclusion until the death of her sister, Mary.

Elizabeth was standing under the old oak tree to-day shown near Hatfield House when the announcement was made to her that she was Queen of England. The tree is much venerated in England and is called "Elizabeth's oak." At Hatfield House to-day one may see under a glass case the garden hat which Queen Elizabeth wore on this occasion.

Hatfield House came into the possession of the Cecils in this manner:

When James I. was en route from Scotland to London he stopped at the country estate of Sir Robert Cecil at Theobalds. He admired the estate so much that he offered to exchange Hatfield (crown land) for the Cecil estate at Theobalds. The bargain was made, and from that day to this the great Hatfield estate has been in the Cecil family.

Sir Robert Cecil, the first Lord Salisbury, the second son of the great Lord Burleigh, built the present Hatfield House. He was his own architect and spent $35,000 on the mansion. The house was completed in 1611, though since that time the place has been practically built over. The palace formerly occupied by the bishops and Queen Elizabeth is now used for stables.

When Queen Elizabeth was living at Hatfield she caused her family tree to be prepared. It is shown today at Hatfield on a long scroll of parchment, which has two handles for unrolling. In this strange pedigree Elizabeth traces her descent directly from Adam and Eve, Helen of Troy, mythical King Arthur and other weird characters.

In a room on the second floor of Hatfield House one may see the cradle in which Queen Elizabeth was rocked when a baby. The cradle has on it the initials "A. R.," which stand for "Anne, Regina." This Queen was Anne Boleyn, one of Henry VIII.'s unfortunate wives.

Thus surrounded by reminders of the glorious past, Lord Salisbury has chosen one of the most suitable places in the world in which to round out his splendid career. Lord Salisbury was born at Hatfield 74 years ago. He is passionately attached to the place, and has spent vast sums of money on improvements in recent years.

Lord Salisbury is devotedly attached to his little grandchildren, who reside at Hatfield House. Since the death of Lady Salisbury, three years ago, the society of his daughters and grandchildren has absorbed all of Salisbury's family affection. His sons, all of whom occupy important Government positions, have little time to spend at the country seat of the Cecil family, but Lord Salisbury's daughters look after the aged ex-Premier with tender solicitude.

Here is the manner in which the retired statesman spends a typical day: He arises early, shortly before 7 o'clock. After a light breakfast his secretary acquaints him with the important news of the day. About 8.30 he mounts his tricycle and takes a leisurely spin around Hatfield Park, part of the grounds of his estate. Returning to the house after an hour's ride, he receives important visitors or messengers from the King, Balfour, Chamberlain or others, though he is taking no active interest in affairs of state.

At noon he partakes of a light repast. The hours of the early afternoon are spent in chemical and physical research, especially electrical studies. After 4 o'clock Lord Salisbury may be seen walking about the grounds or sitting on one of the terraces of Hatfield House, in company with the children of Lord Cranborne, or his own daughters. Lord Salisbury retires quite early, seldom sitting up after 10 o'clock.

SIR G. WHITE'S POEM.

Printed in Letters of Gold in Gibraltar Chronicle and Gazette.

It is common knowledge that the army in its higher ranks as well as its lower contains poets of no mean quality.

There is, for instance, General Sir Ian Hamilton, whose verses are of remarkable fervor. It is perhaps not so well known that Sir George White, the defender of Ladysmith, does not disdain the poet's bays. The coronation number of the Gibraltar Chronicle and Official Gazette, which is printed in letters of gold, on its first page gives the place of honor to a poem entitled Edward VII. and signed Gordon.

It is doing Sir George White no injustice to repeat what is generally known, namely, that he is an author. There are nine verses. We quote two or three. This is the first of the nine:

Unfold his standard! Let it greet the day;
Hymn loud an anthem to the regal sway
Of Edward's crown, the symbol of a reign
That hails the dawn of peace, the end of pain.

Hail him, hoarse guardians of our storied Rock,
Spain* makes her guns to echo back the shock;
No terrors theirs to mar the happy call,
Their warlike chords in perfect cadence fall.

A moment stay the guns, the people's cheer;
A sweeter voice steals softly on the ear,
Herald of Him who bade the war to cease
Whispers, "My crowning gift is perfect peace."

*The Spanish battery at Algeciras fired salutes.

Surely the notice of intense relief at the dawn of peace is very personal and very pathetic. But the whole poem is a delightful tribute of national relief and thanksgiving at the King's recovery:

But as the tried gold emerges purer still,
So, too, our King, by God's controlling will,
Deeper in England's heart through weeks of pain,
Stands crowned to-day, and all our own again.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Adress F. J. Many letters come to the monastery announcing the death of relatives of the monks; these are seen by the abbot only, and at chapter he may simply announce: "The mother of one of our number is dead; let us pray for her soul."

Never to his dying day does the bereaved Trappist learn that he was praying for his own mother.

Scores of Uses

While Dr. Chase's Ointment is best known on account of its wonderful control over eczema, salt rheum and piles, it is found to be in almost daily demand in many homes as a cure for chilblains, chafings, pimples, sunburns, burns, scalds, and each and every form of itching, irritated or inflamed skin. It is invaluable in every home and as a soothing and healing application knows no equal.

DISINFECTING SICK ROOMS.

To the Editor of the Examiner;

Sir,—The writer when in Toronto the other day, enquired into the most approved method of disinfecting sick-rooms where infectious diseases had been attended. The method used in the city is, —1st,—wash all the woodwork with soft soap and hot water. 2nd,—as soon as the room is dry sprikle it all over with a solution of formalin. This solution is made by adding two ounces of commercial formalin to one gallon of water. 3rd,—then burn a sulphur candle in the room 12 hours, with door and windows closed. This completes the work. The carpets and bedding are exposed to a heat of probably 400 F. This temperature is supposed to destroy germ life. A staff of officials is paid by the city to do the work. This we venture to say is a mistake. It takes away from the citizen every motive for self exertion, and reduces him to the helpless position of a pauper in sanitary matters. It would be much better for the family to attend, at least, to the disinfection of their own house, under the direction of the medical attendant. By adopting this method the people would soon acquire a fair knowledge of sanitary matters and a feeling of self reliance instead of looking to the state for help. A short time ago a machine called a fumigator was invented, over the borders. It has been used for the purpose of disinfecting houses which had been visited by infectious diseases, especially small pox. This fumigator reduces liquids to the form of gas. The machine is fearfully and wonderfully formed, it has a gaudy, brilliant appearance with an air of mystery about its internal economy, and above all it is a decided novelty in these parts. With all these fine qualities the fumigator was in great demand for a time, but now some scientific investigators have expressed doubts about it's utility. They say that the intense heat which is necessary to convert a liquid into gas, destroys it's power as a germ killer. If this opinion is correct, then the fumigator is only an elegant fraud. We have one in this town and if it is a failure, what shall be done with it? It would be no use at all as a coal oil can, or a musical instrument. Perhaps it should be sent to some museum, as another instance of the innocent credulity of the human race.

FARMERS MUST PAY.

Important Judgement in an Advertising Test Case.

Judge Morgan has given out a decision in a test case which renders some 1,800 farmers liable for a sum in the neighbourhood of $150,000. The case was a suit brought by W. B. Russell, a civil engineer of Pembroke, against Henry A. Cohoe, a farmer of Norwich, Oxford County. The claim upon which Russell brought suit was assigned to him by J. J. Daly in 1897. Mr. Daly published in Toronto The Canadian Farm Advertiser, and advertised a number of farms for sale. The advertisements were to cost 2 1-2 per cent. of the sale price, or, if not sold, of the advertised price. The contract called for three years' advertising unless a sale resulted before that time. Payment was to be due whether the farm was sold or not, and whether such sale resulted from the advertisement or not. Daly subsequently obtained loans on these contracts, and assigned the Cohoe claim to Mr. Russell in return for a loan. The defence claimed that the payment was only due in case of sale.

Judge Morgan decided that there was no evidence of fraud, and that the claim was proven, and he gave judgment for the plaintiff for the sum of $89, with interest and the costs of the suit, such sum, interest and costs, to be declared a charge on the defendant's lands, in the agreement mentioned, with the right to plaintiff for a sale of the said lands in default of payment. Other farmers who are thus made liable are in almost every county west of Toronto.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.

Remarkably Encouraging Annual Report.

In the July-August issue of the National Waifs' Magazine, the organ of Dr. Barnardo's Homes, the annual report occupies the lion's share of the space. That report was presented at the 36th annual meeting of the Homes, held at Stepney on 12th July last, and presided over by Lord Brassey. The statistics exhibited in that report are remarkably encouraging as showing to what an extent this "national and beneficient work" (as the King described it) has now developed, and how great is the vigour and vitality of the whole institutions. Six thousand boys and girls, gathered in, irrespective of age, sex, creed, birthplace, or physical health, are, we learn, now dependent on the Homes. In the bygone year no fewer than 7,887 orphan, destitute or waif children were maintained, and 8,980 separate applications were dealt with, of whom 2,892, being absolutely destitute, were forthwith admitted—there being no process of voting or election, or any money payment or promise required. Up to date the Institutions have emigrated 13,340 young people, most of them to Canada, where not two in a hundred have failed. This is surely an agency which, more than others throughout this country, is ready to lend a helping hand to children who are handicapped in the battle of life either by destitution or by disease or physical defects. We regret to observe that Dr. Barnardo has had for a time to lay aside the cares of management, and undergo medical treatment on the Continent. A copy of the Magazine will be sent gratis and post free to any address on application to the Head Offices of the Institutions, 18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

A MODEL FAIR AT WHITBY.

A Number Will Attend From Peterborough to Witness the Application of the new Theory.

For a great many years township, county, and district fall fairs have been held in Ontario, and they have seldom been as useful and interesting as could have been wished. It was always felt that something more than a silent display of products was needed to attract attendance, and so, not knowing what else to do, the directors usually introduced a little horse racing, some circus features, and other diversions that detracted from the real purpose of the exhibition.

There is to be a model Fair at Whitby on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week, under the direction of Mr. G. C. Creelman, Provincial Superintendent of Fairs, and conducted on new lines as agreed upon in convention last winter by a number of those throughout Ontario who have long been interested in such matters. Plots have been set out with crops, and C. A. Zavitz, of the Agricultural College will use these to illustrate talks on seeds and seeding. Prof. Day will publicly explain the reason why each animal gets its prize in the live stock competition. There will also be demonstrations on how to prepare chickens for market, and how to grade and pack apples. The purpose will be to make the Fair instructive as well as interesting, along the line of the work done in the Dairy Building at the Toronto Fair. This is the new spirit, which may be described as showing processes rather than products. People interested in other district fairs will be on hand to see how the Whitby Fair turns out, and no doubt quite a few people from Peterborough will run up to witness the application of a new theory to the holding of a country fair.

EVANGELISTIC WORK IN ALGOMA.

Successful Services Conducted by a Peterborough Evangelist.

Thessalon and the surrounding community has been the scene of a great revival during the past twelve weeks. Evangelist H. D. Kennedy, Peterborough, has been labouring among the Methodist churches with wonderful success. Livingstone's Creek, on the Thessalon circuit; Bruce Mines, Day Mills and Iron Bridge have been the scenes of his efforts. The pastor of the Day Mills Mission states that one hundred and twenty persons have been converted at Day Mills and Iron Bridge. There have been over two hundred and sixty conversions altogether. Mr. Kennedy's sermons are strong expositions of Gospel truths, and awaken conviction and zeal in the hearts of his hearers. His style is earnest and fearless, and at the same time sympathetic and pleasing. His delineations of the great historic characters of the Bible are especially interesting and effective. His sermons are very instructive and helpful both to Christians and unconverted people. Mr. Kennedy is now engaged in evangelistic work in the Methodist church at Thessalon.

HOW A MAN DROWNS.

The Reason He Sometimes Comes Three Times to the Surface.

Few popular fallacies are of such wide extent as the belief that a person must rise to the surface three times, no more or no less, before he can possibly drown.

There is little ground for this supposition, although it has been almost universally believed in for generations. The truth is that a drowning person may sink the first time never to rise again, or he may, as he indeed does in the majority of cases, rise three times before he sinks forever.

It all depends upon the quantity of water that he swallows when he sinks and the size of his lungs. The human body in life naturally floats while the lungs are inflated. As long as one keeps his head above the surface of the water he can float, face up, without having to move hand or foot.

But as soon as a person sinks he gulps and imbibes a quantity of water. If after he has swallowed water he has any air in his lungs, he will undoubtedly rise again and will continue to sink and rise alternately until all the air is expelled from his lungs when he will drown.

In most cases the frightened victim of an accident swallows enough water when he first sinks to leave him in a very exhausted condition; but, as there is still air left in his lungs, he soon finds himself on the surface again. Each time he sinks, however, the supply of air in his lungs grows less until ultimately there is no longer sufficient to support him.

KEENE ANTIQUES.

A Dozen Nonogenarians and Octogenarians.

Mr. William McFarlane, of Keene, has taken a census of the "oldest inhabitants" of the village of Keene, and surrounding districts, and finds that there are still living in Keene and vicinity, within a radius of four miles, representing a population of about 500, no fewer than thirteen gentlemen over ninety and eighty years of age respectively. The following is a list of the names, with their respective ages;

Wm. Moncrief	97
Thos. Hope	92
Robert Hope	91
Alex. Wood	91
James Rennie	87
Thomas Taylor	87
Wm. Howson	87
William Foley	86
John Kindred	86
George Reid	83
William Comrie	82
John Byrnes	82
George Connel	80

Of the nonogenarians it will be observed that the aggregate of the ages of the four is 371. This list, which includes a dozen men still healthy and active, and with lively mental faculties, emphasizes the healthfulness of the air of Keene and vicinity, as well as the qualities of the Canadian climate that tend to longevity.

This fact might be further emphasized by a similar list of ladies, but Mr. McIntyre has lived a good many years in the world, and become wary. As many of the ladies might be widows, with matrimonial chances, and spinsters, similarly situated, to the risk of listing their names and ages, and not his gallantry, is to be attributed the fact of his confining his list entirely, to the gentlemen.

BLANCHE ROYAL AGAIN.

She was Removed Again to the Hospital—A Sad Case.

Blanche Royal, who several weeks ago was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital as a result of attempted suicide and who was subsequently discharged, was arrested at the Grand Trunk station last night, when apparently in a state of unconsciousness. It was thought at the time that the girl was suffering from the effects of drugs it being supposed that she had again tried to end her life. She was removed to the Police Station and lay in a cell all night in a corpse-like state. This morning upon the advice of two local physicians she was removed to Nicholls Hospital. The physicians now state that while the girl may have on previous occasions attempted to commit suicide, there is no reason to believe that her present peculiar ailment is due to anything of that kind. The girl appears to have gone into a swoon and knows nothing.

Her condition is indeed a sad one and demands the attention of the charitable institutions of the town. Six months or so ago she was cared for for a while by the Y.W.C.A., but since she left the care of that institution she has wandered about the country. The girl is about 18 years of age and comes originally from Lindsay. As she lay in on the hard floor of the cell at the Police Station all night she could not but arouse the sympathy of all who saw her. She held forth in the G.T.R. station yesterday from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock, when she was taken in hand by the police.

It may be felt that it was singular that a poor, ill and suffering girl should have, in a Christian town, no better shelter than a cold police cell, with an old horse blanket for a bed. But it should be known that every attempt has been made to look after the girl, Blanche Royal. She has evidently a suicidal mania, and has several times attempted it, but the last occasion was not of the same kind. Dr. Bingham, Dr. Young and Dr. McClelland, who examined her, the latter still attending her, say that she was not poisoned, but was in a state of swoon. She was kept at the police station because there was no provision for having her admitted to the hospital without an order. Some means should be found to obviate the disadvantages of so much red tape in the case of persons ill or injured coming under the care of the police. In case of emergency, a patient might be admitted on the authority of the town and an order be made subsequently. The girl has not, however, been neglected. After her first suicidal attempt a few weeks ago, she was arrested and remanded to jail, so that her excitement might subside, and a coherent story be got out of her. A local clergyman interested himself in her welfare, procured clothing for her, and also a place at domestic service. On this condition she was released from jail and placed in charge of a responsible person till she was made ready to go to her place. She, however, refused to go, and escaping from her temporary home, was found at the station, and thus neutralized all attempts to better her condition, which is of so peculiar a character, mentally, as to demand her being placed in some secure shelter, where the opportunities for yielding to her suicidal mania can be prevented.

ANOTHER FACTORY.

A Large Concern That Wants Certain Inducements.

The Town Council met in Committee of the Whole last night, His Worship Mayor T. H. G. Denne presiding. The meeting was called to discuss the following proposition from the Skeleton Manufacturing Company regarding their location here. The Company made the following proposition:

Proposition to establish the Skelton Manufacturing Company, in the Town of Peterborough, for the manufacture of brass goods, shovels, spades, picks, scythes, and all other classes of gardeners' and miners' tools.

The Town of Peterborough to provide—

1. A free site of two acres of land, where a railway siding can be had.
2. Exemption from taxes for 10 years.
3. Free water.
4. 125 electrical h. p., at $10 per h.p., per year, for five years.
5. A building 240 feet x 45 feet, as a main shop, or contribute $6,000 towards the building of the same; the company erecting all their other buildings at their own expense.

The town to hold a lien on the site and buildings for five years as a guarantee from the company. At the end of five years if the company have continuously carried on business for the above term, and fulfilled their agreement, then the town shall transfer the property and buildings to the company free of all cost to them. The company to have the right during the five year term to erect such other buildings outside the main shop as the demands of the business may require. The buildings required to start with are—

Main shop, 240 feet long by 45 feet wide.

Rolling mills, 100 feet long by 32 feet wide.

Handle shop, 60 feet long by 45 feet wide.

Varnish building, 24 feet long by 24 feet wide.

In case of the failure of the company to carry out part of this agreement, the company agree to forfeit any right or interest in the site granted or buildings erected on same which would then revert to the town.

(Signed) FRED SKELTON,
For the Skelton Manufacturing Company.

The council have promised to give the matter due consideration.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT.

What the Y. M. C. A. is Doing to Build up Sound Bodies for its Members.

The indications are already apparent that one of the most popular resorts for physical recuperation, and the building up of a sound body, will soon be the scene of great activity. This is the physical department of the local Young Men's Christian Association. It is pleasing to note that the attendance in that department last year was the largest since its inception in 1897, over 100 young men taking advantage of the senior classes, which this year will be held on Tuesday and Friday evenings, from October till May.

One cannot estimate here the value of this work done in a recreative way. The exercises which are given are such that the weakest person will find them to suit his case, while the work is graded for the more advanced. Perhaps, the secret of the success achieved in this department is the fact that those in charge give personal attention to each seeker of health. It is said that hills look green far away, and this is tooo true in the case of many to-day, who are seeking education along various lines. Many are spending an exorbitant fee for instruction by mail, with no less than a hundred promises of what shall be accomplished, when actual results prove disappointing. There is no better equipment for the establishing of systematic exercise among young men than can be found at our local institution.

What will daily systematic exercise accomplish? At the present time it is accomplishing much. Men are able to do a whole day's work with greater ease, because the previous morning or evening they have exercised a group of muscles that are not used while working during the day. It will aid digestion, cause sound and refreshing sleep and build a rugged and healthy constitution. What has been accomplished for scores of members it will do for you. The secret of it all seems to be—"Stick to it!"

Any member of the association who cannot attend a regular scheduled class should consult the physical director regarding exercise at home, which will be gladly and cheerfully given.

DEFECTIVE SEWER WORK.

A Ratepayer Complains That Work for the Town is not Well Enough Watched.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Its all very interesting and commendable for our civic representatives and functionaries to attend Municipal Unions and grow eloquent over platitudes, but the situation changes when at the same time they neglect or ignore the duty that directly faces them. I am not narrow enough to deny them the right to attend such gatherings and learn all that can be learned, but it strikes me that there are corners in the civic household to be cleaned up before our neighbours are helped with their house cleaning. Why is it that one home will be clean, tidy and well-ordered, while another on a similar income will be dirty, untidy and in bad order. In the first case the housewife attends to details, keeps ahead of her work and prefers providing a comfortable home for her husband and children to all the pleasure of gossip or gadding. So if our civic servants would look after our business in detail more carefully and attend to work as it arises we should have better results. We see a street road well constructed and then care of it ends, as some parents seem to think there duty to society and the state done if they bring children into the world, which are often left to grow up as they list, or as circumstances decide. In case of a street when traffic develops holes, the hole is religiously left alone till the road is destroyed and it has to be rebuilt at large expense, whereas a few barrowfuls of street metal, judiciously placed, would keep the street in good condition for years, and the people would have the satisfactory use of what they pay for. In civic, as well as household and commercial matters, it is the little leaks that count. It is in the neglect of many small things that the cause of our increasing taxes lies.

The town has now under way two or three contracts for sewers, and it is to hoped that care will be taken to avoid the neglect of details which has proven, and promises to be, so expensive in respect of other sewer contracts. I am told on good authority that the sewer connections put in up to the street line on the line of some sewers have been shamefully scamped. Cases are known where the connection fell short of the line to which it should have gone by three or four feet, and the pipes have been tilted up from the sewer at a depth of six or seven feet, to three and a half feet, to the profit of the contractor, and the loss of the town. This has been shown to be the fact when connections have come to be made to the house. The householders after having paid for the sewer and connection has had to go to the expense of ripping up the sewer and putting it in properly, as should have been done, and as the town should have seen was done, in the first place. It is probable that all the sewer connections put in, except, perhaps, those whose connection was made with the house at the time, were of the same slip-shod character, and will have to be done over, and at the expense of the town, for the ratepayer has, to my mind, a valid claim. And if, when connection comes to be made, the connections are found to be badly done, it is fair to conclude that the sewers have also been slighted. If this is so, then, instead of having a first-class sewerage system, as we have paid for, we shall have a defective one, one that will call for frequent and costly repairs or become clogged or work badly, so that unsanitary conditions will be created and ratepayers will be put to the expense of increased doctors' bills, and increased expense for repairs. It should be the duty of the town authorities to see that the conditions of every contract is efficiently carried out, and that inspection is efficiently and honestly done. It has been no small expense to pay $3 or $4 a day for inspection, and then on making connections find out that the work has been badly done. Every public-spirited ratepayer pays his taxes willingly if he can feel sure that the money will be expended to good advantage, but when it is worse than wasted by neglect of details and absence of ordinary vigilance, then he has a right to complain. No private individual or corporation would, for a minute, stand the sort of work that is foisted upon towns all over Ontario every day in the week.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Peterborough Sept. 20, 1902.

"OFF-SIDE PLAY."

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I am told that in hockey it is against the rule to play "ringers." It seems, however, all right to play "ringers" when we undertake to build a hockey rink. The company went to Toronto for a "ringer" to draw up the plans of the building. How would it do to go to Toronto for the masons and carpenters to put up the building? How would it do to go to Toronto for the crowd that is expected to contribute the gate money at the matches? Your paper has written lots about standing by the town, and patronising town merchants, why not "stand by the town," in getting plans for a building which requires no specially expert skill to plan. The promoters of the hockey rink enterprise are playing "off-side," and should be sent to the fence.

Yours truly,
MECHANIC.

INTEMPERATE TALK.

Under the heading, "Labour Tyranny," the Chronicle, an excellent journal of insurance and finance, has the following, which is reprinted not because the sentiments, spirit or statements of it are endorsed, but to show those interested in the cause of labour what is being said by those who are evidently more in sympathy with capital and the interests it represents than with the interests of labour. The Chronicle in its last issue says:

"A bank manager narrates the folowing incident from his own observation: A young man in the employ of a manufacturing firm, being ambitious of enlarging his knowledge of mechanics applied himself to their study under the guidance and instruction of a professor engaged in the science department of a Canadian college. The manufacturer, his employer, gave him facilities for study, believing that his superior technical knowledge would become very valuable in the business. After a time, the young man was given charge of a class of work which gave an opportunity for the exercise of a higher degree of skill than what is possessed by the ordinary worker in that department of labour. The result of his application to this class of work gave every promise of the business being enlarged, as it would have raised the reputation of the establishment. But, instead of this expert worker being encouraged and supported by his fellow-workmen, he was persecuted with the evident intention to drive him away. Finding these tactics of no avail the men struck work, and refused to continue their employment unless the young man would join their union, pledge himself to abandon his improved methods, and agree to work only as the union dictated! Such a form of tyranny is a distinct menace to the well-being and progress of a country. It has been made known that the miners' strike is not a struggle at all for more wages, or easier conditions, or for anything that would justify the united action of labourers, but, it was organized for and is being maintained wholly for political purposes, for destroying the individuality of the men, as in the case of the operative above referred to, and bringing them as a class under the absolute away of a political leader."

The Chronicle, it is plain, quotes an extreme case and no doubt an exceptional case. A single instance like that cited, does not prove that organisation of labour has such grave wide-spread influence as oppressive combinations of capital which work injustice to millions of labourers, and prejudicially affect other and more millions of the community at large, who are purchasers of labour products with artifically enhanced values. The Chronicle takes an extreme view from an isolated case like that of the operative given, when it asserts that "such a form of tyranny is a distinct menace to the well-being and progress of a country." In the United States where a business is made of politics there may be something in what the Chronicle says respecting the great coal strikes being due to political leaders, but in regard to organized labour in Canada, politics, except in regard to necessary legislative action, seem to be an unknown quality.

EDITORIAL NOTES

According to the last issue of the official "Gazette," there are deposited in the post office savings bank, $42,320,209, and in Government savings banks, $15,668,669, an aggregate of popular savings of $57,688,578.

The Globe invites those Conservative journals, which are rejoicing over the little divergence on the tariff between Mr. Tarte and Mr. Sifton, to the divergent attitude of Hugh John Macdonald and the leaders of the Conservative party on the tariff in the elections of 1896. They are reminded that while the other leaders of the party were preaching protection to the hilt, Hugh John, who was running for a western constituency, declared in favour of the complete removal of the duty from agricultural implements. This was done, if not with the approval of the party leaders, at least with no publicly expressed reproof. That may represent party harmony among Conservatives, accustomed to such lively family "scrapping." It certainly does not add to the consistency of Conservative papers in making so much of a difference of opinion between members of the Cabinet.

WEARY OF PROHIBITION.

(Kingston Whig.)

In the referendum campaign, which is now on, and which will culminate with the vote on December 4, reference will hardly be made to Vermont as a prohibition state. It was such and for about fifty years, and so poorly have the people been satisfied with a no-liquor law, as they have it, that they practically repudiated it in the recent state election. True it was an indirect issue. The Republican party, in general convention, decided to refer the matter to the people, and its nominee stood pledged to see that done. Some Republicans, however, favoured a high license system, and they put a candidate in the field to champion their policy. The Democrats supported local option. The Prohibitionists had a candidate of their own. The vote stood as follows; For the regular Republican, 31,000; for the independent Republican, 28,000; for the Democrat, 7,000; for the Prohibitionist, 2,500. So that the result of the impending referendum is a foregone conclusion. The law now in force will certainly be repealed, and a high license law will probably take its place. The action of Vermont at this time is very significant. It will surely have a detrimental effect on the referendum campaign in Ontario.

THE METHODIST RULE.

Toronto Star.

The action of the Methodist General Conference in declining to make any change in the rule prohibiting dancing, theatre-going, and card-playing is, we think, to be regretted, upon the broadest religious grounds. These restrictions are admitted to be non-essentials. They are urged on the ground that the practices mentioned are inimical to the highest Christian life. The ground would equally warrant the prohibition of many other practices. But it may be questioned whether the most effective and wisest way of persuading men to refrain from the objectionable practices is by putting a prohibition in the discipline—especially a prohibition which few ministers in the centres of population make any pretence of enforcing. An advisory note would probably be quite as effective, and certainly would be more in harmony with the spirit of Christian freedom of conscience.

The argument which probably had most influence in keeping the note is a feeling that to remove or modify it would be looked upon outside the church as a backdown, a backsliding. The question arises, of course, whether, when a mistake has been committed, it is not better to frankly own it and turn into the right way. But, however that may be, it is clear that at present the great body of Methodist people, those who are active in church work and in electing the delegates to the Conferences, are thoroughly convinced that the note must be retained. Nor is this feeling any less strong among the young people in the Epworth Leagues and Christian Endeavour Societies than among the older and more staid element in the church. Many leagues sent in memorials asking that the note be retained, and the committee to which the question was referred was probably strongly influenced by those memorials. It was noticeable also that in the election of delegates to the General Conference by the Annual Conferences a number of the men who had advocated the change most actively at the last General Conference were left at home—and this in spite of—or perhaps because of—a spirited newspaper campaign by the advocates of the change during the intervening quadrennium.

Queen of the Belgians Dead.

Spa, Belgium, Sept. 20: — Marie Henriette, Queen of the Belgians, died here suddenly last night at ten minutes before 8 o'clock. She was seated at a table eating a light dinner, when she was seized with an attack of syncope. Dr. Guillaume was summoned immediately, but her Majesty was dead before he arrived. The late Queen was noted for her piety and charity.

WHEN YOUR COSTLY WATCH

is out of order you have it regulated, you don't at once throw it aside. Why, then, when your bowels are out of order, do you treat them as useless?

That is precisely what it means to take violent cathartics. They do not regulate the bowels, but take their work away from them, debilitate them, and make you more constipated than ever.

You had far better throw away your good watch than treat your bowels roughly. You can get another watch, but you cannot renew your intestines.

The only cure for Constipation is a gentle laxative with tonic action.

CANADIAN SHIPPING SCHEME.

Plan to Have 60 Freighters Run to Quebec and Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 20.—H. A. Allan of the Allan Line made the following statement yesterday in landing from the Tunisian:

"We have," said Mr. Allan, "been discussing the fast line matter on the other side, and have entered into negotiations with several companies, with a view to forming a shipping combination strong enough to supply all the wants of the Canadian trade and railways. We have also discussed the matter in all its bearings with the Ministers who were over, and have extensively gone into figures with them."

"What is your general plan?" asked the reporter.

"Well," was the reply, "we propose having a fleet of about 40 to 60 freight steamers to run to Quebec and Montreal in summer and to St. John and Portland in winter, in addition to a sufficient number of fast freight and passenger steamers running about 20 knots."

"Do you, then, consider the much-talked-of 22 to 25-knot service impossible, or at least inadvisable?" he was asked.

"Personally, I certainly do. It seems to me that a 20-knot service is the best all round one. In fact, in England there is a strong feeling amongst commercial men that an allround 18-knot service would be the most serviceable one."

Asked if he had seen the statement credited to some of the C.P.R. officials, to the effect that that road wanted no assistance and was prepared to operate an independent fast Atlantic service of its own, Mr. Allan said: "No. I have not seen it, but I consider that such an action would be very unfortunate for Canada at large, as well as for the other Canadian roads and steamship companies in particular."

And No One Knows.

London, Sept. 20.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Canadian Minister of Finance, said in an interview yesterday that Canada was not seeking to promote the shipping combine. Negotiations for the improvement of the service between Canada and England, in which the Imperial Government is interested, "are not yet ended," said Mr. Fielding. "And no one knows what their outcome may be."

The Farmer's Success Depends Upon His Freedom From Disease and Suffering.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Is the Medicine That has Made Thousands of Country Toilers Well and Strong.

There are thousands of farmers in our land who are rich in broad acres and gold, yet lack that true wealth known as good health.

It is a melancholy fact that men and women in the country districts, breathing the purest of air and drinking from God's bubbling fountains and limpid springs, are liable to the same diseases and ailments that come thick and fast to city people. We find rheumatism, neuralgia, debility, dyspepsia, kidney and liver troubles and blood diseases almost as common in the farmer's family as they are in city homes.

Paine's Celery Compound, Heaven's best blessing to the farming community has done more for the banishment of dread disease and the building up of health than all other combined medicines. Mr. G. J. Smye, a well known farmer of Sheffield, Ont., says:

"It is with great pleasure that I testify to the value of your great medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. For nearly two years I suffered from indigestion, kidney and liver troubles. After trying several medicines that did not effect a cure, I decided to try your Compound. Before using it I was so low in health that I could not eat or sleep. I could not lie in bed owing to pain in my back; it was only by resting on elbows and knees I was enabled to obtain a slight degree of ease. Before I had fully taken one bottle of your medicine I began to improve. I have taken in all fourteen bottles with grand results. I am a farmer and am now working every day. Anyone may refer to me in regard to these statements, or to any of my neighbours around Sheffield, where I am well known. I am a living witness to the worth of Paine's Celery Compound."

IN AN AIRSHIP.

Aeronaut Stanley Spencer Traveled Over London Nearly 30 Miles.

London, Sept. 20.—Stanley Spencer, a well-known English aeronaut, yesterday successfully accomplished a remarkable flight over London in an airship of his own invention. It is estimated that his ship traveled nearly thirty miles. From observations of those on the ground, Stanley seemed to have complete control of his vessel.

Percival Spencer, referring to his brother's trip through the air, said it exceeded the longest trip of Santos-Dumont, the Brazilian aeronaut, by nearly twenty miles.

Spencer's airship has a blunt nose and tail and does not taper in a cigar-like point, like the airships of Santos-Dumont. In general outline it has the appearance of a whale.

BURGHERS WON'T EMIGRATE.

President Roosevelt Promised Them Land in Indian Territory.

Johannesburg, Transvaal, Sept. 19. —Mr. Dieprink, who was formerly a member of the Rand, and who was deported because he refused to take the oath of allegiance when Gen. Lord Roberts entered Johannesburg, has returned here from the United States, where he declares he had an important interview with President Roosevelt. Mr. Dieprink's object was to see if it was feasible for burghers to settle in America. He says that throughout the interview President Roosevelt was entirely in sympathy with him and approved of his idea, and that he promised, if Mr. Dieprink could get a sufficient number of burghers, to grant them farms on the Indian reservations. Mr. Dieprink is now acting on these assurances, but it is doubtful if he can get recruits to go to the United States, as the burghers are showing no great desire to emigrate.

Favoring the abolition of property qualifications for aldermen.

Urging the Government to pay its employes weekly instead of monthly.

Urging Parliament to make no increase in the tariff.

Extending sympathy to the Toronto Carpet Workers strikers.

BRITISH EDITORS IN TORONTO.

What They Saw and Did While in the Queen City.

Toronto, Sept. 20.—A delegation of British journalists, newspaper workers touring Canada with a view of investigating the natural resources of the Dominion were entertained in Toronto yesterday. There are a dozen of them and they represent the leading daily journals of England. The program began early, at 9 o'clock, when they were entertained at the Toronto Club. The distinguished guests were made to feel in letter and spirit what it means to be the recipients of Canadian hospitality. From early morning until past midnight they were kept busy. From the breakfast-table they were treated to a glimpse of Toronto's educational institutions, the palatial King Edward Hotel, etc., etc. Later the gentlemen were entertained by Premier Ross at a dainty luncheon in the Speaker's chambers. The affair of the day, however, was reserved for a delicious spread in the evening, where the travelers were banqueted by the city.

MR. TARTE AT ORILLIA

The Minister Opens the East Simcoe Fall Fair.

PLEA FOR UNITY AND PEACE.

After Reviewing the Transportation Question, the Minister of Public Works Repeats His Views on the Tariff Question and in Addition Quotes Mr. Fielding's Promise—What He Wants.

Orillia, Sept. 20. — The Simcoe County Exhibition was formally opened yesterday afternoon by Hon. Mr. Tarte in a speech in which he emphasized the importance of all classes of Canadians living in unity and peace with the one object of promoting the general prosperity of the country. The hon. gentleman spoke from a carriage in front of the grand stand, which was well crowded. He was introduced by Mayor Tudhope, and was given a hearty ovation.

The Liberal Banquet.

The Liberals of Orillia tendered Hon. J. Israel Tarte, Minister of Public Works, a banquet in the Daly House last evening. The dining compartment was tastefully decorated with many patriotic banners. J. B. Tudhope, M.P.P., presided, and introduced Mr. Tarte as the man who keeps his word.

In the course of his reply Mr. Tarte stated that he had the misfortune of knowing what we wanted and saying it openly. After referring at length to the transportation question and his well-known position thereupon, he proceeded to discuss the tariff issue, taking up new ground as follows:

I am dabbling with a delicate question. Politics is not a game unless there are some difficulties in the play. The question is, whether we are going to rely upon the Americans for our destiny or rely on ourselves. That is the position I take. There may be differences of opinion as to just how matters should be. I never met ten men around a board of the same minds; if they were they would be fools. (Laughter.) Conditions change. There are few things that last forever in a man's life. True love is, perhaps, the only thing. (Laughter.)

Quoted From Mr. Fielding.

Mr. Tarte then quoted from the speech of Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance, delivered last session to this effect: "We do not propose to make any changes in the tariff this season. I do not for a moment claim that the tariff is perfect. I think that on the whole it has proved very good tariff, indeed, when we recall the circumstances under which our tariff revision took place; when we remember the very complicated and difficult problem with which we had to deal, we may well congratulate ourselves upon our success in devising a tariff so well adapted to the requirements of our country. A tariff under which Canada has prospered in a greater degree than in any previous period in her history. I have occasionally hinted at the desirability of a reasonable measure of tariff stability. Nothing would be more likely to unsettle business than a practice of introducing frequent tariff changes. Hence we have resisted applications for many small changes, and we think it will do so to-day. But I would not have it understood that this view can always be held. As time passes, conditions change in our own country, and it will be well for us to take note of this, so that we may adjust our tariff accordingly."

This statement, he said, was made with the approval of the Government as a whole. I am, therefore, responsible for the statement as a Minister of the Government, and during the last two months I have never said more than that we went to Washington to secure fair trade terms, and the right hon gentleman at the head of the administration was red hot when he came back. Our American neighbors thought they could do without us, and more than that, thought they could do us. I say with all firmness that what the Minister of Finance has said will be realized. (Applause.) It would be unwise to raise the tariff all along the line. What I am trying to induce our fellow citizens to ask today, is to make a tariff that will suit the Canadian people. This is all we want.

Going on Mr. Tarte said there was no reason why Canadians should not manufacture everything for which we had raw material. In this country there should be no distinctness as to east and west. We should be united in our effort to build a Canadian nation. (Applause.)

A Galt Lady Saved $60.

Mrs. Nesbitt of Galt, was sure her daughter was dying of consumption. So were two doctors and all the neighbours. Three 25c bottles of Four T's put the girl on her feet. As a positive, safe and speedy cure for coughs, colds and congested lungs, Four T's can't be beaten. Large bottles 25c, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

England's Fig Gardens.

The industry of fig culture in Britain may be said to be centred in Worthing, though how this neighborhood should come to possess the most extensive fig orchards it is hard to say. Those who never have had an opportunity of visiting the Worthing fig orchards would be astonished to learn of the size, age and vigor this tree attains there. Even in cottage gardens in the immediate neighborhood the fig tree thrives remarkably well. It is in and around the village of Sompting that the chief market supply of figs is obtained. The trees are here planted in groves, irregular now because some have died and been replaced by younger trees, and many of them are twenty feet high and as many through. They are not allowed to grow higher than this; otherwise the labor of gathering the fruit would be increased. — London Standard.

MAY TIE RAILWAYS UP

Trainmen and Operators of Coal Lines Must Be Counted Upon.

NEW TERMS OFFERED BY MINERS

October 20 Is the Date Named When the New Agreement Offered J. P. Morgan Is Returnable to the Miners—Coal Operators Will Accept the Decision of the Financial Magnate.

Philadelphia, Sept. 20.—Every coal-carrying railroad in the strike district will be tied up by a great strike of trainmen and operators if any attempt is made to send a substantial supply of anthracite to the markets.

This course has been decided upon as the result of a series of secret meetings of members of the unions which were held in Philadelphia and Trenton. Both organizations have the support of the American Federation of Labor, and should they go out the roads will have to suspend business.

There are one million members of the Federation, which virtually has indorsed the action of the trainmen, as defeat of the miners will be the greatest blow labor has received in the history of the United States.

A NEW STRIKE DEAL.

Proposition For a Settlement Sent to Mr. J. P. Morgan.

Hazelton, Pa., Sept. 20.—It was announced here yesterday that at the conference of Messrs. Mitchell, Gompers, Wilson, Duffy, Nichols and Fahey in Wilkes-Barre this week a proposition was formulated for presentation to J. P. Morgan, which embodies terms upon which a settlement of the miners' strike may be arrived at. The proposition is now in the hands of Mr. Morgan or will be within the next few days.

It contains nine articles, the text of which refers to the demands of the Shamokin convention. In the new proposition some of these demands are modified and made more acceptable to the coal operators. What portions have been affected, however, is not known. A clause in the proposition is to the effect that the new terms upon which the strike may be settled will be available only until Oct. 20 of the present year. If Mr. Morgan does not see fit to accept them by that date the fight will revert back to the issues upon which it has been waged since last May and the miners' leaders will prolong the struggle indefinitely.

This proposition is the direct result of Gov. Stone's conference with Mr. Mitchell and District Presidents Duffy, Fahey and Nichols at Harrisburg last Saturday. It is said Gov. Stone, at this meeting with the labor leaders, conveyed to them an outline of the terms which Mr. Morgan could consider as a basis for making concessions to the striking miners. There are some things in the demands, formulated by the Shamokin convention which Mr. Morgan strenuously objects to, and Gov. Stone made the financier's attitude clear to the labor leaders.

President Mitchell, it is stated, has received direct assurances of the willingness of the operators to accept whatever decision Mr. Morgan may see fit to arrive at after he considers the newest proposition of the United Mine Workers' Union.

Children's Hair.

If at six months or one year of age the child's hair is thin, dry and lifeless, it should be treated with systematic massage, using the egg shampoo. A well beaten egg in about an ounce of water should be rubbed thoroughly into the scalp. This will cleanse the scalp and act as a tonic upon the roots of the hair. It should be rubbed in with a rotary motion, beginning in front at the forehead and going back to the crown, then forward to the temples and back and forth till the fingers of the two hands meet at the nape of the neck. The child's hair must then be thoroughly rinsed in warm water and dried with warm towels or in the sunlight. Finish the operation with a dry massage, and when every particle of moisture has evaporated, if the tendency of the scalp is to dryness, rub into it a little olive oil or a simple formation of whose freshness and purity there is not the least suspicion. Exceeding nicety must be observed in this, for rancid oils act as a corrosive irritant and will themselves cause excessive dandruff.

Mad as a March Hare.

That's the way people get when they toss and roll in bed until three o'clock with sleeplessness. Merrill's system tonic cures this and all nervous diseases such as twitching of the nerves, nervous prostration and loss of vigour. The 50c bottle lasts three weeks. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Lost Appetite

When your food is not thoroughly well digested some of it remains longer than it should in the stomach and causes a great deal of distress. Acids are formed and bitter liquids are produced that attack the stomach's linings. Inflammations are set up. The consequent swelling of the linings of the stomach prevent the thousands of tiny gastric glands from exuding their resolvent liquids. Thus it is the disease is aggravated. The linings of the stomach involved in a chronic manner, become subject to dyspepsia.

Powley's Liquified Ozone reduces the inflammation of the stomach's linings, stimulates the membranes and gastric glands so they perform their work properly and naturally, and gradually restores a normal, healthy tone to the stomach.

"For some months back I have been troubled with a sinking feeling. I had no ambition and my appetite and sleep were bad. When I would wake in the morning I would feel as tired as when I went to bed. I tried several kinds of medicine but did not get any better. I was told by my doctor that my lungs were affected. About this time I heard of Mr. McKay of Sutton, a man I very well knew, who was cured of lung trouble by Powley's Liquified Ozone, so I commenced to use it. I felt an improvement from the first bottle. I have taken thirteen bottles and I know I feel better to-day than I ever did in my life. My belief is that my kidneys were not working properly, as my face was very yellow, and I would have terrible headaches.

"I am feeling splendid now and gaining in flesh, so that all who know me can see the marked improvement, which I owe to Ozone."

Yours respectfully,
MRS. THOMPSON, 221 Sherbourne St., Toronto, Ont.

Your druggist will tell you all about Powley's Liquified Ozone, if you ask him. He'll tell you how you can take it for stomach disorders, and he'll also tell you how you can take it so as to prevent any kind of stomach sickness. It would be a good thing to ask your druggist about Ozone now. It's uses are many and valuable.

Wisdom For Women.

The woman who smiles when she sees her best tablecloth ruined, who puts aside the little mishap and makes the people around the table forget it, does well, but if when she is alone she allows her mind to dwell upon the loss of her cherished linen, if she lies awake at night fretting over it or lets it prey upon her waking hours—that is, if she worries over it—she is not the entirely wise, sensible and comfortable woman she ought to be.—Woman's Home Companion.

Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual system are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. M'ARTHUR SET FREE.

Medical Men Disagree, So Judge Took Case From Jury.

London, Sept. 20.—The McArthur-Ninham manslaughter case came to a sudden termination yesterday. The prosecution closed soon after 11 o'clock, and without argument, Judge Lount decided to take the case from the jury. A few minutes later the prisoner was on the street receiving the congratulations of his friends. The main reason for the judge's action was that when the medical men were unable to decide whether the death of Ninham was due to blows, excitement, liquor or exertion; it was not a case for the jury to decide.

THE NEW DAM.

Work Being Rushed Forward at an Extraordinary Rate of Speed.

Each day sees a large number of visitors to the river bank, where Contractor O'Toole has a big force of men at work on the excavation for the concrete work of the new dam, which it is very desirable should be all placed in position before the cold weather sets in. To accomplish this looks like an almost impossible task until the progress which has been made in the last few weeks is taken into account. The construction of the giant coffer dam was carried out so quickly, and such a splendid job was made of the work, that almost anything may be xpected now.

The water has nearly all been removed from the inside of the coffer dam, over 230,000 cubic feet being pumped out at the rate of 10,000 gallons a minute. Quite a good deal of trouble has been experienced through the leakage of water through the old dam, more water having evidently passed under it than over it.

The bed of the river is quite clear of water, and is a curious sight to observe. There is enough scantlings and slabs there to last many a poor family all winter, and with the price of coal where it is it is a wonder that the wood has not been removed long ago. Contractor O'Toole says that he would raise no objection.

While the west side of the river bed is feet deep in wood, further out the flat rock at the bottom is cleared completely of everything, where the timber coming through the chutes carried all before it when it struck the rock. Sill farther out, undisturbed by the whirling logs, which could not reach them, giant boulders have accumulated, and they will come in very handy for weighting down the coffer dam, which has to be made very strong to resist the pressure of the water, which must be something tremendous. The outside of the coffer dam is double boarded and then packed with a mixture of sawdust and earth in order to prevent any leakage whatever.

Mr. Bouchier, the engineer in charge of the works, was engaged yesterday in laying out the lines for the concrete work, which will be undertaken as soon as the foreign material can be skimmed off the bed rock at the bottom of the river.

THE MILLINERY DISPLAY OF THE TURNBULL CO.

The Magnificent Fall Opening at the Big Store Contains Everything to Delight a Woman's Eye.

The elegant fall display of headwear of this enterprising firm far surpassed all previous efforts.

Miss Noble, who is still in charge, visited the leading American and Canadian cities and carefully selected the stock which so highly pleased the Peterborough ladies on the opening days. The ready-to-wear hats are entirely new in style, being mostly soft, zibeline felts in two-tone effects. The tailor-made hats with straps and button trimming are very pretty. The "Ping-Pong" hats promise to be greatly in favour with the young ladies. One we noticed was entirely covered with emerald and royal blue wings, draped with heavy cream lace and finished with two sunflower rosettes and loops of knotted ribbon falling at the back. An effective "Shephordess" was covered with black Lyons velvet with cream silk medallions inserted in brim, a large black bird entirely formed the crown, a drape an dheavy fall of meline caught with jet bars completing this lovely pattern.

A very handsome "Turban" around which many ladies lingered, had a crown of hunter's green ostrich velvet, the brim being of embroidered cream felt trimmed from the back with heavy cream ospreys, sweeping towards the front and finished at back with points of velvet and cabochon.

Another handsome model was a "Cavalier Hat" of castor panne velvet and crushed upper brim of white and castor chenille, the facing of knotted duchess ribbon and finished with foil of chenille and ribbon caught by a handsome shaded bird.

The correct materials for millinery, Miss Noble informs us, are zibeline cloth, moire silk, chenille, fancy felts, furs, swansdown, embroidered felt, applique, and velvet, and the popular trimmings are birds' breasts, wings, tips, ospreys and quills, medallions, discs and panne, ostrich, duchess, moire and taffeta ribbons, clasps, slides and cabochons, and coloured foliage.

The many complimentary remarks passed on the models designed in their own workrooms by their clever artists, and the many orders taken on the opening days, are the best evidence of the correctness of Turnbull's styles and the superiority of trimming.

The Turnbull Co. are to be congratulated on securing the services of so competent an expert to look after this department.

The window decorations, the work of Messrs. Maude and Billings, are deserving of special mention, the colours being beautifully blended and the materials most artistically arranged.

A Notable Auction Sale.

Mr. John Haggart, the popular auctioneer, has received one of the most important commissions of the year — the sale by auction on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the household furniture of Mrs. Everett, at the Nicholls homestead, Rubidge street. A run through this quaint old colonial residence reveals a wealth of articles of unsurpassed attraction to buyers. Some rare antique rosewood chairs, to the collector of antiques worth their weight in—well—coal, are a type of the large arary of rare furniture and household appointments. They are matched in modern interest by numerous examples of superior modern work, and, combined, form a collection which will doubtless attract a large gathering of buyers.

PEARS AND POTATOES

Were the Same Price on the Market This Morning.

There was an exceptionally large market this morning and there was a fair demand for produce of all kinds. There was a great demand for potatoes which were selling at 80 cents per bushel. Potatoes and pears were selling at the same price, a circumstance that was generally noted. Some potatoes found purchasers at $1.50 per bag. There is undoubtedly a scarcity of potatoes in this district, but it is thought that a sufficient quantity will be shipped in from outside points to fill the demand at reasonable prices.

ALNWICK WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Lillie B. Elliott and Mr. Frank S. Turner.

THE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE.

Peterborough in a District With Ottawa and Port Hope.

The First Match Will be Played by the Peterboroughs in Port Hope—T. A. S. to Play Junior.

Only three senior teams applied for admission to the Ontario Rugby Union at the executive meeting held last night at the Rossin House, Toronto. The following members were present; President, A. W. Ballantyne; Vice-President, George S. Gibbons, jr.; Sec. Frank D. Woodworth; F. H. Thompson, Argonauts; T. A. Godfrey, Ottawa; S. S. DuMoulin, Hamilton, and A. W. McPherson, Peterborough. Kingston was not represented, but the Argonauts, Hamilton and Ottawa were in line. Port Hope, a new club, will enter a team in the intermediate and will play in the Eastern series.

The junior series promises to be a live one, as more than twenty clubs have already signified their intention of competing for this championship. This series will be divided into districts at a meeting to be held in Toronto, on Friday, September 26. A sub-committee, consisting of President A. W. Ballantyne, Vice-President George S. Gibbons, Secretary, Frank D. Woodworth, F. H. Thompson and T. C. Irving, was appointed to look after the drawing up of schedules for the junior districts.

The clubs available are Petrolea, Sarnia, Chatham, London II, Ingersoll, Woodstock, Paris, Galt, Dundas, Berlin, Walkerton, Hamilton III, West End Pleasure Club, Hamilton, Orangeville, Peterborough II, Deseronto, Picton, Queen's II, R.M.C., II, Ramblers and Limestones, (Kingston), T. A.S. Club of Peterborough, and the Toronto clubs, comprising Varsity III, St. Andrew's College, Wellesleys, Victorias, Nationals, Orioles, Toronto Junction, Harboard street Collegiate, Parkdale Collegiate, and Jarvis street Collegiate.

The secretary was ordered to see that the three championship cups are put in proper condition.

The charges of professionalism against P. Murphy of Ottawa, and W. Grant, of the Argonauts, were considered. Murphy was ordered to sign a special affidavit and Grant was declared an amateur.

A communication was also received from Chas. S. Miller, manager of the Pittsburg Hockey Club, denying that "Billy" Hamilton, who was expelled last year by the O.R.F.U., had ever received any remuneration for playing hockey. This communication was filed.

Applications for admission to the O.R.F.U. junior series were received and accepted from the T.A.S. club of Peterborough; Deseronto, and Victorias, of Toronto.

An application of a number of Peterborough Intermediate players to be allowed to play junior with the T. A. S., was refused.

Applications for reinstatement were received from Messrs. Halcrow, Jarvis and Murphy, of last year's Hamilton juniors. These applications were granted.

The application of the Toronto club and the London club to play intermediate football was granted on payment of balance due the Peterborough club.

Gordon Crawford and Dr. Scott representing the London club, made application for reinstatement. The club was suspended last season for playing Pell, who was not eligible. It was decided to remove the suspension of the individual members of the London team which was created by the action of the executive on Nov. 13th, 1901.

The appended schedule was drawn up for the eastern section of the union;

Oct. 4—Peterborough at Port Hope, Ottawa II a bye.
Oct. 11—Ottawa at Peterborough, Port Hope a bye.
Oct. 18—Port Hope at Peterborough, Ottawa a bye.

FROM MR. CULVERWELL.

He Will Bring More Manufacturers to Peterborough.

His Worship, Mayor Denne, this morning, received the following letter from Mr. J. A. Culverwell, showing that that gentleman's interest in Peterborough is still as active as ever;

My Dear Sir, — With reference to the gentleman I brought to Peterborough a few weeks ago—a Toronto manufacturer—I wish to say that on account of the press of business during Exhibition time he has been unable to return to Peterborough to again interview your Manufacturing Committee, in regard to the inducements the corporation will hold out to him. He has intimated to me that if the corporation will grant him a free site suitable to him, and exemption from taxes, he will no doubt remove his factory to Peterborough, and carry on his granite works there. His firm's intention is also to go into the marble cutting business, the Canadian field being practically open at present. Most of this class of work in the public buildings of this country has been done by American firms. As he has stated to your chairman, his idea is to employ fifty skilled hands.

I have made arrangements with him to return to Peterborough to conclude this matter at the end of next week, and I will intimate to you again what day he can arrive.

I also wish to state that I am at present negotiating with a linen manufacturer from Ireland, who is at present in this country—and who has almost completed arrangements to establish a mill in another city—to establish works in Peterborough under certain conditions, which will be explained to your committee in the course of the next ten days. This being a new industry for this country, no doubt in time its operations will become very large and it behooves us in Peterborough to lend every effort to ensure the works being located here.

Right here I wish to say that it is my intention to devote a great deal of my time this fall and winter, as I have been doing of late, to advertise Peterborough's advantages to the manufacturers of Canada and the States, and use every endeavour to induce them to settle in Peterborough. Of course I realize that in doing so I am benefitting my own interests very largely, but I think it in order to also state, that every manufacturer that should locate in Peterborough will enhance the value of Peterborough property in general, as well as its business interests, and I sincerely trust that I shall have the co-operation not only of yourself, who I know have put forth great efforts to benefit Peterborough in this matter, but also the co-operation of the business men of Peterborough in general.

I have the honour to be,
Yours faithfully,
J. ALEX. CULVERWELL.

HAS NOT YET ACCEPTED.

Rev. Dr. Barclay Will See Queen's Delegation and Do His Duty.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—"If I accept the offer of the trustees of Queen's University and become principal, I will be guided solely by a sense of my duty. More I cannot say. I have only this morning received by telegraph the offer of the trustees.

REV. DR. BARCLAY.

To-night or to-morrow a delegation will be here to lay the offer before me. My first intimation must be to them. It is a matter that requires the most serious reflection. I have not yet had time to think it out fully. I know the dire need of Queen's University, but I have, as you know, been for nineteen years the pastor of St. Paul's, and the very thought of severing the associations gained during all that time is painful."

And this was as much as the Rev. Dr. Barclay would say yesterday concerning his selection by the trustees of Queen's University to fill the post of principal, so long held by the late Dr. Grant.

WON'T CURE EVERYTHING.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a Specific Remedy for all Stomach Troubles.

It is not claimed for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets that they will cure anything but Stomach Troubles.

Of course where there is any indirect result of Stomach derangement it disappears when the Stomach is restored.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do cure all diseases of the Stomach and digestive organs.

They are made for this purpose only. Compounded carefully, and carefully prepared, they may always be relied upon to instantly relieve and, if used perseveringly, to permanently cure, Dyspepsia Indigestion, Heartburn, Bloating, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache Biliousness, Sallow Complexion, Bad Breath, Furred Tongue, and any and all results of a tired or deranged Stomach.

They also cure Constipation, which is a result of bad digestion and poor Liver action, for they set right the tardy organs and encourage and assist them to do their duty.

The large white tablets are composed of diastase and pepsin—the very best digestive agents known to modern and advanced medical science. These digest the food—all of it—without any assistance from the stomach itself, and in this way allow it to rest and get better.

The small, brown Tablets are for the Liver and Bowels and act as a gentle laxative when such is needed. They are without doubt the very best Liver medicine, and never fail to do the healing and restoring work for which they are compounded.

Together these two Tablets form what has been proven over and over again to be the very best treatment for all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

All in one box—price 50c.—at all dealers.

If your stomach is giving you trouble buy and use a box.

Make the Most of Your Gifts.

Personality has done wonders with both heredity and environment. It has made moderate gifts accomplish marvelous things. Men with moderate gifts, by patient and persistent application have put to shame the splendidly equipped, who have indolently frittered away their patrimony. Out of the most untoward surroundings men have found their way to the grandest achievements. The boy from the log cabin has outstripped the boy from the palace. The barefooted boy has outstripped the boy of pampered indulgence. The plodder has outstripped the genius. The tortoise has passed the hare. Whether a man be richly endowed or moderately endowed, his success will depend on the use he makes of what God has given him.

WILLING TO BE TESTED.

We possess the most ample facilities for serving the public with pure, fresh Drugs, Toilet goods, Perfumes and all other lines usually found in a first-class drug store. From business and professional standpoints, we are willing to be tested by a critical public.

EXPERIENCE HAS PROVED

That Paine's Celery Compound has no equal for building up the weak and rundown. It is specially recommended to sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia and nervous prostration. Paine's Celery Compound stands far above all other medicines as a disease banisher.

H. H. Edmison, Druggist, Peterborough, Ont.

Whooping Cough.

For whooping cough, 5 cents' worth of sirup of rhubarb and 5 cents' worth of castor oil, mixed, and given twice a day—half a small teaspoonful at a time—will often effect a cure. Another good remedy is powdered alum. Give four grains of this in a teaspoonful of sugar and water three times a day one hour before food. This dose may be given to a child one year old and upward, increasing the dose till eight grains are given. For a child of ten begin with eight grains and increase to sixteen. Let the child be in the open air as much as possible.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Make Children Well and Keep Them Well.

For sick, weak, nervous, fretful children, there is nothing so good as Baby's Own Tablets. They promptly relieve and cure all the stomach and bowel troubles that afflict little ones, break up colds, reduce fever and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. The Tablets can be given with perfect safety to the youngest, feeblest baby, as they are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. For very small children crush the Tablets to a powder. Mrs. L. Axford, St. Thomas, Ont., says, "Before giving my little girl Baby's Own Tablets she suffered from a disordered stomach. She vomited a good deal and was very constipated and pale and delicate looking. She was always a nervous child and did not sleep well. After giving her the Tablets there was a great change. Her stomach got better, she retained her food, her bowels became regular, and she has grown much fatter and looks the picture of health. I also give the Tablets to my baby when his stomach is sour, or when he has colic, and they always do him good. I keep the Tablets in the house and would not be without them."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be sent postpaid at 25 cents a box by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schnectady, N.Y.

To Gain Flesh.

To gain flesh, eat a hearty breakfast and dinner and a light luncheon.

Bread, butter and stewed fruit and milk are necessary articles of diet. Let the bread be brown or gluten loaf, and have the milk hot, but not scalded; take some often during the day, but eat no solids between meals. Olive oil on fresh green salad and cream with baked bananas are fattening foods.

Before retiring take a warm bath to induce sleep, which aids in increasing flesh. Devote ten hours to sleep, and if possible rest for ten minutes every afternoon.

Spend one whole day in bed each month, sleeping as much of the day as possible. The only true way to rest is to lie down in a darkened room with closed eyes and think of nothing. Even five minutes of such rest is valuable; the muscles of the face relax, and one does not get a hard, set look, which adds many years to the appearance.

Take time to eat your meals. If you have not time to get a meal leisurely, go without it, as it will not injure you a quarter as much as it will to eat in a hurry.

Invaluable For Mending.

A very handy thing to have about the house is a strip of the rubber tissue such as is used in hospitals. Not only is this an excellent cure for scald or burn, a rheumatic muscle, a sore chest or tired, aching joints and feet, but it is a valuable adjunct to the mending basket. If there is a three cornered tear in Bobby's jacket or Belinda's skirt, draw the edges together, lay on a little snare of the tissue, cover this with a patch and press with a moderately hot iron until the tissue, which is of pure gum, is dissolved. If care is taken of this tissue, it will last indefinitely. It must not be kept in a hot room or shut up away from the air in a tight box or drawer. Put it between two sheets of paper and lay where the air can circulate around it. It is not expensive. Fifty cents will buy a strip over a yard long and a quarter wide, an outlay that will pay for itself many times over. It can be bought at almost any drugstore.

Mixed Eggs.

Professor Edwin Ray Lankester was sitting in his office in the Natural History museum, London, when he was visited by an elderly woman, evidently from the country, who carried a parcel which she handled with the most exaggerated care. She was in a state of great excitement and exclaimed:

"I've got two of 'em."

"Two of what?" inquired the professor.

"Two 'awks' eggs," replied the woman. "I'm told they're worth a thousand pounds apiece."

The professor, much interested, looked at the eggs. "These are not auks' eggs," he said.

"They are 'awks' eggs," said his visitor. "My son Joe found 'em."

A light dawned on the naturalist. "The kind of eggs which are so valuable," he remarked gently, "are the eggs of an extinct bird called the auk—a-u-k."

"Oh, hauk!" said the woman. "I'll pay out that 'Enry 'Obhouse as told me it was 'awks' eggs as was wanted."

And she went away."

A Clever Pickpocket.

In Paris two police officers recently got upon the track of a pickpocket. They surprised him in the act at the omnibus bureau and followed him in hot pursuit. He was a thin, poorly clad young fellow. In the Rue Rochechonaut, however, he suddenly disappeared. Judging that he had slipped into one of the houses they set themselves to watch for his reappearance. The thief in the meantime had entered a bathing establishment, and after a refreshing bath entered the box of another bather and calmly clothed himself in the smart suit he found there, then passed proudly and peacefully out before the very eyes of his pursuers. The climax of humor came when the other bather, arrayed in the rags of the pickpocket, was grabbed by the officers of the law at the door and dragged off to the station house. With some difficulty the situation was explained; but the pickpocket is still laughing.

Woman's Sphere.

They talk about a woman's sphere as though it had a limit;
There's not a place in earth or heaven,
There's not a task to mankind given,
There's not a blessing or a woe,
There's not a whispered yes or no,
There's not a life or birth
That has a feather's weight of worth—
Without a woman in it.

A KITCHEN APRON.

One That Is Serviceable and Easily Made at Home.

Without doubt every housewife has a kitchen apron of some description, but the style shown in the sketch below is becoming very popular. It may be bought ready made or very easily constructed at home. If new material is used, apron gingham, two widths are necessary, putting the selvages together in the side seams and leaving a space of six inches at the top not sewed for the armholes. If the person is rather plump for whom the apron is made, use three widths of gingham in the same way. By following the sketch closely there will be no difficulty in carrying out the design. It is only straight breadths of material gathered into a band; then shoulder straps, merely straight bands, connect the back with the front. The apron should be long to cover the gown well, as this apron is easily put off and on, making it indispensable to the young housekeeper who does her own cooking. Do not make a mistake and omit the ruffle around the bottom, for it protects the gown underneath by its fullness sticking out from the skirt.

APRON FOR THE KITCHEN.

A Mother Hubbard kitchen apron is very desirable during the preserving season. It may be made of a gingham dress skirt that has a passe waist by making the length of the skirt sufficient by adding a wide ruffle. The apron buttons down the back.—Exchange.

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

Remarkable Recovery From Nervous Collapse.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses unusual control over the nerves and rekindles nervous energy when all other means fail, is well illustrated in the case described below. Mr. Brown was forced to give up his ministerial work and was so far exhausted that for a time he was positively helpless. Doctors were consulted and many remedies were resorted to, but in vain. Every effort to build up the system seemed in vain, and it is little wonder that the sufferer was losing hope of recovery when he began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Rev. T. Brown, Methodist minister of Omemee, and late of Bethany, Ont., writes; "A year ago last November I was overtaken with nervous exhaustion. For six months I did no work, and during that time I had to be waited on, not being able to help myself. Nervous collapse was complete and though I was in physician's hands for months, I did not seem to improve. At any little exertion my strength would leave me, and I would tremble with nervousness.

"From the first I used a great many nerve remedies, but they seemed to have no effect in my case. I had almost lost hope of recovery when I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and began to use it. As my system became stronger I began to do a little work, and have gradually increased in nerve force and vigour, until now I am about in my normal condition again. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best medicine I ever used. Not only has it proven its wonderful restorative powers in my own case, but also in several others where I have recommended it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 7

IS NOW A RARE SPORT

SALMON FISHING IN CANADA SOON FOR MILLIONAIRES ONLY.

Big Prices Paid for Fishing Rights—Cascapedia Salmon Club Pays Quebec $8,500 For Annam, While J. J. Hill Pays $3,000 for the North shore of the St. John—A Good Season.

A special correspondent of The Toronto Globe, writing from Quebec, says: The salmon fishing season closed on the 15th August, and all the reports from the rivers go to show that the sport during the season just ended was far ahead of what it has been for many years past, both in the Provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick. Those who failed of much success were generally the anglers who were too early in the season upon their rivers, like Mr. James J. Hill of St. Paul. The early disappearance of snow promised an early fishing season, and many salmon fishermen from Europe and the United States consequently went down to their rivers much earlier than usual, only to find that the continued high water, consequent upon the heavy rains and low temperature prevented the possibility of fishing. Some of the anglers upon the streams of Labrador were three weeks upon the river without killing a single salmon. This was the case on the Moisie, one of the finest of the Canadian salmon rivers. Those who could afford the time to remain long enough upon the salmon pools got excellent sport, but many of the fishermen were obliged to leave when the fishing was just at its best. The Godbot, which belongs to Mr. Manuel of Ottawa and his friends, afforded, as usual, splendid sport, and so, in the latter part of the season, did the neighboring river, the Trinity. For the first three weeks of their fishing the anglers on this stream only killed eleven fish, while in the four following days they killed 24. Mr. E. C. Fitch, President of the Waltham Watch Company, and a party of friends had good sport on the Romaine, while another party, including Mr. Robert E. Plumb, of Detroit and Mr. F. S. Hodges of Boston, made a good kill on the Natashquan. This splendid river only costs the lessees $350 per annum, while for the St. John, on the north shore, Mr. J. J. Hill pays an annual rental of $8,000. The fishing of the Moisie was purchased from the landed proprietors last year for $30,000 and the Government fishing rights in the river and its estuary cost nearly $4,000 a year besides. Amongst other distinguished Americans who fished Canada's north shore salmon streams this year may be mentioned the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, author of "The Ruling Passion," "Little Rivers," etc. He succeeded in killing nearly seventy salmon in the Riviere a la Truite.

On the south shore of the St. Lawrence the Cascapedia Salmon Club pays no less than $8,500 per annum to the Government of Quebec for the lease of the fishing in only a part of the Grand Cascapedia. Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Callwallader, Mr. de Forest, Mr. Harry Hollins and other equally distinguished American anglers are members of this club. Any amount of this sport is offered by the splendid pools of this river, though, on account of the usual clearness of the water, considerable skill is required to tempt the fish to rise to the fly. Some anglers fish but very little in the day time on this river, finding that the salmon rise more freely after sundown. They fish with a large light fly, and take the most of their fish between 7.30 and 9.30 at night. Some of the best pools on the river are private property, including the famous Princess Pool, in which H. R. H. the Princess Louise killed a monster salmon. This is now owned, together with much more excellent fishing water, by Mr. Davis, of Rochester, N. Y., who has killed fish in the Cascapedia weighing up to 52 pounds. The record fish taken with rod and line in Canadian waters was a salmon of 54 pounds, taken some years ago in the Cascapedia by Mr. R. G. Dunn of New York. Formerly the Cascapedia was fished by the Governors-General of Canada, by permission of the Government of Quebec, but the increased value of salmon fisheries led to its lease to American anglers. Lord Stanley built a fishing cottage near the mouth of the river, which has recently been sold to a Washington gentleman. The lodge built higher up the stream by the Marquis of Lorne is now owned by Mr. Davis. Mrs. Davis has probably more big salmon to the credit of her rod than any other living fisherwoman. This year she killed nearly fifty fish, a number of which were over forty pounds each in weight. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell is one of the regular anglers on the Cascapedia, and to two other gentlemen who have fishing rights there belong the distinction of having in their private libraries a copy of the first edition of Walton's "Complete Angler." For one of these the sum of $2,000 was paid. Of the remaining dozen or so of copies of this valuable little volume, now known to be in existence, two are in the library of the late Dean Sage of Albany, who died suddenly of appoplexy this summer, while fishing at his camp at the juncture of the Upsalquitch and Restigouche rivers. It may be remembered that this gentleman was the author of a handsomely illustrated book on the Restigouche, much prized by collectors, of which only 105 copies were printed. The death of Mr. Sage recalls the fact that another prominent American angler was stricken with his fatal illness this summer while fishing on the Restigouche. This was the late Dean Hoffman of New York, in his lifetime the richest clergyman in the world. He was taken ill at the club house of the Restigouche Salmon Club, at Matapedia Station, and died on board the special train on which he was being taken home. It was on a neighboring salmon stream, the Little Pabos, that the late Governor Russell of Massachusetts died suddenly a few years ago, and only a season or two after the late Colonel Walker of London, Ont., a member of the Canadian Parliament, had been suddenly and fatally strickened by paralysis, while playing a salmon on the Grand River of Gaspe.

To become a member of the Restigouche Salmon Club demands the possession of considerable wealth, the membership shares selling at $10,000 each. The club has purchased a number of fishing rights from landed proprietors along the river banks, and leases others from the Government of Quebec, on one side of the stream, and from the Government of New Brunswick on the other. Though there are many other rights leased to other parties, it is worthy of note that some thirty years ago the fishing rights of the Government in the Restigouche and in a of its tributaries were leased for a hundred dollars a year.

Salmon fishing is now becoming so rare a sport that it promises to be, in the near future, the enjoyment of millionaires only. Only one river above Quebec, the Jacques Cartier, whose salmon pools are controlled by Montrealers, now contains any specimens of the king of fresh water fishes, though in the early part of the last century every tributary of the St. Lawrence up to the head of Lake Ontario was a salmon river. The effort is now being made in various localities to restock former salmon streams, and in the waters of Lake St. John and its tributaries the experiments made some few years ago give promise of good success. These waters are already the home of the ouananiche, which differs but little from the salmon itself, except in the matter of size, and which is considered by anglers from all over the world to be one of the gamest fish that swims. So that there is no doubt that these favored waters are perfectly suitable for the experiment, and already good specimens of the true salmon have been taken out of them.

CANADA IS EIGHTH.

Dominion's Status in the World's Marine Shown by Figures.

Canada stands eighth in point of ownership of vessel tonnage among the nations of the earth, leading Spain, Sweden, Holland, Denmark, Greece, Japan, Turkey, and other countries. As of yore, Britain heads the list, the United States being second, then Germany, Norway, France, Italy, Russia, and Canada. The comparative figures are as follows:—

	Total net tonnage.
English, including Canada and the colonies	10,204,338
American	2,318,876
German	2,106,885
Norwegian	1,803,066
French	961,230
Italian	947,079
Russian	880,695
Canadian	664,488
Spanish	561,668
Swedish	607,882
Dutch	451,949
Danish	337,727
Grecian	320,795
Japanese	819,175

These figures are given in the annual shipping report of the Marine Department, issued recently. The report shows that the total number of vessels remaining on the register books of the Dominion, on the 31st December, 1901, including old and new vessels, sailing vessels, steamers and barges was 6,792, measuring 664,488 tons register tonnage, being an increase of 57 vessels, and an increase of 4,949 tons register, as compared with 1900. The number of steamers on the registry books on the same date was 2,177, with a gross tonnage of 297,421 tons. Assuming the average value to be $30 per ton, the value of the registered tonnage of Canada, on the 31st December last, would be $19,934,490.

The number of new vessels built and registered in the Dominion of Canada, during the last year was 335, measuring 34,481 tons register tonnage. Estimating the value of the new tonnage at $45 per ton, it gives a total value of $1,551,645 for new vessels.

By provinces the record stands:—

	Sailing ships	Steamers	Steamer tonnage	Vessel tonnage.
N. Brunswick	915	126	10,308	75,293
Nova Scotia	1,980	133	17,764	214,580
Quebec	1,285	351	88,805	142,684
Ontario	1,635	1,076	110,400	145,227
P. E. Island	180	21	3,963	14,729
Brit. Columbia	676	251	58,465	62,102
Manitoba	120	88	6,751	7,445
Yukon	11	11	3,967	2,463
Totals	6,792	2,177	298,421	664,843

Power of Imagination.

A well known lady in the town of B——, whom we will call Mrs. A——, upon retiring, found the air so oppressive that she could not endure it, sleep being out of the question, in such a close atmosphere. She insisted that Mr. A—— raise the window. He replied that he thought it quite comfortable. "Oh my, no," she could not survive the night if the window was not raised. "Whew! my do, please raise it, or I will suffocate." He being a devoted slave, and willing to do anything to add to the comfort of his better half, arose and went to the window, that she might be happy. After returning to bed and waiting a reasonable length of time, he remarked, "I do not notice any change, it was quite comfortable before." "Oh," she replied, "indeed I do." But he insisted, "you just imagine it; this was not a bad night." Well she could notice quite a difference. "And you know I cannot endure a close sleeping room." "Well, little wife," said the great bear of a man, "the window is close shut: I only rattled it a little." — Brome, Que., cor. of The Montreal Herald.

Spoke From Experience.

A man who tries to uphold all his statements with the prop of personal experience is pretty sure, sooner or later, to find himself in difficulties.

"What kind of posts should you say I'd better have for my piazza?" asked a summer resident of the oracle of Bushville. "Cedar?"

"No," was the instant reply; "not 'less you want to pay for poor stuff. Git pine. Pine will last you a hundred years."

"Are you sure?" asked the summer resident doubtfully.

"Sure!" echoed the oracle. "I never state a thing without I can prove it. I've tried 'em both. Tried 'em twice on my south porch, I tell you!"

Scores of Uses

While Dr. Chase's Ointment is best known on account of its wonderful control over eczema, salt rheum and piles, it is found to be in almost daily demand in many homes as a cure for chilblains, chafings, pimples, sunburns, burns, scalds, and each and every form of itching, irritated or inflamed skin. It is invaluable in every home and as a soothing and healing application knows no equal.

Music For Spider Bites.

There is a perfect plague of tarantula spiders in the south of Spain, near Seville. The number of the sufferers is so great that all the guitar players of the neighborhood have been employed. They have established a tariff at the rate of onepence a case treated by the harmonic cure. The guitar player has to keep up the tune "La Tarantula" while the person bitten by the spider dances to it. In serious cases, when the patient is confined to bed, the guitar player accompanies the family, who sit around the bed singing the disenchantment "Tarantula" rhyme, which might be translated as follows:

Come out, come out, this instant,
Come out, thou venom bite,
And may the cruel biter
Forever take to flight.

Floating Kitchen Gardens.

Among the many strange craft that ply up and down the rivers around New York one may frequently see one that looks like a back yard afloat. It is a large platform, inclosed all the way around with a picket fence. There are gates in the fence, and to keep up its resemblance to an ordinary inclosure of a suburban garden there are green leaves to be seen within. These floating yards are used by wholesale fruit dealers. It is found that bananas, pineapples and other tropical fruits spoil so easily in hot weather that they must not be packed closely even for an hour. So they are put on these floats in such a way that the air can reach them from all sides, and the trips on the rivers are made as long as possible.

BASKET-BALL.

Last evening there was an enthusiastic meeting of the Intermediate Department basket-ball players, in the Intermediate Quarters of the Y.M.C.A. The outcome being that two well-balanced and efficient teams will be placed on the field of competition. The name decided upon by the players will be the "Stars," and from the looks of things they intend to put up a star game. The following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Mr. A. W. Cressman.

President—Mr. Horace Ayers.

Manager—Mr. Garnet Galley.

Sec.-Treas.—Mr. Robert Duncan.

The colours of the teams will be black with gold trimmings.

LACROSSE.

The Capitals close the season with a credit balance of $700.

The lacrosse teams up west are already figuring on the personnel of their twelves for next season and trying to size up the winners. Peterborough will have to be counted on as a big factor in the race for the trophy, as it will be a whirlwind of a team which the town will have to a certainty.

STOCK MARKETS.

Some Houses and Money Rates.

New York, Sept. 19.—The average business man is prone to discourage increased business at such times as will prove disadvantageous to him) to transact it, and to encourage it when it is profitable to him to have it. This fact is true the world over, in no place more so than in Wall street. The average brokerage house does not like to have its customers load with stocks at periods when money is tight, thereby compelling them to enter the money market, and in so doing pay more than usual rates. No one likes to borrow money in quantities at from 10 to 20 per cent. to re-loan to their customers at 6 per cent. Buying transactions are consequently, in many offices, discouraged, and at a time when they should be made by their customers. To wait until money has adjusted itself is to pay increased prices. Mr. Broker at such time is willing and desirous of securing buying orders to off-set the additional expense to themselves, of carrying stocks. Many houses are charging their customers at present additional interest to the customary 6 percent. We want to state right here that we have only charged 6 per cent. right through the tight money period, and will continue that policy no matter how high money rates, or for how long a time high money rates may last. We will also advise our customers to buy when it appears advisable, and will gladly accept their purchasing order, and carry for them their purchase at the customary rate. We feel that our customers' interests are at all times our own, and will act accordingly. Stocks, bought at the most stringent money-rate time this week, already show a handsome profit. They will show better ones yet. When money relaxes. It is doing so now daily, and in time will again be normal. It was the high rates that carried market as low as it did go. The proper thing for the customer to have done was to then buy. If he listened to his interested broker, who did not care to carry them at regular rates, he missed a good opportunity. The market will surprise you more this fall by advances it will record.

Marked strength characterised the day's dealings. The entire market was strong and aggressive. St. Paul went up to 196 1-2, Rock Island to 206. The railway list were all in lively demand, and buoyant. Prospects for further advances are brilliant. Favourable decision for United States steel was handed down to-day, and stimulated the stock. The minor industrials are looking up under improving inquiry. We are bullish upon the entire market. Money closed last loan 6 per cent. Sales 326,500.

MATTERS MILITARY

BY SENTRY.

The local officers and men of the 14th Field Battery will in all probability reach Peterborough this evening. The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says: "Saturday will see the end of the Midland Field Battery Camp. They are leaving in the afternoon for Port Hope with their guns, where they will be stored until the Cobourg drill shed is built. On Saturday morning at nine o'clock they are to be inspected by Col. Drury on the field north of the Agricultural Grounds on D'Arcy street. There has been only one accident during the camp, one of the buglers being kicked by a horse. They held a street parade on Tuesday afternoon, and afterwards gave a drill in Victoria Park, a large number of townspeople being present, who watched the men go through their manoeuvres. The men appear to be well pleased with the rations served for both man and horse, and Major MacNachtan deserves credit for the excellent manner in which he has managed affairs. The men give the cook, "Sol" Western, all sorts of praise for his skill(y). Mrs. Roberts has charge of the officers' mess. Among the pets of the camp is a large rat belonging to Sgt. Choate, which was presented by a friend. Several of the fatigue party complain of the number of worn out looking glasses which are found around Lieut. Hall's tent. This afternoon at 5 o'clock the officers are to give an at home to a number of their friends on the grounds. During the time the men have been here their conduct on and off duty has been above reproach, and we will be pleased to have them come here again."

The idea of giving the members of the 57th Regiment a trip to the Falls is now out of the question, but it is understood that the officers of the corps have under consideration a scheme which should be endorsed by all ranks. It seems necessary to the welfare of a regiment that they be given an outing at least once a year, or as a substitute, something in the line of enjoyment that will appeal to the men in the same sense. In view of the fact that it is now too late for a trip it is within the range of probabilities that a regimental banquet will be held in the market hall which will eclipse all previous affairs of the kind in the matter of talent, etc. This scheme is under consideration.

When the litiary camp of instruction opens at Niagara next week, the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, will be well represented on the divisional staff. In fact there are few towns in Canada that can boast of holding such a distinguished position, by reason of the fact that the commanding officer of the regiment, Lt.-Col. E. B. Edwards, has been appointed deputy assistant Adjutant General for the camp, and Sergt.-Major Brittain has been appointed Sergt.-Major for the Third Military District. In addition to this Sergt. R. A. W. Hay, formerly of the 14th Midland Field Battery, has been appointed to the position of Divisional Orderly Room Clerk. Local military enthusiasts will be pleased to note these appointments, which reflect great credit on the local corps.

Those who have not yet returned their arms to the stores of the 57th Regiment, are requested to do so at once, as the transfer of the stores to Major Miller, the new Commanding Officer of the regiment, cannot take place until the full issue is in. It is desirable that all stores be turned in by the 23rd inst.

• • •

There will be no shooting to-day at the ranges as many of the rifles are now in stores, where they will remain until after the transfer of the same to the new commanding officer.

• • •

When Sergt. Major Brittain returns from Camp at Niagara, he will take a special course at the school of infantry at Toronto, where he will become thoroughly familiar with the new infantry drill. Upon the Sergt.-Major's return from school he will at once commence his class for officers as well as classes for non-coms., etc.

• • •

It will be good news to those who went on the coronation contingent to know that they are shortly to receive medals for their services in that regard.

Railway Trainmen Discuss the Coal Miners' Strike.

THE GRAND MASTER CALLED IN

Shall Brotherhood Men Work on Trains Hauling Coal Mined by Non-Unionists? —President Mitchell Says That the Miners Will Never Yield—Gives Thanks for Generous Assistance—To Solve Question.

Wilkes-Barre, Sept. 22. — The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen employed on all railroads centering in Wilkes-Barre held a secret meeting at Kingston yesterday. The object was to take some action on the question of Brotherhood men hauling coal from the mines where non-union men are employed. The only information that would be given out was that a resolution had been adopted requesting the secretary of each local division to write to Grand Master H. H. Morrissey, requesting him to come here at once.

MINERS WILL NEVER YIELD.

Claim They Can Hold Out All Winter, If Necessary.

New York, Sept. 22.—President Mitchell, before a mass meeting of workingmen, declared that the anthracite mine workers would remain out all winter if necessary to gain their end, and were in a position to do so. "After four weary months," he said, "the miners stand as strong as when the strike began. They will never return to the mines until they are treated as American workingmen should be, and, thanks to the generous assistance given to them they can and will stand out all winter, if necessary, to win this fight."

To Solve the Question.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 22.—There passed through this city yesterday three trains containing a total of 150 cars of anthracite, or about 4,500 tons. The Reading Company's officials here say they believe that the increased shipments of washery coal promised from now on will solve the question of supplying the market with fuel during the strike.

LANDLORDS AND TENANTS.

Redmond Accepts Invitation of Capt. Shaw-Taylor to a Meeting.

London, Sept. 22.—Mr. John Redmond, chairman of the United Irish League and of the Irish Parliamentary party, has published an open letter in the press, saying that while he has no idea of what proposals Capt. Shaw-Taylor of Ardrahan intends to submit at the approaching conference between landlords and tenants, he cannot take the responsibility of refusing to confer with genuine representatives of the landlords.

Capt. Shaw-Taylor, who is a prominent landlord of Ardrahan, Ireland, published a letter recently, inviting the Duke of Abercorn, Mr. John Redmond, Lord Barrymore, Col. Sanderson, the Lord Mayor of Dublin, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, Mr. William O'Brien, and Mr. T. W. Russell to a conference in Dublin, when he will submit what he calls "an honest, simple and practical solution of the present troubles, and one which will lead to a settlement satisfactory to both landlords and tenants."

ANIMALS TO BE SOLD.

Money Received to Be Used to Support the Doukhobors.

Winnipeg, Sept. 22.—The truth of the reports to the effect that the Doukhobor colony in Swan River district had abandoned entire live stock in pursuance of their strong religious belief that it is a sin to possess or use any beast of burden to assist in their labors, has been substantiated.

Two weeks ago two Doukhobors in that district turned cattle adrift on the prairies. The owners are now absolutely without means of subsistence, and the Dominion Government had decided to sell the cattle at auction, the proceeds to be devoted to helping the Doukhobors tide over the winter.

J. Obed Smith, Dominion immigration agent, Winnipeg, has advertised the sale of animals for Sept. 24.

At Fort Pelly animals, 500 in number, were straying, which were corralled by the Government agent. Altogether 1,200 head have fallen on the hands of the Government up to date and will have to be sold.

Sandbagged in Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—On Saturday night John F. Flanigan, a cigarmaker living at 374 Manning avenue, was sandbagged and robbed of his gold watch and chain at the corner of Laurier avenue and Wellesley street. Flanigan is now in Grace Hospital, and it will be at least three days before the doctor will be able to determine the extent of his injuries. His right eye is badly swollen, and there is an ugly looking scalp wound on the top of his head, due to the blows of the highwaymen. Flanigan can give no description of his three assailants.

King Wears Pince-Nez.

New York, Sept. 22.—A special cable to The World says that King Edward, acting under the advice of Dr. Pagenstecher, now wears pince-nez, and it is said the sight of his left eye is almost gone. He has also had a return of the gouty affection of his throat. Sir Felix Semon, the throat specialist, is visiting him at Balmoral, it appears.

John Jones Robbed.

Buffalo, Sept. 22.—John Jones, 28 years old, a newspaper man, who claims Belleville, Ont., as his home, was held up and robbed of $80 and his gold watch by two men on Commercial street early Saturday morning.

Charges Son With Arson.

Woodstock, Sept. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Beamer of Blenheim Township, who were arrested near Drumbo on Friday, charged with having set fire to a barn on the farm occupied by Beamer's mother, and owned by himself, will be given a preliminary hearing before the police magistrate to-morrow. The charge of arson is made by the male prisoner's mother and sister.

Queen to Be Buried Tuesday.

Brussels, Sept. 22.—The death of Queen Marie Henriette of the Belgians has evoked expressions of profound pity for the royal patient, who died unattended by a single member of her family. The body of the Queen has not been embalmed. The King will accompany the body from Spa to Brussels to-day. It will be deposited in the family vault at Laken. An official funeral service will be held on Tuesday.

Ways of the Statesmen.

Many years ago, when England was engaged in foreign complications, the first lord of the admiralty sent Admiral Codrington a dispatch which was most peaceful as far as it appeared before the public. He told him not to take his ships into action and so forth, but in a corner he wrote this short private note, "Go it, Ned!" And Codrington went to Navarino and smashed up the Turkish fleet.

CONSERVATIVE LEADER HURT.

Mr. Borden's Narrow Escape While Returning from Indian Reservation to Calgary—Harry Phillips Killed —Fell Into the Thresher— Mrs. Jackson Run Over and Killed.

Calgary, N. W. T., Sept. 22.—While R. L. Borden and his party were returning Saturday from the Indian reservation to Calgary the rig in which Mr. Borden was seated had passed over a rough and sloping piece of ground, and as the one containing Mrs. Borden and others was passing over this spot, the driver of the rig was thrown from his place and the horses at once bolted with the rig and six helpless occupants. The runaway team ran astride the rig containing Mr. Borden and other ladies and gentlemen, and Mr. Borden was, by the pole of the pursuing rig, thrown in such a manner that his left knee was caught between the wheel and the brake of his rig, and a furious horse was all but pinning him beneath its feet. The runaway was stopped.

Struck by G.T.R. Express.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—The body of Harry Phillips, 25 years old, a laborer, was found on Saturday morning on the G.T.R. tracks, west of the Markham road bridge. Both legs were broken and the head badly crushed, and the indications are that he was struck by the G.T.R. express east, leaving the city at 9 o'clock Friday night.

Fell Into the Thresher.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—George Bull of Scarboro Township on Saturday morning while engaged in threshing on the farm of James Wilson was crossing from one mow to another when he fell and was caught by the revolving cylinder of the thresher. The machine was stopped as soon as possible, but not before his foot was terribly lacerated by the teeth of the cylinder. He was extricated, and a physician summoned. Bull was afterwards brought to Toronto and at the General Hospital his right foot was amputated.

Vagrant Run Over.

Montreal, Sept. 22.—A woman named Frances Jackson, aged about 45, who started Saturday to walk to Halifax by the I. C. R., was run over and killed by a Grand Trunk train near St. Hyacinthe. The unfortunate woman said she had friends in Nova Scotia, but she had been arrested here as a vagrant and liberated on condition she would leave town.

Boat Hand Drowned.

Rat Portage, Sept. 22.—Archie McLean, a steamboat hand, slipped from a boat into the water and was drowned before help could be secured.

With Bullet in His Head.

Thorold, Sept. 22.—The body of William Davidge of the Thorold Pulp Co. was found by members of his family dead on the floor of his room with a bullet wound in his right temple about 10.30 yesterday morning. It is not known whether it was accidental or a case of suicide. Coroner Dr. Lemon deemed an inquest unnecessary. Mr. Davidge came from Niagara Falls, N.Y., about two years ago. He was about forty years of age and leaves a widow.

Cornwall, Sept. 22.—Miss Lillian Stacey, the young girl who had the scalp torn off her head by being caught in the machinery of the card room of the Canadian Colored Cotton Mills about five weeks ago, died at the Cornwall General Hospital at 10 o'clock on Saturday.

Collided in St. Lawrence.

Quebec, Sept. 22.—The Norwegian steamer Tiger, bound for Montreal with a general cargo, collided about 9 o'clock Saturday night with the steamer Hilda, which was anchored in the stream opposite the city. The night was very dark, but the steamer Hilda had her lights in position and in good shape. The Tiger was considerably damaged, and brought back to the cross-wall in the Louise Basin to be examined. The steamer Hilda was not damaged.

ELECTION TRIALS.

Out of the forty-eight election protests and seventeen cross-petitions, Justices McClennan and Street, sitting as an election court, have decided the date of the election petitions affecting South Oxford and East Middlesex. The trials will take place in Woodstock and London, respectively, on Wednesday, October 15th. Both respondents are Conservatives. The judges have decided to hold two trials a week, and if every petition is pushed, and the schedule adhered to, the end of the list will be reached in six months from October 15th.

THE SITUATION SIMPLIFIED.

The following extract from the great speech delivered by Hon. G. W. Ross, at the recent annual meeting of the British Empire League in London at which he was the principal speaker, presents the British preference situation in the matter of foodstuffs in a very much simplified form. Referring to this subject in the course of his speech, Mr. Ross said:

"And this leads to the point more directly at issue. While you have manufactured goods to sell, and for which we have given a preference, we have foodstuffs to sell for which you give no preference. Your markets are as open to wheat from Russia or the United States as to wheat from Canada. In fact 47 per cent. of the wheat imported into this country, 83 per cent. of the flour, and 85 per cent. of the oatmeal come from the United States. In addition, you import enormous quantities of beef and pork from the same country. We think, with a very small preference, we could very soon furnish the greater part of these supplies. Manitoba, last year, with only two million acres of land under wheat, harvested fifty million bushels. (Cheers.) Your entire imports of wheat amount annually to a hundred million bushels. How long do you think it would take to get this from Canada? Not more than five or six years, and perhaps not so long. But you may say, if we tax our food supplies we will increase the cost of manufactures, and to that extent diminish our power of competition with other countries. My answer is that you have already imposed a duty upon wheat and flour, and there appears to be no perceptible diminution of your powers of competition—at least, from that cause. (Hear, hear.) Why, then, not retain the tax but relieve the colonies from its application? This would be at least one instalment of colonial free trade, which would be of immense value to Canada, while at the same time it would not be such a complete abandonment of free trade as the course you have adopted. It might not yield as large a revenue, but it would be a measure of reciprocity in keeping with the preference given to British goods by Canada. (Applause.)"

EDITORIAL NOTES

A correspondent of the Globe calls attention to an instance in which the mother-in-law appears in a beneficent light, in contrast to the one so highly overworked by the would-be humourist. The fact that Salisbury Cathedral suffered less than any other cathedral in England during the iconoclastic raids of Cromwell's rude soldiery, is due to the influence of the 'Protector's mother-in-law, who lived near by. Her deep interest in the building was respected by even the rough Roundheads.

"FIELDS OF THE CLOTH OF GOLD"

"Fields of the cloth of gold," used by the Globe's special crop commissioner in Manitoba, is quite a relief from the hackneyed metaphors, applied to ripened fields of grain, that have been cropped with such unrotatory iteration, and in addition to being a neat poetic conceit, has the prosaic advantage of having a solid foundation of hard fact, or, rather, hard wheat, and No. 1 hard at that. It refers to Manitoba's waving wheat fields, described in detail in a series of letters of great interest. These letters have been graphic pictures of the conditions that combine to reduce to speedy possibility of reality the prophecy that before long Canada will be the granary of the Empire. To give an idea of the important scale upon which farming is practised in the Northwest, and of the handsome profits made, the following summary made by the Globe, is presented;

"J. D. Ross is no great farmer, as farmers go in Manitoba, but a Globe reporter saw him teaming home 4,000 pounds of binder twine the other day to tie up his wheat, of which he has 1,600 acres, yielding, according to estimate, 48,000 bushels. Last year he had 36,000 bushels. He has also 300 acres of oats and 40 acres of barley, three or four barns, 30 horses, and a nice brick house. He has been farming ten years and employs six men."

Wheat is spoken of as being worth to the Manitoba farmer at present about 55 cents a bushel. The cost of producing the wheat — seed, sowing, cultivating, harvesting — is placed at about $8 an acre, or for such wheat land as Mr. Ross', giving 30 bushels to the acre, say 27 cents a bushel. This would leave a profit of 28 cents a bushel, or for 48,000 bushels, a net profit of $13,440.

Farming like that will begin to take people out of town, if it keeps on.

The Globe reporter, in his latest letter, has many items, almost similarly juicy. He speaks of Donald Coig, of Treherne, "the owner of 900 acres of wheat, now fast ripening"—28 bushels to the acre, or over 25,000 bushels. Andrew Creighton, of Cypress, is the owner of 1,200 acres, mostly in wheat. William Christie, near Glenboro,' "a former resident of Huron County," has 100 acres, "a solid block of yellow, not a weed in sight, looking good for 35 bushels to the acre." Jas. Duncan, of Glenboro' station, "has 240 acres of wheat, half of which is cut, giving 30 bushels to the acre."

"To the south of Glenboro' four miles, begins a settlement of Icelanders, which began nearly twenty years ago, and which now numbers about one thousand persons. The people of Glenboro' are a unit in praising the Icelanders as desirable farmers and settlers. They have learned English, have adopted Canadian manners and methods, and are thrifty farmers. Some of them are reputed to be worth $30,000 to $40,000, and they are increasing their holdings."

The Globe reporter records the fact most striking of all, that land is now on sale, or, at all events, has been on sale this year, at a less figure per acre than the net profits now being obtained from the wheatfields. "That is to say, that it might be possible for a pioneer to have bought lands at $4 or $5 an acre last year, and pay the whole of his purchase money out of his profits on this year's crop. Is there any other land accessible to white men on the face of the world to-day, where this can be done?"

As years of cultivation succeed each other the climate unquestionably ameliorates, danger by early frosts become less. Is it not reasonable to think, that now as this country becomes freely accessible by railways, as the advertising of it grows in proportion with the population, and as the vacant fertile lands in the United States becomes less, there will be an inrushing human tide upon these golden fields such as the world has hardly seen.

VEGETABLES IN THE YUKON.

All Varieties Will Come to Perfection There.

A practical result of the expedition of Prof. Macoun to the Yukon district is the evidence that all our ordinary vegetables will come to perfection in the Klondike and even barley will ripen there.

Dr. Bell realizing the importance of knowing definitely the capabilities of the Yukon for producing vegetable food of any sort, requested Prof. Macoun, before the latter's departure from the north, to investigate the whole matter of soil, climate and results of experiments so far. Prof. Macoun has considerable experience in such matters and it has turned out that owing to certain meteorological peculiarities the climate of the Yukon valley is very much better than could be anticipated. This is to a great extent due to the absence of cold winds in summer time and to the gentle Chinook or eddy winds of the Pacific at high levels, which constantly supplies the valley with high temperature.

Contrary to Prof. Macoun's expectations, he found no arctic plants in the lower levels of the valley and found abundant evidence that all our ordinary vegetables will come to perfection there.

Although not connected with the minerological work of the department, this is one of the practical evidences of the splendid results of the operations of the geological survey department.

WE'RE IN GOOD HEALTH.

A Valuable Review by Dr. Kitchen, of St. George, as to Ontario's Sanitation.

In the President's address at the meeting of the Medical Health Officers of Ontario at Berlin, Dr. Kitchen gave an interesting review of the progress of public health and sanitation in the Province in the last 20 years.

At the beginning of that period there were hardly any Boards of Health; now there are 754 bodies. In 1882 only 12 public water supplies were in existence, while now there are 110, at a cost of $11,000,000. In 1882 there were only 7 systems of sewerage, now there are 48. In 1828 there were 7 separate street sewers, now they have increased to 50. The work of the Provincial Secretary and Board in getting proper municipal water supplies and efficient sewerage systems, has been very valuable; the Provincial Board has to pass on all plans for waterworks and sewerage.

In addition to the regular duties of the local officers and Board in the watching over the building and arrangements for the manufacture and supply of meat, bread, milk and other foods, ice, etc., the management of contagious diseases under our municipal system has been very successful. Isolation and disinfection, combined with the use of anti-toxin, have reduced the mortality in diphtheria from 60 per 1,000, to 10 per 1,000. The provision for reports from doctors, placarding, vaccination, and other measures for isolation, and disinfection have given the public Health Boards much greater control also over small-pox, measles, scarlet fever, and other contagious diseases, so that frequently, by proper care, these diseases do not spread from the first case. Even tuberculosis is being looked upon with less horror, and no doubt the day is not far distant, when, with our isolation and modern views of the disease, or say, perhaps even before another quinquennium, Dr. Kitchen says, we may record the fact that its large mortality is much lessened. Diseases in animals, such as anthrax, etc., have also come under the jurisdiction of the Board, so as to prevent their spread.

Dr. Kitchen's review certainly emphasizes the very valuable work that has been done by the Provincial and local Boards of Health, the past 20 years, and he pays a deservedly high tribute to the work of the Provincial Secretary, Dr. Bryce, who is chiefly responsible for that progress. When we reflect that the expectation of life in the United Kingdom to-day is three years longer than it was before 1854, owing to the advance of medical and sanitary science, and that the Boer war might have been ended six months earlier, and many lives and vast expense saved, if the plague of enteric fever had been dealt with by an adequate army sanitary organisation, we may set a higher appreciation on the valuable public service the provincial and municipal health organizations of Ontario is discharging.—Guelph Mercury.

SPENCER'S NEW AIRSHIP.

Aeronaut Describes His Machine as Perfect Steering in Light Wind.

London, Sept. 22.—Stanley Spencer, the aeronaut, who sailed his self-constructed airship a distance of thirty miles Friday, received many congratulations yesterday. He was not disposed to exaggerate his achievement in steering an airship over London, yet he asserts that his machine is absolutely perfect in gentle wind. He had intended to cross St. Paul's Cathedral and headed that way. He found it was too foggy, however, and turned toward the West End, where it was clearer. In an interview he said:

"In a strong wind I should require a stronger balloon. The steering was absolutely perfect, and never made more than a four-foot pitch."

This is not the impression conveyed to the casual observer, to whom it appeared that the machine was not under anything approaching perfect control. At times it whirled apparently in an eccentric manner, but for considerable stretches it behaved wonderfully well in the wind. He says the highest altitude he reached was 1,500 feet.

DISTURBING LAWYER ARRESTED.

Number of Dead From the Alabama Stampede Is 110.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 22.—The negro population of Birmingham is in mourning, and gloom has been cast over the entire city as the people begin to realize the immensity of Friday night's disaster at Shiloh Baptist Church. Saturday the number of dead had reached 110, and 90 of these have been identified. Booker T. Washington has received the following telegram from President Roosevelt:

"I am shocked and horrified by the disaster at Birmingham, and desire to express my great grief at the sad loss of life."

Physicians express the opinion that all the injured will recover, though several are in a very serious condition.

Judge J. H. Ballew, the negro lawyer who is said to have precipitated the panic by engaging in an altercation with Hicks, the choir leader, has been arrested, and is in jail, charged with disturbing public worship. Hicks has not been located.

A PRACTICABLE PROPOSAL.

Sir Fred. Bramwell Suggests Italian as the Universal Language.

London, Sept. 22.—Two or three points of general interest developed at this week's sessions of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Belfast.

Sir Frederick Bramwell, setting aside the manufacture of a universal language as impracticable, suggested that a living language should be taken and that all the important nations of the earth, the United States, Germany, France and England, should agree that no person in these States, over whom the Government has control, directly or indirectly, should, after the expiration of say twenty years, be eligible for any appointment, from prime minister to policeman, unless in addition to his own language, he is able to read, write and converse in some other language.

That language, it is proposed, should be Italian. Its adoption would not create any international jealousies. It is closely based on Latin and is highly melodious.

RIOTS IN STREET CAR STRIKE.

Bayonets and Gun Butts Used to Repel Hoodlums.

Troy, N.Y., Sept. 22.—Waterford was the scene of further outbreak in the Hudson Valley strike situation last evening. A fusilade of stones greeted a car which arrived from the north on which were Capt. Walbridge, Lieut. Thomas and a detail of soldiers of Company "L," National Guards. Lieut. Walbridge and his men thereupon forced the crowd back. Bayonets and gunstocks were used. Capt. Walbridge struck John Coffey of Waterford on the head with his sword, cutting a gash eight inches long. Capt. Walbridge issued a statement last night that unless further rioting ceased his men would use bullets instead of bayonets. The rioting thus far in Waterford has been caused entirely by hoodlums.

GOING TO INDIA FOR HUSBANDS.

Miss Twaddle of N.Y. and Miss Blaine of Toronto Will Take Trip.

Utica, Sept. 22.—Miss Mabel Twaddle of North Burke, Franklin County, is going to far-off India to become a bride, and it all came through her playing the church organ and singing in the choir. While engaged in this work at the Presbyterian Church in her home village she attracted the attention of a young man who, while attending McGill University, supplied the pulpit. The student, Frederick J. Anderson, has completed his course and is now engaged in mission work 400 miles from Bombay, India, where Miss Twaddle goes to meet him to culminate a two years' engagement by marriage. She expects to reach her destination about Nov. 1.

Miss Blaine of Toronto accompanies her on the same kind of errand. Her fiance is the Rev. M. D. Harcourt, also a mission worker and a friend of Mr. Anderson. The weddings will take place together.

Lost Schooner Returned.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 22.—The little Newfoundland schooner Forget-Me-Not, of eighty tons, left St. John's for the Arctic last fall to establish a trading station at Cape Henry, on Baffin Bay. She was expected to return in the spring, but after months of waiting and no tidings of her she was given up. The schooner was spoken by the Windward just north of Resolution Island, bound for home with a cargo of furs. The Forget-Me-Not had been caught and frozen in the ice last winter near Cape Henry.

Socialists Want Cheaper Meat.

Munich, Sept. 22.—The German Socialist Congress, which opened here Sept. 15, adopted resolutions providing for the inauguration of meetings throughout Germany to protest against the price of meat, and to authorize the Deputies to interpellate the Government regarding the scarcity of meat and the boycott against foreign meat.

SPENDING EASY MONEY.

Schwab Made Everybody in a Cafe Drink Champagne With Him.

Paris, Sept. 22.—Charles M. Schwab, while going to visit the Creusot Iron Works, the largest in Europe, stopped his automobile at Chagny. Being too late to proceed, he decided to spend the night in that small town. He entered a small local cafe chantant, where he paralyzed the singing girls and the waiters by his lavish tips. Afterward Schwab forbade the owner to accept money from anybody in the place but himself and forbade everybody in the audience to drink anything but champagne. Long after Schwab and his party had retired squads of jolly natives were serenading along every street. Before leaving the next day Schwab left $500 at the local hospital as an atonement for, his mischievous lark of the previous night.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—At Osgoode Hall on Saturday morning Justices Maclennan, Street and MacMahon sat for the purpose of fixing the dates for the election petitions. There are altogether 48 protests and 17 cross-petitions to be dealt with.

The judges, however, only fixed the dates for East Middlesex and South Oxford, both against Conservatives. The trials will both be held on the same day—Wednesday, Oct. 15, at 1.30 p. m., the former at London and the other at Woodstock.

FREE TO MILLIONS.

A Valuable Little Book Sent Free for the Asking.

Medical books are not always interesting reading, especially to people enjoying good health, but as a matter of fact scarcely one person in ten is perfectly healthy, and even with such sooner or later sickness must come.

It is also a well established truth that nine-tenths of all diseases originate with a breaking down of the digestion, a weak stomach weakens and impoverishes the system, making it easy for disease to gain a foothold.

Nobody need fear consumption, kidney disease, liver trouble or a weak heart and nervous system as long as the digestion is good and the stomach able to assimilate plenty of wholesome food.

Stomach weakness shows itself in a score of ways and this little book describes the symptoms and causes and points the way to a cure so simple that anyone can understand and apply.

Thousands have some form of stomach trouble and do not know it. They ascribe the headaches, the languor, nervousness, insomnia, palpitation, constipation and similar symptoms to some other cause than the true one. Get your digestion on the right track and the heart trouble, lung trouble, liver disease or nervous debility will rapidly disappear.

This little book treats entirely on the cause and removal of indigestion and its accompanying annoyances.

It describes the symptoms of Acid Dyspepsia, Nervous Dyspepsia, Slow Dyspepsia, Amylaceous Dyspepsia, Catarrh of stomach and all affections of the digestive organs in plain language easily understood and the cause removed.

It gives valuable suggestions as to diet, and contains a table giving length of time required to digest various articles of food, something every person with weak digestion should know.

No price is asked, but simply send your name and address plainly written on postal card to the F.A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., requesting a little book on Stomach Diseases and it will be sent promptly by return mail.

The American Invasion.

Stratford, Sept. 22.—Residents of Baden feel assured that before the snow flies this fall operations will be commenced there on one of the largest sugar beet factories in the Province. Those at the head of the scheme are capitalists from Scranton, Pa., and it is understood that a Dominion charter will be applied for capitalizing the company at $2,000,000.

Shows Low-Grade Ore.

Bloemfontein, Orange River Colony, Sept. 21.—Further information in regard to the discovery of a new Rand, by Mr. Rathbone, a former Government expert on the Witwatersrand, rather discounts the first optimistic impressions. The reef shows only low grade ore, which will need economical working on a large scale of operations in order to show a profit.

ABOUT THE FAST LINE

Hon. Mr. Blair Has Little to Announce Concerning the Project.

HON. MR. FIELDING INTERVIEWED

Canada Not Aiming to Form a Shipping Combine—Imperial Government Willing to Help Canadian Fast Line to a Limited Extent—Sir Frederick Borden Talks About Military Defence—Coronation Medals.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Hon. A. G. Blair was asked yesterday whether there were any developments in connection with the proposed fast Atlantic line. The Minister of Railways said nothing would be done until the return of all the Ministers to Ottawa. Mr. Blair was then asked if he could give any information as to what tenders had been received, but replied that it was not in his power to do so. It is stated however, that three propositions for a fast line have been submitted, one of an eighteen-knot service, another for a twenty-knot service, and a third for a 22-knot service. The 22-knot service would, it is said, cost $2,000,000 a year to establish.

MR. FIELDING INTERVIEWED.

Canada is Not Aiming to Form a Shipping Combine.

London, Sept. 22. — Hon. W. S. Fielding, Canadian Minister of Finance, in an interview published in The Daily News, Saturday, ridiculed the idea that Canada was seeking to bring about anything approaching to what is generally called a shipping combine. All that it was sought to do was to improve the existing service, and the Dominion Government was prepared to set apart a considerable sum to that end every year. The Imperial Government, Mr. Fielding believed, was willing to help the scheme to a limited extent.

Mr. Fielding claimed that Canadian and British business men would desert the New York route if the Canadian fast line was established.

Canada's prosperity, Mr. Fielding further remarked, when trade matters were touched upon, is not likely to be hindered by internal trouble. The French-Canadians, are most loyal, but there are extremists on both sides. Neither section, however, is numerous enough to carry much weight in the country. The French-Canadian is naturally strongly attached to France, as he should be, and that fact may tend to foster and develop Canada's trade with France and other European countries.

SIR FREDERICK IN OTTAWA.

All Members of Coronation Contingent Will Get Medals.

Ottawa, Sept. 22. — Sir Frederick Borden has arrived here from England. Being interviewed Saturday, Sir Frederick said that he intended leaving on Tuesday or Wednesday next for Nova Scotia, where he will stay for a couple of weeks. While on his way down he will visit the Three Rivers camp.

Sir Frederick on being asked as to his position and that of the Government in regard to military defence, said that what Canada proposed to do was outlined in his speech of last session. Canada would not make any expenditures that would not be controlled by the Dominion Parliament. As to the coronation medals, he expected that all the members of the coronation contingent would get them.

Saturday Review and Mr. Tarte.

London, Sept. 22.—The Saturday Review in its issue yesterday, says, referring to recent utterances of the Canadian Minister of Public Works, "Mr. Tarte as a politician is always inclined to say more than he means. His undoubted popularity with a large section of the public does not mean, however, a corresponding confidence. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will need all his skill and suavity to prevent a breach in the party."

STOCK MARKETS.

Judicious Market Handling.

New York, Sept. 20th.—The methods of the people controlling present speculation have been most masterly. The curbing of runaway speculation during the close money period and the quiet absorption of stocks held by weak holders was just the proper manoeuvre. Relaxation and a quieting of the market this week tended to sooth and not to aggravate the money situation, as matters are becoming easier. The market is again commencing to harden. Indications point most strongly to a much better range of values very shortly. The market is evidently under the management of adroit and master minds. For many months we have in these letters been calling your attention to the revolution that has been going on in the great south-west, and plainly and frequently stated that plans were on foot for a merger in some kind of manner for the Gould properties creating as it were a greater Missouri-Pacific system. We have for over a year been firm in the belief that this was the inevitable outcome of the situation in that territory, and have so frequently declared, always advising the purchasing and holding of this group of stocks. Those who have followed the advice now have magnificent profits to their credit, and most certain likelihood of seeing them still further increased. Facts are slowly coming out now which indicate the correctness of the views expressed by us all along. It may be called the greater Missouri-Pacific system, the South-Western Securities Co., or the Trans-continental Securities Co. The result will be the same, no matter what the name. It now looks as if these plans are greater in scope than heretofore suspected. It now looks as if it would be a Gould-Rockefeller system extending through from ocean to ocean with numberless arms and feeders in various directions. The R. I. folks appear to figure in the affair. This, probably is, to some extent, accountable for the remarkable strength of that stock. It will all unfold shortly, and which will probably be in the favour of the company. M.O.P. plans will undoubtedly be hastened by the handing down of a favourable decision in the matter. Several other plans and mergers are also awaiting the same matter. Their announcement, and carrying to completion, will have a tendency to stimulate the market greatly.

Summary.—The market boomed again to-day under leadership of St. Paul, which advanced to 198 3-4. The rest of list followed in the wake of the leader. In the last half hour a sharp reaction took place, due to heavy realizing sales. They were increased on account of it being the last day of the week. Speculative interests were active, and greatly increased, and the outlook remains good. We still advise the purchase of stocks on each and every concession. Those who will hold on to stocks will make the best profits. Money closed at 5 per cent. Total sale was 360,000.

The First Gun.

A union meeting of all the temperance societies in town will be held on Tuesday evening in the Foresters' Hall, over Dutton's store, George street.

To-night at St. Paul's.

Mr. R. P. McKay, D.D., of Toronto, will address the young people of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's in the school room of St. Paul's church, this evening at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is given to both old and young to attend.

Peterborough Lodge, No. 111 I. O. O. F.

A special meeting of the members of Peterborough Lodge No. 111, I.O. O.F., to make arrangements for the funeral of Bro. Nelson, of Lakefield, will be held in their hall, corner of Hunter and George streets, this evening at 8 o'clock. G. Evans, N.G.

Incendiaries Abroad.

Mr. Robert Redmond complains of an attempt which was made by some boys to set fire to his premises, No. 469 Donegal street, the other day. It seems that a post in the fence on which a "To Let" card was posted, was in a blaze when he discovered it. Mr. Redmond has his suspicions as to the identity of his tormentors, and will seek the aid of the police in order to secure peace.

'The Best Ever."

The McKinley Bros.' Minstrels filled the opera house to the doors on Saturday evening and those who were in attendance were more than delighted with the performance. Without any exaggeration it is quite safe to say that the minstrels were easily the best which have appeared in Peterborough during the last ten years. The voices harmonized perfectly in the choruses, the jokes were new and bright and the specialties were of a high order.

Out of the Ordinary.

It will be noticed that the Peterborough Bookstore announces an unique "Red Ticket Sale," commencing Wednesday morning, September 24th. This unusual event will furnish a good chance to secure special values in wall papers, window blinds, curtain poles, picture framing, etc. Every line offered will be designated by a red tag on which the regular and reduced prices will be plainly marked. This departure from "old traditions" ought to meet with the endorsement of buyers, as they will be able to see at a glance the actual saving in prices.

The Lindsay Post makes the subjoined kindly reference to Dr. Bingham, Peterborough's Medical Health Officer: — "It should be the duty of a Health Board, or the executive officer thereof, from time to time to instruct the public concerning the treatment of contagious disease and the maintenance of healthy conditions in the home. Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer at Peterborough, appears to be a zealous officer who realizes the truth of the old adage that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and from time to time, through the columns of the press of that town, he imparts information of great value to the householder. We print below a letter that appeared the other day, in which he shows that the patent fumigator used by the Lindsay Board's sanitary inspector is of doubtful efficacy, and that a much simpler plan is followed in Toronto."

TWO TRAINMEN MET DEATH.

Rear End Collision on the G. T. R.

16 CARS WERE SMASHED.

Engineer Swanton and Fireman Faulkner Were the Victims—Other Trainmen Jumped and Escaped Death.

Saturday night about 12.30 a serious rear end collision occurred at a point near Grass Hill and Cambray, a short distance from Lindsay, on the Grand Trunk Railway, the result being the loss of two of the trainmen and the destruction of two engines and sixteen box cars. A heavy feight train grain laden from Midland for Lindsay, in charge of Conductor Foley, broke in two at the foot of a steep grade. The train was brought to a standstill, and Conductor Foley, knowing that another freight was following, ran back to signal the oncoming train, which was in charge of Conductor Hodgins. The fog was thick and the grade very steep, and the crew of the second train were unable to stop their train in time, and she crashed into Foley's train with fearful results. Both trains were double-headers. The engineer and fireman of the first engine on the stalled train jumped and escaped. The driver and fireman of the second train were not quick enough, and lost their lives. Fireman Faulkner was badly cut up, and when picked up from the wreck lived but a few minutes. Driver Swanton was buried in the debris of his engine and was instantly killed. The line is strewn with broken cars and hundreds of bushels of Manitoba wheat, which is being rushed east from Midland. Brakeman Parker was in the cab with Driver Swanton, but by a quick jump was saved. He, however, suffered severely from bruised shoulders and head. The auxiliary from Lindsay was summoned, and got to work to clear the line. It is expected that the wreck will be so far cleared away as to allow through traffic in the morning. The remains of the dead engineer and fireman were taken to Lindsay, where an inquest will be held. Driver Swanton was a married man and lived in Lindsay. Fireman Faulkner is a native of Belleville.

The death in the Cambray railway wreck, of Fireman Faulkner and Engineer Swanton will be sincerely regretted by Peterborough people as both of the unfortunate men were known here. Engineer Swanton was perhaps better known to Peterborough people than his fellow victim, as his bereaved wife was a former Peterborough lady, being a Miss Brault, a niece of Mr. J. B. Laroque, proprietor of the Montreal House. Mr. Laroque left for the scene of accident yesterday. The bodies up until noon had not been given over to the relatives of the deceased men.

Later—The remains of the late Mr. Swanton will arrive in Peterborough this evening on a special train, which will leave Lindsay at five o'clock. The funeral will take place under the auspices of the local lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows.

THE BLANCHE ROYAL CASE.

Correction of a Number of Mis-Statements Which Have Been Made.

In an interview to-day Mr. Richard Hall pointed out a number of misapprehensions which appear to exist in regard to the Blanche Royal case. The rules of the Nicholls Hospital, in the first case, are very stringent in regard to the non-admittance of incurables, chronic or insane patients and the girl appears to be debarred therefore under all three heads. And again, the hospital authorities have been imposed upon so often by tramps and similar characters feigning sickness, that they are chary of taking prisoners from the cells without a proper investigation into the circumstances. The last one who was taken made a trip to the hospital storeroom and stole a suit of clothes for which another patient had to be reimbursed. Mr. Hall states, however, that if the two physicians who attended the girl when she was brought to the cells, had telephoned the hospital that they were sending in a patient there would have been no difficulty in obtaining admittance for her.

The statement that the girl is still in a state of stupor is entirely incorrect, as she was apparently quite recovered twenty minutes after she reached the hospital and can be removed to the goal to serve her sentence at any time.

COUNTY POLICE COURT.

Several Cases That Will Come up for Hearing.

On Saturday afternoon Jas. Gorman and Jos. Huard of Ashburnham, were arrested, charged with stealing a watch from Joseph Finlay. They were remanded until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Thos. Sinclair of Havelock, will come up before Judge Edmison tomorrow morning on a charge of stealing a sum of money from Albert Deck of Belmont.

An Indian will answer a charge of wife beating on Wednesday morning in the county police court.

Some Big Fish.

While trawling in Balsam Lake, close to Rosedale on Tuesday last, William Nott, an Indian, caught four large, one of which weighed 24 lbs., and another 16 lbs. The biggest is a monster for these days though it wouldn't have been thought much of forty or fifty years ago, and Mr. Nott is justly proud of catching it.

READY TO START.

The American Cereal Co. Will Soon be Exporting Cereals.

There is great activity around the Cereal Company's premises these days, and it is expected that the mill will be set running about Wednesday. The first carload of grain arrived on Saturday and is now stored in the elevator. The buildings are being fully stocked with packing boxes, bags, etc., and other material used in the exporting business. The Company have moved their offices from the Bank of Commerce building to their own premises and the office staff is being arranged.

The huge heap of sawdust on the west bank of the river which has for years been growing larger, will soon begin to grow smaller. The Cereal Company intend using this sawdust for fuel, and at the present time teams are engaged in drawing it to the furnace of the big mill. No difficulty will be experienced, it is said in consuming the mountain of debris.

YESTERDAY'S BLAZE.

Slight Damage Done to a Residence in Ashburnham.

The fire brigade was called out on Sunday afternoon to the residence of Mr. C. E. Hubbs, Ashburnham. A fire had broken out in the summer kitchen, and was making rapid headway when first noticed. Considerable damage was done to the kitchen before the arrival of the brigade. It is supposed that the fire had its origin in an ash barrel. Damage to the extent of $300 was done, which was partly covered by insurance.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—Business College open to-night. Now is the time to arrange for night school. 6d

—A meeting of the Finance Committee and the Board of Works will be held this evening.

—A runaway occurred at the North end yesterday afternoon, and the driver was thrown out, receiving some painful bruises.

—Those who wish to join the Business College Night School should enter to-night. A better opportunity to study the useful branches taught has never been offered.

—W. Morgan has removed his barber shop and cigar store to the new Crystal Block, a few doors south of former premises. Come and see Morgan's swell Crystal Barber Shop and Cigar Store. tf

—A couple of pretty little chameleons were on exhibition this morning in the window of the Tate Optical Parlours. As they played around the alligator, their ever-changing hues were greatly admired.

—Bobcaygeon friends have received news of the death in Dakota of William Ritchie, a former popular resident, at the age of 71 years. Mr. Ritchie and his partner, Mr. Lucas, built and ran the first sawmill in Haliburton.

—In the course of a few years our north country will have become one great ranch for the production of young cattle to be fattened elsewhere. One day last week, Mr. Jas. Handley, of Burnt River, disposed of 53 head of young steers at 4c live weight, the whole netting him over $2300.

—Tweed News.—On Saturday afternoon, while Fred Laveck, Walter Mayers and J. E. Johnston were building a fence on the Carleton ranch they came across a nest of black snakes. They succeeded in killing 94, which ranged from 3 ft. 8 in. in length down to 6 in., inside a space of 10 ft. square.

—It is related of a Port Hope man, who seldom helps to wear out church cushions, that he was persuaded to hear a sermon last Sunday, and was much impressed. "You are never to old to learn," he remarked confidently to a friend. "Now I always thought that Sodom and Gomorrah were husband and wife, and I find they were nothing but two cities."

—E. W. Rathbun, Deseronto, a commodore of industry, and the leading spirit in one of Canada's largest combinations of varied industries, recently visited the Soo. Mr. Rathbun inspected the varied projects of "The Consolidated Lake Superior Company," and pronounces them to be good. In his opinion the Soo is a natural position with a happy combination of power and material, and is in the hands of a master in Mr. Clergue, with careful executive administration. There should be no doubt of the future success of the company.

—The finances of Burleigh are now in good shape—$1,300 back debts paid, four mills reduction in taxes this year, and by December 15th, when the financial statement will have appeared, the municipality won't owe a dollar and will have money to carry the affairs of the municipality on till 1903. Not only this, but next year No. 1 School Section, embracing Stony Lake island holders, will have three mills special off, as well as some reduction on the township. This is indeed gratifying, and shows that the council and its officers have been attending strictly to business.

—Mr. W. J. Baptie has completed his contract of building the school on the 8th concession of Smith, about a mile and a half from Lakefield, and it was opened for the first time on Monday. The building is a handsome brick structure, 27 x 43 feet, with a porch front, 8 x 12 feet. The floor is made of hardwood, and is a very substantial one, the ceiling being finished in natural wood. A belfry has been placed on the roof and a bell will shortly be instaled. Mr. Baptie completed his contract in a very creditable manner, and in a remarkably short time.

CHURCH CHIMES.

AT ALL SAINTS'.

Yesterday was observed as missionary Sunday in All Saints', the morning service being devoted particularly to that subject. Miss Mary Rush sang "Just for To-day" as a solo. This was the best effort which Miss Rush has yet made in her solo work, and it was greatly appreciated. In the evening Rev. Mr. Armitage spoke on the Christian work of women. The harvest festival music was successfully repeated.

The Senior Girls' Guild will be reorganized this evening at 7.45 o'clock and a large attendance of members and others is requested.

The Advisory Board will meet in the Vestry at 8.30 this evening for the purpose of considering matters connected with the new church building.

FIRST MATCH OF THE SEASON.

Peterboroughs and T. A. S. Team Play Rugby.

ANY AMOUNT OF MATERIAL.

Thirty Athletes Struggles for Honours in the Nicholls Park Oval—Many New Men in Uniform.

The Rugby Football match on Saturday afternoon, between the Peterboroughs and the T. A. S. team, was illustrative of the fact that the town contains any amount of available material this year. The two fifteens which faced one another on the oval were composed with but few exceptions of big brawny athletes, who could catch places on any team. Of course there were a lot of green men on the field, who had never been in a uniform before, but they had the weight and the quickness acquired in playing lacrosse and other games, and it would not take them long to pick up the fine points of Rugby.

Dr. V. McWilliams officiated as referee and Mr. R. F. McWilliams as umpire. The two teams lined up as appended;

Peterborough.	T. A. S.
Backs.
Moore.....	J. Doris
Half backs.
H. Burnham...	J. Crough
A. W. McPherson...	W. Kearney
H. Armstrong.....	W. Grady
Quarter.
A. J. McClellan...	W. Crowley
Scrimmage.
F. Burnham.....	S. Houlihan
Thornton.....	J. Dalnard
A. Noble.....	Tracey
Wings.
F. Bradburn.....	O'Brien
McDonald.....	B. Doris
Simpson.....	Meagher
Collins.....	J. McDonough
Craig.....	E. Hickey
B. Cameron.....	Doris
Watson.....	Anglesyc

It was shortly after five o'clock before play commenced, and by this time a big crowd had gathered at the Oval. From the presence of so many new men on the field it might be assumed that the play was ragged, but on the contrary, the mistakes were only occasional and were rarely apparent in the mass play. When the play was open some errors in judgment were made, but on the whole the match was a most interesting one to watch. The first point went to Peterborough on a rouge, the ball not being returned quickly enough off Burnham's kick. A few minutes late McPherson kicked behind the goal posts, and the ball being fumbled Noble fell on it for a touch. The goal was not converted and the score stood 5—0. No more scoring was done in the first half, but McPherson got in one of his famous runs through the field and got well around behind the goal posts before being brought down. He had, however, run into touch, unwillingly, during his run and the ball was brought back. Soon after the starting of the second half a free kick by Burnham was fumbled on the back division of the T.A.S. and McPherson secured the ball for a touch. Burnham kicked the goal making the score 11—0, at which figures it remained until time was called.

NOTES.

Frank Burnham got his lip badly cut while trying to swallow a T.A.S. man's boot.

There wasn't a great deal left of Jack McDonough's natty little lacrosse sweater by the time the match was finished.

Quite a number of the old brigade were unable to turn out, including King Dillon, Joe Picard, Eugene Hurtuboise and Bruce Rickey. The latter, by-the-way, might be given a chance to see what he can do on the back division.

Moore and McDonald are new men in town, who have had experience in the game and look like promising players.

"Tick" Thornton should make a valuable addition to the scrimmage. Frank Burnham was putting him onto some of the wrinkles on Saturday.

It is too bad that the team will be without the services of Jack McDonald at quarter this year. The place will be a hard one to fill. As Jack is now one of the professors at McMaster University it would appear that his football days are over.

MRS. SKINNER'S TROUBLES.

Brought From Guelph to Face a Charge of Larceny.

At the police court this morning Mr. and Mrs. Louis Skinner appeared on a charge of stealing a bicycle from Mr. R. J. McPherson, on Aug. 27th. They pleaded not guilty, and made no election. They were both remanded until Thursday.

It appears that Mrs. Skinner rented the wheel on August 27th, and it is alleged wheeled to Guelph, where she pawned the bicycle. She was arrested on Friday by the Guelph police on the strength of a warrant sworn out in Peterborough, and Chief Roszel went to Guelph on Saturday, and brought her to Peterborough.

Skinner was not arrested until this morning, when he appeared in the police court with his wife.

NEW LAW OFFICE.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams has Moved Into the Crown Lands Office.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams, barrister, who for the past three years has been in partnership with Mr. A. P. Poussette, K.C., to-day moved into his new quarters on Water street, the partnership between Mr. Poussette and himself having been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. McWilliams' office will now be in the Crown Timber Office, a few doors north of where his old office was. Apartments have been very conveniently fitted up, and Mr. McWilliams is excellently prepared to look after the interests of his clients.

FOURTH BIBLE STUDY RALLY.

Rev. R. P. McKay Addressed Those Present on the "Man of the Ages."

The Y.M.C.A. hall was filled with men yesterday at the Annual Bible Study Rally, held in the afternoon. In point of attendance and interest as well it was more successful than any previous gathering of the kind.

Mr. Williamson, the Secretary, presided, and after the opening song service and devotional exercises by Rev. Mr. Lewis, gave a sketch of the Bible Study Department, making special allusion to the courses for the fall and winter. An opportunity was given students who were present who had been in the classes, to express briefly the benefits of such study. A goodly number responded to this invitation.

After singing by the George street quartette, and a solo by Mr. Herman Jolliffe, Rev. R. P. McKay, of Toronto, gave the address of the afternoon. During the half hour which his address occupied, he was listened to with marked attention, and made a deep impression upon his listeners.

His subject was "The Man of The Ages," referring, of course, to Christ and His life as a worker. He referred to the Y.M.C.A. as a training school for workers and pointed out that in a measure every worker could be like Christ, an every day worker doing the will of His Father.

He was the sent One and volunteer worker as well. Thus should all His followers be. He was also Spirit filled and His life began, continued and ended in the power of the Holy Spirit.

He was a worker mighty in the scriptures, and in the three short Gospels it is recorded that He quoted from nearly all the Books of the Old Testament.

He was a worker who emptied Himself of His place, His glory, His power in order that He might please and glorify His Father. All these points Dr. McKay made a personal application of to all Christian workers.

Christ also had visions of the future, which beyond life with it sacrifice, humiliation and cross, gave Him a view of the final triumph in which all who are like workers together with Him may join.

THE NEW RINK.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — A letter signed by "Mechanic," in Saturday's issue of the Examiner, was rather ill-timed in its references to the plans of the new rink being prepared by an outsider. As a matter of fact, Mr. Miller is a Peterborough boy, was educated in Peterborough, and owns a good deal of property in Peterborough. His father also still resides in town. Mr. Miller drew up the plans on an agreement to take out the amount of his bill in stock in the rink company. What more would anybody want?

Yours truly,

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Held in the Y. W. C. A. Rooms Yesterday.

Praise for the Blessings Attending the Work During the Year—Addresses Delivered.

In point of numbers and interest manifested the anniversary services held yesterday afternoon in the Young Women's Christian Association rooms was a source of great gratification to the Association workers. Owing to the slight indisposition of the president, Mrs. Dr. Scott, Mrs. J. McPherson presided.

The keynote of the opening services was praise for the blessings attending the work during the year. Following this an address was delivered by Rev. J. A. Wilson, on "Open Thou my eyes that I may behold wondrous things out of Thy law." He dwelt upon the wonderful nature of the Bible in its origin, authorship and its effect upon national, home and individual life, closing with a strong appeal on behalf of the Bible work in the association in its Sunday Gospel meetings and week-day classes.

The singing of "I was wandering, sad and weary," by Misses Godfrey, Carey and White, and the solo, "A Clean Heart," by Miss Belleghem, were very much appreciated, the selections being beautifully rendered.

A cordial invitation is extended to all young women to be present at the opening social rally on Tuesday night.

The beautiful decorations of ferns, palms, autumn leaves, vines, cut flowers, reflected great credit upon the young women in charge of the arrangements for the service.

The autumn reunion of the junior department was held on Saturday afternoon, with an attendance of about 75. Games and refreshments constituted the afternoon's entertainment.

The senior gymnasium class will meet on Friday at 4.15 and the junior and senior club meetings and sewing classes will be held on Saturday afternoon of each week.

Copies of the prospectus may be had upon application to the secretary.

A REVIVAL DISASTER.

Sixty-five Negro Baptists Killed in a Stampede.

EIGHTY SERIOUSLY INJURED.

National Convention of Colored Baptists at Birmingham, Ala.—Cry of "Fight" Mistaken For "Fire" Caused the Trouble—Booker T. Washington, the Principal Speaker, Had Just Finished His Address.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 20.—In an awful crush of humanity, caused by a stampede in the Shiloh Colored Baptist Church at the corner of Avenue G, and 18th Street last night 65 persons were killed and many more than that number seriously injured. The disaster occurred at 9 o'clock, just as Booker T. Washington had concluded his address to the National Convention of Colored Baptists and for three hours the scenes around the church were indescribable.

Dead bodies were strewn in every direction and the ambulance service of the city was utterly unable to care for them. Dozens of dead bodies were arranged in rows on the ground outside the house of worship, awaiting removal to the various undertaking establishments, while more than a score were laid out on the benches inside.

Shiloh Church is the largest house of worship for negroes in Birmingham, and there were at least 2,000 persons in the edifice when the stampede began. Instructions had been issued to allow no one else to enter after the building had been filled, but the negroes forced their way inside the church, and were standing in every aisle when a cry of "Fight, fight," was mistaken for the dreadful cry of "Fire," and a wild rush to get out was made. The entrance to the church was literally packed, and the negroes were trampled to death in their struggle to escape.

The floor of the church is about 15 feet from the ground and long steps lead to the sidewalk from the lobby just outside the main auditorium. Brick walls extend on each side of these steps for six or seven feet and this proved a veritable death trap. Negroes who had reached the top of the steps were thrown forward, others fell upon them and in a moment human beings were piled upon each other to a height of 10 feet, where they struggled hard to extricate themselves.

FROM DEATH'S DOOR.

An Ottawa Man's Wonderfully Narrow Escape.

He was in Convulsions and the Doctors Told his Wife he Could not Live till Morning, but he Recovered.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 21. — Special. —At 309 Gilmore street this city, there resides a man who has been nearer the hour and article of death than anyone who has been privileged to live to tell the story.

He is Mr. George H. Kent, a printer in the employ of the Bank Note Company, of Wellington street.

Some seven or eight years ago Mr. Kent was siezed with Bright's Disease, which gradually grew worse till he had to quit his work and was confined to his bed where he remained for some months.

Physicians were in constant attendance upon him but instead of improving he gradually grew worse and worse.

At last he became so low that his body became terribly bloated and his skin like tanned leather. He had convulsions, which increased in frequency, and the intervals between thes espasms, found him so weak that he was barely conscious.

One night after a particularly bad these spasms found him so weak that he could not live until morning.

A messenger was despatched for a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills which were immediately brought to the dying man.

Mr. Kent did not die. On the contrary in about two months he was at work again in the shop and has not since been off work for a single day. day.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent are naturally very grateful, and as a mark of their gratitude have called a sweet little girl born to them some two years after Mr. Kent's remarkable recovery by the name of "Edna Dodds" Kent.

Mr. Kent has made a sworn statement reciting the details of his case and his cure.

Precedence in Canada.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 20. — The Methodist Conference closed last evening, all the business being finished at noon yesterday. In the morning a report was presented by the committee on Civil Rights. This question of order on ecclesiastical precedence at state functions was first reported on. The giving of the chief places, first to archbishops, second bishops, third to other clergymen, was declared to be contrary to the spirit of our political institutions, the principals established in the history of the country, and the Clergy Reserves Act of 1854, which completely separates church and state, and to be unjust to the great leading Protestant denominations. The abolition of the existing table of ecclesiastical precedence was recommended if practicable. A memorial to change the name of the church was not complied with. An address for presentation to His Majesty King Edward VII. was presented and passed. At 12 45 o'clock a brief prayer closed the quadrennial session of 1902.

A Galt Lady Saved $60.

Mrs. Nesbitt of Galt, was sure her daughter was dying of consumption. So were two doctors and all the neighbours. Three 25c bottles of Four T's put the girl on her feet. As a positive, safe and speedy cure for coughs, colds and congested lungs, Four T's can't be beaten. Large bottles 25c, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

A SHOCKING CRIME.

A Farmer Near Brandon Shoots a Merchant and Lady Companion and Afterwards Took Poison.

Winnipeg, Sept. 20. — Miss Ernie Therrien, who was shot by Alonzo Rowe near Brandon Thursday afternoon, died in Brandon Hospital a few minutes before 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The tragic affair was a most remarkable one. Thomas Law, of Alexander & Law Bros., millers, of Brandon, went to the Beresford district for a day's shooting, accompanied by Miss Therrien, to whom he was engaged to be married. They drove on to the farm of Alonzo Rowe, well-known as "Old Man Rowe," and were about to commence shooting. Rowe, was in the field at the time, and as soon as he saw the party he started his horses for the house, where he procured a gun, and, returning, fired at the couple. Mr. Law had dismounted and was walking beside the buggy and received several pellets of shot in the knee, and Miss Therrien received almost the entire charge in her hip and abdomen. She fell from the rig to the ground, where her companion also lay unable to rise. Rowe returned to the house, where he took poison, dying almost instantly.

For some time Rowe has been pestered by sportsmen, who have persisted in trespassing on his farm. It is supposed that, blinded with anger at the approach of Law and his companion, he seized his gun, and, without considering the consequences, fired point-blank. Then, realizing what he had done, he committed suicide. Rowe was 70 years of age.

Was a London Man.

London, Sept. 20.—Alonzo Rowe, the Brandon farmer whose suicide by lady and wounding her fiance, was poisoning, after fatally shooting a formerly a well known resident of this city. For years he was employed as foreman for Thomas Green, a contractor, and in this capacity he superintended the re-building of Carling's brwery after the fire. He was well liked, but he had the reputation of being a most passionate man. Mr. Rowe and his family removed to the Northwest at the time of the building of the C. P. R. and settled near Brandon.

Attempted Suicide.

St. Thomas, Sept. 20.—A sensational attempt at suicide was made yesterday at the Wabash-G.T.R. station. Mrs. Mary Ann Riley, wife of Alfred Riley, aged 33 years, had a quarrel with her husband at dinner hour, it is said through jealousy, and, going to the railway station, a couple of blocks off, she laid her neck on the rail under a train just about starting. She was pulled out as the train was moving. She was taken in charge by G.T.R. Detective Bradley and locked up on a charge of trespass and attempted suicide.

Homicide at Glace Bay.

Glace Bay, N.S., Sept. 20.—A fatal affray occurred here Thursday evening in which the principals were H. Charbonneau of Montreal and Malcolm Fraser of Riviere du Loup, Que. The men had been drinking and grew quarrelsome when the former drew his revolver and sent a bullet crashing through Fraser's head, penetrating the brain. Fraser died shortly after. The murderer has been arrested and is now awaiting trial.

DR. KENT CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Arrested For Causing Death of the Canadian Nurse.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The second day's session of the coroner's inquest into the death of Ethel B. Dingle and the connection which Leland D. Kent had with it, began yesterday afternoon, and all the letters and documents found in the room where the tragedy took place, were placed in evidence by the coroner. They are as follows:

Lotter to Eva Mack Dingle, Buffalo:

My Darling Sister and Brothers,—Don't blame Dr. Kent, I want to die. I have suffered all the agonies of hell within the last month. Dr. Grant has been the commencement. I hope he will lead a better life. I love another. I am about to die and God forgive me. I love Lee Kent and I know he respects me at least. I care not to live.

(Signed). Ethel Blanche Dingle.

To Dr. S. C. Randall, Riverside Hospital, Buffalo:

I forgive you for causing this awful death by your tongue.

(Signed). L. D. K.

Dear Jack,—It is all up old boy, she refuses to live and I could not live without her, and we die together, and old boy, we love you and may God protect and care for you, for we love you. Good-bye, Jack. (Signed). Dr. Kent.

Dear Pa,—Please, for God's sake, if not for ours, bury us together in Forest Lawn, for it is our request, as we are all in all to each other. Forgive and forget your son.

(Signed). L. D. Kent.

Leland Dorr Kent was arrested at the Homeopathic Hospital last night and taken to police headquarters. He is charged with the murder of the girl and with violation of section 176 of the penal code, in encouraging and abetting her in the idea of committing suicide.

Whirled Around a Shaft.

Rat Portage, Sept. 20.—James Dean, employed in the mill of the Rat Portage Lumber Company, had a narrow escape from death a few days ago. His clothing caught in the belting of the machinery, and he was whirled round the shaft. Every particle of clothing was torn from his body, and he was found lying on the floor in a precarious condition. Three of his ribs were broken, the muscles of his right arm and shoulder much lacerated, and one of his lungs affected.

Sir Frederick Borden Back.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—Sir Frederick Borden telegraphed from Rimouski yesterday that he expected to be here early this morning.

Last Friday night in New York Mr. Charles F. Murphy was elected leader of Tammany Hall.

THE TOBACCO INQUIRY.

Held a Three Hours' Session on Friday in Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 20.—The Tobacco Commission, with Judge McTavish in charge, convened in the city yesterday and heard evidence from 2.30 p. m. till 5.30 p. m., adjourning till Monday morning. It is understood that with the inquiry in Toronto the investigation will close so far as Ontario is concerned.

Only three witnesses were heard on Friday,—Mr. Mitchell, McAlpine Company's bookkeeper, and Mr. Watts, a Yonge street dealer.

With the exception of Mr. Watts' evidence, the facts elicited were merely a repetition of those brought out at Windsor and London.

Mr. Watts said that he was not muzzled by the combine. He declared he could buy any goods he desired, and always bought what his customers demanded.

The advance in price of plug tobacco has nothing to do with the combine, because the advance is due purely to the American leaf.

Maggie York, aged 19, of Dufferin Bridge, committed suicide by swallowing a large dose of carbolic acid She went to Burk's Falls district last spring from near Aurora, and was employed as a domestic at the house of A. L. Granger of that town. Unrequited love is given as the cause of the act.

Away Down in Mexico

there grow two plants known and used before Columbus discovered America. One is a specific for inflamed membranes, and the other a certain cure for bronchitis. Combined with Tar, Tamarac, Tolu and other herbs, they go to make up Four T's, the only positive cure known to-day for whooping cough and bronchitis. A 25c bottle cures an ordinary cough in 24 hours. In a Bad Way With Lame Back.

The Kidney Deranged and Much Suffering Caused—A Cure Effected by

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

People speak of weak, lame back, backache, etc., not knowing that the trouble comes from the kidneys. When the back is strained it is usually the kidneys that suffer most most, and until the kidneys recover from the strain the trouble continues.

There is no quicker way of restoring the kidneys than by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Hundreds and thousands of workingmen in Canada know this. They have proven it in their own case.

Mr. A. J. Bouyea, who is employed at the Davey Shingle Mills, Lindsay, Ont., states:—"Some time ago I strained my back and kidneys when lifting logs, and was laid up for some time, although I tried several remedies. As my father had been cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills he advised me to give them a trial.

"Under the treatment I soon noticed a great improvement in my condition, and to-day I am in good health again. I was certainly in a bad way for a time, and believe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to be the best kidney medicine on the market."

ELECTRIC DANCERS.

An Easily Made Toy That Will Give You Lots of Fun.

With the help of electricity in its simplest form a great many tricks and entertaining feats can be performed, such as the following: Get a plain sheet of glass about 12 inches long by 8 inches wide and insert it between two volumes, as shown in the illustration. The distance of the glass from the table should be about three inches. With the help of scissors cut a number of small figures, such as men, women, clowns, animals, etc., not higher than 1½ inches, out of different colored paper. Lay the little figures flat in a line on the table underneath the glass.

MAKING THE FIGURES DANCE.

Make a sort of ball of woolen or, better yet, silk cloth, warm it a little and rub the surface of the glass with it. You will notice immediately how the electricity obtained by this process enlivens the little paper figures; how they stand up and jump to the glass ceiling of their little ballroom, to be repulsed and fall back, only to renew their dance. If you stop rubbing, the funny actions of the figures are continued for awhile. When the dance is ended, the touch of the hand on the glass is sufficient to enliven the figures again.

An Ideal For Boys.

It is the ambition of all boys to be men. Do they think what constitutes manhood? The idea of most boys is that a man is one grown in years and size and free to come and go and act without parental or other restraint. Boys should be taught that these things are not all that constitute manhood. It is something more than mature years and size or parental freedom. True manhood is made up of character, of human excellence, of good behavior, gentlemanliness, of honesty, of truthfulness, of desire and ability to do good. Whatever that person's calling, his first thought should be to be a man, a useful man, a true man in every respect and at all times. He may be a poor man, so far as the possession of this world's goods is concerned, and yet be an ideal man, a pure man in thought and action, standing before God and man as one determined to do his whole duty to his fellow creatures as far as his circumstances and ability will permit. A man clean in mind and body may defy the world and be respected by every one.

Let boys keep an ideal of this kind of manhood ever before them and endeavor to imitate him in his virtues, and they will be likely to spend their days in happiness and possess an ideal family and home.—Southern Standard.

Sprouted Again.

My sister had a baby tooth which needed pulling, and Brother Charlie, aged five, said he would pull it for her, which he did. Several days afterward the new tooth, which had just pushed through the gum and could be plainly seen, was discovered by Charlie, and he said:

"Why, that mean thing! I thought I pulled it clear out, and here it is sprouting up again!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Prudent Maid.

Miss Dorothy Dot, before going to wade,
Takes her little tin bucket and little tin spade,
And Bobbie and she work away with a vim
Till her little tin bucket is full to the brim.
"With this sand we can build us a little dry spot
If the ocean's too wet," says Miss Dorothy Dot.
—Harriet Brewer Sterling in St. Nicholas.

When to Eat His Supper.

"Fred, you didn't sleep a wink last night, and you kept me awake, too," said little Bess in a complaining tone. "You should never go to bed after supper."

"But when am I to eat my supper?" Master Fred wanted to know.

A puzzled look overspread her face for a second, and then she said in the tone of one having solved a problem: "The next day, I s'pect."

Chameleon Spider.

The chameleon spider is one of those spiders which do not spin webs. It sits among the yellow petals of the black eyed daisy, with which it is very much alike in color, and when a butterfly flits along it springs out and seizes it, with a bound like that of a tiger. Thus the stock of butterflies, whose caterpillars are ruinous to orchards and gardens, is kept down.

Didn't Break the Rule.

Tom had been kept in at school for talking out loud.

"Why did you do it, Tom?" asked his mamma. "Didn't you know that it was against the rules?"

"No," said Tom. "Teacher only said I mustn't whisper, and I didn't."

Fast Color.

The negro sprinter had just won the race.

"That," said the facetious spectator, "is what I call fast color."

Happy Family.

"Grymes and his wife quarreled for six months over naming the baby."

"How did they settle it?"

"Easily. It was twins."

LAUNDRY LINES.

A tablespoonful of turpentine in the clothes boiler will whiten the linen and remove stains.

A tablespoonful of black pepper to the water in which black stockings are washed will brighten them.

Linen may be made beautifully white by the use of a little refined borax in the water instead of using a washing fluid.

To remove salt water stains dip a piece of the stained material into vinegar and rub until the stain disappears.

Cottons that have much gray, mauve or brown in the pattern should be wet in alum water before putting in the wash.

Some women, when in a hurry, cool irons by plunging them into cold water, which will soon have the effect of spoiling them.

To prevent irons from sticking mix a little turpentine in the hot starch. A little borax mixed with the starch will have the same effect.

Silk stockings must never be washed with soap. Warm water, to which bran is added in the proportion of two tablespoonfuls to a pint, is what is needed. Do not wring, but squeeze out after rinsing them and dry in the shade.

For a Clear Complexion.

Famous beauties nearly all unite in giving testimony that a thorough steaming of the face at night is wonderfully effective in producing a clear complexion. This is done by holding the face over a bowl of hot water.

A certain amount of exercise is indispensable. Brisk morning walks, regularly taken and persistently adhered to, produce a healthy glow that defies artificial imitation.

Avoid rich and greasy foods. Though it is practically useless to tell a woman to adjure sweets, it may be suggested that they are complexion destroyers and that the fewer one eats the fairer one's skin is likely to be.

Massage is recommended by many who have made a special study of the fine art of complexion preserving. A gentle kneading of the face at night and in the morning makes the skin soft and healthy.

Overfrequent washing of the face should be avoided. Some physicians insist that the face should be washed but once a day and then in tepid water. It is understood that only the purest soap should be used.

Successor of Mary Lyon.

Miss Mary Woolley constantly has to submit to a somewhat trying comparison with Mary Lyon, who is regarded by many persons as the patron saint of the higher education of women. Miss Woolley is the president of Mount Holyoke college, which was founded by Miss Lyon. It was Mount Holyoke seminary in those days, and there was then quite as much attention paid to religion as to the higher education, and a good deal to housework, of which every student had to do her share. Miss Lyon sent out many missionaries and wives of missionaries into foreign lands from Mount Holyoke and pupils of hers founded two branch Holyokes, one in Painesville, O., and the other in Oxford, in the same state, both of which rivaled the mother seminary in their contributions to the missionary field. The rival claims of Mary Lyon and of Emma Willard, who founded the Troy Female seminary, for the title of pioneer in the realm of the higher education for women are vigorously discussed by pupils of the two schools.

She Doesn't Like the Term.

"No, I don't mind being an old maid or even being called one," protested the woman who was nearing middle age, "but I do hope that I am not old maidish. I dread that with all my heart. But, bad as it is to be old maidish," she sighed, "I prefer that to calling myself a bachelor girl after I am gray haired and old enough to be a grandmother, as the spinsters of the present day love to do. I know a woman who is at least sixty years old and who invariably refers to herself as a bachelor girl. Bah! I'm a spinster or an old maid or anything else you please except a bachelor girl."

UNLESS MINDED.

Blue eyed girls should wear blue as often as possible.

The shrinkage of washable goods averages three-quarters of an inch to the yard.

If silk is "slimpsy," its body may be restored in a measure by sponging it with water in which an old kid glove has been boiled.

Dress shields of stockinet or rubber may be washed in warm soapsuds, rinsed, partly dried and then ironed, and they will be almost as good as new.

In buying gloves examine the seams well. Should the stitching show a drawn white place on the kid they will be easily torn, will last only a short time and never look well.

A white silk or white woolen waist or gown that is not to be worn for some time should be folded in dark blue tissue paper and then in an old sheet to prevent its becoming yellow.

Put your ribbons and belts away in boxes so as to keep them uncrushed. Smooth out your face veils and fold them when putting them away. Fold your ribbons, belts and collars, and they will last twice as long.

Married Life.

"Married Life Can Be Made Supremely Happy" is the optimistic title of an article by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore in Success. In conclusion Mrs. Livermore says:

Before all forms of government, all types of civilization, all social institutions and all advance in education the relations of the husband and the wife make the everlasting foundation on which the social structure of the whole world rests. Just so fast and just so far as these relations become what they ought to be just so fast and just so far will society be uplifted, but no faster and no farther. It is the family and the home that lay the foundations of country, and these depend on the relations of husband and wife. The greatness of a nation is made by its true men and women, who have been well born in good homes, where they have been carefully fashioned into a lofty type of manhood and womanhood. This is the large intent of marriage, which is not alone the cradle of the human race, but its crown as well, and should be the symbol of a marriage that shall be immortal.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Adress F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Doll Pincushion.

An attractive pincushion can be made by taking a small china doll with a flaxen wig and making a pink satin waist for it and a skirt of pink satin ribbon about four inches wide. Cut two long slips of the ribbon to simulate an infant's long robe. Fasten one slip at the back of the doll and the other in front, leaving the sides open. On lifting the front slip several pin pads of pink flannel will appear, one on top of the other. The one is for black and white bead headed pins, the next pad is for small safety pins, the next for large sized ordinary white and black pins and the innermost pad for small sized white and black ones. This doll pincushion is to be suspended by a ribbon from the side of the dressing table or bureau.

Scores of Uses

While Dr. Chase's Ointment is best known on account of its wonderful control over eczema, salt rheum and piles, it is found to be in almost daily demand in many homes as a cure for chilblains, chafings, pimples, sunburns, burns, scalds, and each and every form of itching, irritated or inflamed skin. It is invaluable in every home and as a soothing and healing application knows no equal.

A BEAR STALKER

Shot Two Bears With one Bullet Near Bobcaygeon.

There are some places not so far distant from here that make quite a fuss about seeing seven bears in a bunch, and afterwards, by deadly-laid plans, capturing one cub out of the flock. Well, we can do better than that, or we would not say anything about it. James Dalton, lives a bit off the Dalton Road, and has some cattle running at large on the commons near the road. Last Thursday he thought he would take a turn over and look up his cattle, and as James always gets a fit on for hunting at this time of year he carried his rifle along. Now it generally happens that when a man has his gun he does not see anything, but this time when he came in sight of the cattle what should he spy but a big bear mooching around with the young steers. James crouched low and watched. He wanted to get a shot at that bear, but he did not want to have any beef on his hands as well as bear meat. So he had to wait, and stealthily moved to a more advantageous place. While he was moving he saw what he had not seen before, a fine cub on the far side of the bear. Just then the old bear appeared to have caught sight of James, and he decided to fire at once, so drawing a bead, he pulled the trigger, and the bear dropped in his tracks. James was ready with another cartridge for the cub, but it was not necessary. The bullet had passed clean through the bear, and into the heart of the cub. Dalton saw just two bears, and he got them both with one bullet, and he does not set himself up to be such an all fired hunter either. The cub weighed 96 lbs., was in splendid condition, and in good fur. The fur of the old bear was not so good.

GALWAY PICNIC.

t was a Great Success—$200 was Realized.

The Galway picnic was a huge success. It rained on Tuesday, but it was understood that if it rained the event was to be held the next day, or the first fine day, even if it took a month to come. However it was held Wednesday, and the weather was first class and the people from all over came in carriages. Dinner and supper were served by the ladies of the church, and better eatables in plenty were never served. The sports caused a great deal of interest and fun for the spectators. In the baseball game the Northerners won. The score after playing seven hard innings was 9—5. The rifle contest was won by Chris Greaney, with F. Dettman second. In the athletic sports M. O'Leary put a lot of them out of business, capturing five prizes.

The following are the winners of the different races, etc.,

100 yards race — Chas. Smith, M. O'Leary.

Hop, step and jump — L. Brown, 33 feet 9 inches; M. O'Leary, 32 feet 7 inches.

Shot — M. Byrne, 21 feet 2 inches; J. Black, 20 feet, 3 inches.

Quoit match — A. Moore, J. Black.

Long jump — C. Smith, 14 feet 1 inch; O'Leary, 13 feet 9 inches.

High jump — M. O'Leary, C. Smith, L. Brown.

Proceeds for house and church improvements about $200.

RUGBY

T. C. S., Port Hope, has written to the local club asking for a game or two with the Peterborough second fifteen.

Peterborough endeavoured to arrange a match with the Argonauts for Saturday next, but the Toronto team could not accept the invitation. An offer may be made Hamilton, and the Young Toronto's have been written to as it is felt that there should be an exhibition game on this week.

The Collegiate Institute boys are getting down to work and are practising on Central Park on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4.30 to 6 o'clock.

Mac McClellan, the aspirant for quarter back, on the local Fifteen, has quit the game. Mac turned out on Saturday and has come to the conclusion that after two years absence from the gridiron, and in view of his advancing years, that it is in the interest of all concerned that he should drop out. This will be generally regretted as everyone was expecting big doings from the man who was formerly the star of the wing line.

When the noon train pulled into the G.T.R. station to-day Eugene Hurtubise, the well known scrimmage man of the last year's Peterborough team, alighted therefrom. Hurtubise has been residing in Lindsay all winter but was anxious to come back to his old town and chase the pig skin. He is in fine form, and will prove to be a great source of strength to whichever team he joins.

Belleville will put a team in the junior series of the O.R.F.U. and this will be the team that Peterborough's second fifteen will in all probability have to go up against in the first round. C. M. Patterson, formerly of town, is looking after the Belleville team.

London Free Press.—The outlook for the rugby football team for this season is of the brightest, and the new officers will be untiring in their efforts to do all in their power to again place London right in the eyes of the public throughout Canada. The team will be wholly confined to London players, no imported material will be allowed to play. The executive decided at their last meeting that if London could not produce a team of fifteen it would be far better to withdraw from the league.

The situation in senior rugby circles is sized up as follows by the Ottawa Journal:—It is a well known fact already this year that if London and Peterborough have a successful season they will play senior next year. There will be two districts next season, in the senior series, one with London, Hamilton and Argonaut, the other with Peterborough, Kingston and Ottawa. It was hoped by the executive that this could have been done this season, but there were not enough senior teams to allow of it.

"Chaucer" Elliott, the well known football player, has been offered the position of coach for the Port Hope Trinity College School rugby team at a good salary. "Chaucer" has declined the offer, cordially thanking the college sporting association.

LACROSSE.

The Shamrocks won from the Cornwalls on Saturday by 5 goals to 2, thus ending the National League season. The standing of the teams was as follows;

	Won.	Lost.	To p'l
Shamrocks...	9	1	0
Capitals...	7	3	0
Torontos...	6	4	0
Cornwall...	5	5	0
Nationals...	3	8	0
Montreal...	1	9	0

Bradford won the junior championship on Saturday by defeating Brantford second team by 5 goals to 2.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Push ball has recently been introduced to the sport loving people of England by an American team, which has in most of the games thus far played defeated the inexperienced opposition raised up against it. The English public has taken kindly to the game, and it bids fair to become popular there. There is no kicking in the game, the giant ball being "pushed" by the players' hands. The sport is lively and offers none of the more common opportunities for injuring players that abound in football.

HOCKEY.

About fifty attended the reorganization meeting of the Orillia Hockey Club. The club starts on a sound basis and with excellent prospects for a good winter's sport. Officers elected for the year are:

Patron and Patroness — Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tudhope.

President—R. H. Jupp.

Vice-President—F. J. Daly.

Manager—John P. Coulson.

Sec.-Treasurer—T. W. Robins.

Executive Committee—E. Nicholson, Arthur Paquette, Mac Reid and Aethur Cayley.

Junior representatives on executive—John Andrews, Alex. Andrews and Norman Philips.

Pittsburg is the Mecca for hockey players who wish to get better business situations than they can obtain in Canada. Last winter there was quite a colony of Canadian hockey players in the Smoky City and the indications are that even a larger number of Canucks will go there to give scientific exhibitions of puck-chasing. The first recruits to be enrolled by the Yankee hockey enthusiasts are Hooper, Lifflton and Boon, of Montreal. They are going to Pittsburg, ostensibly to a pleasure trip but the Montreal papers are not very sanguine of their return. In Pittsburg hockey players of any ability are in demand and good positions are given to those whose playing is up to the mark. It is stated that a number of Ontario men are going to Pittsburg for the winter.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Michael Graney in Galway.

Another of the esteemed old citizens of Galway passed away on Saturday in the person of Mrs. Michael Graney, at the family residence, lot 1, concession 11, near the Bobcaygeon road. Mrs. Graney was 86 years of age and was born in the county of Kerry, Ireland. She and her husband came to this country about 55 years ago, settling in the township of Smith, and moving to Galway ten years later. The funeral took place on Monday and was largely attended. She leaves behind her two sons, Thos. and Christopher, agent for the Rathbun Company, and three daughters, all of whom are at home.

THE EGG TRADE.

Angus Rose Says Consumption This Year is Double What it was Last Year.

Talking of the egg situation this morning, a local shipper said that the Old Country market was in none too good a shape. The Canadian shippers, however, were not worrying, as it was estimated that the consumption of eggs in Canada this year was about double the consumption of last year. The reasons for this were, chiefly, that the price of meat had been high, the weather cool, and the eggs of good quality. As a result of the large demand for eggs, the stock on hand in the provincial emporiums is not large.

QUALIFIED HOME RULE.

(Montreal Star.)

One thing which can hardly fail to strike a casual observer who is disposed to institute a comparison between the work of the Union of Canadian Municipalities and deliberative bodies which exercise legislative authority, is the marvellous celerity with which the Union disposes of the most important subjects. The rapidity would be an inspiration for legislators, were it not for an uneasy feeling that it must be partly, at least, due to a sense of irresponsibility; a kind of feeling that

It doesn't matter what you do,
If your heart be true.

If the Legislature passes a bill to abolish municipal bonusing, why, then municipal bonusing is abolished. If the Convention passes a resolution recommending the abolition of the municipal bonus system, it does not follow that anything in particular is going to happen to the system of municipal bonusing.

The delegates possibly discuss grave issues light-heartedly because they do not feel certain of any serious results following their deliberations. With one breath they affirm that "the right of municipalities within reasonable limits to manage their own affairs is one of the most sacred privileges" (how a right can be a privilege is not very clear,) and they voice their determination to "unitedly resist all encroachments by Parliament or any Legislature upon local rights." In the next breath they beg the Legislatures of the various provinces of the Dominion to interfere with the right of the municipalities to manage their own affairs by entirely abolishing bonuses to manufacturers by municipalities. Now the question naturally arises, What does the Union want? Does it want the Legislatures to recognise the principle of municipal home rule and allow the municipalities to mind their own business, or does it want the legislatures to repudiate the principle of municipal home rule, and manage the business of bonus or no bonus for them? If it wants both, which does it want the more? Because it is essentially impossible for it to have both.

AT ST. ANDREW'S.

Rev. McKay Delivered an Interesting Sermon Last Night—As to Measures.

Rev. R. P. McKay, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit in St. Andrew's church last night and delivered a very interesting address in support o fthe Foreign Missionary Societies of the church. Rev. Mr. McKay took for his text the words: "There will I go unto the Altar of God, unto God my exceeding joy; Yea, upon the harp will I praise Thee, O, God, my God."

The reverend gentleman first went on to explain the difference between peace and joy, either of which might be had without the other. He then proceeded to show how that joy and peace could be obtained by assisting spreading the word of God throughout the uncivilized portions of the world. However, our motive in spreading the Word of God, and bringing salvation to souls should not be just out of sympathy with the cause and not for the reward that it will bring. There should be only one motive and that is because God has commanded it. If we work for Christ for this reason it will not fail us through life or eternity. Each one of us should be an instrument in widening the circumference of Christ's Kingdom. This was the mission of Jesus Christ and it is true of the best of God's children throughout the world.

Secondly we should not only work to glorify God but to see Him. We can see God by His wonderous works each day, and the world is rapidly beginning to show the work of God's hand. Reference was made to God's work in the Foreign Fields, and the preacher then made an appeal for material support in behalf of Missions. He did not think that St. Andrew's church was doing what it should in behalf of Missions, as out of a congregation of 400 members there is only $100 a year given to Foreign Missions which was equal to 25 cents a member per year. He appealed to the ladies to take a deeper interest in the work and in his concluding remarks Rev. Mr. McKay said that while he did not wish to appear sensational he felt that with the civilization of all the countries of the world which is being accomplished so rapidly he felt sure that something was going to happen.

Paying Paul With Peter's Money.

A man defrauds fifty merchants out of $5 each, or $250 in all, and is caught with the money on him. The detectives take over the money; the man hires a lawyer to defend him, but he is convicted and the money is declared to belong to the men from whom it was wrongfully taken. The crook, however, writes an order on the detective department to hand over to his lawyer $70 out of the money that is not his, in payment for services in defending him. The judge orders that the lawyer be paid, and that ere the money be returned to its owners there shall be deducted from each man's part of it enough to pay what it cost the thief to try to escape punishment for his theft.

If a lecturer reported this as having happened in China it would be thought very diverting by a Toronto audience, says The Star. But it happened in Toronto, and not in China, and we trust that it may not be considered disrespectful of the courts if we allow ourselves to think it a very interesting piece of law.

Those fifty merchants have thus paid a lawyer to do his best to help a man get away with their money and escape punishment. It may be assumed, if the man's defence had cost $250, the merchants would have recovered nothing.

Suppose this man had stolen a purse containing a check for $250, would a judge order that the check be cashed so that the lawyer who defended the thief could be paid?

If this man had stolen a horse, would the order go forth to sell the horse, pay the prisoner's lawyer, and restore the balance to the owner of the horse?

Law is a mighty ticklish business, sure enough, but it seems to grow more ticklish year by year. It may be, however, that merchants who allow themselves to be defrauded as in this case, and who thus put the police and the courts to trouble and the country to expense, ought to suffer a fine for their verdancy. If so, would it not be better, however, to have an express statute on the point?

Sir Sandford Fleming, C.E.

The London Chronicle says:— Sir Sandford Fleming, C.E., ranks as one of Canada's "grand old men," although his acquaintance with the Dominion only dates from 1845. He was born at Kirkcaldy, in Fifeshire, in 1827, and there learnt the business of surveying and engineering before going to Canada to join the engineering staff of the Northern Railway. He was chief engineer of the Intercolonial Railway during its construction, and his name is intimately connected with the great Canadian railway system that branches in all directions from ocean to ocean. In 1880 Mr. Fleming, as he then was, retired from the service of the Dominion Government. In 1879 he submitted a report to the Canadian Government, advocating the construction of the Pacific all-British cable to Australia and New Zealand, and at the Colonial Conferences of 1887 and 1894 helped largely the great project which is now nearing completion. The name of Sir Sanford Fleming will ever occupy an honored place in connection with the inception of the Pacific cable.

VENEZUELA AROUSED.

Protests Against Great Britain's Sovereignty Over Patos.

HOW BRITAIN FEELS ABOUT IT.

So Rasping Has the Conduct of Venezuela Been That Diplomatic Relations With Great Britain Are on the Verge of Being Severed — Hostilities Are, However, Not Anticipated.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Sept. 23. — The Venezuelan Government has protested against the action of Great Britain in raising the British flag on the Island of Patos, on the ground that the sovereignty is vested in Venezuela, and not in the British Government.

The controversy over the island is old, as similar protests were made in 1850 and 1867. Great Britain claims the island by virtue of the treaty of Amiens, signed in 1802, according to which Trinidad was ceded to England, and the British consider that the Island of Patos is tributary to Trinidad.

Venezuela contends that the island was not mentioned in that treaty, and consequently did not pass into the possession of England, but remained under the sovereignty of Spain, until the independence of Venezuela, when the latter country obtained possession. Venezuelans say the sovereignty of their country over the island was confirmed by the treaty signed in Madrid in 1845.

They also point to the geographical position of the island, which is less than three miles from the Venezuelan coast.

The Venezuelan press is still ignorant of the action of Great Britain in regard to the island, which has no strategic importance and is the rendezvous of fishermen, smugglers and Venezuelan revolutionists.

RELATIONS ARE STRAINED.

Representatives at London and Caracas May Get Their Passports.

London, Sept. 23.—The Associated Press is in a position to announce that diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Venezuela are on the verge of being severed. Any day, almost any hour, may bring the announcement that the British Minister at Caracas has been given his passports with corresponding action towards the Venezuelan representative in London.

The cause of the crisis does not seem to be confined to any particular incident, but consists in various differences which culminated in Venezuela, assuming such an angry attitude as to leave Downing street fully impressed with the belief that the Venezuelan Government intends to force matters to a crucial issue.

That a diplomatic rupture would result in hostilities is a contingency thus far scarcely contemplated.

The present diplomatic relations are so strained that, to quote a responsible British official, "it would make really very little difference if the fact became public property by the absence of the diplomatic representatives from Caracas and London."

The views of the Foreign Office is that affairs have reached a stage where it is impossible to deal satisfactorily with Venezuela in any matter which may come up. In proof of this contention, the Foreign Office instances the report of the United States Minister at Caracas, Herbert W. Bowen, announcing that the Venezuelan Government had protested against the British flag being raised over Patos (or Goose) Island, over which the Venezuelan Government claimed sovereignty.

According to the British Government's understanding Patos Island belongs to Great Britain just as much as Trinidad, and so far as known, no question as to its ownership has ever arisen. Inhabitants of the Island have recently been shot or otherwise endangered through the action of Venezuelans, whether Government or revolutionary partisans is not known. For purposes of protection the local West Indian authorities ordered the British flag to be prominently displayed on the island, hence the protest, which the Foreign Office says is only one of many.

SIR WILFRID SEES THE POPE.

Who Showed Much Interest in Canada—After Italian Trade.

Rome, Sept. 23.—His Holiness, the Pope, yesterday accorded a private audience to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier of Canada, and Lady Laurier, and was very cordial to them. The Pontiff showed much interest in Canada, and said he had closely followed the proceedings of the Premiers' conference in London.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is studying the Italian tariff, with the object of arranging for closer commercial relations with Canada. He has had an informal conference with the authorities on the subject and discussed what Canadian goods could be advantageously imported.

Sir Wilfrid's Plans.

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—According to a private cablegram received here, Sir Wilfrid Laurier is now in Rome, but will leave for Paris on Saturday. He will spend a couple of days in the French capital, after which he will proceed to London. If possible the Premier and Lady Laurier will visit Lord Strathcona at Glencoe before their departure for Canada, which is fixed for Oct. 7, Montreal Liberals are arranging for a grand banquet to Sir Wilfrid when he returns home.

LIVED ONLY 20 MINUTES.

A. S. McDonald Shoots Himself at Souris, Manitoba.

Souris, Man., Sept. 23.—A sad accident occurred near here Sunday. Archie Stewart McDonald, while out with his cousin, Murray M. Munn, examining a threshing engine, undertook to pull a shot gun from the water tank, thinking it unloaded. In some way it was discharged, the contents lodging in McDonald's side. The victim lived 20 minutes.

TROOPS AT SCRANTON.

A STRIKER AND A WORKMAN SHOT

Two Hundred Strikers, Mostly Foreigners Ransack Quarters of Forty Non-Unionists at Archibald—Drove Men at Work Back to the Refuge of the Washery—A Deputy-Sheriff Attacked.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 23.—Thirteenth Regiment has been ordered out. The headquarters of the regiment is Scranton.

Fatal Outbreak at Archibald.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 23. — Sheriff Schatt of Lackawanna County last night telegraphed Governor Stone to send troops to his assistance. The sheriff has just prepared a proclamation announcing that he would call troops if the lawlessness did not cease when he received a series of telephone calls to quell disturbances up the valley. He found on investigation that the situation was such that he could not cope with it, and sent a call for troops.

The worst of last night's outbreaks occurred at Archibald. The crowd of 200 strikers, mostly foreigners, ransacked the quarters occupied by the forty men employed at the Raymond Washery of the Ontario and Western Company, while the men were at work and then meeting with the men as they were returning, drove them back to the refuge of the washery.

The mob then returned to the colliery proper, drove out the engineers, firemen, pumpmen and guards and took possession of the breaker. The plant of the Crescent Electric Light Company, which is supplied with steam from the breaker, had to shut down, and the whole region around on the breaker, two men were shot, was left in darkness. In the attack one a striker and the other a workman. Their names or condition could not be learned.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Miles McAndrew, was attacked and shot at by a mob at Olyphant. The steam pipes of the Pennsylvania Coal Company's colliery at Old Forge were blown up with dynamite last night. Two colored cooks at the William A Colliery were rescued by Deputy Sheriffs from a crowd that was threatening to lynch them.

STRIKERS WILL NOT YIELD.

Because It Would Mean the Dismemberment of Their Union.

Washington, Sept. 23. — President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor said yesterday that the striking miners in the Pennsylvania coal fields were prepared to hold out for months. He said the miners were disposed to make concessions, but the operators had refused all overtures from them, and that the men now "are not going to yield."

"The strikers," he said, "are receiving all the supplies they really need, and can continue their fight indefinitely. The Federation will do all it can to aid them. One thing is certain, that the strikers will never yield on the basis of the dismemberment of their union organization, which is all that has raised them even ever so little above their desperate condition."

REFUGEES DESTITUTE.

Roumanian Jews Not Allowed to Settle in Switzerland.

London, Sept. 23.—In a despatch from Geneva the correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says great indignation has been aroused at Basle, Switzerland, by the arrival there of hundreds of Roumanian refugees, who have come in hope of finding refuge in England or the United States. Most of them are utterly destitute, and have no means of proceeding further on their journey. The Swiss authorities will not allow the refugees to settle in Switzerland, because they are destitute. They have been relegated to one common room in the station, and are receiving temporary aid from the local authorities. Their increasing numbers, however, are leading to embarrassment. Some of them are in terrible condition, and a visiting doctor found a starving mother holding a naked baby to her breast.

Will Continue the Prosecution.

London, Sept. 23.—In a despatch from Vienna the correspondent of The Times says he fears there is little doubt that the Roumanians have resolved to accept the consequences of setting at defiance the signatory powers and the public opinion of the civilized world and to continue the prosecution of the Jews in order to compel them to seek asylum abroad.

Botha to Live in Transvaal.

Pretoria, Sept. 23.—Gen. Botha has offered for sale his former home and property in the Vryheid district on account of the district having been annexed to Natal. Gen Botha's intention is to buy a home and settle down in the Transvaal.

Fell Forty Feet.

Dresden, Sept. 23.—Mr. Howard, while engaged in putting in a floor at the sugar plant here, tripped on some wire netting and fell 40 feet, alighting in one of the big vacuum tanks. His leg was broken in two places and his skull injured.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The U. S. papers are still harping on the danger (to their carrying trade) of the enlargement of Canadian waterways. What we are concerned in is the obviation of danger to our own carrying trade.

Jewish residents of Toronto complain that they are subjected to persecution by the citizens, and that they do not always receive justice in the courts. Hamilton papers will say that it is just what was expected — It is just a recrudescence of the old feud between hog and Hebrew.

Lord Salisbury hardly exhibited the chivalry to be expected of one of the most illustrious members of the House of Cecil. His Education Bill, which he left to his successor, threatens to break the back of the Government, if not immediately, when the elections come on.

Sir William Mulock has been telling the Toronto Board of Trade that goods sell more readily in South Africa if marked "made in Canada." That is all very well, says the Ottawa Free Press, but we must first make them and then ship them. So far as South Africa is concerned we are not living up to our opportunities in this respect, while our neighbours across the lines are straining every nerve.

The determination of the Trades and Labour Congress to establish a national union and cut away from the United States organizations is a wise one. It will strengthen the Canadian working men by causing sympathy to go with them and probably prevent many evils which arise from foreign association. The "Made in Canada" idea can be indefinitely extended.

CAPITAL AND LABOUR IN CONNENTION.

One of the signs of the times, and a hopeful sign at that, is the calling of a convention representing both Labour and Capital to assemble in Minneapolis next week and discuss problems of common interest. The object of the gathering is more definitely set forth in the call for delegates, in which Secretary Schaefer says:

It is an attempt to inaugurate a great educational movement, in which all sides are to participate, and work in harmony for a common purpose, namely, a better understanding and a more satisfactory adjustment of the relations between employer and employee. The time is ripe for taking stock of those plans and ideas that different individuals scattered about this entire country have worked out with more or less completeness. It is time that these men of constructive ability and long experience get together and compare notes. Out of this mass of information, which will be accumulated, sifted and put into printed form, we may hope to obtain many practicable and valuable suggestions to guide the employer, as well as the employee. It is time to settle upon a general policy concerning several important matters touching the relation of the employer and the employee. Scattered individual efforts may thus be converted into a concerted national movement.

The character of the movement can be ascertained by a knowledge of the men who have promised to attend the convention and take part in the discussion. Among the names are the following; Cyrus Northrop, president of the University of Minnesota; J. B. Clark, professor of political economy in Columbia University; Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labour; James Kilbourne, president of the Kilbourne & Jacobs Manufacturing Company, of Columbus; Richard T. Ely, professor of political economy in the University of Wisconsin; Frank L. McVey, professor of political economy in the University of Minnesota; Senator Bailey, of Texas, Archbishop Ireland, and Colonel W. D. Wiman, a prominent manufacturer of Moline, Ill. The employees will be represented by some of the most intelligent workers of the country, and it is thought perhaps that President Roosevelt will address the convention on one day.

It is to be hoped that the gathering will be well attended and that it will fulfil the highest expectations of its promoters.—Brantford Expositor.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Magnetawan is growing in favour as a first class summer resort. Another party has gone out there, composed of representatives from Peterborough and Mount Pleasant. The party that left here some time ago has returned, and speak in glowing terms of the reception given to them. As missionaries we expected to hear from them on their return a large share of fish and bear stories, but so far none have appeared in print. They are making ready for another excursion during the summer of 1903, to resume their labours in that highly favoured spot in Ontario.

We have been favoured with a visit from Mrs. S. G. Best, and her daughter Lilly, of the town of Magnetawan, and regret very much that their stay here was so short. They will form part of the excursion party leaving here on the 22nd.

The scenery and quiet of our town are attracting visitors from different parts of the country, especially from the town of Peterborough. Here they can enjoy the fresh and exhilirating air which will build up their broken down constitutions and relieves them from the worry and never ending cares of that hustling town.

The harvest is about finished. Now exhibitions and sports are the order of the day.

Business men here report favourably of the amount of sales during the summer months.

The wide spread knowledge of Canada is bringing her to the front among the nations of the earth, the effect of which we see almost every day in our American cousins taking up all the plums.

On the 13th inst., Mr. T. W. McLean left here for Rat Portage. We hope to hear often from him about that growing town and its surroundings.

Mr. H. J. McLean has returned from purchasing his fall stock of goods.

The exhibition at Toronto was visited by many of the inhabitants of this township, Cavan. They report progress in some of the departments.

The annual meeting of the Mount Pleasant branch of the Bible Society will be held on Friday, the 26th inst., at 7.30 p.m. The agent, Rev. J. G. Potter, of Peterborough, will deliver an address. Subject—"The Rock, the Stone, and the Anvil."

DID GIRL CAUSE A QUARREL?

A Shooting of Which Two Explanations Are Given.

Ridgetown, Sept. 23.—A shooting occurred here Sunday which is causing a great deal of excitement, and there are those who hint broadly at another case of manslaughter.

It appears that two boys named Charles Turner and Martin, who are employed in the town secured a livery rig on Sunday and started for the Eru. In the vicinity of the mill pond a revolver that one of the lads carried went off, the bullet entering the lower part of the abdomen of young Turner.

Dr. Young was notified, and in company with Constable Miller, went to the scene of the shooting. The efforts of the doctor to locate the bullet have thus far been unsuccessful, and the result may be fatal.

One story is that the shooting was accidental, and occurred while the boys were fooling with the revolver. Another account states that the lads were disputing their respective rights to some young woman's favor, and that a scuffle ensued, during which the revolver was discharged.

It has not yet been determined what direction the bullet took. If it entered or passed through the stomach the cause would be similar to that of President McKinley, and the chances of recovery would be very slight.

Young Turner was employed by John Murray of this place and Martin was employed as a laborer by Charles Score.

WOULD BENEFIT ONTARIO.

Says Hon. R. J. Davis of Increase Duty of U.S. on Pulp Wood.

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—The E. B. Eddy Company and the Customs Department are the authority for the statement that the United States will increase their tariff on wood pulp shipped from Canada to 25 cents a ton. This additional duty is now brought into force by reason of the tax collected in Ontario on pulp wood cut on Crown lands in Ontario for export. This retaliatory rate amounts to about 20 cents a ton on wood pulp, and 40 cents on sulphite. The export of Canadian wood pulp in the fiscal year up to June 30 last was $1,937,207, of which $937,330 went to the States and $934,722 to Britain.

May Benefit Ontario.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—The report that the United States Government intends to add 25 cents a ton duty on ground wood and 35 cents a ton on unbleached sulphite and soda pulp, has caused considerable interest around the Parliament Buildings.

The Commissioner of Crown Lands said he had not had time to consider what the effect of such action would have in Ontario, but he thought on the face of it, that it would have a tendency to open paper factories in this Province. At any rate, he added, he could not see that it would hurt Ontario.

The Age of Brain Work.

"In these days half our diseases come from the neglect of our body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age the wear and tear of labour and intellect goes on without pause or self pity. We live longer than our forefathers but we suffer more. They fatigued only the the muscles; we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves." "FORCE"

RIGHT EATING, more than anything else, is the great secret of getting on in the world and getting on happily.

The dyspeptic isn't usually much of a success. His stomach demands so much thought that he's not able to think very much either of his business or his friends. His business therefore, isn't likely to be a pronounced success, and his friends are those of the forgiving kind.

Proper food ought to give the proper nourishment to all parts of the human body without giving distress. Whole wheat contains such nourishment and in such proportions that the healthy person can digest it "without realizing he has a stomach."

If the stomach has been abused by improper food it requires a tonic. Barley malt is the best natural tonic.

"FORCE" is composed of the whole wheat and barley malt scientifically combined in just the proportions needed by the human body.

It is delivered to you in the form of a sweet, crisp, delicate flake of exquisite flavor, and is ready to serve.

Ask the grocer about it.

SOMETHING "JUST AS GOOD"

IS NEVER AS GOOD.

Has scores of imitators, all claiming to be just as good, but one trial will prove that there is no tea as good as "Salada" Black for Black Tea drinkers.

UNCOLOURED GREEN for those used to Japan Teas. It is much more delicious.

Sold only in lead packets—25c, 30c, 40c, 50c and 60c per lb. By all grocers.

RELIEF FOR HALIFAX.

Official Notice Received by Governor-General From War Office.

Ottawa, Sept. 23. — "War Office states that 5th Battalion Royal Garrison Artillery will leave England for Halifax about 20th September. On arrival General Officer Commanding, Halifax, will be able to relieve special service battalion of Royal Canadian Regiment from further duty. Secretary of State for War desires to convey to Canadian Government his appreciation of valuable assistance rendered by Canadian Regiment in maintaining battalion at Halifax. He has much pleasure in testifying to good behavior of battalion."

The foregoing is the text of a cablegram received by the Governor-General from the Colonial Secretary, Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain. The Royal Garrison Regiment is now probably on its way to Halifax, and so soon as it reaches that city the Royal Canadian Regiment will be disbanded, each man receiving a month's pay.

VALUE OF TESTIMONY.

Greater Than Assertion.

There are none of us so hardened but that when we have been able to aid our fellow creatures by conferring a benefit or bringing a little comfort into their lives we like to have appreciation shown. This generally affords more pleasure than the performance of the act itself, and in this connection the following letter from a Paris, Texas, lady is of more than usual interest: "Dear friends, —I address you as such, for you have been such to me. I suffered for three years off and on with piles. I was treated at the hospital, and the new and elegant hospital, of Memphis; they only gave me temporary relief. I came west, thinking the change of air and water would benefit me; five months ago the bleeding piles came back on me, and bled so much that I thought I would die. I have had four of the finest doctors in this section of Texas; all they did was to finally nearly let me go to my grave; all they wanted was a big sum of money from me and to operate on me. I said no, no surgeon's knife would enter me; if it was my time to die God knew it, and when I died I would die all together. I had no faith in you, but I sent and got a box of your Pyramid Pile Cure; in two days the blood flow had slackened to one-half the amount, and in one week I felt so much better I walked four blocks and did a little housework. I was not bleeding then; in three weeks I was well. God bless you for putting such a wonderful medicine within the reach of suffering men and women. I shall never cease to recommend your medicine one or be without it; also I used your Pyramid Pills. Sallie A. Hearndon." Testimony like this should be more convincing than all claims and assertions, and should leave no doubt in the mind of the reader as to the merit of the remedy. Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price. Write Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their book on cause and cure of piles.

COMBINE IN TOBACCO.

"Is There One in Canada?" the Question Being Investigated.

JUDGE M'TAVISH AT TORONTO.

A List of Those Who Handle Trust Tobacco Goods in Canada Read Before the Royal Commission—Some of the Evidence Adduced Before the Commission on Monday.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—The tobacco inquiry was resumed at the City Hall before Judge McTavish of Ottawa yesterday, and O. E. Fleming, representing several independent companies, endeavored to show that the American and Empire Tobacco Companies' products were given an undue preference in the retail stores, and that consequently the bulk of the trade went to the big companies, who advertise so extensively. Mr. Campbell, for the other side, admitted that a generous advertising policy created increase of business, and that the demands of the public were the material feature in regulating the trade.

When F. W. Dimmock, representative of B. Houde & Co., Montreal, was called yesterday morning, Mr. Fleming put in a detailed list of consignees of the American Tobacco Company, Limited, of Canada, and the Empire Tobacco Company, who signed their contract. He read the names of the consignees of the American Tobacco Company in Almonte, Arnprior, Brockville, Chatham, Cobourg, Cannington, Collingwood, Gananoque, Guelph, Galt, Kingston, London, Meaford, Napanee, Ottawa, Orillia, Owen Sound, Picton, Prescott, Peterboro', Port Arthur, Port Hope, and in fact practically every city, town and village in the Province. He also read the balance of the list of consignees of the Empire Tobacco Company.

Mr. Campbell protested that the list was not furnished for such a purpose, and was private. The question was argued at some length.

Toronto dealers who are consignees of the Empire Tobacco Company consist of W. B. Reid & Co., Warren Bros. & Co., J. Sloan & Co., T. Kinnear & Co., Eby Blain & Co., Perkins, Ince & Co., Davidson & Hay, James Lumbers, A. Wilson & Co., H. P. Eckhart & Co., W. H. Steele Co., F. W. Humphrey, J. W. Scales, A. Rogers. In addition to these, A. Bollard, J. Calladine, W. Goldstein, G. W. Muller, R. H. Howard & Co., A. H. Staneland, L. Siewart, P. Jamieson, H. M. Nelson & Co., and John Hanna handle the products of the American Tobacco Company.

The testimony of Mr. Dimmock was then taken, and he admitted that the Empire Company and the American Company got the cream of the trade, and what little business there was outside of that had to be created. He had sold Watts in Toronto a considerable quantity of Houde & Co.'s goods, but they were sent to the Queen street store, because the Young street store was under lease to W. B. Reid & Co. He had heard that Houde & Co.'s cigarettes were exposed for sale in Watts' Yonge street store, and given equal prominence with the goods of the American Tobacco Company, but he could not say that such was really the case.

J. H. Wilbur, a traveler, and keeper of the cigar store at 448 West Queen street, said he had no contract or agreement that restricted or bound him as to the goods he would sell in his store. He was guided in the selection of the goods he carried by the demand for the different brands. He kept Houde's cigarettes, and the cigarettes of other companies, but there was not the same demand for any of them as for the goods of the American Tobacco Company. The Empire Tobacco Company's chewing tobaccos had also the largest sale.

To Mr. Fleming Mr. Wilbur admitted that the American Tobacco Company's cigarettes had been longest on the market, and it was natural there should be a larger demand for them. He sold quite a lot of McAlpine's goods.

T. J. Horrocks, tobacco jobber, Toronto, said he handled the goods of tobacco companies outside of the trust, but that these companies did not advertise so freely as the Empire or the American. The railway rates and shipping facilities were as fair to one company as another, and any difference in the quantity shipped was due to a difference in the demand.

OUTPUT OF ONTARIO ORE.

Shows Large Increase For the First Half of 1902.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—A statement issued yesterday by the Ontario Bureau of Mines shows that the value of the Provincial metalliferous products for the first half of the present year, ending June 30, was $2,902,722, compared with $1,438,539 for the corresponding period of last year, and $824,076 for the first six months of 1900; in other words, an increase over the first six months of 1901 of $1,464,183, and over the half year of 1900 of $2,078,646.

As compared with the first six months of 1901, there were the following increases:—Gold, ounces, 516, $11,968; nickel, tons, 1,211, $891,256; copper, tons, 377, $164,771; iron ore, tons, 134,212, $228,680; pig iron, tons, 14,802, $180,436; arsenic, pounds, 108,946, $2,088.

Silver showed a decrease of 5,200 ounces in weight and $8,016 in value.

The gains in nickel and copper were large, both in quantity and value. The increased value is partly accounted for by the higher grade of matte now being turned out in the Sudbury district, the improved practice being to bring the product to a metallic content of 70 or 80 per cent.

By far the larger proportion of the iron ore raised in the Province comes from the Helen mine in the Michipicoton district. Compared with the first half of 1901, the pig-iron produced by the furnaces at Hamilton, Midland and Deseronto was 25 per cent. greater in value. Ontario mines—mainly the Helen—supplied 51 per cent. of the ore smelted, the remainder being imported from mines south of the line.

A MURRAY STREET WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Edith Mason and Mr. Herbert L. Conway This Afternoon.

Rev. J. P. Wilson performed a very pleasing ceremony this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Mason, No. 60 Murray street, when he united in marriage Miss Edith May Mason and Mr. Herbert Lorne Conway.

The drawing room was very artistically decotated with palms for the occasion, and a large number of the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties were in attendance.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. W. A. Mason, of Bellevue, Ohio, was charmingly gowned in white taffeta silk, with garniture of white applique. She carried a very pretty shower bouquet of white roses and ferns, and was assisted by her cousin, Miss Edith May Mason, who was gowned in white organdie, trimmed with Valenciennes lace. Her flowers were pink roses. The groomsman was Mr. Richard Conway, of Dundas, brother of the groom.

Miss Clara Mason, niece of the bride, made a very sweet little maid-of-honour, dressed in white, with red sash, ribbons, stockings and shoes. She carried a basket of roses, and was escorted by Master Lorne Conway, nephew of the groom.

The wedding march was played by Miss Ethel Blackwell, of Glencoe, and the catering for the wedding breakfast was in the capable hands of Long Bros., and was tendered by Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Mason.

The bride was exceedingly fortunate in regard to the number of very beautiful gifts in silver and china, which she received. The presents included a handsome black marble clock, with cathedral chimes, given by the groom's associates on the staff of Grafton & Co.

Amongst the guests present from a distance were Mrs. Conway, mother of the groom, from Dundas; and Miss Nellie Conway, a niece, from Hamilton. Mrs. G. J. Stephens, of Cobourg, was also present.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway left on the afternoon train for a trip west, the bride being attired in a most becoming gown of a castor shade, with hat to match. On their return they will take up residence at No. 60 Murray street.

JOHNSTON—ALLISON.

A Pretty Wedding Celebrated on Dublin Street This Morning.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place this morning at the residence of Mr. James Johnston, No. 110 Dublin street, when his daughter, Miss Mabel Johnston, was married to Mr. Fred O. Allison, by Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of the George street Methodist church. The house was very prettily decorated with asters and evergreens, the artistic draping of the balusters being especially noticeable.

The bride's gown was of white silk, and her bridesmaid, Miss Annie Hutchinson, was costumed in white over pink. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Charles Allison, of Chicago.

At the conclusion of the ceremony about forty guests sat down to a well appointed wedding breakfast, after which the wedding party drove to the Grand Trunk station, where Mr. and Mrs. Allison took the train for the west. The gifts which were received were numerous and very handsome. Mr. and Mrs. Allison intend taking up residence on Dublin street, on their return to Peterborough.

WEDDING BELLS.

Mr. Alexander Bain of Winnipeg Weds Miss Louisa Octavia Dennistoun of Peterborough.

An event which has for some time enlisted the animated interest of social circles took place this afternoon at three o'clock, at Castleknock, the beautiful residence of Mrs. Jas. F. Dennistoun. In the presence of about 100 guests Miss Louisa Octavia Dennistoun, daughter of the late James F. Dennistoun, Q.C., was united in marriage to Mr. Alexander Bain, Manager of the Scottish Canadian Loan and Investment Company, of Winnipeg, Man. The ceremony was performed in the drawing rooms of the residence which were tastefully brightned with floral decorations, by Rev. Dr. Torrance, St. Paul's church, brother-in-law of the bride. The bride, was gowned in white duchesse satin trimmed with lace medallions with transparent yoke and sleeves of shirred chiffon, and veil and wreath of orange blossoms. The ornament worn was a sunburst of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom. The bridal bouquet was white roses, lilies of the valley and ferns. She was attended by her sister, Miss Georgina, who was attired in white India silk, with garniture of rose applique, and frills of lace and insertion, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groomsman was Mr. Geo. F. Macdonell, of Toronto, eldest son of the late Rev. D. J. Macdonell, at one time minister of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough. The bride entered the drawing room escorted by her brother, who gave her to be married, to the music of the wedding march from Lohengrin, and after the ceremony was completed the bridal party retired to the accompaniment of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The musical features were contributed by an orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Gliddon. To the ceremony succeeded the wedding breakfast, served by Mr. Harry Long, caterer, in a large marquee upon the lawn. Amongst the guests present were:—Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Jones, Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Noble and Miss Jenkins, Petrolea; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Amys, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Kirkpatrick, Toronto; Mrs. MacKerris, Mr. Hamilton MacKerris, Mrs. Garrett, Mrs. W. W. Kirkpatrick and Miss Louisa Kirkpatrick, Kingston; Mrs. Macklin and Miss Macklin, Montreal; Mr. James Macdonald and Mr. Peacock, Toronto; Mrs. Stafford Kirkpatrick and Misses Kirkpatrick, London, England.

The appointments throughout were in the most charming taste, and all the arrangements for the ceremony and its attending circumstances were so smoothly effected that the occasion deserved the comprehensive title of an exceedingly pretty wedding.

The bride was a charming member of one of the first families of the town, fitted by qualities of mind, character and desposition to preside over and make a home happy and to adorn the highest social circles of the land. She was extremely popular in the social circle in which she moved, and the very warmest wishes will follow her to her new home in the West, wishes with all the greater promise of fulfilment, because the groom is a gentleman of high character and social condition, a combination of conditions, which, humanly speaking, promise a most happy connubial life.

Mr. and Mrs. Bain left on the 5.10 o'clock C.P.R. train for points west.

A PRESENTATION

To Mr. P. J. Shaughnessy by the Employees at the Big Elevator.

Just as the six o'clock whistle blew, last evening, the employees on the big Cereal Works elevator assembled and waylaid Mr. P. J. Shaughnessy, who has been superintending the work on behalf of the Macdonald Engineering Company, of Chicago, and presented him with a gold headed cane.

The following address was read by Mr. J. E. Sullivan, timekeeper:

Mr. P. J. Shaughnessy, Superintendent Macdonald Engineering Company, Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—Learning with deep regret of your intended removal from our midst in the near future, we cannot allow you to leave without expressing to you our high appreciation of your services as superintendent of the work on the elevator.

Since you came amongst us a perfect stranger, some eight months ago, you have by your genial disposition and pleasant manner won the affection of all of us.

In asking you to accept this gold headed cane as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held, we trust that it will be many years before you will have occasion to use it.

We feel assured that wherever you may go you will be successful, as we believe you to be a master of your work.

In conclusion we hope that in your journey through life you will think of the elevator employees at Peterborough.

Signed on behalf of the employees,
J. E. SULLIVAN,
J. GRADY,
W. F. GREEN,
A. GOODFELLOW.

The presentation was made by Mr. W. F. Green and was acknowledged by Mr. Shaughnessy in a neat speech.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH EPWORTH LEAGUE.

A Departing Leaguer Amiably Beleaguered.

The meeting of the George street Epworth League last evening partook of the nature of a social reunion of the members. The topic, "How to Grow," was very ably discussed by Mrs. Lewis, following which a short musical programme was given by Miss Clara Belleghem, and the Misses Chasty.

Occasion was then taken by the society to say farewell to one of its most prominent members, Mr. W. F. Stubbs, who leaves in a few days for Toronto to take a course in the School of Practical Science there. Mr. Stubbs has been a most faithful worker in the society, and his removal from town will be a distinct loss to the George street League, with which he has been closely connected since coming to town. Mr. Stubbs was made the recipient of a handsome set of military brushes, and the following address, read by Miss Ethel Miller, while Mr. Garnet Galley made the presentation;

Mr. W. F. Stubbs,

Dear Mr Stubbs,—Before allowing you to sever your connection with this League, on the eve of your departure from town, we desire to give expression to our appreciation of the work done by you in the interests of the society. Since coming among us you have on all occasions been one of our most faithful members, and when called upon to take the office of president, at a time when, perhaps, the society was at a very low ebb, you proved yourself entirely capable of the task, and we feel that whatever success was met with during the year was due in a large measure to the untiring efforts put forth by you on behalf of the League.

We regret very much that circumstances necessitate your withdrawal amall gift, which we trust will serve ample you have been to us may stimulate us to greater effort in League work.

As a tangible expression of our goodwill, kindly accept the accompanying from our midst, but we trust that the ex- to call to mind pleasant memories of your connection with the George street League.

We wish you every success and happiness in your future life, and trust that your energy and influence may always be on the side of truth and right.

Signed on behalf of the League,

GEO. ROBERTSON, President.

M. DETCHER, Secretary.

Mr. Stubbs suitably acknowledged the kindness of the League, after which refreshments were served by the social committee.

IN LATEST SPORTING CIRCLES.

The Athletic Lacrosse Club's Splendid Season.

Had a Balance on Right Side of $54—Will Have a Banquet.

The semi-annual meeting of the Athletic Lacrosse Club was held in the Oriental parlours last night, at which the reports of the various officers of the Club were presented and the business for the season wound up.

The chair was occupied by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, the President of the Club, who in opening expressed his pleasure in the honour they had conferred upon him in electing him to the highest office in the gift of the Club. He congratulated the boys upon having carried off the championship of the City League, and expressed confidence in the future of the organization.

Amongst those present at the meeting were Messrs. R. M. Glover, Jack McCabe, Lou Dobbin, H. Dunsford, Ed. Dillon, Harry Morgan, A. W. McPherson, C. G. Graham, W. Galley, H. Rush, Ernie Wasson, W. A. Sanderson, O. Dusty, George Mein, N. Dusty, S. S. Moore and E. S. Clarry.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of the Secretary, Mr. McPherson, was as follows:

Gentlemen, — The secretary's statement for the past season is of a necessity short, but none the less interesting. It is with pleasure that I can present to you the following favourable report.

The formation of this august organization seems to have been the result of a split in a larger association. On the 6th of May a few lacrosse enthusiasts met in the Oriental Hotel and organized the Athletic Lacrosse Club, and elected the following officers to guide the ship of state;

Pres.—H. R. H. Kenner.
1st Vice-Pres.—W. A. Sanderson.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Geo Stephens.
Sec.—A. W. McPherson.
Treas.—H. Rush.
Manager—J. McCabe.
Executive Committee—E. S. Clarry, C. G. Graham and E. Wasson.

At a meeting of the executive held the following week, it was decided to support a proposal to form a town league. The president and Mr. Wasson were appointed delegates to the league and were authorized to arrange a series of matches among the town teams entered, and to suggest the securing of a trophy for the winning team. At the same meeting blue and white were selected as the club colours and Mr. Chris Graham, and the secretary were appointed a committee to secure suitable suits. A very neat blue and white uniform was obtained at a reasonable figure. Mr. Ernie Wasson was selected as Captain, and Messrs. Morgan, Dillon and the captain as team committee.

It is unnecessary to give a detailed description of each match, as most of the members of the club were participants in the majority of the games. A mere summary is sufficient. At the meeting for the formation of the league three teams entered, the T.A.S., Y.M.C.A. and the Athletics. Each was scheduled to play 5 games. The Athletics played 6, winning 3, drawing 2, and losing 1; two others were won from the T.A.S., by default, thus winning the championship by a fair margin.

Besides the regular scheduled games the boys played two outside exhibition matches, one against Belleville at Belleville; the other the Port Hope-Cobourg combination at Peterborough. In both the Athletics were victorious. This brought to a conclusion a very pleasant and successful season. However, it was not without running up against many difficulties. Grounds were scarce, players were scarce and supporters and rooters were almost a minus quantity, and were it not for the untiring efforts of the captain, and the excellent work of every member of the faithful few there might have been a different tale to tell.

To our treasurer is due the thanks of our club in representing us in the arduous task of collecting a gate at all the matches, and as a result we are able to show a comfortable sum to our credit.

The report was on motion adopted.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The report of the Treasurer, Mr. Harry Rush, Jr., was submitted as follows:

To the officers and members of the Athletic Lacrosse Club:

Gentlemen,—In presenting my report for the season which has just closed it gives me much pleasure to state that there is a balance on the right side of the ledger amounting to $55.69.

Livery	1 00
'Busses	3 00
Balance on hand	55 69
	$107 00

All of which is respectfully submitted,

H. RUSH, Jr., Treasurer.

General pleasure was expressed as to the very satisfactory condition of the Club and upon motion of Mr. McPherson, seconded by Mr. Graham, it was decided to have the team's picture taken, and one presented to each of the players, to get the uniforms cleaned and to dispose of the money then remaining upon the recommendation of Messrs. W. A. Sanderson, H. R. H. Kenner and H. Rush, Jr.

Mr. Kenner then presented to Capt. Wasson of the team 12 souvenir medals which he had purchased while in Belfast in anticipation of the Club's winning the championship. Mr. Wasson acknowledged the gift in appropriate terms, thanking Mr. Kenner and the other officers for their deep interest in the affairs of the Club.

It is likely that the Club will hold a banquet a little later on at which the souvenirs will be presented.

DAMAGE BY CARP.

Driving Out Canada's Game by Destroying Their Feeding Beds.

The German carp, against whom the hand of every fishermen is raised because of his displacing better fish, is accused of one more and still worse crime by O. B. Sheppard, Dominion inspector of fisheries for Ontario, to wit, that of driving out our best waterfowl by eating their food.

Mr. Sheppard, after his return from an inspection trip, stated that the problem of getting rid of or keeping under the carp was now facing the fishery authorities on both sides of the line. From all he could learn the carp was in Germany a fine-grained and delicate fish, but its transplanting to America with its new variety of food had caused it to slide down the scale until it was about the least desirable of our food fishes. Its chief fault was its driving away of other fish and gradually exterminating them by eating their eggs.

Latterly, however, it had been noticed that the carp were destroying the beds of wild rice, which forms the chief food of wild ducks, geese and other aquatic birds.

Upon the trip from which he was just returning, Mr. Sheppard had noticed that in Cook's Bay, Lake Simcoe, where there were formerly hundreds of acres of wild rice, there was not to be seen a spear of that plant to-day. The same was true of the Holland river, where there were at one time fifteen hundred acres of rice; now the carp have eaten it literally root, branch and seed. These places were once the very best duck grounds in the province, and now the ducks avoid them.

The carp were not introduced originally into Lake Simcoe, but were confined in the mill dam at Newmarket. The dam broke, and the carp got into Lake Simcoe through the Holland river. How to get them out or destroy them passed any man's knowledge, as they were the most tenacious of life under hard conditions, and defied the best laid traps. So far as he knew there was no carp in any of the Muskoka lakes.

As to the chances for black bass in the lakes where carp abound, he thought they were better than those of any other fish. The carp was not a fish-eater like the pike, his mouth not being so placed that he could enjoy this diversion. He was of the sucker variety, and destroyed other fish tribes by eating their eggs. The black bass was well armed to fight the carp. Only eight days elapsed between the laying of bass eggs and the hatching out of the young fry, and during this critical period and while the fry were too small to get out of the way of the carp, the parent bass remained on guard and rushed bull-like at everything that threatened their progeny.

The bass, Mr. Sheppard said, was the only fish which protected its young in this way, and it was this pugnacity which made them such an easy prey to the angler during the spawning season. At everything that looked unusual or dangerous the bass rushed pell-mell, and consequently was impaled on the first hook which came within reach. On this account the bass were particularly protected by close season during the spawning season.

The carp need no protection, jocularly remarked Mr. Sheppard. It had got into international waters and become an international question for fishery experts, and lucky would be the man who could devise some means of getting rid of the carp family without destroying other varieties.

FROM DEATH'S DOOR

An Ottawa Man's Wonderfully Narrow Escape.

He was in Convulsions and the Doctors Told his Wife he Could not Live till Morning, but he Recovered.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 21. — Special. —At 309 Gilmore street this city, there resides a man who has been nearer the hour and article of death than anyone who has been privileged to live to tell the story.

He is Mr. George H. Kent, a printer in the employ of the Bank Note Company, of Wellington street.

Some seven or eight years ago Mr. Kent was siezed with Bright's Disease, which gradually grew worse till he had to quit his work and was confined to his bed where he remained for some months.

Physicians were in constant attendance upon him but instead of improving he gradually grew worse and worse.

At last he became so low that his body became terribly bloated and his skin like tanned leather. He had convulsions, which increased in frequency, and the intervals between thes espasms, found him so weak that he was barely conscious.

One night after a particularly bad these spasms found him so weak that he could not live until morning.

A messenger was despatched for a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills which were immediately brought to the dying man.

Mr. Kent did not die. On the contrary in about two months he was at work again in the shop and has not since been off work for a single day, day.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent are naturally very grateful, and as a mark of their gratitude have called a sweet little girl born to them some two years after Mr. Kent's remarkable recovery by the name of "Edna Dodds" Kent.

Mr. Kent has made a sworn statement reciting the details of his case and his cure.

THE PRESERVING KETTLE.

Peaches In Their Own Juice or a Rich Syrup—Plum Jam.

Peaches Preserved In Their Own Juice.—Wash the fruit thoroughly before it is pared, then put the parings in a porcelain kettle, adding a quart and a half of water to every four pounds of parings. Set on the fire and allow it to cook to a mush; meanwhile have the fruit steamed till tender. Put the fruit in hot jars and cover. Strain the juice from the fruit parings in a jelly bag and boil it up with one pint of sugar to one quart of juice. Pour it boiling over the peaches and seal. If one desires a little sharper flavor than is afforded by the fruit alone, add one lemon, rind and juice, to one quart of the peach juice. If preferred, a small bit of green ginger root may be used instead of the lemon.

Whole Peaches In a Rich Syrup.—Pare the peaches carefully and put equal weights of fruit and sugar in layers in a deep porcelain kettle. Add one pint of water to four pounds of the fruit. Let it cook slowly until the peaches are tender, then lift them carefully on a slitted wooden spoon and lay on platters. Set in the sun, covering with a wire netting to keep off flies. Boil the sirup till thick and clear, then put in the peaches again and cook for a minute or two. Put into cans and seal. If you wish a delicious flavor, add a dozen blanched peach kernels before cooking the fruit.

Plum or Apricot Jam.—Choose fine perfect fruit for jam and break the skins slightly before putting over the fire. It needs no water, and the sugar is not to be added until it grows pulpy. Lift out the pits, smash with a hammer and add the kernels to the jam. To each pound of pulp add one pound of sugar and simmer gently for an hour, when it should be ready to put in tumblers.—Good Housekeeping.

A Complete Hospital.

That's what Merrill's System Tonic is. It is one of the most powerful blood purifiers and the best bowel regulator known, besides being a muscular and nerve tonic. Hence it cures a wider range of disease than most medicines. It is skilfully prepared in one of Canada's largest drug stores and is extremely pleasant to take. Price 50c for three weeks' treatment. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Hair Lotions.

Hair lotions are not advisable at all times and it is quite possible to use too many of them. A lotion to the hair is like fertilizer to the plant and should never be used constantly.

Monthly applications of good tonic, weekly shampoos, judicious brushing and singeing of the ends when they grow brittle and have a tendency to split should keep the hair in excellent condition.

There are several good hair tonics on the market, but care should be taken to select one which does not contain a great amount of alcoholic properties. Too frequently the after results of the use of alcohol on the hair are overlooked. It is very drying and shrivels the roots and glands.

Donald's Reason.

Donald arrived late at his work, and the brow of his employer ominously contracted.

"Oh," said Donald, gayly and unconcernedly, "she's a prood mon th' day, a prood mon th' day."

"What has happened," asked the employer, "to make you feel so confoundedly proud all of a sudden?"

"Oh, yes," cried Donald, "she's verra prood th' day, verra prood th' day."

"What is it, man?" demanded the employer.

"Hoots, toots, mon!" cried Donald, with great fervor, striking his bosom, "she's anither faither th' day!"—London Globe.

In a Bad Way With Lame Back.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

People speak of weak, lame back, backache, etc., not knowing that the trouble comes from the kidneys. When the back is strained it is usually the kidneys that suffer most most, and until the kidneys recover from the strain the trouble continues.

There is no quicker way of restoring the kidneys than by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Hundreds and thousands of workingmen in Canada know this. They have proven it in their own case.

Mr. A. J. Bouyea, who is employed at the Davey Shingle Mills, Lindsay, Ont., states:—"Some time ago I strained my back and kidneys when lifting logs, and was laid up for some time, although I tried several remedies. As my father had been cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills he advised me to give them a trial.

"Under the treatment I soon noticed a great improvement in my condition, and to-day I am in good health again. I was certainly in a bad way for a time, and believe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to be the best kidney medicine on the market."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

NEW FAD IN FOBS.

How the Smart Woman Wears Her Watch—Handmade Affairs.

The watch fob has been generally accepted for women's wear. Now it is decreed that the fob shall be made with special reference to the gown with which it is to be worn, and of this fresh fad the New Idea Magazine says:

The fobs are handmade and need

save no ornament save a buckle. Most of the fobs are made of heavy material to match a gown, of velvet or corduroy or of some fabric which makes just the bit of contrast needed to set off the costume. The fob may match the material of the belt or even of the stock. A scrap of goods from a suit is sufficient for a fob.

The fobs which are intended to be finished with an ornament at the lower end are made straight, like a strap. Those that have the buckle only are rounded out into a lobe shape at the bottom. If the material is heavy, all that is needed is a binding of some sort around the edge. Some of the fobs are stitched also, while some materials look much better without the stitching. The binding is often of a contrasting color that gives tone to the fob.

A clever girl made some unique fobs from heavy knitting silk, knitting a close, heavy pattern and bringing the end to a point or widening into a lobe. These fobs she bound to keep from stretching. She also knitted a belt and stock to make a complete set.

Pretty little fobs of taffeta, cut with the lobe end and stitched with self color or one that will contrast prettily with the silk, are used with stitched taffeta belts. Belt and fob are buckled to match with gun metal, brass, silver or nickel.

Smart fobs of heavy black silk ribbon with small seals, made like those worn by gentlemen, are shown by the best jewelers. A pretty example is given in the illustration.

The tiny buckles may be had in plain styles or more elaborately wrought, and ornaments for the end of the fob are shown in a variety of designs. As a rule, they represent some symbol of the owner's taste in the line of outdoor sports.

Tennis and Croquet.

It being the fad of the moment to be domestic is one reason for the revival of tennis and croquet. Consequently on all of the country places that have lately been finished, as well as on the older places, the croquet lawn and the tennis court are receiving much attention. Where there is not a grass court a dirt court is put up, and many people prefer this to the former.

But the most attractive courts are those that are laid out on a lawn, for the green grass seems a necessary accompaniment, especially when women are playing.

The fad of the moment is to have the croquet lawn as near the house as possible, so that spectators can watch it from the veranda or terrace, as the case may be.

Cream of Spinach Soup.

Recipe of the Boston Cooking School Magazine: Cook half a peck of well washed spinach in the water that clings to the leaves, sprinkling it lightly with salt. Chop fine and pass through a puree sieve. For a cup of puree make three cups of white sauce, using milk or milk and white stock as the liquid and half the usual quantity of flour. If the stock has not been flavored with onion, carrot and parsley, cook two slices of these vegetables with a spray of parsley in the butter or scald and cool them in the milk used for the sauce. When ready to serve, add the spinach to the sauce, and when reheated stir in one or two yolks of eggs beaten and diluted with half or a whole cup of cream.

Fads and Fashions.

Raspberry red is a chic color just now. It is pretty in dotted swiss or batiste.

Many fine rows of flouncing appear on evening gowns.

Long, close sleeves are foretold. Paris is launching them.

Geranium red hats and parasols are worn with all white gowns.

The palm leaf fan, transformed by means of flower garlands and soft, full crown of muslin, affords the summer girl an original hat.

The loose sack and full skirt makes a favorite lounging gown.

The loose coat and passamenterie trimmings will figure in furs next season.

Cloth in very light weight, beautifully finished and of most delicate colors, will be made up in the first autumn gowns.

Stained leather dust ruffles for the walking skirt are the latest fad.

Earrings and locket to match are the society girl's last whim.

A Neat Little Supper Dish.

Sardines broiled in a chafing dish are nice for Sunday night suppers. Use just enough of the oil in the box to cover the bottom of the dish and keep the fish from sticking. When they are browned on both sides, sprinkle liberally with lemon juice and serve hot.

SWINE BREEDING

A writer in The Country Gentleman gives a method for curing bacon as follows: First trim all surplus fat from the hams, removing the joint; shape as usual. Rub the salt in thoroughly on the skin side, using a hog ear to do it; then draw up the skin over the hock, putting in a pinch of pulverized saltpeter, then filling up closely packed with salt. Place the hams on a table covered with salt half an inch deep, fitting them in to occupy as little space as possible, but not touching. Now you are ready for the dressing. Thoroughly mix the following articles (quantity given for 100 pounds of hams): Ten pounds salt, two pounds good brown sugar, half pound ground black pepper, half pound saltpeter, with which thoroughly rub the flesh side, after which put on all the mixture that will lie on. By absorption the mixture will be eaten up in from two to three weeks. Then slightly sprinkle with salt. In six weeks the meat will be ready to hang up for smoking. Hang with wire and be sure to hang with the hock down. Use nothing but corncobs or hickory wood for smoking. Spareribs, breakfast bacon and small shoulders for family use should be treated the same as hams.

Light and Convenient Crate.

J. A. Macdonald sends The Breeder's Gazette the description of a very satisfactory shipping crate. In the illustration part of the front side is cut away to show the inside arrangement. A good size for a pig three months old is: Length 40 inches, depth 23 inches, width 11 inches. For a pig eight weeks old a length of 32 inches, a depth of SHIPPING CRATE FOR SWINE.

18 inches and a width of 9 inches will be about right. Crates for shipping by express must be made as light as is safe from breakage. It is not fair to make a purchaser of a pig two months old pay express rates on thirty or forty pounds of crate when they can be made sufficiently strong and weigh but half as much. For ends and bottoms take five-eighths inch seasoned spruce or other tough light wood, one-half inch stuff for sides and cover with space between slats. In front is a trough, T, for feed and water. Just above is a sloping board, P, running to the top, through which the feed in transit is given. The upper compartment is provided with a slide, S, on top, and inside is the bag, B, containing the meal and grain fare ample for the journey. In cold weather the sides may be boarded up almost tight. To pigs weighing seventy-five pounds a standard of one-half inch stuff is nailed in the center of the sides. Shavings from a shingle mill make the best bedding.

Feeding Hogs.

Nearly every one has a different way of caring for and feeding hogs. I have tried several different ways myself, says Ed Edmonson in Farm and Ranch of Dallas, Tex. I suppose that the pigs are good stock and have been well cared for. I mean spring pigs of about the last of May, at the age of from six to nine weeks, and, as corn is out of their reach, I turn them out in the field and let them get the young weeds, and when the corn is in good roasting ears I begin to pull and feed them. Until that time I feed them a good ration of corn and shorts. I continue to pull the corn until the pigs get large enough to break it down, and if I don't want them to eat all they will I take them out. Right here is about the hardest time of the year. On account of hot, dry weather there is nothing green, so we have to feed too much corn. I don't feed them all they will eat, and I turn them on the wheat as early in the fall as I can get it large enough to graze on. The best combination I have ever found is corn and something green.

The Good Breed Sow.

A good brood sow should have a short head, wide between the eyes, good ears, not too large, as large ears indicate coarseness and sluggishness. The shoulders should be broad and as wide on the upper line as they are on the lower line. The chest should be good and wide, and her jowls should be on a level with her lower lines. The hips should be broad and square, a little broader than her shoulders is a good quality. The back should be good and strong and slightly arched. The sow should stand well on her toes and be extremely lengthy between the shoulders and hams with well sprung ribs. She should be the progeny of a mother who is a good suckler. A well matured sow should produce from seven to ten pigs to a litter and at least two litters a year.

Killing Hogs For Home Use.

Hogs from eight to nine months old make the best meat and should weigh from 200 to 250 pounds, writes an Indiana farmer to Prairie Farmer. Do not feed for twelve hours previous to killing. Have everything in readiness for work—knives sharpened and all other utensils conveniently at hand and the place for scalding and hanging arranged. In scalding do not have the water too hot. This can be determined by the use of a thermometer. Before cutting up allow the hog to cool somewhat, but be sure and remove the fat from the entrails while warm, as it can be done much easier and with less waste than when cool. Place the meat when cut up in a place above freezing point, so that the animal heat may entirely pass out, after which it is ready for salting.

The Root of the Trouble.

It surprises some people when you tell them their nervous trouble is caused by a defective liver. Liver trouble causes constipation. Next comes dyspepsia, then impure blood with heart strain, and the result is nerve trouble. Merrill's System Tonic is a positive cure for liver trouble and constipation, and in this way remove the cause of other ills. 50c. per bottle at Ormond & Walsh's.

The Bark of a Dog.

Strangely enough, barking, which seems to us so characteristic of the dog, is not one of its natural sounds at all. No wild dogs bark, and, what is more remarkable, if dogs are isolated for a long time from their human masters they seem to lose the faculty. Thus a number of dogs turned loose on Juan Fernandez island were found in thirty-three years to have completely lost the habit, but to be able to reacquire it. On the other hand, wolf puppies, as well as young wild dogs, if reared among tame ones, readily learn to bark. It almost seems as if the sound were differentiated from the howling and yelping natural to the wild canidæ in order to communicate with man and serve his purpose. It is worth observing that the habit can be eliminated when desired, as in some breeds of dogs favored by poachers.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Adress F. J. Health and Hope.

"He who has health has hope; and he who has hope has everything." But hope flees at the approach of kidney disease with the dreadful pains which accompany it. With the the flesh gradually failing, the back aching, and the despair which often comes to victims of this ailment, only the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will restore hope, confidence and health. VARICOCELE NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED.

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

DR. MACKAY AT ST. PAUL'S.

He Delivered a Very Timely Address to Young People Last Night.

At St. Paul's church last evening Dr. R. P. MacKay, of Toronto, addressed a union meeting of the young people of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's.

Dr. MacKay has for a number of years been Secretary for Foreign Missions in connection with the Presbyterian church in Canada, and is thoroughly conversant with mission work in all its branches.

Last evening his remarks were especially confined to the work that the young people of our church could do along the line of missions. He showed by illustrations from the Student Volunteer movement and from the M. E. church of the United States how great were the possibilities.

There were three principal things necessary to successful mission work—to study, to pray, and to give. He strongly advocated the formation of mission study classes, and suggested books suitable for such study. He spoke strongly in regard to prayer and its power. There was no greater source of comfort to the missionary in his work than to know that the people in the home land were bearing him up constantly before the throne of grace.

The doctor then closed his address by showing what people had done in in the way of giving for the support of missions, and what might be done by others. The ideal way was for each Young People's Society to engage to support in whole or in part some particular missionary. This plan is being tried in many places and is meeting with great success. It increases the interest and enthusiasm of people when they feel that they have a special man of their own in the far-off field.

During the meeting Mrs. Mein sang a solo entitled "The Field is the World," and Misses White, Carey and Godfrey sang a trio. Rev. J. A. Wilson, B.A., assistant pastor of St. Paul's, presided.

SALVATION ARMY NOTES.

Staff-Captain Page's addresses at the barracks on Sunday were listened to with keen appreciation. Her eager desire to do good was so evident that her audience felt the interest in them and reciprocated the same. The general feeling was a desire for her early return to Peterborough again.

The wedding to-night promises to be a very happy affair. The Salvationists have the barracks beautifully decorated, and flowers, cedar, flags and bunting adorn it everywhere. Downstairs the tables are set for two hundred people, and the general air of expectancy is indeed great. Staff-Captain W. Creighton arrives on the 7.30 p.m. train from Toronto, to make the couple one.

The usual Harvest festival will take place on Monday, September 29th, at 8 p.m., when vegetables, fruit, dry-goods, also various other gifts will be sold by auction.

General William Booth sails from England on Saturday, September 27, and proceeds to New York, where twelve vessels are chartered to meet him ere he lands. His tour both in the States and Canada promises to exceed any hitherto undertaken. Apparently his popularity increases. He is one of the greatest benefactors of the present day.

A MORE ANCIENT MARINER.

By Bliss Carman.

The swarthy bee is a buccaneer,
A burly velveted rover,
Who loves the booming wind in his ear
As he sails the seas of clover.

A waif of the gobbin pirate crew,
With not a soul to deplore him,
He steers for the open verge of blue
With the slimy world before him.

His slimey sails abroad on the wind
Are shivered with fairy thunder;
On a line that sings to the light of his wings
He makes for the land of wonder.

He harries the ports of the Hollyhocks,
And levies on poor Sweetbrier;
He drinks the whitest wine of Phlox,
And the Rose is his desire.

He hangs in the Willows a night and a day;
He rifles the Buckwheat patches;
Then battens his store of pelf galore
Under the tautest hatches.

He woos the Poppy and weds the Peach,
Inveigles Daffodilly,
And then like a tramp abandons each
For a gorgeous Canada Lily.

There's not a soul in the garden world
But wishes the day were shorter
When Mariner B puts out to sea
With the wind in the proper quarter.

Or, so they say! But I have my doubts,
For the flowers are only human,
And the valor and gold of a vagrant bold
Were always dear to woman.

He dares to boast, along the coast,
The beauty of Highland Heather;
How he and she, with night on the sea,
Lay out on the hills together.

He pilfers from every port of the wind,
From April to golden autumn:
But the thieving ways of his mortal days
Are those his mother taught him.

His morals are mixed, but his will is fixed;
He prospers after his kind,
And follows an instinct compass-sure,
The philosophers call blind.

And that is why, when he comes to die,
He'll have an easier sentence
Than some one I know who thinks just so,
And then leaves room for repentance.

He never could box the compass round;
He doesn't know port from starboard;
But he knows the gates of the Sundown Straits,
Where the choicest goods are harbored.

He never could see the Rule of Three,
But he knows a rule of thumb
Better than Euclid's, better than yours,
Or the teachers' yet to come.

He knows the smell of hydromel
As if two and two were five;
And hides it away for a year and a day
In his own hexagonal hive.

Out in the day, haphazard, alone,
Booms the old vagrant hummer,
With only his whim to pilot him
Through the splendid vast of summer.

He steers and steers on the slant of the gale,
Like the dead of Vanderdecken:
And there's never an unknown course to sail
But his crazy log can reckon.

He drones along, with his rough sea-song,
And the throat of a salty tar,
This devil-may-care, till he makes his lair
By the light of a yellow star.

He looks like a gentleman, lives like a lord,
And works like a Trojan hero;
Then loafs all winter upon his hoard,
With the mercury at zero.

—In "Songs from Vagabondia."

A Sketch of Bliss Carman.

Mr. Garman belongs to that small group of Canadian poets whose work has been recognized by the most intelligent critics to possess very high qualities both of form and imaginative range. He was born at Fredericton, N.B., in 1861, and was educated under Dr. Parkin at the Collegiate Institute, from which he entered the University of New Brunswick. He graduated as an alumni gold medalist in 1884, and afterwards pursued his studies at Edinburgh and Harvard Universities. He studied law for two years, but found more congenial work in journalism. In 1890 he became a member of the staff of The New York Independent, and formed connections with the leading American magazines. He was also associated in a unique venture in periodical literature in establishing the Chap Book, which had a brief but brilliant existence. His first volume of collected poem was entitled "Low Tide on Grand Pre," and appeared in 1893. Since then he has published, "Behind the Arras," a further collection; "Songs from Vagabondia," in collaboration with Richard Hovey, and "More Songs From Vagabondia." Mr. Carman's verse is remarkable for its lyrical quality, and it breathes the broad optimism of a spirit disciplined to stoicism, but in close fellowship with nature; of one who loves to face keen sea winds and sea rain, and watch racing tides, notes the sunlight on hills and all that vagrant beauties open to the wayfarer, but above all loves the good-fellowship of his own kind.

LADIES' JACKETS AND MEN'S OVERCOATS.

What is the Vogue This Autumn—Increasing Demand for Canadian Woolens.

As to styles of the ladies' jackets, such a multiplicity of them are shown that it is hard to particularize. There are the half length coat of frieze, beaver, or serge, double breasted, with bell sleeves; the Kersey, the double-breasted diagonal cheviot, with semi-fitting back. There are also displayed just as prominently, the three-quarter length coat, some with fancy capes. One of the prettiest of these is the "Gibson," which has a very graceful effect. The double-breasted Newmarket is not by any means forgotten and is made in Oxford grey, cheviot, or other material; raglans, too are not by any means out of date yet. All the above are in practically any of the colours which can be chosen. Among the prettiest effects for ladies' wear are the cheviot or Kersey capes for golfing or travelling. The newest feature probably is the Monte Carlo coat made of all-wool Kersey and in several shades. It is very stylish in its effect. Regarding ladies' suits, the same remarks which were used to describe the variety of jackets will apply to these also. One of the prettiest we noticed is a cheviot serge costume, trimmed with self-strapping and loined with mercerized cloth. Another smart garment is the five-gore or habit-cloth skirt, made in lustre, serge or melton and trimmed with fancy braid and soutache.

Men's overcoats naturally show a much more limited range, and there is practically no specially new feature to refer to in them as yet, at any rate. However it may be mentioned that Canadian woollens are becoming more and more in demand. Not only is the legend, "Made in Canada," becoming more and more in evidence, and home-made goods taking the place of imported among Canadian wearers, but they are actually getting to be asked for in some of the British centres of similar production as well. Their admirable wearing qualities are becoming quickly recognized. — Monetary Times.

COLE YOUNGER PREACHES.

Retired Bandit Gives His Views on Christianity.

Although religious bodies have frequently edified by addresses from persons that have shaken off some minor vices, the Ministerial Association of St. Paul, "broke the record" in listening to an example of reformation no less distinguished than Cole Younger.

The famous retired bandit, smiling, blue-eyed and mild of voice, was the guest of Rev. C. A. Cressy. Younger sat quiet, holding his trigger finger on a hymn book until Mr. Cressy had read a paper entitled "What is man?" The gist of Younger's argument might have been "The Man Strenuous."

"To my mind," said he, "a man ought to be a man, whatever he's trying to do. If he's in a Christian layout he ought to play his cards straight from the salvation deck. If ther's any crooked work in the deal it hurts the house just as much as it hurts him. It's up to him to spot a sinner whenever he shows his head. A fair field and no favours. That's the best any man ought to expect. If he can't take care of himself with his own weapon he don't deserve to be saved, and he won't be nohow."

ONTARIO'S STEEL SHIP INDUSTRY.

An Important Business Growing up at Collingwood.

It is not long ago that persons in need of steel ships placed their order in the Old Country, had the ships built there and sent to this country. An important step has been made and now we have the ships built in Ontario at Toronto and Collingwood, with only the raw material, the steel, brought from the Old Country. The next move, and it is not far distant, is the production of the raw material wholly in this country, which will mean, of course, that Canada will supply the steel and build the ships for our own use.

The Collingwood Bulletin says that the steel for the new ships which the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company are preparing to build is now being rushed in, and already fifty-five cars have arrived. On Sunday evening a special freight brought in twenty-two cars loaded with angle steel and plates. That which arrived was brought across the Atlantic by steamers Ontario, Scillian, and Concordia, and is the product of the mills of the Steel Company of Scotland.

Another large consignment is now on the water on board the steamers Marini, Rosarian, and Lakonia, and is expected in Montreal within a few days.

With these consignments on hand, it is expected that building operations will be commenced within a few days, when the present number of employees will be daily reinforced.

STOCK MARKETS.

Current Week's Outlook.

New York, September 21. — Last week was the passing of a mile post through the money derangement. This week will probably pass another, and then smoother sailing for the ship of speculation. As outlined in our weekly outlook one week ago, things did not go to pieces through the pinch in funds. The market, after one day's slightly turbulent session, in which prices, shaded a bit, has continued to harden and advance, though progress was made cautiously. The same caution will probably be exercised by the powers that be. During the present week, stocks, in our opinion, will not very much longer be obtainable at current bargain prices — not so named when comparing with the yard stick of the past, but with the more accurate gauge, probabilities and prospects for the future. Barring the local money disturbance, which under our present system of banking has become an affair at this time of year, there is not a single cloud in the financial sky. Money will shortly correct itself, and stocks will move in accordance with facts and existing conditions. It seems strange that the richest country in the world, with the largest gold surplus on hand, should feel the throes of scarce money due to the vast absorption by the National Treasury in excess of disbursements. Legislative action will shortly be reached to correct this annual evil. We view the current situation with confidence and hope and deem it good advice to suggest the purchase of securities at the present time, especially the standard issues. The market in our opinion will be materially higher before little, if any, lower. To buy and hold will be to make money. To sell and wait, will be either to watch a constantly growing loss, or to get further away from an excellent opportunity. Railways and industrials should be purchased. The outlook for the fall months is most excellent for both classes of stock. In all probability this week will witness more or less hesitancy to the trend of the market, one or more possible should cash demand become a trifle acute, but with it all we feel that the average of prices will show a gain for the week's operations. We strongly advise picking up stocks, especially upon weak spots. That is what the cliques are doing, so it should be advisable for the outsider to do likewise.

Summary. — The bears appear again to have run themselves into a trap. Depicted bank reserves and their belief that it would cause extensive liquidation, together with a lower range of prices from London, encouraged them to attack the market this morning. The market opened down and its first prices were directly lower at opening. Afterwards the market again crept up with St Paul the leader. Money loaned up to 20 per cent. Weak holders are not in the market in any quantity; depressions are consequently fitful and rallies sharp. The outlook for the future is too good to permit of close money to more than curb speculation to some extent. Buy on each and every dip. Hold on fearlessly, and we believe you will be at the record. Sales, 649,300. Money closed 12.

TROOPS ORDERED OUT

Nine Companies of the 13th Regiment at Olyphant.

A SOLID WALL OF LIVING MEN.

How the Strikers Are Picturesquely Opposing the Non-Union Forces and the Military—Some Miners Have Gone Back to Work—U.S. Labor Commissioner's Prediction.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 24.—Nine companies of the 13th Regiment, ordered out Monday night, are in camp at Olyphant, near here.

The Hungarian shot in the attack upon Deputy Sheriff McAndrew Monday, died yesterday.

Charles and Bert London were waylaid by a crowd near Throop, Pa., yesterday and wounded. The strikers first stoned them and afterward began shooting. Bert was shot in the thigh and Charles in the right leg.

Turning Wall of Pickets.

Mahoney City, Sept. 24.—Weird in its working and effective in its execution is the new plan adopted by the striking miners to checkmate the attempts of the operators to resume work at the North Mahoney and St. Nicholas collieries. In brief, the idea is the shutting out of non-union workmen from these mines by a living wall of strikers. So complete is the blockade made by thousands of pickets that no one has run it in the last forty hours.

Miners Back at Work.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 24.—Practically all the strikers in the White Oak district are reported to have gone back to work, and the mines in the new river section are said to be making daily gains. Forty-seven hundred and fifty tons of coal were loaded Monday.

Carroll D. Wright's Prediction.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 24.—Carroll D. Wright, U. S. Commissioner of Labor, asserts that the fight will collapse withing four weeks, and that the men will lose. This conclusion is based on the long investigation of conditions in the anthracite fields which resulted in the commissioner's formal report to President Roosevelt. Commissioner Wright made this admission to a few close personal friends at the Minneapolis club.

"This anthracite strike," said he, "may last three or four weeks longer and then it will collapse. The men will lose. There can be no other outcome. The railroads never will arbitrate or even consent to methods of conciliation."

Questions as to possible intervention in any way met the same reply.

"The railroads will never arbitrate," contended the commissioner, and then he gave, for the first time, the ground on which this assertion is based.

The railroads involved in the fight, it was asserted, are battling for a larger point than victory in this dispute. They are backed by the other great industrial corporations of the country in their endeavor to break the back of the miners' organization.

Troops on Guard.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 24.— Gen. Gobin, who is in command of the troops in the hard coal region, was ordered by Gov. Stone last night to send the 1st Battalion of the 12th Regiment to Lebanon to assist the sheriff in preserving the peace where the iron and steel workers of the American Iron and Steel Manufacturing Company have been on strike for nearly five months.

Chicago Has Another Strike.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 24.—Sewer diggers and laborers to the number of 300 have struck on all the city work for an increase in wages of 25 to 50 cents a day.

More Guelph Strikers.

Guelph, Sept. 24.—Twenty-four journeymen moulders and apprentices in the Woodyatt factory went out on strike yesterday. They refused to accept "struck" patterns.

Liquor Men Call For Funds.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Secretary E. Dickie of the Ontario License Victuallers' Association has issued a circular to the trade, calling for funds with which to put up a fight against the referendum. Toronto hotelkeepers have been assessed for $100 each to meet the expense of the campaign, and as there are 214 of them the sum received from this source alone will be $21,400. Other Ontario cities, according to the assessment, will provide $6,500, and members elsewhere other than in towns and cities will come up to the extent of $7,000, so that the funds immediately available will be in the neighborhood of $35,000. The first assessment will be levied on Oct. 5, and the second on Nov. 5, the amount being payable in two equal instalments. Of course, this will not include what the big brewers and distillers will give.

Halifax Regiment Disbanded.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—A special militia order was issued yesterday afternoon disbanding the Special Service Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment at Halifax. Lieut.-Col. White will resume control of the St. John military district, and the officers of the permanent corps will resume duty at their former stations. There will be vacancies for 250 men in the permanent corps if they desire to re-enlist.

Dr. Barclay Will Accept.

Montreal, Sept. 24.—It is understood that Rev. Dr. Barclay will accept the principalship of Queen's, although the minister of St. Paul's stated last evening that it was due the governors of Queen's that his decision should be first conveyed to that body.

New Coinage For Canada.

London, Sept. 24.—The mint at Birmingham has received from Canada an order for coinage amounting to a million dollars.

THE C.P.R. TO TAP THE GREAT LAKES.

Proposed New Line is Being Discussed.

USE OF GRAND TRUNK ROADBED

Laying of an Additional Track Between Peterborough and Midland Favoured.

The Toronto Mail and Empire to-day contains a very interesting despatch from Montreal in regard to the advisability of double-tracking the Midland Railway from Peterborough to Midland, on the Great Lakes. This proposition is becoming a live issue, and, judging from the following despatch, the matter is looked upon with favour not only by Hon. Mr. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, but also by leading railway men. The despatch is as follows;

"The scheme foreshadowed in the speech of Hon. Mr. Tarte, at Orillia, which would give the Canadian Pacific Railway Company a new line tapping the Great Lakes, is attracting much attention in railway circles.

"Mr. Charles M. Hays, the second vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk, remarked to-day that such a project as the Minister of Public Works had outlined, was in every way preferable to the French River scheme, with the heavy expenditure for new canals and the deepening of river navigation.

"How far the negotiations on the subject have gone, Mr. Hays deemed it injudicious at the present juncture to say, but he left no doubt whatever that the laying of an additional track on the Grand Trunk roadbed between Peterborough and Midland, the lake port where they are now building up an extensive traffic, if an additional track were found necessary, was not a proposition that they would regard with disfavour.

"Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, of the C.P.R., being out of the city, it was impossible to obtain an official statement with regard to the Canadian Pacific on the subject. Mr. G. M. Bosworth, the freight traffic manager, could give no information on the subject, but he admitted that it would be an enormous advantage to the Canadian Pacific to have a lake terminus at Midland, with a line of steamers that would enable them to bring down the grain grown in the Canadian North-West. Their present terminus at Owen Sound is insufficient for that purpose.

PETERBORO'S RAPID STRIDES.

Large Number of Factories Being Established—Excellent Facilities Available.

(Toronto News, Sept. 23rd, 1902.)

Mr. J. A. Culverwell, of Peterborough, is visiting in the city, and remarked to the News:—

"Peterborough has made more rapid strides in the growth of her manufactures the last two years than probably any other city of like size on the continent, and three of its new factories are practically the largest of their kind in Canada to-day; one of these being a branch American factory, and another originally so. It is now being demonstrated that this is not a temporary boom, as at the present moment, some half-dozen more good sized industries have about concluded arrangements to locate in the town.

"In another ten days the immense works of the American Cereal Company — having a capacity of some forty cars per day output—will be in operation, principally for European export trade.

"The large binder-twine factory will also be in full blast this month, and soon the Sapphire Corundum Company, whose properties are close to Burleigh Falls, will, with its large addition of English capital, be turning out natural corundum in greatly increased quantities.

"There has been already an immense influx of American capital into the Peterborough district—the electric railway having also been snapped up by Americans, who will extend a radial system—and now three American industries are negotiating to locate in Peterborough, evidently preparing for tariff changes. In fact, Peterborough people themselves have caught the spirit of enterprise, of which the brick and mortar now being laid in five or six factories is an ample demonstration.

"With a further slight adjustment of the tariff, American manufacturers generally would be compelled to emigrate and mark their goods 'made Canada.'"

Asked why this state of affairs existed, he said:—"Peterborough now—with a population of some 15,000 is 70 miles away from Toronto, and the centre of a district of its own, with grand transportation facilities on the C.P.R. and G.T.R., and the Trent Canal, now rapidly approaching completion, and able to offer cheap electrical water-power. Ontario, a province practically devoid of coal, has been endowed by nature with grand water-powers, particularly in the Peterborough district; in fact, so much so, that there has been a good deal of squabbling with the Government as to who would secure the prizes."

Mr. Culverwell is now assisting to secure a linen manufacturing industry and a granite and marble-cutting industry in Peterborough.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The politicians of the United States are awakening to the national menace of the great combines of capital, but a section of the Republican party are inclined to the attempt to both keep their cake and have it. They distrust the trusts and would abolish them or lessen their power for evil. At the same time, however, they insist upon retaining the high protective tariff which is rightly regarded as the mother of trusts. The attempt will likely be just as successful as an attempt to empty a reservoir of water by making an outlet equal in size to that by which water is constantly pouring in.

Speaking at the unveiling of the monument at Granby, Quebec, to two Sheffield County Canadian soldiers who were killed in South Africa, Judge Lynch said; "From one end of Canada to the other had come the response to the call to defend the Empire. It had been nobly done; and we should be proud of it.(Cheers.) Removed as he was from political life—and he regretted the party spirit which had often kept men from uttering independent thought that might benefit the country — he wanted to say that he was proud of the premier, Sir Wilfred Laurier, who had gone to Europe a French-Canadian, not as a French-Canadian, but to represent the whole of Canada. Standing before the crowned heads of Europe, Sir Wilrid had earned the respect and admiration of all. He had done great honour to the whole Canadian people. (Loud cheering.)

The Montreal Witness says: — "It will be an eternal disgrace to the Government and Province of Ontario if the McGovern-Corbet prize fight should be permitted to take place at Fort Erie. Refused permission to have the fight take place in Kentucky, the promoters of it have turned their attention to the Canadian village opposite Buffalo, and it is said the "sports" of that city are raising a guarantee to have the fight in Canada on the spot made notorious by former exhibitions of the same kind. It is a nice state of affairs, indeed, when a set of Buffalo thugs can raise a guarantee to set Canadian laws at defiance. The report says the promoters rely on recent broad decisions given by Ontario courts regarding boxing contests, to put their exhibition beyond the reach of police interference. The proposed prize-fight is what is called a "big event," that is, a fight between two heavy-weight men for a large sum of money. It will not be a boxing match in any excusable sense of the word, for the published preliminaries prove it is intended to be a downright prize fight.

Mr. Henry Dalby, Quebec organizer of the Conservative party, has refused to pay a telegraphic bill of $458.44, in connection with the elections of 1900, not on the ground that the service was not rendered, but that the election law declares void all contracts bearing in any manner upon an election. The honesty of a man who will, except under peculiar financial stress, take an advantage of the statute of limitations to evade the payment of a just debt, is open to question. A great party, which pleads a petty technicality to escape the payment of a just debt, is open to a similar suspicion as to its honesty. A party which is regardless of its financial obligations, which the standards of commercial honesty urge should be fulfilled, is not likely to attach much sacredness to its political obligations, to which custom is wont to concede much greater moral give and take. In commercial circles practical disregard of financial obligations is a mortal sin. In politics, broken promises are apt to be regarded as venial offences.

OATS' SMUT POISONOUS.

Its Injurious Effect Upon the Breath-Organs.

A recent incident has called renewed attention to the poisonous character of oats smut. Dr. McLay, of Woodstock, was called out to East Zorra Township, the other day to administer medical treatment to some peculiar cases of illness. Threshing operations were in progress on the farm of E. Tree, and the oats being run through the separator were dusty, owing to the fact that they had heated after being put in the barn; also that some of the heads had turned into smut. Towards evening several of the threshers became ill, and an examination by the physician showed that they were suffering from congestion of the lungs. John Walton in particular became very ill, and could not be removed to his home until to-day. The inhaling of the poisonous smut arising from the oats has a decidedly injurious effect on the organs of respiration, and persons are urged to exercise more vigilance in working about them.

COUNT DE LA VAULX SUCCEEDS.

Takes His Balloon Safely Across the Mediterranean.

Paris, Sept. 25.—A despatch to The Velo from Montpelier department of Herault, says that Count De La Vaulx's balloon has been driven ashore safely and descended yesterday afternoon at Capite between Velleroi and Les Salines.

Count De La Vaulx started Monday morning from Palavas near Montpelier, on the coast of France, to cross the Mediterranean in his balloon, "Mediterranean." He was accompanied by five aeronauts, and Monday afternoon was reported 25 miles to the southward of Palavas.

Perhaps Fatally Injured.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Reginald Beattie, the 12-year-old son of John T. Beattie of the Beattie Cycle Co., East Adelaide street, while wheeling west on Queen street, yesterday, was struck by the pole of a heavily-laden farmer's wagon. The boy fell under the horses, and the wheels of the wagon passed over his shoulder arm and thigh. His injuries are so serious that the physicians holds out little hope of his recovery.

A CANADIAN ALDERSHOT.

Lord Dundonald Wants More Room For Militia Training.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—It is reported here that Lord Dundonald is in favor of the Government purchasing a large tract of land, the same as the British Government has got at Aldershot, so that the training of the Canadian militia could be conducted on a large scale. A tract of several miles will be needed.

Under Fruit Marks Act.

Colborne, Sept. 24.—Before Squire Brintnell last evening, Mr. Alex McNeill, acting chief of the fruit division, Department of Agriculture, charged the manager of the Lakeport Preserving Company with three breaches of the Fruit Marks Act. Two of the charges were in respect to twelve barrels of apples inspected at Montreal in transit to Liverpool, which were not properly marked with the name of the packer and were also graded higher than the quality of the fruit warranted. The third charge was on complaint from Winnipeg that ten barrels of apples shipped to that city disclosed the inner contents to be so inferior to the faced surface as to be a violation of section 7 of the act. Convictions were made on all the charges and fines imposed amounting to $11, to which costs were added.

CAMP AT NIAGARA.

Over Two Thousand Men to Be Under Canvas—Hendonald at the Oban.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Sept. 24. — Yesterday the "skeleton" regiments that will complete the camp of instruction for Ontario arrived by boat and train. Some 2,200 men will be under canvas for the twelve days' training. There has been a radical change made this year in the annual course of training that has served to straighten up and make soldiers of the rural militia. This time it will be a camp of instruction for officers, non-commissioned officers and men. Instead of assembling in full strength each regiment ordered to camp will send 1 colonel, 1 major, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 company officer per company, 2 staff-sergeants per company, 3 sergeants per company, 3 corporals per company, 2 buglers per company and 22 privates from the regiment for fatigue duties and one officer selected with a view to instruction in musketry. The various companies of the permanent corps attend in full strength.

A band consisting of one bandmaster and 24 bandsmen, is at the camp.

Lord Dundonald, G.O.C., and party are staying at the Oban House, but it is expected they will later make their headquarters at the Geale House, near the camp grounds. Major T. H. Bellman, 36th Regiment; Lieut. and Major A. E. Carpenter, R. C.R.; Lieut. and Capt. P. E. Thacker, R.C.R.; Lieut. and Capt. F. Lister, R.C.R.; Lieut. F. F. Uniacke, R. C.R., will act as assistant instructors on the staff of the Major-General Commanding at all the divisional camps.

GALT MAN MURDERED.

Mr. W. H. Keyes Shot at Eckerman, Michigan.

Galt, Sept. 24.—John E. Keyes telegraphs from Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, that his brother's (W. H. Keyes) body would reach Galt on Wednesday or Thursday, and that he had been shot. A letter received from Sault Ste. Marie, addressed to J. E. Keyes, said:—"Your brother was shot at Eckerman, Mich., Three hundred dollars was on his person when found." A second message said:—"W. H. Keyes was murdered at Eckerman, a short distance from Sault Ste. Marie. His murderer has been arrested, and came up yesterday for his preliminary hearing. The people are enraged at his crime, and it was with difficulty that the police could place him safely in jail. There was an excited mob, and it looked as if he would be lynched. John E. Keyes and George Keyes of Galt, brothers of the deceased, are looking after the latter's affairs, and will leave with the remains for home." The late W. H. Keyes was a prominent and prosperous man. He was possessed of great personal strength, and was probably shot down without warning.

POWERS ALL SHIRK THE TASK.

No One Is Willing to Undertake the Crushing of Roumania.

London, Sept. 24.—"Nothing that will be of any permanent good can rise from Secretary Hay's note to the powers on Roumania's treatment of Jews unless somebody is willing to crush Roumania, and no power seems anxious to take on that task."

The foregoing quotation from the utterances of an experienced British official represents the real opinion of the British Foreign Office on the subject of the negotiations between America and Europe.

Great Britain's backing up of the United States in the Roumanian matters has only produced evidence that the signatories of the Berlin treaty absolutely refuse to take other than merely sentimental action towards alleviating the persecution of the Jews.

The exchange of views regarding the American note solicited by Great Britain has progressed sufficiently to convince the Foreign Office here that nothing material is likely to result.

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out and thus gives relief almost instantly. Rugs.

The average American housewife wears out her rugs by continual sweeping and beating. The plan of putting them upon a line every two weeks or even once a month and there having them whipped is not to be commended if the rugs are of any value. They should be cleaned with a carpet sweeper, occasionally put upon a line and brushed and once a year sent away to be cleaned in a proper manner or else washed at home.

Stair Carpet.

When buying a stair carpet, get an extra yard and fold in a piece at each end. If you do this, you will be able to shift the carpet sometimes higher, sometimes lower, and by this means you will get it worn evenly all over and will not have the edges of the stairs looking frayed and shabby while parts of the carpet remain untrodden and fresh.

"FORCE"

"Ever notice how a song will go with an audience if it arouses the memory of a pleasing taste?" asked the first-nighter. "Take that little song on the New York roof. Goes something like this:

Everybody's awful good to me,
[Somehow I know!
I'm as sweet as any girl can be,
[Somehow I know!
They took away my oatmeal,
But instead they gave me "FORCE."
Everybody's awful good to me.

"Tune's nothing extra; no sentiment; nothing particularly funny in it—yet every night the house goes wild. Only one way I can explain it. "FORCE" is a mighty good breakfast food, has a dainty, delicate flavor, is crisp and flaky—just the kind of a dish that a man's glad to see when he sits down to breakfast from force of habit and not because he wants to eat. It leaves a mighty pleasant taste and it's the memory of that pleasant taste that causes the audience to appreciate so thoroughly that little song.

"FORCE" is a combination of the whole of the wheat and barley malt. Wheat contains all elements necessary for the sustenance and proper regulation of every organ of the body. It combines these elements in such proportions that no organ is overworked or under exercised in the processes of digestion and assimilation. Because malt is blended with the whole of the wheat. "FORCE" is a perfect food for the overworked or under exercised stomach as well as for the stomach in perfect health. As it is the best natural tonic. In the manufacture of "FORCE" various chemical changes take place in both the wheat and malt which ordinarily are brought about in the first stages of normal and healthy digestion. This food, therefore, is quickly and easily assimilated, but still gives the various organs of the body sufficient exercise to keep them in perfect condition.

"FORCE" requires no cooking and is delicious cold or warm.

He has always been regarded as trustworthy. He is 26 years old. Charles Leitch resides with his parents at 169 Mutual street. He is 19 years old and has been with the company one year.

FREE TO MILLIONS.

A Valuable Little Book Sent Free for the Asking.

Medical books are not always interesting reading, especially to people enjoying good health, but as a matter of fact scarcely one person in ten is perfectly healthy, and even with such sooner or later sickness must come.

It is also a well established truth that nine-tenths of all diseases originate with a breaking down of the digestion, a weak stomach weakens and impoverishes the system, making it easy for disease to gain a foothold.

Nobody need fear consumption, kidney disease, liver trouble or a weak heart and nervous system as long as the digestion is good and the stomach able to assimilate plenty of wholesome food.

Stomach weakness shows itself in a score of ways and this little book describes the symptoms and causes and points the way to a cure so simple that anyone can understand and apply.

Thousands have some form of stomach trouble and do not know it. They ascribe the headaches, the languor, nervousness, insomnia, palpitation, constipation and similar symptoms to some other cause than the true one. Get your digestion on the right track and the heart trouble, lung trouble, liver disease or nervous debility will rapidly disappear.

This little book treats entirely on the cause and removal of indigestion and its accompanying annoyances.

It describes the symptoms of Acid Dyspepsia, Nervous Dyspepsia, Slow Dyspepsia, Amylaceous Dyspepsia, Catarrh of stomach and all affections of the digestive organs in plain language easily understood and the cause removed.

It gives valuable suggestions as to diet, and contains a table giving length of time required to digest various articles of food, something every person with weak digestion should know.

No price is asked, but simply send your name and address plainly written on postal card to the F.A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., requesting a little book on Stomach Diseases and it will be sent promptly by return mail.

TELLS A HARD STORY.

Trials and Difficulties of a Man Not in Tobacco Combine.

EVIDENCE BEFORE COMMISSION.

George Martin of Toronto Swore That Mr. W. B. Reid Said That If It Cost Him $5,000 He Would Drive Witness and His Son Out of Business —Mr. W. Hyslop's View.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Before the Royal Commission to inquire into the tobacco trade yesterday morning a number of retail dealers gave evidence as to the relative sales of different tobaccos. The first witness was C. Rogerson, who keeps a small store on Adelaide street.

George Martin, who now keeps a store at 958 Queen street west, testified that until eighteen months ago he kept a store at 984 Queen street west, but at that time W. B. Reid & Company, offered $4 a month more for his store and as he was not able to see his way to pay that he moved to his present stand. He had refused to become a consignee of the American Tobacco Company, but W. B. Reid had offered to make him a consignee at any time. He had some words with Mr. Reid about a consignment of goods, and Mr. Reid said if it cost him $5,000 he would drive witness and his son out of business and then proceeded to offer a higher rental for his store, which was now occupied by a tobacconist named Joe Bailey. Mr. Martin said he pays $1 a month more for his present store than he did at his former stand. Major Orchard had not offered to make him a consignee. Mr. Reid had ordered him to remove a sign for Houde's Morning Dew from his old place, but he refused to do so. Then some painters had come to his new place and removed the signs of the American Tobacco Company, and he called these painters a pack of thieves. "I have some decenter looking signs than theirs up their now." His proportion of trade was 75 per cent. of outside companies' goods and 25 per cent. of the American Company's. Mr. Reid had said that no one but his firm would handle the American Company's goods, so he would have to buy from Reid. Reid had given him a discount of 5 per cent. on the Americam Company's goods, but always gave it to him in cash, so that it would not appear on the invoices.

H. S. Watts, who was yesterday directed to produce his books, brought three sales books for one store and was sent after the balance of his books.

W. R. Martin, 176 Queen street west, in his evidence said that the American Tobacco Company had recently put on the market a new brand of cigarettes, he supposed, to meet the competitions of such brands as the Karnac and Kiosk, and that the company allowed a profit of three cents a package, double that of other brands.

Wm. Haire, 229 Yonge street, also testified that Mr. Reid tried to induce him to remove Houde's sign and substitute one of the American Tobacco Company.

H. S. Watts was recalled and denied that W. B. Reid & Company owned his business. He showed a good deal of confusion as to the meaning of his books and kept no ledger.

At the afternoon session of the enquiry L. Sappera of West Queen street said he handled all the goods he thought he could sell, and he found a lively demand for the cigarettes of the American Tobacco Co. He sold about 2,000 of Houde & Co.'s "Dufferins" every week, compared with 3,500 "Old Golds" and "Sweet Caporals."

The contracts made by the American Tobacco Co. and the Empire Tobacco Co. with dealers were in the opinion of W. Hyslop, representing a competitor, J. M. Fortier of Montreal, a mode of restricting general trade. Mr. Hyslop was asked why his firm did not confine their trade to the wholesalers, he said that the wholesalers pushed the trade in their own special brands to the disadvantage of the rest. His firm, therefore, dealt more directly with retailers, although it did not attempt to make exclusive contracts. He said the adoption of this system by the American Tobacco Company shut his firm out to a large extent. Mr. Horrocks, the "anti-trust" dealer, used to handle his firm's goods, but had discontinued doing so.

WESTERN TRIP CANCELLED.

Instead, President Roosevelt Will Stay at Home and Get Well From Tuesday's Operation For Abscess.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt's western trip came to an untimely end in this city yesterday. He was found to be suffering from a swelling in the left leg between the knee and the ankle, which required immediate surgical attention, and, instead of being taken to the train to continue his journey to Fort Wayne and Milwaukee, he was conveyed to St. Vincent Hospital, where he was operated on. The operation took place at 3.45 o'clock, and lasted only a short time. When he was taken to a private room in the hospital to rest. After a light luncheon at 7.30 p. m. he was conveyed on a stretcher to his train, which had been backed up an a "Y" near the hospital and at 10 minutes before 8 o'clock the train left for Washington.

The transfer of the President to the hospital was executed without the thousands on the streets having the least notion of what was transpiring. The operation was begun without delay. The pain caused the President to mutter several times, but he said nothing that was distinct, except to ask for a glass of water.

After being taken to an upper room from the operating room the President was served with a light luncheon and chatted to those in the room. At 7.40 p. m. a blanket was thrown around him and he was placed on the hospital stretcher and escorted by a company of infantry, was carried to the car a block away.

The swelling of the President's leg, which made an operation necessary, was occasioned by a bruise he received at the time of the trolley car accident at Pittsburg, Mass. Besides being injured in the face and across the eye, the President at that time received a blow upon the inner part of the left leg, between the ankle and the knee, but he paid no attention to it. After starting upon his western trip he determined that Dr. Lung, who was aboard the train, should examine it. The doctor did so and pronounced it to be a serious matter. When in Detroit he doctor finally declared that something should be done. After consulting with Dr. Richardson, another member of the party, it was decided that in order to avoid the possibilities of blood poisoning, it probably would be wise to have an operation performed. The President was very much averse to anything of the kind, but finally consented.

The Age of Brain Work.

"In these days half our diseases come from the neglect of our body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age the wear and tear of labour and intellect goes on without pause or self pity. We live longer than our forefathers but we suffer more. They fatigued only the the muscles; we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest medicine of this age, because it is best suited to the needs of the present age. It restores and revitalizes wasted nerve cells and makes the pale, weak and exhausted, strong, healthy and vigorous.

Arson Charge Withdrawn.

Woodstock, Sept. 24.—Monday afternoon Mrs. Beamer and her daughter came to the city and withdrew the charge of arson preferred against the son of the former and his wife on Friday last. This was agreed upon by the informants when they learned that Fred Beamer and his wife were in Galt on the night of the burning of Mr. Beamer's barn, and therefore they could prove an alibi.

Drank Carbolic Acid.

London, Sept. 24.—Yesterday morning C. L. Papst, a commercial traveler, who resides with his family at No. 14 Victor street, South London, drank fully two teaspoonfuls of pure carbolic acid by mistake, and he is now in the City Hospital in a very dangerous condition and may lose his life.

Peary in Railway Wreck.

Halifax, Sept. 24.—Lieut. Peary and Mrs. Peary were in the railroad wreck on the Intercolonial Railway Monday. The "Sydney Flyer," on which they were traveling, bound for New York, was in collision with a local train bound for Pictou.

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The anxieties of the sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are absolutely worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

For these reasons we announce that our proprietors are the principal shareholders in

SALVATION ARMY WEDDING.

A Large Number Witnessed a Pleasing Ceremony at the Barracks Last Night.

Miss Gertrude Jobe and Mr. Walton Routley, both of Peterborough, were the contracting parties in a wedding ceremony which took place at the barracks last evening.

As the opening song was being sung by the congregation, led by the brass band, the bridal party entered. Miss Gertrude Jobe and her bridesmaid, Miss Mildred Bacon, were followed by wee Gladys Jobe, dressed in white muslin, and carrying a beautiful basket of flowers, in which was deposited the ring. Then came Staff-Captain Creighton, who was to perform the ceremony.

Mr. Walton Routley, and his groomsman, Mr. Horner Deroe, took their places on the platform amid the "volleys" of their comrades.

After prayer by Mrs. Greene, the band played a selection and the Staff-Captain read a portion of Scripture, and commented on the same, with remarks which were wise and good, and which, if remembered and practised, will conduce much to the future happiness of the couple. The contracting parties then stepped forward, and the vows were pronounced which made them man and wife.

The tables in the basement were laden with a bountiful supply of good things, and the seats were quickly filled with the happy crowd. Speeches were given by Mr. R. C. Braund, Adjt. Moore, and others, and the event concluded with the singing of the Doxology.

Mrs. Routley was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. The newly-wedded couple will reside on McDonel street.

DEATH OF MICHAEL REILLEY.

Ex-Superintendent the of Lock Works Passes Away—Interment Here.

A telegraphic message received in town this morning announced the death in Meridan, Conn., of Michael Reilley, late superintendent of the Peterborough Lock Works. The message was to Mr. Joseph Kelly, son-in-law of the deceased gentleman, whose demise will be so sincerely regretted by Peterborough people.

The late Mr. Reilley was about 55 years of age, and was a native of Ireland. He came to this country when quite young, and settled in the States, where he resided until seventeen years ago, when he came to Peterborough to assume the position of superintendent of the Lock Works. During Mr. Reilley's residence in Peterborough, he proved a worthy citizen and was popularly known amongst a wide circle of friends. He has been a sufferer for many years from a chronic disease, and it was this fact that compelled him to resign his position with the Lock Works. He then returned to his old home in the States in August last, and since that time reports of his improvement in health have been received by his friends here, so that the announcement of his death this morning came as a surprise indeed. He leaves a wife, two sons and two daughters to mourn his demise. The sons are Messrs. George of New York, and Thomas, at home, and the daughters are Mrs. Jos. Kelly, of town, and Mrs. W. Sedgwick, of Brooklyn.

Interment will take place in Peterborough, the arrangements for which have not yet been completed.

RUGBY.

Hurtubise has started to work at the Canadian General Electric works.

The Young Torontos have written to the Peterboroughs stating that it will be impossible for them to give the locals a game here on Saturday. Accordingly another practice game will likely be arranged between the T.A.S. and the Peterborough team. Both fifteens are getting into good shape and are strengthening up at a wonderful rate. The Peterborough team has a number of new men that give great promise and should make excellent substitutes for those of last year's team who are unable to turn out this year.

Varsity had about two dozen candidates out last evening. Capt. Percy Biggs put the lot through some light work, consisting of running, passing, following up and dribbling.

* * * *

Young George Biggs, Varsity's midget full back, is faster than ever this season. He has gained some much needed weight, too, since last year.

* * * *

Ferguson, last year with St. Andrew's College, is being tried out at quarter by the Argonauts.

* * * *

Palmer, late of the Granites, and one of the best flying wings in Canadian Rugby, has gone to Ottawa, where he will play with the College team.

* * * *

At an enthusiastic meeting, held in the club house, Rosedale, on Monday night, the Torontos decided to enter teams in both the intermediate and junior series.

* * * *

Rev. Mr. Barr, formerly famous as "Biddy" Barr when playing football for Varsity, was married yesterday. His many friends tender congratulations.

* * * *

The Argonauts are trying to secure an exhibition game London in Toronto next Saturday.

* * * *

Harold Beatty, who played halfback for Varsity last year, has announced his intention of quitting the game this year at least, owing to the pressure of his studies.

* * * *

The Wellesleys, last year's crack City League Team, Toronto, have entered in the junior series of the O.R.F.U.

* * * *

Barny Quinn stood it long enough and on Monday he donned a suit and took part in the workout Although he is still under the ban he feels that the time is up now to secure reinstatement for himself. He will sign an affidavit in the usual way and forward it to the postponed meeting of the C.A.A.U., on the 25th inst.—Ottawa Journal.

Rayside has finally expressed his intentions respecting rugby football. If he can secure the time he will play the game and at that with the Rough Riders only.

Garnet Bell may play quarter for the Argos.

The Chicago Record-Herald says: For the Information of a beginner I will say that a football is the shape of an ostrich egg. The game was invented in France, and was an exaggeration of la savate. It is not fair to swing or jab. When in a scrimmage it is permissable to kick an opponent in the stomach or stand on his face. A man who slaps is put out of the game in disgrace, and is roasted by all the newspapers.

Players are of two kinds — the amateur and the professional. The amateur player is one who gets his transportation from his home to the training camp, his room rent free, board at rates reduced to nothing, pays no tuition and gets a job sweeping out the gymnasium at $20 per week. A professional player is one who won a silver dollar in a foot race at a Fourth of July picnic when he was a small boy.

A trainer is a man who does most of the work, and gets none of the credit.

The coach is the man who lays it on to the trainer if the team is beaten, and takes all the credit for victories.

The rooter is the man who says "we" in speaking of the team. It is his duty to properly celebrate all victories and drown the remorse of all defeats. A rooter must have capacity.

LOCAL MEN ON WALL STREET

Scarcity of Money Felt by Local Speculators.

MANY OBLIGED TO COVER.

Hope Expressed That the Worst May be Over—Sharp Reactions To-day—Bulls Not in Evidence.

There was another violent break in the Wall street market this morning, and local speculators became greatly excited. It is a well known fact that Peterborough people have been dealing rather extensively in stocks listed on the New York Exchange, and the local offices have been kept busy. The market up until a few days ago was favourable, and handsome profits have been realized. The result has been that a further rush was made into the market, and considerable covering has been required during the past day or two. The continued high rates of interest, which was quoted at 3 this afternoon at 20 per cent., is the cause of the slump.

When the local boards opened this morning there was a decided reaction, many stocks opening one and even two points lower than the close of yesterday. Union Pacific, which a week or so ago reached 125 and closed yesterday at 116 3-8, opened at 115, and even dropped as low as 111 7-8. Union Pacific, in which there was considerable local buying some days ago, went as low as 105 1-2, but rallied a little during during the day. New York Central went as low as 58, and Baltimore and Ohio at one time touched 109 3-4, but came up to 110 7-8. Canadian Pacific too showed weakness and dropped to 136 1-2. It too recovered slightly. Sugar surprised many by opening at 125 5-8, and closed at 127 1-8. The belief here is that the worst is about over.

It is understood that local holders, with narrow margins, were quite generously dealt with.

The Toronto Globe in commenting upon the situation says, editorially:

"The monetary stringency in New York reached an acute stage yesterday, and many loans were called, even against offers of 15 per cent. interest. Call loans were made at from 6 to 18 per cent., but the attitude of the banks in refusing to make time loans and calling loans on securities forced a general liquidation and a panicky break in values. There was a fall of from one to five points throughout the list, and it is an evidence of the generally sound industrial and business conditions that the decline was not far greater. St. Paul stood up against the current for a time, and sold slightly above the closing price of the previous day. C. P. R. also sustained its value well, but no securities could resist the forced liquidations when the transactions aggregated about a million shares.

The monetary conditions are for the moment unfavourable. By the collections of customs revenue the subtreasury took from the banks almost as much as it paid to them during the previous two days. The demand from the interior is unusually strong, and it is estimated that from $75,000,000 to $80,000,000 will be required to move the crop in the United States. The corn crop alone is valued at $50,000,000 more than last year. But it is significant that the banks are calling loans at 15 per cent. and lending in the interior at 6 per cent., and it gives colour to the rumour that the monetary stringency is promoted by large operators who want to purchase on a panicky break in the market.

Loans reached their highest point on August 16, and since then there has been a contraction of $40,000,000, a very significant change, considering the increased volume of stock transactions and the demands of the harvest movement. A better bank statement is confidently expected next Saturday, owing to the large calling of loans, the demands of the brokers for more margins, and the importations of gold. It is reported that $7,750,000 in gold has been engaged in France, which will be one of the sources of gold in the immediate future. On the local Exchange there was considerable trading in C.P.R. on a gradual decline of two points, the closing sale being at 140 1-2. Twin City was heavy, and Dominion Coal also declined. A feature was the advance of Northwest Land 75 points to 150. New York liquidations had naturally a depressing influence.

What Bankers Say.

The men best qualified to give an opinion as to money and the money situation are the bank presidents of New York. They are dealers in money — that is their trade. Their opinions, relative to the movements of money, are better and more to be considered, than the opinions of other people. A number of bank officials were seen regarding the shrinking of reserve and all said there was no cause for alarm in the situation.

One prominent official said there is nothing in the situation to cause alarm. West and South have large sums of money in New York. Naturally they will withdraw much of these funds and will borrow to move grain and cotton. For these legitimate reasons the local banks are liable to lose about fifty million dollars between this time and the middle of December. Money conditions are easy abroad and gold can be obtained, if desired. Grain and cotton will furnish large amounts of foreign exchange, thereby facilitating gold imports. Money will rule nigh for the balance of the year, but no harm will emanate from that fact.

Dumont Clark, president of the American Exchange Bank, said, "All talk of alarm is utter nonsense. It does not matter if the reserves show a deficit so long as that deficit is the result of honest conditions. Any feeling resulting from Saturday's statement must be entirely sentimental."

President Simmons, of the Fourth National Bank, said, "Facts speak for themselves. I cannot go into details, but there is no occasion for any uneasiness."

At the sub-treasury the opinion was expressed that the figures of the bank statement indicated that money was being hoarded for the purpose of inducing higher rates. It was also their opinion that before very long the banks would again be in excess as to their reserves and called attention to a like condition in 1898 at the time of the great industrial exploitation. When such were the results those who buy when the market is depressed will make money by so doing; those who sell at such time will regret it when they see higher quotations come for the property they have disposed of.

Y. W. C. A.

Despite the unfavourable state of the weather, the audience room of the Y.W.C.A. was filled to overflowing last evening; the occasion being the Opening Educational Rally for the coming season. The President of the Association, Mrs. Dr. Scott, acted as chairman, while the programme was being rendered, and in the course of her words of welcome to the young women present, she referred to the aim and scope of the Young Womens' Christian Association; it being a mutual exchange where the young women of leisure and the young women of business meet to bestow and receive all possible helpfulness.

Miss Dickson, the Secretary, outlined briefly the work for the coming season in the Educational Classes, dwelling specially upon the Bible classes.

The musical part of the programme was ably supplied by Mrs. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, Misses Patterson, White, Mattie Robertson and Rhea Boddy.

The appearance of the gymnasium, which had been converted into a tea room for the occasion, amply repaid the untiring efforts of the decoration committee, by the beautiful picture it presented. On one wall the Y.W.C.A. motto "By Love Serve One Another" was worked out in Autumn leaves, which were used in all the decorations, the large centre table being a veritable work of art. Flowers predominated everywhere in rich profusion, and were afterwards taken for distribution among the sick.

The majority of the teachers in the Educational Department were present to meet those intending to register for class work, and the membership committee were exceedingly gratified by the large number of names added to the membership list.

Classes open Oct. 1st, and registration has already commenced. Enroll as promptly as possible.

MEMBERSHIP CONTEST.

Last night at the Y.M.C.A. there was organized a scheme for increasing the membership of the association, by selecting two teams of twelve each to canvass for members, the contest to close on November 15th. The teams have been called the Reds and the Blues, and a flag of the colour with the most points will be hoisted each day, giving the state of the poll. The personnel of the teams indicate that there will be some good agents to be secured as the result of the canvass. The Blues have for their captain Mr. George Hall of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Co., who is a brother of the Evy, the greatest membership canvasser the association ever had. The Reds have the "Best" man available, Mr. E. M. Best, of the Best Stove Co., who has had considerable experience in the work at Brantford.

The Reds are Messrs. Best, Brown, Maguire, Gerrard, Ayers, S. Hall, Miller, Graham, McGrath, McGill, Pearson and Sharpe.

The Blues are Messrs. Hall, Richardson, Carr, Galley, Williamson, Robinson, Whiten, Merrill, Doris, Johnston, Campbell, M. A. Sorsoliel.

The association expects the membership to be increased by 100 as the result of this special canvass.

ORIGIN OF THE ROSARY.

An Interesting Legend Associates It With a Children of Rome.

Tracing the origin of the rosary back to times and places far remote, Father Thurston, who read a paper before the Society of Arts, pointed out that it would be a great mistake to suppose that the use of beads for counting prayers was peculiar to the Catholic Church or was of comparatively modern date. To determine at what time the name rosary (rosenkranz) was introduced is extremely difficult. Garlands of roses, implying a reference to the term rosary, were a conspicuous feature of pictures and tablets of the fifteenth century, but before this no clear examples are forthcoming. At that epoch it was common for both men and women in ordinary life to wear garlands of flowers and to place them as a mark of respect upon the heads of persons and statues. Father Thurston is strongly inclined to believe that its application to the particular devotion now under discussion was mainly due to the popularity of a story of a certain garland which can be traced very much earlier than the word itself in almost every part of the Christian world. The name must have come from the story, and the story was not evolved out of an already existing name.

The legend in question is briefly this: A youth was accustomed to make a wreath of roses or other flowers every day and to place it upon the head of Our Lady's statue. He became a monk, and in the cloister his occupations no longer permitted him to observe this pious practice. Being much distressed, he asked counsel of an aged priest, who advised him to say his Aves every evening, which would be accepted by Our Lady in lieu of the garland. This the young man faithfully observed until one day while on a journey he had to pass through a lonely wood, where robbers were lying in wait. Quite unsuspicious of their presence, he suddenly remembered that his Aves were not yet said and forthwith stopped to say them. Then, to their surprise, the robbers saw a most glorious lady stand before him and take one after another from the lips of the kneeling monk fifty beautiful roses, which she wove into a garland and placed upon her head. The robbers, conscience stricken at the vision, were all converted to a better life, and themselves soon after entered the monastery.—London Telegraph.

FROM DEATH'S DOOR

An Ottawa Man's Wonderfully Narrow Escape.

He was in Convulsions and the Doctors Told His Wife he Could not Live till Morning, but he Recovered.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 21. — Special. —At 309 Gilmore street this city, there resides a man who has been nearer the hour and article of death than anyone who ha been privileged to live to tell the story.

He is Mr. George H. Kent, a printer in the employ of the Bank Note Company, of Wellington street.

Some seven or eight years ago Mr. Kent was siezed with Bright's Disease, which gradually grew worse till he had to quit his work and was confined to his bed where he remained for some months.

Physicians were in constant attendance upon him but instead of improving he gradually grew worse and worse.

At last he became so low that his body became terribly bloated and his skin like tanned leather. He had convulsions, which increased in frequency, and the intervals between thes espasms, found him so weak that he was barely conscious.

One night after a particularly bad these spasms found him so weak that he could not live until morning.

A messenger was despatched for a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills which were immediately brought to the dying man.

Mr. Kent did not die. On the contrary in about two months he was at work again in the shop and has not since been off work for a single day.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent are naturally very grateful, and as a mark of their gratitude have called a sweet little girl born to them some two years after Mr. Kent's remarkable recovery by the name of "Edna Dodds" Kent.

Mr. Kent has made a sworn statement reciting the details of his case and his cure.

Save Your Trimmings.

It is an excellent plan to have a box for hat trimmings, in which all the millinery odds and ends left over from season to season may be kept. Fashion rotates with such unerring regularity that good bits passe one season are quite likely to be in demand after two or three have passed. Steel ornaments, for example, are in and out of vogue at intervals. If at all handsome, they are expensive and well worth keeping. They may be cleaned from rust and discoloration by rubbing them with a brush dipped in paraffin oil and then in emery powder, afterward polishing with a piece of flannel or chamois. Bits of handsome lace—and this does not mean expensive real laces, but the good trimming laces whose service for one season on a hat by no means exhausts their usefulness—should be carefully looked after and preserved.

To Increase Your Appetite.

Nothing will stimulate a keen, healthy relish for food, insure good digestion and perfect assimilation, like Ferrozone, which is the most successful tonic and health renewer known to medical men. Ferrozone is a positive cure for Anaemia, Impure Blood, Boils, Pimples, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and all Stomach and Bowel Troubles, Ferrozone cleanses, strengthens and purifies the blood, it invigorates the heart and nerves, banishes sickness and pain and makes ailing people well. Try a box or two of Ferrozone, the result will be a surprise. Price 50c. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's.

DRESS AND FASHION

GOWNS IN HISTORIC STYLES AND TAKING LITTLE FRENCH WRAPS.

Louisine Supersedes Foulard—Picture Costumes—Straight Corsets and Pointed Bodices—Princess Gowns—A Wash Dress Skirt.

Louisine is expected to somewhat supersede foulard. It wears well and is suited to the picturesque style now in vogue. It is the graceful days of Gainsborough, Romney, Watteau, Lely and Sir Thomas Lawrence that fashion now seeks to recall, and the straight fronted corsets make the long pointed bodices of the Georgian periods once more in favor and possible. Any fabric almost, scattered over with tiny bouquets of flowers, is the mode, and sashes of chine blooms are figuring on all sorts and conditions of gowns for evening and for day wear.

Skirts are widening at the hem, one of the newest introductions being the back breadth, narrow at the top and very wide at the foot. So many of the fronts of the skirts are being embroidered like the collars and revers on the bodices.

Large bows of tulle give a finish to the throat. If placed at the back, they frame the face and produce the impression of the catagon, which is one of the most becoming styles in the way of hairdressing.

Spotted and sprigged black nets and lace of all kinds over silk, often embroidered with mother of pearl, have become a perfect livery this season, with a deep folded waistband of chine silk. Mauve is a favorite combination with these black and white gowns.

There are a good many princess gowns about, and there is no trimming more in favor than black velvet, either sewed on or loose, and many a vest is caught across with this.

The first cut shows a rose pink veiling gown with zouave and Louis XIII. tunic, turned down collar and fancy revers in write satin embroidered with flowers. The box plaited blouse front and tablier are in faint pink silk, and the yoke neckband and sleevelet are of lace. A white satin belt fastens with an enameled buckle.

The skirt sketched is most useful at the present moment for washing materials. It is plain at the top and fitted to the waist with a group of tucks. A shaped volante at the feet is set on beneath vandykes with little square bits in them made of openwork insertion.

Capes in the shape of carricks and little mantels are coming again, being used by fashionable women in late afternoon driving, and very fetching little French wraps of silk and lace are made up somewhat on the lines of bolero with short backs, but long tab or scarf fronts. Either black or white is chic for these dainty mantelets.

Old Mahogany Cleaned.

Kerosene was not successful and turpentine required too much rubbing and even then was not satisfactory for the carved parts. So we tried a little piece with a solution of two heaping tablespoonfuls of sal soda to a quart of warm water, put on with a toothbrush well soaped, the place being immediately rinsed with cold water and dried with a soft cloth. Since then we have used it on several woods, natural and stained, and, homely as the recipe may sound, it has never failed to give good results. Afterward the wood should be rubbed with a mixture of raw oil and turpentine.

One mahogany antique, a hundred years or more old, that was so discolored as to hide the natural grain of the wood came out as bright as new under this treatment.—Exchange.

Held Up on Kingston Road.

Toronto, Sept. 23. — P. Martillie Chamberlin was held up about 12 miles east of Toronto, on the Kingston road on Sunday. Chamberlain is about 22 years of age and is employed in the office of the Lancashire Fire Insurance Company at 20 Toronto street, in this city. On Saturday he wheeled to Pickering College and started on his homeward journey about 2 o'clock on Sunday. About 6.45 p.m. he was coming up a steep hill, when he met three men who were approaching from the west. Chamberlin was riding very slowly when he met them, and in passing inquired of them how far it was to Toronto. One of the men replied, just twelve miles. He was in the act of increasing his speed again when he was knocked from his wheel by a vicious kick in the abdomen. Chamberlin called for help, but his cries were stifled by one of the highwaymen, who placed his hand over his mouth. After the thieves had relieved Chamberlin of his silver watch and chain and about $6 in money, they hurried away, leaving him in a semi-unconscious condition on the roadway.

The victim of the robbers crawled to a nearby barn where he spent the night. Monday the owner of the barn brought him home to Toronto.

Furnishing a Small Room.

In furnishing a small room two necessary points must be considered—first, that space is gained by making things as flat as possible against the wall, and, second, that stiffness is prevented then by introducing plants and breaking the lines by pulling out a table a little or turning a chair. A low seat sixteen inches in height running around a corner and along one side of the room to some break of door or window saves space and furniture and adds a charming effect. It should be upholstered and have only an occasionally rather small and carefully selected pillow. Low bookshelves, too, built against the wall furnish without furniture, but care must be taken that they are not extended in too continuous a straight line. A carpet of a solid color greatly increases the effect of space.

THE FAKE SEEDSMAN.

We are asked to say something about the dishonest seedsman and incidentally something also about the religious periodical which will carry his advertisement, the complaint as made to us being that these seedsmen send out seed not true to name or which has lost its vitality, and the purchaser, seeing their advertisements in a religious paper, is not looking for this sort of thing. In the purchase of trees and seeds of all kinds it is always best to buy of some firm near home or at least at one of established reputation if far off. Editors of religious publications never take any more trouble and often not so much to keep their advertising columns free from fraud as does the purely secular press, some of the worst fakes going securing choice positions next to reports of revival meetings and the work of the churches. Because an advertisement appears in a religious paper or magazine it never should be assumed that the statements made or the goods offered are in any manner sanctified thereby, the very same caution being needed as is common when one trades horses with a person who likes a fast horse.

Have You Escaped Itching Piles?

If so, you are one of the Few Fortunate Ones; if not, you can be Cured by Using

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Piles or hemorrhoids are among the most common as well as the most torturing ailments that afflict humanity. The keen distress caused by the itching, especially when the body gets warm, is almost beyond the powers of description.

The very mention of Piles suggests Dr. Chase's Ointment as it is beyond denial the only actual cure for this loathsome disease. If you ask your doctor, your druggists or your friends what to use for piles they will in nine cases out of ten advise Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. A. Oliver, farmer, Deseronto, Ont., sates: "I had itching piles in the worst form, and can now testify that Chase's Ointment is a sure and positive cure for this dreadful ailment. I tried several other remedies, but could obtain no benefit from them, but am now cured, and have no doubt that the credit for the cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

THE JOUNCER.

An Up to Date Device For Freeing Extracting Supers From Bees.

One of the chief up to date appliances in my apiary is known as a jouncer. Some four or five years ago I described with pen and pencil my first jouncer, and it was a very crude affair compared with the one in use at present. The pictures show the device and how to use it, says Rambler in Gleanings In Bee Culture.

JOUNCER FOR CLEANING SUPERS.

It will be observed that it is made very strong, mostly of tough fir, and put together with bolts, and a cloth tray is adjusted under the hive to be jounced.

When it is desired to jounce the bees from a super, it is adjusted, as in Fig. 1, and the whole jounced against the ground. The sudden jar or a few of them send the bees all into the tray. The latter can be removed, as shown in Fig. 2, and the bees dumped on the top of the frames of the colony.

In order to cushion the lower ends of the corner posts of the jouncer they are chamfered off to a point. As there are no stones in the apiary, when the jouncer strikes the ground the jouncer is broken just enough to prevent the combs from breaking.

The benefits derived from this method of getting bees off the combs are all in the line of rapid manipulation. In the American Bee Journal not many months ago Mr. Davenport caught on to this idea and applied it to the common Langstroth hive. The best success, however, is attained with a shallow brood chamber, and the only objection I have to it is when there is much thin honey it slops out upon the bees. But, of course, it is best to wait until the honey is thick. It is hard to make people believe that any new way is better than their way. Whether beekeepers use the Rambler's jouncer or not, I hope the beekeepers will discard the old, obsolete use of a brush. Bees can be shaken off the combs clean enough. In central California but few brushes are used.

I have great hopes for the shallow extracting super. Mr. Davenport says the jouncing principle is worth $50 a year to him ever with the standard frames.

The Winter Wheat Condition.

Orange Judd Farmer declares winter wheat in a sensitive condition. Correspondents report the winter unfavorable in Texas. Similar condition exists in Arkansas, in Tennessee and Kentucky. In Ohio two-thirds of the counties report the winter unfavorable. Michigan has had ample snow protection. In Indiana and Illinois the situation is doubtful. Kansas makes a far better showing, and Nebraska has another story. In the latter state the acreage is the largest on record and the prospect declared as good as ever known. Conditions on the Pacific coast are almost entirely favorable except an unimportant section of southern California.

The Way to Boil Water For Tea.

No less authority than Tung Po, the Chinese poet, is quoted for a recipe for teamaking. He says: "Whenever tea is to be infused take water from a running stream and boil it over a lively fire. It is an old custom to use running water, boiled over a lively fire. That from springs in the hills is said to be best, and river water the next, while well water is the worst. A lively fire is a clear, bright charcoal fire. While making an infusion do not boil the water too hastily. At first it begins to sparkle like crabs' eyes, then somewhat like fishes' eyes, and lastly it boils up like pearls innumerable, springing and waving about. This is the way to boil water."

A VALUABLE PAPER.

Contribution of M. Errol Bouchette on the Economic Evolution of the Province of Quebec.

La Revue Canadienne for August publishes part of a paper contributed to the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Canada, by M. Errol Bouchette, on the economic evolution of the Province of Quebec. The subject is one which ought to excite a great deal more of interest than it does, especially amongst those who live in the other Canadian provinces and who have not the opportunity of observing the economic progress of the French-Canadians at first hand. There is a tendency outside the province to invest the French-Canadian with a certain number of qualities, some of them respectable, most of them carrying the imprint of inferiority, and to leave them there, through years and generations one and the same, unvarying, unprogressive, leaving no permanent mark upon the life of the continent. It is only when one has the good fortune to come across a social study like M. Leon Gerin's "Habitant," or a protest such as has now been made by M. Bouchette, that he begins to realize, if he is not in the way of seeing French-Canadians at work, how much in essentials they resemble other folk, says The Toronto Star. We are prone to forget, as M. Bouchette complains, that the first great artisans were of France, and that they, moving abroad, instructed other nations. We see so many classical colleges about, we jump to the conclusion the people they serve have no capacity for affairs, forgetting, or perhaps not knowing, how the habitant slaves and saves till he has acquired a full domain for himself and then another for one of his sons, or that men of the same stock rise to the highest rank in the commercial and financial circles of Montreal. It is easy to say a man who speaks French cannot add two and two, but it is just as easy to prove by examples in the flesh that the proverb carries a falsehood. It is probably true that the economic condition of Quebec is still inferior to that of some of the other provinces. Anyone who has the taste for such investigation, however, can quickly satisfy himself that a great change is in progress. The acquired wealth of numbers of Quebec farmers in almost any section might well astonish those who undertook the inquiry. The railways are producing their effect. The butter factory is an institution in the land. And it cannot be long before the accumulation of capital made by an industrious rural population will begin to count for much in all walks of life. Already there may be noted in centres of population like Montreal and Quebec unmistakable evidences of this forward movement. Few English-speaking people put themselves out to attend public or semi-public functions east of St. Lawrence street, and it would probably shock an Ontario man's sense of the fitness of things if he were to be shown, on one of these occasions, an audience filling a vast auditorium from stage to ceiling, intelligent looking, well dressed both as to men and women, the equal of anything of its kind to be seen elsewhere, and made up exclusively of French-Canadians. Advancement is there, however even if it is so seldom remarked, and everything conduces to the belief that the graces which flow from economic improvement, and which have an additional attractiveness in a Gallic environment, will ere long be freely and generally recognized as a distinguishing part of Montreal's heritage from the chivalrous founders of New France. M. Bouchette entertains no doubts on this score. He and many of his contemporaries are concerned more about aids to the industrial education of the working classes who come to the towns. He and they are for establishing and maintaining agricultural and technical schools of primary and secondary grades. Such movements sometimes take long to get under way. It will not be surprising, however, if more progress is made along such lines in the present generation than was dreamt of by preceding ones. Quebec is learning that its costs much less to provide an education than to go through life without one.

THE CITY.

Twilight above the church's dome;
So cover the night comes down,
And along the ways of the warming town
The crowds at dusk are hurrying home.

A thousand lights are strung along
The brawling, bustling thoroughfares;
And above the yell of a hawker's wares,
Hand-organ music and shrilling song.

Midnight along the city street;
The glare of lamps and the flash of gems,
Fair, proud women with trailing hems—
Wealth-born and gutter-born, passing, meet.

Laughter and roses and dying mirth,
A cloak wrapped close round her scented hair;
In a darkened doorway, mumbling there,
A beggar is crouching close to earth.

Grey, cold dawn o'er the stretching roofs;
Silence along the empty streets,
No sound, no stir the strained ear greets,
Save the trick-track of a horse's hoofs.

Ghostly and large through the misting rain,
A market wagon and rumbling carts;
A shrill-blown whistle, the city starts,
Awake, thrills, throbs and toils again.

Mr. Alfred Moseley.

Mr. Alfred Moseley, who at his own expense is organizing a commission of trades unionists and captains of industry to visit the United States to study as well the relations between capital and labor as educational and commercial methods, made a fortune in South African mines, and retired from business at the age of forty. He has been made g C.M. G. as a reward for his donation of the Princess Christian Hospital for Wounded Soldiers in Natal. Mr. Moseley, when in New York some months ago, said that the success of the American business man was largely due to the fact that his first and only thought is business, while the Englishman values his business success only as a means to an end. "Sport," says Mr. Moseley, "is the ruling passion in England. It is not uncommon to find business men absent from their offices for three days attending a cricket match, or golfing, or shooting." There are those, replies The London Star, who will answer that this is better than staying in offices to pile up dollars beyond their power of spending by the ruthless squeezing out of smaller or less scrupulous traders—which seems to be the only American business ideal.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Adress F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

STICK TO STOCK.

We want to say a word to the man who is trying to dig out a farm and home in the newer sections of the country in the timber belt, where opening up and reclaiming the soil is a hard proposition compared with making a farm and home on the level prairie. The easiest way in which to improve such a farm is with stock, and the surest way to secure a living while doing it is also with stock. Pigs may be very profitably raised all through northern Minnesota and Wisconsin, even though there be little or no corn raised to feed them. Clover, peas, potatoes and barley make the primest sort of hog feed and the very choicest quality of pork, and every man so situated should make it a point to keep all the pigs possible, and with the pigs should be as many cows as winter provision can be made for. If a man will get a start with cows, hogs and poultry on such a farm, removing the trees and large brush, his stock will not only make him a good living, but the pasturing of his land will soon subdue it and make it good arable land. Instead of doing this, nine out of ten of the settlers in such a new country keep no hogs at all and only a family cow and depend upon the laborious work of grubbing the land to fit it to raise crops of grain to sell.

The Root of the Trouble.

It surprises some people when you tell them their nervous trouble is caused by a defective liver. Liver trouble causes constipation. Next comes dyspepsia, then impure blood with heart strain, and the result is nerve trouble. Merrill's System Tonic is a positive cure for liver trouble and constipation, and in this way remove the cause of other ills. 50c. per bottle at Ormond & Walsh's.

GOT RID OF THE HIRED MAN.

A friend who has about eighty acres in crops to care for and who usually keeps one hired man to assist him is getting along without help this season and doing pretty well at it too. He keeps two teams of horses, and he went and bought a gang plow which requires the two teams. He got a twenty-five foot drag and rigged a little cart behind it, so that he rides all day. He will use a hay loader in the field and a hay fork at the barn. His wife has agreed to milk the two cows and look after the garden and drive the horse on the pulley when he fills the barn with hay in consideration of not having a hired man in the home to provide for, and, while he may not have wholly solved the problem this year, he says that he will so shape his work another season as to be independent of hired help even though he does not do quite so big a business.

Health and Hope.

"He who has health has hope; and he who has hope has everything." But hope flees at the approach of kidney disease with the dreadful pains which accompany it. THE MINES OF ONTARIO EAST

Report of the Bureau of Mines.

SOME FACTS ABOUT CORDOVA

What Manager Kerr is Doing—Many Rich Deposits—Villages Springing Up at the Mines.

The report of the Bureau of Mines of the Province of Ontario is to hand and contains information of much interest concerning the gold and other mineral deposits in the vicinity of Peterborough. The Director, Mr. Thos. W. White, concerning the Belmont gold mine, says:—

This property belonging to the Cordova Exploration Company is in Belmont Township, and consists of ten quartz veins roughly parallel and fed by numerous off-shoots. The ore is free milling, thirty stamps being in use. The concentrates are treated by the cyanide process. There are seven shafts and numerous levels. The pay roll showed 184 men. Arrangements are being made to bring compressed air by a pipe-line from the falls at Deer Lake about two miles distant. About 800 horse power will be made available in this way. The ore from the various shafts is run to the mill by a system of horse trams, a horse drawing three or four cars. Buildings and mines are lighted by electricity. Accompanied by the manager, Mr. D. G. Kerr, I spent parts of two days underground, and was pleased to see the large bodies of ore blocked out ready for stoping,—enough to keep the stamps busy for several years. But development work is being pushed forward, by sinking, drifting, and opening up new prospects on the property. All this is in marked contrast with the unscientific way in which so many of our gold properties have been exploited. Mr. Kerr entered with enthusiasm into the plans for carrying on the class. We had the pleasure too of spending a very pleasant week in his house, and of accompanying him on a number of occasions to inspect new prospects being opened up. Thirty-two men attended the classes at 7 p.m. and 4 p.m. The average daily attendance was about twenty. At the Ledyard Mine near by, we collected samples of specular ore and pyrite for use in the classes. At Cordova Mines the calcite contains enough ferrous carbonate to cause it to become rusted in appearance when exposed to the weather. This was also noticed at Deloro, and at the Ledyard mine. At No. 7, Cordova Mines, galena is being found in small quantities, along with the more commonly occurring iron and copper pyrite.

The Cordova camp is an example of what business-like but sympathetic management can do in giving tone to a body of men. As at Deloro, the management takes other aspects of the men's life into consideration besides the day's work. Comfortable houses, a foot-ball campus, a church, a clubhouse and a school house are among the things already provided or planned for.

THE CRAIG CORUNDUM MINE.

This is the property of the Canada Corundum Company, and is situated a short distance from the Madawaska river, about eight miles from the village of Combermere. Barry's Bay on the Canada Atlantic, is the nearest railway station, with which the steamer Hudson makes connections. Supplies are brought in and the corundum shipped by this route. The line of the Bancroft and Irondale Railway surveyed this summer passes close to the mine. In the absence of Mr. Bartlett, the manager, we were received by Mr. Reginald Instant, engineer in charge, and were put up comfortably in the company's offices. It was found impossible to get a room large enough for the attendance here. Although the mine employees numbered only fifty men, forty attended the classes, which were held at 7 p.m. and 7.30 a.m. The average attendance was about twenty-five, which overflowed from the small kitchen (the only place available for the class) to the steps outside. Many of the French employees were unable to read English, and could not use the printed instructions for the determination of minerals. To these the specimens were given and a viva voce description was found to answer all purposes. Here, as in other places, some of the men inquired for names of books suitable for carrying on their studies.

Corundum concentrates are being produced here of high grade and excellent quality at the rate of about one and a half tons a day. The plant is small and will doubtless be extended or replaced as circumstances warrant. The appearance of the quarry is good, there being no signs of decrease in the percentage of corundum. New benches are being uncovered at lower levels.

(By Willet G. Miller.)

The belt or strip of country in southeastern Ontario, along which auriferous deposits have been found at various points, extends from the township of Belmont in Peterborough county, eastward across the counties of Hastings, Addington and Frontenac, and into the western part of Lanark, a distance of about 70 miles.

Numerous reports and papers have been written on this district since the first discovery of gold in it in 1866. Some of the most important of thes are to be found among the publications of the Geological Survey.

The writer, at the request of some of the mine owners, and with the consent of the Director of the Bureau of Mines, spent a few weeks during the summer of 1901 in the district. As the time at his disposal was insufficient for a detailed examination of large an area, attention was paid cheifly to the working mines. Notes were, however, made on the general characteristics of the belt. This reports attempts to give not much more than an outline description of the field.

Along this strip of country most of the auriferous deposits were found to occur under somewhat similar circumstances, the rock in which they are situated being usually diorite or some closely related dark coloured igneous or metamorphic variety.

It is only within the last four or five years that gold mining may be said to have been carried on successfully in this field. This is owing to various causes, chief among which are the refractory character of the ore in some of the deposits and the lack heretofore, to some extent, of technical skill and sufficient capital. Owing to the fact that the ore of certain of the deposits which have been worked is decomposed near the surface of the ground, thus being rendered free milling, companies have been organised to work such deposits under the belief that the precious metal could be extracted by ordinary means. After working downwards, however, the ore has been found to be not adapted to free milling plants, and thus numerous attempts have ended in failure, until recently when companies of sound financial standing and with experienced managers, have entered the field.

The geology of the district may be, summarized as follows—

A series of diorites, crystalline limestones and various schistose rocks has been cut through by granite. This granite now forms most of the higher hills and ridges in the district, the diorites and accompanying metamorphic varieties occupying the valleys and lower lying areas. Overlying all the rocks mentioned are areas, here and there, of undisturbed Silurian limestone of the Black River and Birdseye formation, together with occasionally small outliers of sandstone, which heretofore has been considered to belong to the Potsdam formation. This sandstone was however probably formed during the period immediately preceding the deposition of the limestone, and is thus higher up in the series than the Potsdam, which is now, in Canada, put at the base of the system. tem. Glacial and recent deposits are of course also present.

The granite was found in all cases where opportunities were offered for observing the relations of the rocks to be younger in age than either the diorite or crystalline limestone, the latter two rocks being cut by dikes of granite and its fine-grained variety, felsite.

The relationship existing between the diorite and crystalline limestone in the more western part of the belt was not so clear as in some of the more eastern exposures. In the vicinity of the old marble quarry on the outskirts of the town of Madoc diorite dikes together with dikes of granite and felsite cut through the crystalline limestone, are to be seen. The diorite is also seen to be younger than the limestones at Perry's mill on the Mississippi River and in the township of Clarendon and elsewhere. Of course it is possible that different outcrops of diorite along the belt may be of different age. Some may be older than the crystalline limestone while others are undoubtedly younger. Since the gold deposits in association with these diorites throughout the whole belt possess so close a resemblance to one another, especially in the occurrence of a high percentage of mispickel in may of them, it would seem likely that the diorites are of one age.

It is also possible that there are granites of different ages in this district. To determine this definitely would, however, take much more time than the writer had at his disposal during his trip along the belt last sumemr.

As stated elsewhere the term diorite is here used in a comprehensive sense to cover a considerable variety of dark, fine grained to coarse-grained, massive, and schistose rocks. The granite along some parts of the belt is also quite different in appearance from that along other parts. The typical granite of Marmora and Madoc is different from that of Kaladar and other townships. The granite passes into syenite in the northern part of Methuen township and in other localities.

Most of the gold deposits occur near the contact of the diorite and granite, although some important ones are found at a considerable distance from the granite. It would appear that the cavities occupied by the deposits owe their origin to the shrinkage of the granite on cooling, which has caused fractures to be formed in the rocks near the contact. The cooling mass of granite was apparently tougher than the rocks near the contact. Hence fractures were produced in the latter when the granite began to contract. The openings now occupied by the gold ores evidently did not originally possess the width which they now show. They may at first have been represented by narrow cracks which in course of time became enlarged by circulating waters dissolving away portions of the surrounding rock.

The granites, diorites, and associated crystalline rocks to which reference has been made, are classified as Archaean, and according to the nomenclature adopted by the Canadian Geological Survey, the granites are considered to be Lower Laurentian. The crystalline limestones and accompanying schistose varieties are put into the Grenville series of the Laurentian. It may be added that at one time it was thought some of these metamorphosed sedimentary varieties of the Hastings district were of different age from the Grenville, and the name Hastings was given to them. Recent work has however shown that the so-called Hastings series is of similar age and origin to the Greville.

The relation which this sedimentary series of the Laurentian bears to the Huronian remains to be determined. The area in which rocks of the two series, Grenville and Huronian, have been found to occur most closely associated is in the district lying between Lakes Temiscaming and Kippewa. Outcrops of the typical Huronian, jasper conglomerate and related rocks, are found on the shores of the former lake. Some miles southeastward, on the Kippewa river, crystalline limestone of Grenville age associated with garnitiferous gneiss and nepheline syenite is exposed. A mass of granite and gneiss occupies the area lying between these two points.

THE BELMONT GOLD DEPOSITS.

The most western township in the gold belt containing deposits on which any serious attempts at work have been made is Belmont in the County of Peterborough.

The building and main workings of the Belmont mine, which is owned and operated by the Cordova Exploration Company, Limited, of Great Britain, are on lot 20 in the first concession of this township. The company also own the southeast quarter of lot 21 in the same concession and the land surrounding the foot of Deer Lake, where the power plant is situatpd, together with the mineral rights of lot 20 in the first concession of Marmora and of the adjacent county roads. On the property there is a 30-stamp mill, completed about a year ago, which is equipped with machinery of the latest and most improved designs. It has been so arranged that the capacity can be increased to 100 stamps without disturbing the present plant or ceasing milling operations. The mill is furnished with a cyanide plant for treating the tailings.

A village is rapidly growing up in the vicinity of the mine. It already contains two or three stores, and the building of two churches was begun during the past summer.

The mine is distant about 12 miles from Havelock, a station on the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, between Toronto and Montreal. The distance from the former city to Havelock is 100 miles, and from the latter 208 miles. Ten miles distant from the mine is the village of Marmora. The post office at the mine is called Cordova.

A branch line which connects with the Central Ontario Railway near its junction with the Canadian Pacific railway runs to within one-half mile of the mine and can be easily continued into the mill yard.

The mill is supplied with water from an artifical lake on the property which is estimated to hold about 10,000,000 gallons of water.

At the foot of Deer Lake, which lies to the north of Belmont lake, a dam built of stonework, and cement, replaces an old timber structure. Water will be carried here in a six-foot pipe to the southward along the east bank of the river, a distance of about 1500 feet. It is estimated that a fall of about 75 feet will be obtained at that point. The power will be used for compressing air for transmission to the mines, a distance of about two and a quarter miles. The pipe for carrying the air to the mine is to have a diameter of twelve inches.

It will be seen that this mine is particularly well situated as regards supply of water and power. The claim is made that even during the dry season the compressed air plant will generate at least 1,000 horse power. This will suffice for a very much larger mill than the present one. On the head waters of the Deer river are other lakes of considerable size. If it were desirable, the water in these could be held back by dams till needed. When this plant is completed, compressed air will be the only power used in the mill as well as for hoisting and underground work. Fuel will then be required for heating purposes only. The power plant is unique among those of the mines of the province, and should ensure as low a cost of treatment of the ore, in proportion to the amount handled, as any mine in the world.

Mr. D. G. Kerr, the general manager of the company, has made a careful study of the ore bodies. The result of the writer's work serves only to confirm the views held by Mr. Kerr concerning the character of the deposits.

APPEAL TO THE WORLD

Boer Manifesto to the People of Europe and America.

DON'T AIM TO INFLUENCE PEOPLE

Gens. Botha, Dewet and Delarey Say That 30,000 Houses on Boer Farms Were Burned During the War—Therefore They Appeal to Civilized World For Aid to Help the Destitute.

Amsterdam, Sept. 24.—The Boer Generals Botha, Dewet and Delarey have issued a manifesto in the shape of an appeal to the civilized world. The document recalls how, after the terrible struggle in South Africa, and the Boers were compelled to accept the British terms of peace, the generals were commissioned to proceed to England and appeal to the new Government to allay the distress which is devastating the colonies, and in the event of the failure of the mission, to appeal to the civilized world for charitable contributions.

Continuing, the generals say that, having failed to induce Great Britain to grant further assistance, it only remains for them to address themselves to the people of Europe and America.

"The small Boer nation," goes on the manifesto, "can never forget the help it received in its dark hours of suffering. Our people are completely ruined. It has been impossible to make a complete inventory, but we are convinced that at least 30,000 houses on Boer farms and many villages were burned or destroyed by the British during the war. Everything was destroyed, and the country was completely laid waste. The war demanded many victims, and the land was bathed in tears, and our orphans and widows were abandoned. We are appealing to the world for contributions to assist the destitute and help in the education of the children."

The generals repudiate all desire to inflame the minds of the people.

A DECISION ON MINES.

Pennsylvania Can Compel Operators to Work Them.

SITUATION GROWS MORE ACUTE.

A Prominent Coal Operator Says by the Use of the Militia the Strike Will Be Brought to an End in Another Month—Arms Bought in New York and Shipped to Collieries in Pennsylvania.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—"It would be an exercise of lawful authority for the State to compel owners of coal mines to operate them for the benefit of the public, or else for the State to take charge of the mines and operate them through lessees," said Judge Gibbons of the Cook County Circuit, a recognized authority on constitutional law. Judge Gibbons' opinion was in answer to the question: "Is there any lawful way to compel the operators to open the mines?"

"The Governor and Legislature of Pennsylvania have power to end the strike if they are courageous and patriotic enough to do it," he continued. "I don't believe in taking a man's property away from him, but if the public good demands the use of it I believe in the State taking possession and operating it for the use of the people, making reasonable compensation to the owners.

"There are certain species of property which by the law of nature are intended to be common. The right to use these properties arises from the law of necessity, and so well recognized is this right that even under the feudal system the lord of the manor could not appropriate to himself this kind of property without leaving sufficient for the needs of the people."

Solution of the Problem.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 25.—A prominent coal operator said yesterday that he expected to see the strike over by another month. He declared the end would come by a process of attrition in which the United Mine Workers' Union would be wiped off the face of the earth for all time. He claimed that he was in possession of facts to show that 85 per cent. of the miners were willing to go back at the old scale provided they were protected from violence.

"The solution of the problem," said he, "lies in the hands of the militia. The whole coal region will be honeycombed by soldiers and disorder stamped out. When order is restored the mines will be resumed and the soldiers will stand on guard until all danger of violence is over."

In the light of this statement the words of Gen. Gobin are of interest. He says: "During the past two weeks the Governor has received many letters calling upon him to exercise the power at his command and make it possible for the collieries to resume and produce coal. These appeals have multiplied and grown so urgent that he feels that he can no longer ignore them.

"You can say with perfect safety that the ordering out of the 13th Regiment is only the first step in the Governor's plan. He has decided to send troops to every district where the rights of the citizens are interfered with. Every man who wishes to go to work will be furnished protection. The campaign will now be short and decisive."

Arms Bought in New York.

New York, Sept. 25.—One of the great coal companies has made large purchases of arms and ammunition in New York and has shipped them to its collieries in Pennsylvania, intending to arm volunteers to aid the Coal and Iron Police, and if the occasion arises, to oppose force by force.

The attitude of the operators remains uncompromising. They insist that the only possible outcome of the strike is the surrender of the men. Their belief is firm that the union cannot resist indefinitely and that there soon will be desertions in great enough numbers to cause a general rush back to the mines.

TEN YEARS FOR HENSHEL.

German Subject at Pretoria Loses His Liberty in the Endeavor to Secure $5,000 For Treachery.

London, Sept. 25.—A despatch from Cape Town to The Central News says that Ernest Henshel, a German subject, has been convicted of treachery and sentenced by a military court at Pretoria to ten years' imprisonment at hard labor.

The evidence in the case showed that last March, after having taken the oath of neutrality, Henshel started for Germany, carrying with him a number of Kaffir curiosities, among which were found, when the curiosities were examined at the frontier, certain documents addressed by Commandant Beyers, to former President Kruger and Dr. Leyds, the Boer representative in Europe.

The prisoner pleaded ignorance as to the contents of the documents, but admitted that he had been promised $5,000 for delivering them.

Phipps Helps the Boers.

London, Sept. 25.—A despatch from The Hague yesterday confirms the report that the donor of the $100,000 sent to Gen. Botha for the relief of destitute Boers was Henry Phipps, an American, and not "Arthur White," as announced by the general in Rotterdam Monday. The money, however, was sent through Arnold White.

Henry Phipps of New York city is a director of the Carnegie Steel Company and of other concerns.

HORSES FOR THE ARMY

Major Studdert to Be Tried for Fraud and Conspiracy.

HE AND TWO SONS COMMITTED

Will Be Tried on the Charge of Fraud and Conspiracy Against the British Government in Connection With the Purchase of Yeomanry Horses in Ireland—Some Particulars.

Dublin, Sept. 25.—Major C. W. Studdert, a man of high standing, his two sons and two others, after a prolonged hearing yesterday, on the charge of fraud and conspiracy in connection with Yeomanry horse purchases in Ireland, were committed for trial at the next assizes of Clare County.

It is alleged that horses were purchased by Major Studdert (who was a purchasing officer for the army), and others for $30, $35 and $40 each, and were sold to the British Government for $150, or $175. The horses also turned out to be a very bad lot, and the matter was taken up in the House of Commons, with the result that prosecutions were ordered.

QUIRK MURDER DESCRIBED.

Spiritualist in Seance Tells the Story at Brantford.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—An unusual action in law, relating to the Quirk murder case at Brantford, will be heard by the Single Court Judge at Osgoode Hall to-day. Two spiritualists, Walter and Gladys Dudley, are giving seances in a hall in Brantford and on Thursday night last the latter undertook to describe the murder undertook to describe the mur- She told of a beautiful night and seeing the proprietor of a big hotel opposite the market walk down the street with another man, whom she describes, light complexion, moustache, etc.; they were laughing and joking; walked into a room, and the man described hits the hotelkeeper on the head with a crowbar. Mrs. Dudley offers to tell the authorities the name of the murderer if they desire it.

Mrs. Quirk applied for and obtained from Judge Hardy of Brantford an interim injunction to prohibit discussion of the murder at the seances, on the ground that the inquest is still pending. This morning an application will be made before the Single Court Judge at Osgoode Hall to have the injunction made perpetual.

A DEAR ELECTION.

Yukon Election Would Cost $100,000 if Officials Had Their Way.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 25.—If the view of the Yukon authorities were followed, it would cost Canada $100,000 to elect a representative for that district to Parliament at Ottawa. The enumeration of voters alone would run up a bill of more than $50,000.

The Secretary of State is in telegraphic communication with the returning officer, Sheriff Eilbeck, and with Judge Dugas, and has given strict and final orders that the expense must be kept down to the lowest point. He insists that the enumeration must be made by forty men and within thirty days. The enumerators are to receive $10 a day for wages and living expenses.

Judge Dugas has been granted leave of absence and will visit the East.

Brandon, Man., Sept. 25. — The General Board of Methodist Missions last night formed four superintendencies of missions and appointed local superintendents as follows:

No. 1.—New Ontario, including Algoma, Sudbury and Nipissing Districts; Rev. Jas. Allen, M. A., of Sault Ste. Marie, superintendent, to reside at Sault Ste. Marie after Conference of 1903.

It was agreed to withdraw one of the three missionaries now in the Yukon.

A committee of the five Northwest members of the Mission Board was appointed to confer with an Anglican Church Committee respecting Indian missions and schools.

THE TRANSPORTATION QUESTION.

The Hamilton Times in regard to the proposed double-tracking of the Midland railway line says:

"Midland is going to be a place of importance if the scheme for double-tracking the railway to Peterborough goes through, and it is reported that General Manager Hayes, of the Grand Trunk, favours it. The water in Midland Harbour is deep, so that vessels of heavy draft can unload there. From Peterborough to Montreal, both the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk have lines of railway. By double-tracking the intervening section, and arranging for its use by both companies, a splendid grain route will be provided, and just as soon as the Canadian shipbuilders catch up to the railways, the story of Manitoba grain reaching the ocean via Buffalo and New York will be ended. The Midland project is better, and far cheaper than that of the French River canal."

In addition to the use of the all-Canadian route for the shipment of Canadian products, is the matter of the transportation, per se, of the infinite products of the Northwest, when the great wheat areas are developed. Every available outlet will be needed. It goes without saying that not a bushel of Canadian grain should be allowed to find its way to the ocean by any other than a Canadian route. To this end the double-tracking of the Midland, important as that operation will be, will be but a drop in the bucket. Every possibly available route will be in demand. And the Trent Valley Canal route will be worth any two lines of railway for transportation purposes. A system of barges built with special reference to grain carrying, would be able to run in tow direct from Port Arthur or Fort William to Montreal, and would probably carry more grain, and at a cheaper rate, than any two railways. We need both the canal and the double tracks, which, as the Times says, will not only increase the importance of Midland, but of Peterborough also. With this line double-tracked Peterborough would be a divisional point of two of the greatest railway systems on the continent, so far as grain transportation is concerned. The G. T. R. could use one track to Peterborough, and the C.P.R. the other. On reaching Peterborough the former could take its own line to Montreal via Port Hope or Belleville, and the C. P. R. its own line. The rails of the existing Midland line are kept hot with grain traffic now, and things would hum if a double track were, as easily could be done, kept as busy as a single one.

"Mr. J. P. Whitney has no right to say," the Toronto Star thinks, "that one of his followers has been offered the Speakership, another a timber limit, 'and so on,' but that they remain loyal to him. If improper proposals are being made to members of the Opposition by the Government it is their duty and the duty of Mr. Whitney to make a full exposure. Unless he does so he will be suspected of romancing." The Star's conclusions are just. Mr. Whitney has cried "wolf" too often to be taken seriously. He has made portentious threats of the exposure of tremendous secrets in regard to the wrong doings of the Government, but he has never once made good a threat. It is safe to say that he was merely "bluffing." If a politician had knowledge, whose exposure to the public would overwhelm the Government with confusion and precipitate their downfall, he would make use of it. That Mr. Whitney has not done so, is plain proof that he has been merely "talking to the gallery."

THE GREAT NILE DAM.

Largest Work of its Kind in the World Just Completed—Will Create a Garden out of Desert Egypt.

Cairo, Sept. 20.—When a few days ago there was a brief announcement in the papers to the effect that the last coping stone had been placed on the Assouan Dam, it would be curious to know how many who read that piece of news were aware what it meant, what a great thing it signified.

The number would be surprisingly small, but probably no smaller in proportion than the number who were puzzled when they read about the welcome to Lord Kitchener in London, to learn that about the only time when he displayed any approach to vivacity was when he asked Sir John Aird, the mayor of Paddington, how the dam was getting on, and Sir John replied that it was hoped that the entire works would be completed this year. "That's capital, capital," exclaimed Kitchener.

It must surely be a big thing which excites some approach to enthusiasm in this iceburg of a general. The Assouan Dam is something big. It is one of the most remarkable engineering achievements of modern times, and must be regarded as of an importance equal to the half dozen supreme engineering works of the world.

Sir John Aird, who is the head of John Aird & Co., the great contracting firm, said in a conversation recently: "What after all is Egypt? You can hardly count it a country. All it is is a narrow strip of land on each side of the Nile. The rest is desert."

WHAT THE DAM WILL DO.

Briefly, the Assouan Dam will add nearly 1,000,000 acres to this strip of land, to the region placed under cultivation in Egypt; will enable wide tracts to bear two crops a year instead of one; will add at least $12,000,000 a year to the wealth of the country and about $2,000,000 a year to the direct income of the state, and will enormously increase the cotton and sugar crops of Egypt.

There may be various opinions about the righteousness or otherwise of the British occupation of Egypt, but there can hardly be two opinions in regard to the beneficence of the splendid project now approaching completion. No German, or French, or Russian Anglophobe can possibly deny the truth of United States Counsul General Long's statement that "this great work will be a memorial of the British sojourn in Egypt, and in boldness of design and thoroughness of execution will rank with anything that has ever been constructed in this fand of Titanic achievements."

Nevertheless, indications are not wanting that the British authorities have chosen to advertise the fact of the construction of the dam as little as possible. It is true that information about it has been given out with apparent freedom; that Lord Cromer, Sir W. E. Garstin, and others have made long reports, which reports have been printed and published. But, somehow or other, the public has not become interested. It is hard to believe that this circumstance is not the result of policy—that policy which, in view of the fact that you can never mention the word "Egypt" to a Frenchman without causing him to gnash his teeth, gives the Frenchmen and the more self-restrained but not less irritated people of other continental nations as little cause to become angry as possible.

THE NEED OF WATER.

Perhaps no better statement of what the Assouan Dam is and the reason why it was built can be found than in the report made by Lord Cromer, the practical ruler of Egypt, in 1897, which began as follows:

"There can be no doubt that the most crying want of the country at present is an increase in the water supply. For a long time past I have been constantly hearing complaints of want of water. All competent engineering authorities are agreed that nearly all that can be done with the present supply of Nile water has been already accomplished; that the only way to increase the supply is to store the water; that the present supply is hardly sufficient for the land under cultivation; and that unless timely measures be taken to increase it, a check will be given to the growing wealth and prosperity of the country by reason of the impossibility of supplying water to the fresh land which is being brought constantly under cultivation."

Lord Cromer then went on to describe the work which was done in order to make a great reservoir of Nile water. This consisted of the Assouan Dam and lock, the Ibrahimiel Canal, regulator and lock, and various subsidiary works. Of these the Assousan Dam was by far the most expensive and important, the other undertakings being comparatively of easy accomplishment.

TEMPLES OF PHILAE.

It should be mentioned that the plan ultimately adopted was somewhat modified from that at first proposed. The latter project would have necessitated the entire submersion of the famous temples on the Island of Philae, and as soon as it became known that this was threatened, certain archaeologists raised such a fuss and agitated so strongly against what they called the "vandalism" of the Egyptian authorities that a modified plan was decided upon. Under this revised scheme the more important of the temples of Philae are free from all chance of submersion, being above the highest level of the water in the reservoir.

The Assouan Dam is one and one-fourth mile long, and it will hold the water 247.6 feet above the level of the Mediterranean. The dam is pierced by 180 openings, each 23 feet high and 7 feet wide. Each sluice is fitted with steel gates, adjustable at will so as to enable the water to go in and out. An idea of the immensity of the labour involved in the construction of the dam may be obtained from the fact that the foundations of some of the sluices go 75 feet below the rock surface.

A COSTLY WORK.

The original estimate of the total cost of the Assouan and Assiout dams and the other works, was £2,000,000, and the contractors agreed to accept monthly payments extending over a period of thirty years. It has been found that the work will be a great deal more costly than was originally supposed owing to the greatly increased depths which had to be excavated before sufficiently sound granite on which to build the dam was reached.

If however the work is more expensive than was expected it has also been done very much more quickly than was thought possible. No less than 16,000 labourers, 50 per cent. of them native Egyptians, have been engaged on the work during the greater part of the time. The contract for the undertaking was signed by the Egyptian Government and John Aird & Co., in 1898, and the contractors agreed to complete the work in July, 1903. As a matter of fact everything except the finishing up is already done. The reservoir formed by the dams will hold 1,065,000,000 cubic metres, or 37,612,179,000 cubic feet, of water.

The dam closes the Nile to navigation, and the Egyptian Government, although the traffic is unimportant, did not wish to bar the oldest waterway in existence and to cut off the villages between Shellal and the Second Cataract from communication with the outer world. The construction of a canal was therefore ordered. It is 6,540 feet long and has four locks with steel gates. The canal will permit dahabyehs to pass all the year round.

CANADA'S WHEAT SURPLUS.

The Winnipeg correspondent of the New York Evening Post observes that Manitoba's record-breaking crop of 1902 means more than mere increased wealth to the Dominion. It means a radical disturbance of the proportion of United States and Indian wheat in the British markets. He speaks of a harvest of 100,000,000 bushels from the whole Dominion as against the previous year's 88,000,000, and contemplates the possibility of Canada furnishing the whole food supply of Great Britain, 160,000,000 bushels, within the next six or seven years. Canada's surplus of wheat over what is required for home consumption, is certainly advancing by leaps and bounds. In 1900 it was 10,000,000; in 1901, it was 26,000,000 in 1902 it may be nearer 75,000,000. And still there is not as yet one-eighth of the fertile land of Manitoba alone, under crop. In addition to its effect upon the wealth of the Dominion, and upon the United States' export, this rapid increase in Canada's surplus available for exportation, is a factor of tremendous importance to the future of the Empire. For years it has been recognized that the weak spot in the system of Imperial defence, if the sympathies of the United States were arrayed against Great Britain, would be the food supply of the United Kingdom. There has been the fatal possibility of the Empire being starved into submission. If Canada is able to grow the food supply of the British Isles, the Royal navy is abundantly able to secure its safe transmission across the Atlantic. The development of Canadian resources is attracting a good deal of attention in the United States just now, and Canadian competition is by no means regarded as a negligible quantity.

SLOPEVILLE.

Threshing is the order of the day. The low distant murmur of the mills can be heard from every point.

The price of land in Douro is rapidly advancing. J. M. Walsh has purchased the O'Toole property at a high figure. Mr. J. Carr has also purchased Mr. C. O'Brien's farm. Mr. William O'Brien has sold his farm and intends going into business in company with his amiable son-in-law, Mr. P. G. Towns. No doubt the new firm will carry on a profitable business in tea, especially as Mr. Towns has always made an effort to please his customers with good tea. Mr. Willie Crow has been engaged as advance advertising agent, and is already at work with his pastes and posters. We wish the firm success in their new undertaking. In addition to this the firm intend putting in a printing press for the purpose of establishing a daily paper, which will be known as "The Morning Glory." No doubt the paper will have a large circulation as Mr. O'Brien, the senior member of the firm will be the editor.

A social hop was given at Mr. W. O'Conner's last week.

Mr. Bart Leahy rides a new wheel purchased of McPherson.

Quite an excitement arose in our village last week over the appearance of a Government official, as information had been laid that Mr. Maurice O'Brien was operating a still on his farm. On investigation the officer found that it was simply a contrivance for making paste for Messrs. O'Brien and Town's for pasting up bills to advertise their celebrated tea.

The T.A.S. enrolled 52 new members on Sunday last. No doubt the membership will increase rapidly, as Mr. William Moher, who is a strong temperance man, has been elected president.

FRANCO-SIAM ROW.

Both United States and Germany Are Anxious For Their Interests.

Birmingham, Sept. 25.—The Post hears that both America and Germany are watching the Franco-Siam squabble closely. If force is threatened, the paper says, both Ambassadors will deman an understanding as to what the consequences will be to their respective commercial interests in the country.

The trouble between France and Siam originated from an apparent tendency on the part of Siam to approve of the alliance between Great Britain and Japan, and a seeming desire on the part of the country to be taken under the protection of Japan.

Uneasiness at Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 25.—The report from London of the strained relations between Great Britain and Venezuela has caused some uneasiness in this city, particularly in naval circles. The British North Atlantic Squadron, on station here, comprises eight cruisers and three torpedo boat destroyers. The cruisers Ariadne, Indefatigable and Pallas are here, the Charybdis and Alert are at Newfoundland and the Tribune, Retribution and Rocket are at Bermuda. The tor do boat destroyers are also at the latter station. The cruiser Indefatigable, which was at Caracas a year ago, sailed under orders at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, but her destination is unknown. The admiralty authorities say they know nothing official regarding the trouble at Venezuela, and so far no orders have been received to prepare the fleet for sea.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—The attention of the postoffice authorities was yesterday morning drawn to the despatch from Rome, stating that the Italian Minister of Posts and Telegraphs is projecting an international envelope for use throughout the Postal Union, permitting a postpaid reply. The officials here do not favor the adoption of this proposition, at any rate, so far as Canada is concerned. They say that it is only in the interest of the wealthier classes and would cause a considerable loss of revenue.

TARTE AT GANANOQUE

Manufacturers Endorse His Views on the Tariff.

A BUSY DAY OF INSPECTION.

The Minister of Public Works Speaks on the Tariff and Transportation Questions—Declared For a Fiscal Policy Which Will Give Canadian Industry a Sufficient Protection —Two Speeches.

Gananoque, Sept. 25.—Hon. Mr. Tarte spent a busy day in this thriving town, and last evening at a public meeting was presented with an address from the manufacturers and citizens, endorsing his views upon the transportation and tariff questions, and declaring for a fiscal policy which will give Canadian industry a sufficient protection. At a banquet later in the evening, Mr. Tarte declared himself a protectionist, and insisted that he had said no more in his speech at Port Arthur than he had when speaking in the presence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Montreal last November. He protested against his excommunication, justified the position he had taken, and declared for a policy of "Canada for the Canadians."

In the course of his reply to an address to him in the opera house at 8 o'clock, Mr. Tarte acknowledged with pleasure the support that he had received from both political parties in his efforts to improve our waterways. During the trip on the lakes he had gone to see what was needed at Port Arthur and Fort William. "I am sorry to say," added Mr. Tarte, "that it was during my visit there that this row in which I am now engaged arose. I said there, after noticing Mr. Sifton's speech calling for a reduction on the tariff, that Fort William and Port Arthur must be made the capital of the Northwest, that there the products of the east and west must be exchanged and not at the American port of Duluth."

After declaring that Canada must have a tariff of her own, and her own interests wholly, Mr. Tarte paid a tribute to his friend and able critic, Mr. Taylor, and concluded with an appeal for Canadian nation building on British lines, and for the policy of Canada for Canadians.

Mr. Tarte was entertained at a banquet in the evening. There were 40 guests, and the dinner was presided over by the Mayor. During his response to the toast of his health, Mr. Tarte repeated that Mr. Sifton was making a tremendous national mistake in declaring that unless the tariff were lowered the Northwest would rise in her might against it, "and," said Mr. Tarte, "I am for this excommunicated and declared untrue to the Government to which I belong, but I feel that I can safely walk anywhere among my countrymen, hold up my head and say that I never betrayed anyone. When I broke from the Conservative party, I plainly told Sir John Macdonald I would do so unless certain things were done, but I betrayed nobody. I am not betraying anyone now, and some of my political friends should not excommunicate people in such a light way. Excommunication is a dangerous thing, and not resorted to in these days; but, if they persist, I can stand it, for I feel that I am only voicing the views of the great majority of the people of Canada, when I ask that both parties unite upon a policy of Canada for Canadians, and in so doing I am not departing from the policy of the Liberal party. For me there is no west of the great lakes nor any east of Quebec; to me all is Canada."

To show that he had not spoken anything behind his leader's back that he would not say in his presence, Mr. Tarte, with much gusto, quoted from the speech he made at the manufacturers' banquet in Montreal last November, both Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Fielding being present.

For the expression of these views Mr. Tarte said the Premier had not found fault with him, but now The Globe came forward and declared that what Mr. Fielding said on these same occasions meant that the tariff would be lowered.

"I say that that is not so," Mr. Tarte declared emphatically, "and I feel I am speaking the sentiments of all the members of the Government when I deny that statement. The promise was meant to be conveyed by Mr. Fielding on that occasion not to lower the tariff, but to improve it. Who would dare to lower the tariff?"

Mr. Tarte then amde an interesting exposition of his tariff policy in detail, but repeated that in all this he was speaking for himself alone.

The Age of Brain Work.

"In these days half our diseases come from the neglect of our body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age the wear and tear of labour and intellect goes on without pause or self pity. We live longer than our forefathers but we suffer more. They fatigued only the the muscles; we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest medicine of this age, because it is best suited to the needs of the present age. It restores and revitalizes wasted nerve cells and makes the pale, weak and exhausted, strong, healthy and vigorous.

VOLUNTEER LAND GRANTS.

Certificates to Be Issued by November 1 —All to Be Ready at the Same Time.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—Hon. E. J. Davis, Minister of Crown Lands, said yesterday that he was in a position to announce that certificates will be issued on November 1 to all volunteers entitled to land grants. The delay has been caused by the practically unanimous opinion of those interested that no certificates should be sent out until all were ready, so that they might all be placed on an equal basis in selecting lands.

Another advantage will be that twelve townships which were surveyed this summer will be included in the land available for selection, and will thereby greatly increase the area of choice. It is possible, however, that there will be a limited number of applications, in which special points have arisen, that it may be necessary to hold over for a short time, but the whole list will be completed if at all possible.

BRITISH EDITORS AT OTTAWA.

Arrived There Wednesday Morning and Saw the Sights.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—The British journalists who have been touring through Canada arrived in Ottawa yesterday morning, and took in the sights of the capital yesterday. They were met early by Hon. R. W. Scott, who showed them the Parliament buildings and took them through the library, the House of Commons and the Senate. The visitors were afterwards shown through Eddy's paper and match works, and Mr. J. R. Booth's sawmills. From there they took a run through the city, and landed at Rockliffe Park, where luncheon was held in the royal shanty. They were conveyed to the city by boats on the Ottawa, so as to give them a good view of the Parliament buildings and Nepeau Point from the river. In the afternoon they visited the Experimental Farm. The visitors are very favorably impressed with the country. They speak particularly of the fertility of the soil in Manitoba and the Northwest, which they say is something marvelous; they never saw anything like it. If the British people knew the advantages to be had in Canada, more of them would come to this country. The visitors are also greatly impressed with the Canadian educational system.

Says Wheat Is Not Damaged.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works of Manitoba, is registered at the Queen's. He declares crop conditions are all that could be desired in Manitoba, and that in a general way commercial conditions are excellent. "The wheat crop has not been damaged," he remarked. "The grain is not moving as readily, however, as it ordinarily does, because the farmers are hurrying the work of threshing, and until the smaller farmers get this work done the grain will not move in great quantities. The wheat acreage next year promises to be much heavier, too, than this year. The ground being broken is extensive.

New Moving Pictures.

Those who want to see the Coronation of the King, the arrival of the Duke and Duchess in Canada, the fire eruptions of Mount Peele and many other moving pictures, and to hear selections from Edison's latest phonograph, should reserve Friday, Oct. 3rd, for the Y.M.C.A. entertainment in Y.M.C.A. Hall to be given by Mr. J. Stubbs. This has been given to full houses wherever shewn. The proceeds will go to furnishing the Boys' quarters in the building. Every body should help the Boys' work.

Out of the Ordinary.

It will be noticed that the Peterborough Bookstore announces an unique "Red Ticket Sale," commencing Wednesday morning, September 24th. This unusual event will furnish a good chance to secure special values in wall papers, window blinds, curtain poles, picture framing, etc. Every line offered will be designated by a red tag on which the regular and reduced prices will be plainly marked. This departure from "old traditions" ought to meet with the endorsement of buyers, as they will be able to see at a glance the actual saving in prices.

THE FUEL SITUATION.

Not Much Present Promise of Relief—Both Coal and Wood Short in Supply and High in Price.

The Toronto Star intimates that the fuel wants of Toronto, could be partially supplied by the importation of wood from various points of Ontario. This proposition is right enough if it could only be carried out. But it is impracticable, simply because the wood does not exist in merchantable form. Throughout the country, there is not enough wood to supply local demands, and it is not probable that places outside of Toronto will rob themselves to keep Toronto citizens warm, and cook their food.

The Examiner was right in proposing the Trent Canal as a means of bringing back country wood to town. The canal could be used all right, but there is not the wood. Mr. John McGrath, formerly with the Dickson Company, but now at Lakefield with the Rathbun Company, says that there is no wood in the back country for export. The town wood dealers have looked out for themselves. Very little was got out by jobbers, owing to the impossibility of getting choppers. One man took a contract to cut and bank 1000 cords last winter, but was only able to handle 50 cords on account of his inability to get men, and had to abandon his contract. If wood were to be got on the shores of the northern waters it would be worth $2.50 on the bank, and it would cost $1.50 per cord, Mr. McGrath says, to deliver in Peterborough, even by canal. Two or three car loads of dry hardwood were being loaded on the cars at the Lakefield wharf yesterday for shipment to Deseronto. The wood was cut on the Rathbun Company's limits in the north, and was being shipped to Deseronto to be converted into charcoal for their chemical works.

Whatever way one looks there is a tightness in the fuel situation. The great strike is not over, and the wood supply is not promising, and peat seems to have petered out entirely. The price of hard coal in Peterborough has advanced to $12 per ton.

LATE MICHAEL O'GORMAN.

Found Dead in His House on Monday Last.

When Jeremiah O'Gorman, of Ennismore, paid his daily visit to his brother, Michael O'Gorman, on Monday, he found that gentleman dead in bed. Michael O'Gorman lived by himself in a house on his brother's farm in Ennismore.

The deceased, who was about 65 years of age, was last seen on Monday, when his brother, Mr. Jeremiah O'Gorman, visited him as was his daily custom.

Dr. Gray, coroner, was notified, but an inquest was not considered necessary, and the funeral took place Wednesday afternoon.

WITH MILITARY HONOURS.

Remains of the Late William Falconer Interred Yesterday Afternoon.

Belleville Intelligencer.

The remains of the late William Falconer, who lost his life in the accident on the Midland Railway on Sunday morning last, were yesterday afternoon buried with military honours. Services were held at the residence of deceased's brother-in-law, Mr. C. Delisle, near the station, whence the cortege proceeded down Front street to Bridge, thence to the cemetery. The Fifteenth Regiment furnished an escort and firing party, the dead man having seen service in South Africa in defence of flag and Empire. The Drum and Bugle Band played the funeral march, the escort being in charge of Lieut. Hayes. Many expressions of sympathy were heard from spectators as the procession passed along the streets. The bearers were Messrs. H. McGinnis, C Ashley, H. Allen, W. Couch, A. Miron and E. Caldwell. Rev. W. M. Maclean conducted the services at the house and grave. After the coffin had been lowered, the customary "three rounds of blank" were fired, the last tributes of former comrades to a brave soldier of the King. The funeral procession was a long one, evincing the respect in which deceased and his relatives were held.

SECOND CROP.

Some Beautiful Berries Brought to This Office.

THE CEREAL WORKS

Approaching Readiness for Actual Operations.

The great mass of buildings of the American Cereal Company are as busy as any two bee hives, in active preparation for operations. Workmen are putting the last touches to machinery and appliances, and it is probable that power may be turned upon a few pieces of machinery, as a sort of "trial trip," and as a preliminary to a speedy beginning on an extensive scale of actual manufacturing operations. The day is not far distant when one can order a breakfast from the Cereal Works, or, if not the whole meal, then the meal material for a meal—the beginning of a meal-ennium.

DATE CHANGED.

Teachers' Convention to be Held on October 23rd and 24th.

The Peterborough County Teachers' Convention, will be held on Thursday and Friday, October 23rd and 24th, instead of the dates previously announced. The change is due to the fact that Thanksgiving Day has been set for October 16th. The Thursday forenoon session of the convention will be held in Ashburnham, and the rest of the sessions in the Y.M.C.A. assembly hall, Peterborough. All interested are welcome, whether teachers or not.

DIED.

REILLEY.—The funeral of the late Michael Reilley will take place from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Joseph Kelly, No. 399 Bethune street, at 9 a.m. Saturday, September 27th, to St. Peter's cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

ST. LUKE'S HARVEST FESTIVAL

Was Held Last Night and was Most Successful.

Rev. J. C. Farthing, of Woodstock Delivered a Very Interesting Address—The Decorations.

With voices expressive of thankful hearts, a large congregation last evening, participated in the annual harvest festival service at St. Luke's. The interior of the church looked very beautiful in its artistic decorations of flowers and fruits, which had been brought and arranged by ardent workers, in regard to whose services Rev. E. A. Langfeldt spoke most appreciatively. Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. W. L. Armitage, and Rev. A. T. Dickinson, assisted the rector in the service, and the address was delivered by Rev. J. C. Farthing, M.A., of Woodstock. He spoke from the text, Psalm 103, 1, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me bless His holy name."

A modern writer, stated the speaker, had said that worship at the present day was a lost art. If this were true then a great pity was it, for it was indicative of man's degradation. Worship was literally prostration. When people at their evening service sang, "O come let us worship, and fall down, and kneel before the Lord our Maker," they were calling upon themselves to become prostrate before God. This was the inward attitude of the soul, and the bowing down was the outward act, which reflected or expressed the inward devotion of the soul. The great reverence of the Mahommedan was a lesson to the Christian brother, who sometimes appeared as though he were conferring an honour upon God by attending worship. True worship was further not merely the adoration of God. The highest idea of worship was that in which self was forgotten and their existed the consciousness of His awful greatness, His glory, His dazzling purity and power. The whole man, the soul, his true self, must be brought out and prostrated before God.

At this season of thanksgiving there was great need of the recognition of the duty of worship. Most fitting was it for the people to pour out their gratitude to God for the many blessings He had bestowed. The causes for thankfulness were most abundant. Prosperity was being enjoyed to a greater extent now than ever before. The speaker warned against the vice of ingratitude, and the danger which sometimes grew out of prosperity. If people would be wise in the days of prosperity they would not forget their God, or abuse the blessings He had bestowed. Surely remembering all these blessings, and opportunities, and privileges afforded, it was the duty of all to examine themselves that "within our souls, and by all that is within us, we may be indeed blessing God. If not these privileges would rise up at the final account to be so many witnesses against those to whom they were given, but who did not appreciate and use them to the glory of God.

The music was appropriate and very effectively rendered by the choir. Mr. Wesley, the choir leader, and Mr. Armstrong, the organist, are to be complimented on their excellent work. The anthem was, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits," Miss Edith Burnham taking the soprano solo, and Mr. Wesley the bass solo. A quartette, "The Lord is My Shepherd," was sweetly sung by Miss Edith Burnham, Miss K. Phillips, and Mr. W. Wesley and Mr. J. J. Turner, jr. The offering was a liberal one. The harvest hymns and music will be repeated on Sunday evening next.

THE EXHIBITION AT LAKEFIELD.

A Very Decided Success in Every Way.

WELL CONTESTED EVENTS.

A Good List of Entries—Speeding in the Ring—Special Exhibits.

The annual exhibition of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society was held on the Lakefield Agricultural Grounds on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 23rd and 24th, under the most favourable conditions, consequently it was a most gratifying success.

MARKET SLIGHTLY STRONGER

Have Wall Street Bears had Their Innings?

Money Closed at 6 Per Cent., After Opening at 20—Heavy Liquidations.

The Wall street traders to-day followed yesterday's policy of liquidation, and prices remained low. The market steadied towards noon and several stocks advanced slightly. Money was quoted at the opening at 20 per cent, and came down gradually to 6 per cent, at the close, which had a tendency to advance stocks to the extent of a point or two in some cases. Baltimore and Ohio, which closed yesterday at 109 5-8, opened at 109 1-2 and closed at 111; Chicago & Alton opened at 38 3-4 and closed at 39 1-4. Other opening and closing prices were as follows; St. Paul, 191, 193 1-2; Atch., 90, 91 3-8; Texas Pac., 46 5-8, 47 3-4; Mop., 113 7-8, 115 3-4; U P., 106, 107 3-4; Sloss, 71 1-2 71 1-2; B.R.T., 63 7-8, 64 3-4; New York Central, 59 7-8, 160; Manahttan, 137, 136 3-8. Sales on the New York exchange to noon were 404,900.

The advices to the local houses do not advice purchasing just yet, until the market is settled.

Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co. received the following wire from Messrs. McIntyre & Marshall;

London market for Americans undergoing wide fluctuations; other departments are steadier on curb.

Washington, — We are told that Internal Revenue receipts will be deposited with banks for the present. This amounts to about $500,000 per day. Expect announcement of Secretary Shaw on this later.

It is reported that Government have anticipated all the bonds and bonds and interest up to 1st January. This will release about $20,000,000, and relieve the money market.

Commenting upon the situation the Globe to-day says:

Speculative holders of securities faced another day of tight money, with the rigid calling of loans and forced liquidations. Call money advanced to 25 per cent., and did not go below 15 per cent., the concluding loan being recorded at 18 per cent. In all about 1,200,000 shares were disposed of, and the flood of liquidation caused breaks of from one to three points in some of the leaders, and a decline throughout the entire speculative list. A strengthening influence in the afternoon was the report that the Treasury would advance money to certain banks to the extent of the market value of their bonds. But the strengthening influences could not withstand the general liquidation.

The local brokers advanced the rate of interest to clients to 7 per cent., but with the exception of C.P.R. there was no active selling. The strength of this stock in the face of the monetary stringency and the rapid advances it recently made shows abundant confidence on the part of the investing public. Over six thousand shares were sold on the local Exchange, and from an opening at 139 3-4 the price declined in sympathy with New York to 137 1-4, rallying at the close to 139 1-2. Nova Scotia Steel sold at 116, and 124 was offered for Dominion Coal, with no sales. The favourable features in New York are the prospect of $6,000,000 in gold from Europe and the estimate of Secretary Shaw that the relief to be afforded by new circulation will amount to $15,000,000. These two days of calling loans and liquidation have put leading securities into stronger hands, and have improved the position of the banks, giving grounds for the hope of a better statement at the close of the week.

DOUKHOBORS ALL RIGHT.

They Are Not Destitute and Will Need No Help This Winter.

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—The reports of destitution among the Doukhobors are absolutely false, according to the statements of Mr. J. Obed Smith, Immigration Commissioner, who says:—"The Doukhobors are not destitute and will not need help this winter. They never have obtained any food from the Government. They never have got any special privileges or assistance from the Government. That a few of them in certain villages have turned loose their cattle under the influence of a fanatic preacher is quite true, as it is also true that none of them eat meat, but they have a perfect right to be vegetarians if they wish, and also to quit using beasts of burden. That this diet is good enough to sustain them in the hardest work is shown by the fact that they are well liked as laborers, working the long hours required as sectionmen without being used up by it. We have each year requests from farmers to send the same Doukhobor to them as they had last year These very villages from which they have driven cattle are building three flour mills this year, and so far from being in want they have two years' subsistence ahead of them. It is sensational reports which are doing the most harm to those people. They are all right if left alone, and are going on quietly homesteading and falling into the ways of the people. All that is wrong with them is fear. They have been so persecuted that they are afraid to sign a paper or fill in any legal document, but they are getting over this also."

HEARTBURN.

A Very Common and Very Painful Symptom of Indigestion.

This disease is sometimes known to medical men by the name of Acid Dyspepsia.

It is really the result of the fermentation in the Stomach of food that has been only partially digested.

Fermentation is in reality a kind of decomposition which produces gas.

This gas fills the stomach, distending the walls.

The pressure of the gas and consequent distention of the Stomach upward, frequently interferes with the action of the heart.

Smokers are usually very subject to Heartburn.

If not corrected this disease will surely terminate in Chronic Dyspepsia.

Many people make a serious mistake in using soda as a relief for Heartburn.

The alkali will certainly neutralize the acid and thus relieve the fermentation but soda is very injurious to the delicate mucous lining of the Stomach, and has been known to lie for days in the bowels where it frequently causes much distress.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a safe and sure cure for Heartburn, as well as for all other stomach derangements.

Heartburn is an impossibility if there is perfect digestion.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets insure perfect digestion and thus absolutely cure Heartburn.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Don't wait until your Heartburn has grown into chronic Dyspepsia, but correct it at once.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured very many cases of chronic Dyspepsia, but it is easier and cheaper and better in every way to root out the sapling, Heartburn, than it is to root out the full grown tree, Dyspepsia. Don't wait.

Sea Bathing Strenuous Exercise.

Dr. Grannis, president of the Connecticut Medical society, is credited with the following:

"That salt water bathing is a panacea for all ills seems somehow to be the prevailing impression. People from the interior are particularly convinced of it and practice it very freely in their outings at shore and watering places.

"But from my personal observation I am convinced that sea bathing is overestimated as a benefit, or, rather, it is overdone.

"I am accustomed to saying that for the average child or adult the maximum of benefit is obtained by not more than one-half hour per week—five minutes every day or ten minutes on alternate days—and, further, if after thorough rubbing down there remains a feeling of lassitude, an inclination to lie down or the desire for a stimulant the time must be shortened to that point at which, after the bath, the bather exhibits a full reaction and a desire to resume his play or occupation immediately.

"It is true that many children can afford to stay in the water longer than the overset limits, but it is not unusual to observe children starting for home in the late summer or early autumn with rather hollow cheeks and apparently large eyes instead of the ruddy cheeks and generally robust appearance which they should have after their summer outing."

Orange Jelly.

One box of gelatin, one pint of orange juice, one pound of granulated sugar, three pints of hot water and the juice of one small lemon. Soak the gelatin for one hour in the orange and lemon juice, then add the sugar and hot water, put on the stove and let it boil for ten minutes. Remove from the fire and when it is nearly cool add the lemon juice and pour in a mold to cool.

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

Hamilton's Pills Cure Constipation.

A FAMOUS SCULPTOR.

Mrs. Theo Ruggles Kitson of Boston Has a Worldwide Reputation.

However unusual her endowments and training may have been, it is hard to believe that any young woman twenty-seven years of age could have attained a permanent position in one of the most difficult branches of art and achieved a worldwide fame as a sculptor. Nevertheless this is what Mrs. Theo Ruggles Kitson of Boston has accomplished, and an examination of the large number of works of surpassing artistic merit which Mrs. Kitson has created during a period of life when less accomplished artists are learning the technique of their vocation furnishes sufficient evidence that the future holds for her even greater successes than those which have already filled a brief past.

Mrs. Kitson's most recent work, a bronze statue of heroic size of the

MRS. THEO RUGGLES KITSON.

"Volunteer of '61," is a departure from the symbolic and decorative work with which most of her admirers are familiar. A notable exception, however, is the bronze statue of Admiral Esek Hopkins of American navy fame, now standing in the Hopkins park, Providence.

Mrs. Kitson was born in Brookline and began the actual study of modeling when fifteen years of age, though long before that time she had given promise of artistic ability. Her first instructor was Henry Hudson Kitson, the well known sculptor, whom she afterward married.

A little later Mrs. Kitson, then Theo Ruggles, studied drawing in Paris under Dagnan-Bouveret and Coutois. At the same time, alone and without any realization that she was developing her real vocation, she continued modeling in clay and during this period produced her first statue, "Young Orpheus." This was exhibited at the Salon, and its youthful creator, seventeen years of age, still in short dresses and wearing her hair in long braids down her back, received honorable mention. Indeed, she was the youngest person who ever received honors from the famous institution.

From this time on she devoted herself entirely to sculpture. In 1889 one of her first busts made from life was accepted by the Salon committee as the standard of sculpture in the American section of the Paris exposition.

Mrs. Kitson was represented at the World's fair by two statues symbolic of the forests of Michigan, "Pines" and "Oaks." These figures in bronze are now in the Museum of Fine Arts, Detroit.—Boston Herald.

Furnishing the Bedroom.

The bedroom, though primarily a place where one may get refreshing sleep—"sleep that knits up the raveled sleeve of care"—is also a place to dream in by day as well as by night, a place to rest in when one has an hour of leisure, a place, in short, sacred to oneself, where one may go, "the world forgetting, by the world forgot."

Its requisites, therefore, are comfort, a restful atmosphere and such beauty as may be.

Very handsome or elaborate furniture would seem out of place in a bedroom, and in no room are inharmonious combinations unbearable.

The most successful bedrooms are often found in unpretentious homes because there simplicity and taste must be used instead of expense.

The Japanese believe in banishing from the bedroom everything which is not r lly necessary to comfort.

All things useful they make as decorative as possible, but for mere ornament nothing is added, unless it be a vase containing flowers, arranged as only the Japanese can do.

Their custom will bear consideration by the housewife of our western world, for by this method the utmost neatness, simplicity and repose are possible.

Add beauty and daintiness, and little is left to be desired.

Bedrooms so appointed may be easily kept in order and free from dust, that foe to comfort and health.

A Suggestion For Parents.

What will be to many a new thought in regard to children is the suggestion made in Good Housekeeping that elders could add much to the happiness of children if, instead of painting the future very bright, the effort should be to lay stress on the joys that are theirs alone. It is suggested that if, instead of saying, "You may not do that now; wait until you are older," we would say, "You may do that now, while you are young; later you cannot do it, we could give our children a certain valued sense of prerogative and take away much of the envy they feel toward adults. It is surprising how many times in a day a mother finds occasion for saying, "Wait until you are older," or, "When you are older, you will understand." To continually talk in this strain gives the child the impression that he is of little importance until he has become a grownup. If we had been warned, "Ride your pony now, while you are small; by and by your legs will drag on the ground," every canter would have been precious. It is surely worth while to impress upon children the beauty and the privileges of their golden days. There is a deal of common sense in this criticism, says Vogue. As the writer later in her article says, very truly, a habit of anticipation is developed in the child which it is apt to carry through life and which forever interferes with its finding the day's happiness sufficient.

London's Fire Traps.

We are sure that if a practical enquiry were set on foot as to the extent of the provision generally made in the buildings of London for protection against fire an appalling conclusion would be reached. Several lives have been lost recently in London fires because there was no way of escape. London is undoubtedly swarming on all sides with death traps only ready to claim their victims when a fire has broken out. Every one is aware of the difficulties which have to be faced when the question of the efficient protection of life shut up in buildings in a congested area is approached. In probably the majority of buildings in London it is impossible even to escape to the roof and thence to gain a safe refuge on the adjoining premises. We know at least of one instance, that of well-known bank premises, in which the boundaries of the property are marked on the roof by ugly spiked fences. While it is true that even this way of escape is not easy, it is certain that in a greater number of instances no such thing as a fire ladder is available.

How painful and appalling the outcome can be is evident from the terrible results of the non-existence of any means of escape at a fire which occurred in the city on Monday last. The example is all the more remarkable since the fire broke out in broad daylight, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and within 300 yards of the chief city fire station. The first call, indeed, came to the brigade by a messenger on foot. In spite of the proximity of the rescue station, ten lives were sacrificed in this fire because there were no means of escape and because the rescue appliances could not reach the upper floors, where several poor operatives were in danger. The fire escapes were too short by a few feet. On the morning after the fire one of our representatives visited the scene, and he states that the building was not a remarkably high one, and not so high as thousands of others in London streets.

The fire brigade authorities must be aware of the length of their fire escapes, and they must surely also know the extreme height of the largest buildings in the metropolis, and yet in this instance the fire escape failed to reach the top floor of the building. Prima facie, there would seem to be divulged in this occurrence a distinct and serious defect in the machinery of the brigade.

POOR SEEDS.

We have run up against a lot of poor garden seeds this spring—not one sort, but several sorts. They were purchased from one of the most reliable seedhouses in the country, but for some unknown reason not over 50 per cent of the corn, beans, radishes, lettuce, beets, peas, lima beans and parsnips had vitality enough to germinate. This is a very aggravating thing. The complaint is quite general this spring and may have its origin in the abnormal heat and drought of last season. In this connection we might add that there is less complaint of poor seed corn for field planting than we have ever known before.

Have You Escaped Itching Piles?

If so, you are one of the Few Fortunate Ones; if not, you can be Cured by Using

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Piles or hemorrhoids are among the most common as well as the most torturing ailments that afflict humanity. The keen distress caused by the itching, especially when the body gets warm, is almost beyond the powers of description.

The very mention of Piles suggests Dr. Chase's Ointment as it is beyond denial the only actual cure for this loathsome disease. If you ask your doctor, your druggists or your friends what to use for piles they will in nine cases out of ten advise Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. A. Oliver, farmer, Deseronto, Ont., states: "I had itching piles in the worst form, and can now testify that Chase's Ointment is a sure and positive cure for this dreadful ailment. I tried several other remedies, but could obtain no benefit from them, but am now cured, and have no doubt that the credit for the cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

GRADING CREAM.

Practical Way of Handling a Disagreeable Matter.

However desirable it may be to grade milk according to sweetness and cleanliness and manufacture the grades separately, the obstacles are so great that it is practically impossible, for it naturally has to go through one weigh can, and it is more than the always rushed butter maker can do to run is through different separators, hold in different vats and churn in different batches. But with gathered cream the limitations are not so strict. The cream does not all come at once or come with a rush, and two cream vats will accommodate two grades of cream, permitting separate churning and separate packing, with comparatively little additional work.

To pay the same price for rancid cream as for sweet cream is manifestly unfair and ruinous to the whole business, says Creamery Journal. To absolutely reject all off grade cream will improve the grade of butter made. But off flavored cream has some value, although less value than good cream. Only three things are possible—mix all together and damage the whole churning, return the poor grade and lose the patronage and insure heavy loss to the patron, or grade and pay for each grade according to approximate value.

It takes a man with a trained nose and trained taste to grade cream. It can be done by mechanical tests, but practically the human senses are to be relied upon, and a man without these senses well developed is out of place in a creamery. We are speaking of gathered cream plants and believe that an ambition to get into the best class, best in honors and best in payment, can be stimulated among the patrons and that time put in showing the patron how he can get there and stay there will be very profitably spent. This is something more than theory, for it has been made an accomplished fact in so many cases that it must be acknowledged to be practical. We do not mean that grading cream, holding in different vats and churning separately have become everyday practices in creameries, but that keeping out the worst and churning it afterward can be done and that rushing direct for the home of a patron with a road horse and road cart has done wonders in improving the cream of these patrons. In all such cases the butter maker should not stop to argue or talk much, but speak to the point and leave at once without listening to excuses or recriminating palaver.

Buys Cows For Patrons.

A Salem (Or.) creamery operator has entered upon a plan for the development of the dairy interest of his neighborhood. Whenever he finds an industrious farmer who desires to purchase cows for a dairy herd, but who has not sufficient capital, the creamery man buys the necessary cows and then sells them to the farmer, taking a mortgage. This plan has been practiced previously by creamery men, notably large companies operating in Kansas, and has been found successful.

CHEESE MAKING

A hitherto unknown element in milk, a new ferment, has been discovered, called galactose, which is proving of value in the ripening of cheese. The properties of this ferment are similar to the secretion of the pancreatic organ in the human body. Old cheese is predigested food, and the digestion is wrought by the galactose. It was found that the galactose would go on working at very low temperatures, temperatures at which bacteria were practically inert. Cheese was put into refrigerators and kept frozen for months. Other cheese was kept just above the freezing point. It was found that the finest cheese is cured at from 40 to 45 degrees F. Practical cheese manufacturers had maintained that 50 degrees was the lowest temperature at which cheese could be worked without becoming bitter and worthless. The new discovery will, it is believed, revolutionize cheese manufacture, doing away with all curing rooms, the cheese being sent directly to the refrigerator.—Scribner's Magazine.

Geneva Investigating.

The Geneva experiment station is considering the causes that produce the ripening of cheese. The enzymes are the agents that break down the protein compounds and make cheese digestible by the human stomach. Bacterial changes seem to be intimately connected with chemical changes, and until the processes are known little progress can be made in scientific cheesemaking. Without this light advances will be made, but they will be more accidental than planned. Without this knowledge we find it practically impossible to develop cheese of uniform quality.—Dairy World.

A Convenient Cheesebox.

W. A. Simister, Ingersoll, Canada, has invented an improved cheesebox which is constructed to prevent ripping or splitting of the box. It is so arranged that both heads can be removed to allow of readily placing the cheese in the box. The heads are so locked in place that they can be conveniently removed to allow inspection from either end without destroying the box or injuring the cheese.

Loss In Cheese.

The factors controlling loss are amount of water originally present, the texture of the cheese, the size and shape of molds used, moisture present in the air of the curing room and the temperature of curing room. The last two are the most important, but can be quite easily controlled.

LIVING ON THE LAWN.

Outdoor Shelter—Grass Shacks and Bamboo Tepees—Sidarris.

Roof gardens and cozy corners are well enough for town, but spending one's days out of doors is this season's fad, although in some sections of the country Jupiter Pluvius has greatly interfered with the programme. All the accessories are to be had for a consideration, and the New York Herald tells what some of them are, as follows:

Many have already supplied themselves with grass shacks, or tepees, made of straw and bamboo, and this summer the most inviting vineclad summer house will have no attractions which can compete with the out of doors shelter. The tents, or shacks, are extremely light and therefore easy to move about on the lawn. One of the chief delights of this outdoor existence is that each day a change must be made in the location of the shelter.

An excellent lawn structure and one which is easily put up is that made of sidarris. First there is a square frame of bamboo laid upon four bamboo uprights, and across the top is fastened one of these oriental curtains. Each side is also covered with a sidarri, and these are so arranged that one, two or all may be rolled quite to the top without much trouble.

Sidarris are made of very fine horizontal strips of bamboo woven together with grass, and, while they are sufficiently heavy to serve as a screen from the sun, they possess the great advantage of admitting air. They are so woven that one is practically in the open air without being made uncomfortable.

The grass tufted earth serves as a carpet, though some furniture must be brought out to give the shelter a habitable appearance. Blankets are necessary, for occasionally the ground is too damp to sit upon without some such protection. Pillows will also add to the general comfort, and a nap in the open air on one of these is the perfection of summer joys.

The Return of the Cradle.

The child is susceptible, absorbing both good and bad. Give him the opportunity, and he will find the means. Some one must care for him, and with wisdom. If you would have perfect contentment as well as discipline, return the cradle from the attic to the nursery. The theory of the injury to a child from rocking is without foundation. On the contrary, the results are positively beneficial. The nursery is destitute without the cradle. The future welfare of the child also is dependent upon it. There is talk of an increased nervousness among children of today. If they had the cradle to soothe their weary nerves, this might not be the case. The cradle can do no harm and may do a great deal of good. —Dr. Maurice Hunt.

When Children Begin to Walk.

Experiments upon 1,220 children show that 95½ per cent begin to walk under the age of twenty-four months, a little over half begin under fourteen months, one-third begin under twelve months, and 10 per cent begin under ten months. Three babies out of the whole number began to walk under eight months.

To Clean Pewter.

To clean pewter make a strong solution of soda and water; add a few drops of oil of tartar and thicken with sand. With this scour the pewter thoroughly, and then, after wiping dry, finish by polishing it with a chamois leather dipped in whiting.

Many people think it a waste of time to iron stockings, but if they once find out the difference between darning ironed and unironed stockings they will speedily change their ideas.

SMART COATS.

sketched can be found. It is one of the new, full sacks of smartest build, the back, of which a special sketch is given, showing an absolutely new departure in cut. The fronts are very slightly double breasted, so that the coat can be equally well worn open or closed, and the neck is finished by stitched strappings, the upper one being of silk or velvet. The bell shaped sleeve with turnback cuff is the finishing point.

Hamilton's Pills cure Constipation.

Delicious Tea Cakes.

Beat to a cream two cupfuls of sugar, a cupful of butter and an egg, add a cupful of milk and stir it well through the other ingredients; grate in a little nutmeg. Sift into a bowl three cupfuls of flour, or a little more if necessary to make the dough stiff enough to roll out, with two heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder; then add the flour to the other mixture, a little at a time, stirring briskly to keep the flour from lumping. When the flour is all in, if the dough is stiff enough to roll out dust the pastry board well with flour, turn the dough out of the bowl and roll it out very thin. Cut out in little shapes with a cutter, lay them on well greased baking tins and bake in a quick oven. While the cakes are hot sprinkle the top of them with sugar.

Health and Hope.

"He who has health has hope; and he who has hope has everything." But hope flees at the approach of kidney disease with the dreadful pains which accompany it. With the the flesh gradually failing, the back aching, and the despair which often comes to victims of this ailment, only the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will restore hope, confidence and health. One pill a dose; 25c a box.

CORN FOR FODDER CROP.

We are asked about corn for a purely fodder crop. It's a big thing and hard to beat. We prefer the fore part of June for planting. Drill in a bushel of seed per acre (better more than less), plant regulation width and aim to give the crop two cultivations. There will be nubbins on the stalks so planted, the stalks will be tall and slim and may be cut, bound and shocked with a corn harvester, and if properly put up an acre of good corn land will thus furnish four tons or more of the best fodder on earth, every particle of which will be eaten by the stock. Where the land can be spared this is even a better way than to cut up the field corn, as it is so much nicer to handle. Try it for the dairy.

A Matter of Form.

"Does she wear corsets through necessity?"

"No. It's merely a matter of form."—Town Topics.

The Root of the Trouble.

It surprises some people when you tell them their nervous trouble is caused by a defective liver. Liver trouble causes constipation. Next comes dyspepsia, then impure blood with heart strain, and the result is nerve trouble. Merrill's System Tonic is a positive cure for liver trouble and constipation, and in this way remove the cause of other ills. 50c. per bottle at Ormond & Walsh's.

SWINE.

Class XII.— Pigs were exhibited by G W Mann, W A Hall, W A McIlmoyle, F E Kline, S W McKibbon, W Hampton, J Fairbairn, W Young, G Nicholls, E G and A J Millen.

There was a small but a good display of poultry.

INTERIOR EXHIBITS.

The exhibition in the skating rink was a very creditable one in all the classes, grain, especially wheat, being well represented.

Wheat was shown in large abundance. There was also a good display of dairy products—butter and cheese. Roots and vegetables made a fine showing and there was a good array of potted flowers. The exhibition of fancy work, both in variety and excellence, was unique. The public spirit of the villagers was shown in the commercial display, a number of the merchants making attractive exhibits.

AMONG THE FLIERS.

The speeding events, as usual, attracted a great deal of attention—indeed may be said to have monopolized attention. The people of the vicinity tributary to this exhibition take a great interest in horse flesh, and, next to having a good horse themselves, delight in seeing the speeding cracks of others at work.

The events were run off with great smoothness, and at times with no little excitement among the contestants.

In the Free-for-All, trot or pace, winners were:

Nigger, Dr. Johnston	1	1	2	1
Boxer, C. J. Geo. Ray	4	2	1	2
Wiry Jim, W. Calder	2	3	3	3
Maggie Bell, Geo. Bell	3	4	4	4

The novelty race was between Maggie Bell and Wiry Jim. The conditions were that the horses be unhitched in front of the starter and facing the sulky, then hitched, trotted once, walked once, and trotted a second time around the track, then finish as started before the stand. Won by Wiry Jim.

For best lady drivers, there were six entries, and the prizes went first, second and third as follows:—Miss Fitzgerald, Miss Ella Garbutt and Mrs. Nathan McIlmoyle.

In the hurdle race the winners were Fred Milburn, Snelgrove, and ——.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

Among quite a number of interesting inside exhibits, attention is directed to the following, which are well worthy of special mention;

SINGER SEWING MACHINES.

Just inside the main entrance there was a jam around the exhibit of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, made by the local agent, Mr. J. W. Stuart. He was kept explaining to the ladies the merits of a handy and compact drop cabinet machine, and two other handsome drop-head, five-drawer machines. Mr. Stuart gave interesting exhibitions of the wide range of work done by the Singer, and was besieged for pretty ribbon-bordered fans which he trimmed on the machine, with ease and rapidity. Mr. Stuart's office is in Lakefield, but his territory extends north of Peterborough and as far back as Coe Hill.

BICKELL'S FURNITURE EXHIBIT.

This was an excellent collection of modern high class furniture, and added much interest to the interior displays. Mr. Bickell showed a unique quarter oak sideboard, with a handsome elliptical mirror, and a toilet stand in quarter oak; also a swell front oak sideboard, with top shelves, which was sold. He also showed a beautiful parlour suite in five pieces, upholstered in floral decorated red and green velours covering. Fashionable oak dining chairs, hand carved, with saddle seats, were also shown, and several attractive easy and reclining chairs. It is not too much to say that the entire exhibit reflected great credit on Mr. Bickell's enterprise and was a good indication of the superior class of furniture which is kept in stock in his store.

GRAFTON'S FINE CLOTHING.

The visitor's attention was next arrested by the well-displayed and representative exhibit by Messrs. Grafton & Co., of Peterborough. Everyone who passed through the building could not fail to see it, and admire it. It was a representative display of up-to-date styles of men and boys' ready-to-wear high grade garments and occupied, perhaps, the very best position in the building. Their display of superior clothing for men and youths, and boys, was worth seeing — and seeing goes a long way towards buying. There was a careful selection of the different styles of garments contained in their regular stock on sale at their store in Peterborough, and the requirements of all ages were well represented.

The display was tastefully arranged under the superintendence of Mr. Jos. Maher. Throughout the building, on the fences and buildings of the show grounds, and the precincts of the Fair, the large coloured lithographs of the firm were prominently displayed, and every pains was taken to placard the town effectively. This firm offered three special prizes for the best teams of general purpose horses in harness and wagon, which brought out quite a number of close contestants.

THE SHARPLESS CREAM SEPARATOR.

Farmers and dairymen crowded round the different cream separators shown at this Fair. Prominent among them was the Sharpless Tubular Separator, which claims a superiority over anything else exhibited. There are no discs in the machine, and it will skim closer than any disc style can possibly do. It stands low, about waist high, so that no difficulty is experienced in pouring in the milk, and this in itself is a good improvement. But probably its most important feature is the ease with which it can be kept clean. There are only three pieces to the bowl and it can be thoroughly and completely washed inside of five minutes. The absence of complicated machinery makes it safe and easy to run, and a child can turn it with one hand. Easily and safely worked, easily cleaned and practically an absolute separation of the cream is what the Sharpless guarantees. And this without any reference to the age or temperature of the milk. Mr. Geo. Dunford is the general agent for Ontario, and is a practical man well versed in his business.

GOUGH BROS.' BIG DISPLAY.

The magnetism of a name is irresistible. The dauntless Gough Bros. never sleep on their oars. The same far-sighted policy which has made this firm's business grow bigger and bigger year after year, is the same policy still. They plan months ahead of time, and with every new season, at every country and township fair the planning is on the same scale of progression. They made a big display at the Lakefield Show, and added another triumph to their reputation as extensive buyers of ready-to-wear clothing and gentlemens' furnishings. The firm secured a good position for their exhibit, which was prominently displayed right at the thoroughfare to the show grounds. The samples of their great fall stock was well shown, and their good values conspicuously ticketed. The multiplicity of styles shown gave a good idea of the vastness of their stock.

Messrs. R. Begley and J. McFadden had charge of the display and were industrious in circulating Gough's advertising literature to the crowds who hung constantly around the display. A gramaphone in the hands of Prof. McCabe kept the constant attention of the crowds as it rolled off the catchiest of airs and speeches from the cylinders.

THE DeLAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS

Two of these celebrated Cream Separators were shown by the Peterborough agents. The DeLaval has received nearly two thousand prizes, medals, awards and diplomas, during the twenty years they have been before the public. Every buttermaker, big or little, should learn all about the DeLaval, and its splendid record before buying a separator. It has extensive claims and advantages and these cannot be fully understood without the valuable information which may be ascertained by making enquiries from the agents. If anyone wants to know the practical experience of some of the farmers of this county with the DeLaval, they are referred to the following who have become purchasers:—E. Hair, Otonabee; R. M. Garbutt, Smith; R. Booth, North Monaghan; W. McBain, Cavan; W. Fee, Cavanville; A. Matchett, Otonabee; D. Crowe, Warsaw; Central Smith Dairy Factory and Warsaw Dairy Factory.

Messrs. Nesbitt & Storey, dealers in agricultural implements, etc., whose warerooms are on Water street, are the agents for the DeLaval in Peterborough.

A Kingston despatch says; Palmer, late of the Granites, and the best flying wing in Canadian Rugby, has gone to Ottawa, where he will play with the College team. Wonder if the Quebec Union does not recognize the C.A.A.U.

* * * *

Reg. Parmenter, than whom no better wing man exists, has also retired from the game. He will shortly go to Vancouver to practise law.

* * * *

Harold Beatty, who played halfback for Toronto University last year has announced his intention of quitting the game this year at least, owing to the pressure of his studies.

Queen's Rugby teams began practice on Tuesday. The turnout was quite satisfactory as the team has four weeks in which to get into shape.

* * * *

Yearly the reports from Montreal at the beginning of the season tell of large and well attended practices but still when the season winds up it finds either of the Montreal teams failing to win the championship. Ottawa College is apparently their Jonah.

* * * *

Another practice match has been arranged between the T.A.S. and the Peterborough team, to take place on the Nicholls oval on Saturday afternoon. The match should be a big drawing card as much interest is being manifested in Rugby in town.

* * * *

The Peterboroughs are getting into excellent shape and the nightly practices in the drill shed have commenced. Last night Captain McPherson had a goodly number out, and gave them a good coaching. Hurtubise was out for the first time, and gave promise of doing excellent work. "Tick" Thornton is very enthusiastic, and goes into the game with great spirit. Rickey was out for the first time, and may be tried out at quarter, while Dillon and Noble were also on hand. Among the new men this season who were out were Howe and Johnston of the Bank of Commerce, Vic Hamilton, Harry Morgan, Bert Cameron, Craig and several others.

Ferguson, last year with St. Andrew's College, is being tried at quarter by the Argonauts.

* * * *

Ottawa College has called in three policemen to help them win the championship again. That institution has not yet seen its way clear to enter the Intercollegiate Rugby Union, and play only college men. The fact is that only for the outsiders, Ottawa College would never have won a championship.—Kingston Whig.

For the first time since the organization of the Ontario Rugby Football Union in 1891, Kingston is without a senior team under that body's jurisdiction. This season there are only three O.R.F.U. teams—Ottawa Rough Riders, Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tigers. The season begins on October 4, when Argonauts play at Hamilton. The sympathy of Kingston is with the Tigers, and for them we'll raise our hollers.—Kingston Whig.

Toronto Telegram: Things are not as they should be in the O.R.F.U. There are four teams, Ottawa City, College, Brockville and Kingston—all in Ontario and two of them in the Quebec Union, while a third city purposes joining that body next year. These four should make a division of the O.R.F.U. They are all within speaking distance and should be grouped together in a section of the O.R.F.U. by themselves for the preliminary games.

* * * *

A meeting of the sub-committee of the Executive of the O.R.F.U. will be held on Friday afternoon at 3.30 in the Rossin House for the purpose of allotting junior districts and drawing up the schedules. Clubs wishing to enter should make application to Secretary F. W. Woodworth, Mail and Empire.

Kingston will have five junior clubs in the O.R.F.U. series this fall.

* * * *

Queen's new athletic grounds will be ready for football matches in about three weeks.

* * * *

The Argonauts will play a practice match with the Torontos, at Rosedale on Saturday afternoon.

* * * *

Ottawa announces that they will turn their attention towards developing new players rather than to chasing after stars.

Y. M. C. A. GYMNASTICS.

The Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium will be formally opened on the night of the reception to young men, Sept. 30th, when a basket-ball match will be played between the Reds and Blues, the two teams who are battling for supremacy in the membership contest. The battle will be hardly fought if canvassing can be a criterion to judge.

POLO.

Mr. Harry Rush, jr., who last week returned from a visit to Rochester, Buffalo and other American cities, came home charmed with the game of polo which is now becoming so popular. Mr. Rush took keen observations on the game and has announced his intentions of organizing a polo club in Peterborough. Lovers of polo will wish Mr. Rush success in his efforts.

Granolithic Pavements for the Principal Street.

Keene is progressing. The citizens have decided to add to the portions of granolithic in front of private property, pavement from one end to the other of Mountain street, the chief thoroughfare of the village. To be consistent, and to show that they are willing to act in concert in the matter they propose to pay for the pavement by the proceeds of public concerts. With water power convenient, there is nothing serious to prevent the maintenance of a few electric street lights in the village, which has the natural advantages permitting it to be made one of the most beautiful hamlets in the country.

LYNCHING DISCLOSURES.

(Buffalo Express.)

Some interesting details are published regarding the indictment of 25 white men in Attala county, Miss., for the lynching of two negroes. The crime occurred about a month ago. The investigation showed that the only offence of which the negroes were accused was that of making an insulting remark about some white man, and it appeared that they were not guilty even of that. Yet they had been shot to death by a mob of more than 100 men. Now that the authorities have taken hold of the case, they find it necessary to guard carefully all witnesses lest these be killed or spirited away. Most of the witnesses are negroes—another circumstance of some importance. It seems almost inconceivable that a whole community could reach such a state of mind that it would wish to lynch men for insulting somebody in word only. The most plausible explanation of the fact probably is that in this community the whites have never yet come to realize that it is a crime to kill a negro. They evidently still look on this kind of murder much as they did before the war, when the negro was still a chattel. The immunity from punishment which lynchers have enjoyed for so long in Mississippi is well calculated to develop this idea. That is why punishment in this case is of especial importance, though its effect probably will not go farther than to create an impression that it is an offence to lynch a negro without at least accusing him of having committed some serious crime.

A PROLIFIC PEA.

The Tavistock Gazette reports that Mr. Edward Kruspe when planting beans in his garden in the spring found one pea among them, so into the ground it went. Result—Sixty-two pods of peas. Farmers say that an average of nine pods per vine is a good yield in a vine, so the yield of that one pea is phenomenal. With an average of seven peas to the pod the increase for this single pea is nearly five hundred fold.

A Complete Hospital.

That's what Merrill's System Tonic is. It is one of the most powerful blood purifiers and the best bowel regulator known, besides being a muscular and nerve tonic. LYING IN HER BLOOD.

Mrs. Franks, An Elderly Widow, Beaten to Death.

A TRAGEDY AT CHIPPEWA, ONT.

The Motive Evidently Robbery — Her House Ransacked and Money Missing —Discovery of the Gruesome Crime —Horrible Appearance of the Victim of Man's Cruelty—Inquest to Continue Monday.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 26.—The most brutal murder that has occurred on the Canadian Niagara Frontier took place some time Wednesday evening in the village of Chippewa. The victim was a Mrs. Jessie Fleming Franks, a well-known resident of this village, who has resided in the village since girlhood. Her lifeless form was found lying in a pool of her own blood clotted on the floor of her bedroom yesterday morning. Her brains were battered out.

Mrs. Franks, who was a widow about 50 years of age, moved into J. F. Macklem's old homestead last spring. It was in this house she met her death.

During the summer Mrs. Franks kept one or two boarders, but the past two or three weeks she has been living alone in her own apartments, her only income being some $15 sent by a brother, who is located in the States. On the left of the hall or north side of the house are two large rooms, one used as a bedroom and another as a sitting room by Miss Thomas, who is about 50 years of age. As Miss Thomas is a distant relative of Thomas Macklem she lived during the day and ate her meals at his residence. She would come to her apartments about 10 o'clock each evening accompanied by someone from the Macklem home a short distance away.

Wednesday afternoon Miss Thomas spent the afternoon in Buffalo, returning in the evening. She went directly to Thomas Macklem's home, and about 10.15, accompanied by Mr. Macklem went to her apartments. On arriving there they found no light burning. Mr. Macklem lighted several matches, but was unable to find the lamp in either room. They went out into the hall, lighted more matches, and then rapped on the door leading to Mrs. Franks' parlor. They saw and heard nothing of Mrs. Franks and concluded she had gone out to spend the night at some of the villagers' houses. Coming back to Miss Thomas' apartment she felt timid to remain alone in the house and returned with Mr. Macklem to his house, where she remained all night.

Yesterday morning wishing the use of her spectacles, and remembering she had left them in her handbag on the bed, she and Mrs. Thomas Macklem went over to the rooms about 9 o'clock. Upon the two ladies entering they noticed that the top drawer of her dresser was partly open with the lock, which she had always kept locked, wrenched off and although several pieces of jewelry was thrown upside down in the drawer, none of it was missing. A large trunk that stood in the sitting room had the lock pried off and the contents turned upside down. Several old spade guineas were not touched, but one American five dollar gold piece was missing, and under a table was an old ax, which evidently had been used to pry open the trunk.

The ladies, realizing that the apartments had been ransacked, went and informed Mr. Herber, a store-keeper near by, who returned with them. After examining their apartments, he went into Mrs. Franks' apartments, and there saw a most horrible sight. He discovered the body of Mrs. Franks lying just inside of her bedroom door, leading from the parlor. One foot was caught on the south door jam. Her dress was almost around her waist, and the left sleeve of her shirt waist was pulled completely off. Her naked arm bore bloody finger marks. In the middle of her forehead, leading down from the roots of her hair to almost between her eyes was a deep gash, while the top of her head was completelt battered in, and a portion of her brains were oozing out. A stream of clotted blood flowed inwards towards the parlor.

There was another pool of blood on the floor, with a portion of the woman's brains and her broken spectacles and black haircomb. The wall in the north side of the room was spattered with blood near the bottom. Just east and under a writing stand in this corner of the room was another small pool of blood and everything indicated that the poor victim had made a most desperate struggle for life against big odds. Apparently the murderer dragged her bleeding form from the northwest corner across the parlor floor and partly into the bedroom, and there let it lay. Going out to the kitchen he took a table towel off a clothes rack, wiped blood on it either from his hands or clothing and left the house through the window on the south side, or as he came into the house from the rear through the storm house, kicked in the back door of the hall, wrecking the lock fastening from its place. The muddy footprints are quite plain on the floor.

The hour of the revolting and brutal murder is placed between 6 and 7 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Mrs. James Office, who lives in another house to the rear of Mrs. Franks' house, claims she heard a pounding noise about 8 p. m.

As soon as Mr. Herber made the discovery, he notified Village Constable Lymburner, who at once notified Chief Mains of the Ontario police. These two officers are working hard on the case.

Coroner McGarry empanelled a jury, who, after viewing the dead woman and premises, adjourned until next Monday.

MORE MINERS' BLOOD SHED.

Hungarians at the Mines Taste Blood, and Murder a Man While on Way to Work.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 26.—James Winston, aged 48 years, was killed, and his son-in-law, I. J. Lewis, was severely injured by a gang of Hungarian strikers, who waylaid them on their way to work at Grassy Island colliery of the Delaware & Hudson Co., yesterday. The affair took place half a mile from and almost within sight of the camp of the 13th Regiment at Olyphant. Lewis got away, but Winston had his skull crushed with a club and fell unconscious. While he lay prostrate and dying, the crowd jumped on him, kicked him in the face and beat him with clubs. After dancing about their victim, clapping their hands and singing, the crowd left him. Winston was carried home by William Doyle, a non-union man, and Mrs. Doyle, who witnessed the murder. Harry Sinrock, Thomas Priston and Harry Simrock, Thomas Priston and Harry Leged to have committed the actual crime, have fled.

Mrs. George Marshall, colored, wife of the proprietor of a hotel at Jessup, armed with a shot gun, safely escorted a hunted non-union man through a crowd of 100 strikers, from the hotel to the Sterrick Creek colliery stockade, late last night. When the crowd began to avenge itself by bombarding the hotel, Mrs. Marshall fired on the nearest group and peppered a dozen men with bird shot. This scattered the mob.

A company from the 13th Regiment was called yesterday morning to disperse a crowd which was tearing up tracks at the Pan-Coast colliery, in Throop. Last evening a crowd of strikers threw stones at non-union men who were being escorted home from work in Forest City. The soldiers loaded their guns, and the commander said he would have given the word to fire if another stone was thrown. The crowd melted away.

Armed While Working.

Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 26.—There was some stray firing in the vicinity of the American Iron and Steel Company's plant last night, but no one was injured. Pickets are stationed about the plant. The colored puddlers are still at work, but some are so badly scared that they declare they will leave town if the soldiers are withdrawn. They live in temporary buildings inside a stockade on the company's property, and nearly all are armed with revolvers and shot guns.

Coal Being Mined.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 26. — From Wednesday morning until last evening the Philadelphia & Reading Co.'s reports show that it has brought down 160 carloads, or 4,800 tons of coal. The company is accumulating the coal now being produced in the Western Schuylkill region, and about 10,000 tons of washery and mined coal is promised by the end of the week.

The Riot Reports Lie.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 26.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers' of America, in a long distance telephone message to The News, yesterday from Wilkes-Barre, said:

"The press reports of lawlessness in the strike region are greatly exaggerated. There has been no serious outbreak. There have been individual acts of lawlessness, but nothing that has approached concerted moves on the part of the strikers. There is no reign of terror, and the miners are conducting themselves as peacefully as when the strike started. It is not for me to criticize the State authorities in sending troops to the strike region, but I do not see any more need for troops now than there was the day the strike began. The miners are standing firm, and I can see no evidence of weakening on their part. Every day non-union miners are quitting the mines and joining forces with us."

2,759 Soldiers in the Field.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 26.—State troops now in the field are distributed as follows:

Luzerne County, 9th	700
Schuylkill County, 8th	500
Schuylkill County, 4th	110
Schuylkill County, city troop	62
Carbon County, 12th	280
Lebanon County, 12th	270
Total	2,759

Eight companies of the Fourth Regiment, the only ones of the Third Brigade not yet in the field, will, according to General Gobin's plans, be called out to-day, together with Battery C, of Phoenix.

Blew Up Hotel With Dynamite.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The Golden Eagle Hotel, on the corner of New Jersey avenue and D street, was dynamited early yesterday morning, it is alleged, by Frank McKee, one of the guests, who subsequently committed suicide. Between twenty and thirty guests were thrown from their beds by the explosion, but only the proprietor, Louis Brandt, and his wife were injured, the latter seriously. The roof of the building was blown off, and the falling wreckage crashed through to the basement, leaving the structure as if wrecked by a tornado.

Earthquake Kills Hundreds.

Berlin, Sept. 26.—A despatch received here from Tashkent, the capital of Russian Turkestan, reports a terrible earthquake Aug. 22, the shocks continuing until Sept. 23. One hundred persons were killed at Kasghar, in Eastern Turkestan, 400 in the village of Astya, 20 at Jangi, while the town of Akaulsitche was completely destroyed.

THE PEOPLE TO OWN THE PEOPLE'S COAL.

There is a demand in some quarters, in view of the way coal is ground between the upper and nether millstone of labour and capital into a dust so impalpable that it escapes the grasp of the would-be consumer, that the Government take possession of and operate the hard coal mines of Pennsylvania. There might be an excess of paternalism in carrying out such a proposition, but the conditions that now prevail would seem to justify the taking of a course like that suggested. No matter upon whom the burden of blame lies, capital or labour, neither separately or both combined, should allow the source of an imperative household necessity, to be locked up to the loss and annoyance, if not, indeed, suffering, of millions who have no direct interest in the strike, and are inclined under the smart of the annoyance to which they are subjected, to exclaim "a plague o' both your houses." When we see to what straits private ownership of an article of national domestic necessity can subject the country, we can subscribe more heartily to the following from the Toronto Star.

Time will show the wisdom of the Dominion Government in setting apart fifty square miles of the coal lands of the Northwest as Government property. The coal can lie there for the present. It is not needed, and will not be for a longt ime to come; but it is there, it belongs to the state, and some day it can be mined by the people, and for the people, if need be.

The Crow's Nest Coal Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway, have larger coal areas, but they have not better coal than that preserved under Hon. Clifford Sifton's policy, to remain the property of the State. The Socialists argue that all the coal should have been held in behalf of the people, and mined by the Government; but practically speaking, this is not yet possible, and will not be until the advocates of public ownership of all the utilities and necessities are in a voting majority in Canada. Half of those who follow the cause fall weak at the heart when the time comes to actually lay hold on something that may be owned and operated.

But the publicly owned coal fields of the West will always serve in a measure as a check upon the company-owned mines, and one day they will be worked by the State, for people grow too wise to part with further property of that kind once its value is within popular knowledge. When the West is filled with people the retention by the State of control over the coal supply will be seen to be one of the best pieces of practical statesmanship in Canadian history.

AT THE TRADES AND LABOUR CONGRESS.

A local M.P.P., who made a strong political speech at the Trades and Labour banquet in Berlin, was replied to most eloquently and effectually by Ralph Smith, M.P., former president. The former argued that high protection had been the salvation of the working man, just as Mr. Whitney has argued the same thing in the Legislature. Mr. Smith went into the history of the country fully, and challenged almost every statement of the local politician, and carried the workingman with him. Their full answer to the higher tariff speech will be found in this resolution passed by the Trades and Labour Congress;

"That whereas, the Manufacturers' Association has declared its intention to seek an increase in the tariff, and whereas the injury and oppression of industry comes not from the various industries offering to exchange riches for riches, but from the extorion to which labour is subjected by the holders of the land, the forestaller, the trusts, and other natural opportunities; therefore, this congress would condemn any increase in the tariff, and would urge that taxes be removed as soon as possible from those values which now enable non-production to impoverish industry."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The news columns of our newspapers in regard to the coal strike are as unreliable as the political pages of the Mail and Empire. In one column is a paragraph stating positively that the coal strike is over, and in the next column is a statement that the strike will last till next summer.

Thursday, October 16, the day fixed for Thanksgiving, is, the Ottawa Journal thinks, a good date — a heap better than a date at which people have forgotten about the harvest in thinking of preparations for the advent of winter. The Government is to be congratulated on placing the holiday in October.

A citizen of Stratford states that the probable reason why Major Maude has decided that aldermen are not "dignitaries" was because he heard a Stratford alderman say to the Prince of Wales when in that city last year: "I met your old man here forty years ago." The Prince thought it was funny, but Major Maude was reduced to a state of maudlin dismay at the hearing of such plebician audacity.

The Brooklyn Eagle has a cartoon showing "Canada" as a cow that has got through the boundary fence into Uncle Sam's field marked "Alaska," and Farmer Sam is saying to Farmer John Bull to please remove his cow. In the cartoon John Bull isn't saying word, which doesn't seem natural. What he would say if the cartoonist had given him half a chance, the Toronto Star suggests, would be: "It isn't the cow that needs to be moved, but the fence."

EDUCATION BY MAIL.

One of the Yankee inventions that was laughed at by the world at large was what is called "education by mail." In a few years correspondence schools, which undertake to teach men and women how to become doctors, lawyers, shorthand writers, business men, engineers, machinists, telegraphers, and a host of other things, have sprung up in the large cities of the union, and have done a thriving business. People used to the old idea of colleges and universities and regular attendance thereon, scoffed at the idea of teaching people by mail. The result proves the contrary. These concerns have been an immense success, and go to show that there is always something new to learn as we grow older. The moral of the whole thing, as far as Canada is concerned, is that we ought to have some similar kind of schools in the Dominion, conducted by Canadians, and not to have, as we now have, a number of Canadians connecting themselves with these schools on the other side. Mr. Russell Doubleday, in the World's Work, for September, has gone very carefully into the question, and his researches have led him to approve of the scheme. Here are some extracts from his article;

"The new method of instruction, (it is hardly 15 years old) has become a recognized factor in the business world, and has given an uplift to the whole body of wage-earners. If a workman is studying by correspondence, a subject which helps to make him more valuable to his employer, the interest of the latter is aroused, and the man's chances of advancement are greatly increased. In fact many firms employing skilled labour encourage their men by offering correspondence school scholarships at reduced rates, and by promising them advancement, to take up courses that will enable them to do a higher grade of work or fit them for superintending positions. Motormen on trolley lines have become electrical engineers; coal passers, a grade of labour lower than firemen, have become engineers of standing through the education gained by home study directed by correspondence. Often an entirely new line of work has been entered; dry goods clerks have become consulting chemists; stenographers have become linguists and translators; messenger boys have learned to keep books and conduct cashiers' desks! — all through self-education conducted by correspondence. Many hundreds of thousands have already completed courses, and several hundreds of thousands are now at work. Very ingenious are some of the methods employed to teach some of the subjects. It would seem to be impossible to teach languages satisfactorily, yet the writer heard at one school the reproduction of the voice of a student in California, who had been studying but two months. The accent, as far as the hearer could judge, was well nigh perfect, for the teacher could make but two corrections; this student had no personal knowledge whatever. He got his knowledge of the language (German), sound, construction and accent, entirely from the instruction books and the phonographic letters of the correspondence school."

In conclusion Mr. Doubleday asserts that education by mail is but just beginning. "That it will take the place of schools and colleges," he declares, "is not to be thought of, but there is no doubt that it helps great numbers of people, and especially people who work."—Toronto World.

VAST WEALTH IN THE CORUNDUM.

Discovery of a Process of Extracting Aluminum From the Ore Would More Than Double the Profits.

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—Archibald Blue, Chief Census Commissioner, who, as an officer of the Ontario Government, had a good deal to do with the policy adopted to encourage a development of the corundum deposits in this Province, visited last week the region of Renfrew and Hastings Counties, where this mineral is being worked.

He found one deposit which at less than the present price of the mineral ought to yield over twelve million dollars.

"What particularly struck me," remarked Mr. Blue, "was the even larger money that could be made out of these deposits if a process were discovered for extracting the aluminum that the formation contains. The corundum contains fifty-three per cent. aluminum, which would yield, if it could be separated, at least twice as much money as the corundum now brings for grinding purposes. In my judgment, the Ontario Government would be justified in offering a considerable reward—even thirty, forty, or fifty thousand dollars—for the discovery of a process by which the aluminum can be economically separated. We could then be able in this Province to control the corundum and aluminum markets of the world. The materials from which aluminum is now taken are not nearly so rich in the mineral as corundum. The Canadian Corundum Company is itself endeavouring to ascertain a process by which this desirable end may be attained, but a Government reward would stimulate experiment, while the Province would itself reap therefrom a rich profit in the value the extensive corundum deposits on Crown lands would attain."

VALUE OF TESTIMONY.

Greater Than Assertion.

There are none of us so hardened but that when we have been able to aid our fellow creatures by conferring a benefit or bringing a little comfort into their lives we like to have appreciation shown. This generally affords more pleasure than the performance of the act itself, and in this connection the following letter from a Paris, Texas, lady is of more than usual interest: "Dear friends,—I address you as such, for you have been such to me. I suffered for three years off and on with piles. I was treated at the hospital, and the new and eleagnt hospital, of Memphis; they only gave me temporary relief. I came west, thinking the change of air and water would benefit me; five months ago the bleeding piles came back on me, and bled so much that I thought I would die. I have had four of the finest doctors in this section of Texas; all they did was to finally nearly let me go to my grave; all they wanted was a big sum of money from me and to operate on me. I said no, no surgeon's knife would enter me; if it was my time to die God knew it, and when I died I would die all together. I had no faith in you, but I sent and got a box of your Pyramid Pile Cure; in two days the blood flow had slackened to one-half the amount, and in one week I felt so much better I walked four blocks and did a little housework. I was not bleeding then; in three weeks I was well. God bless you for putting such a wonderful medicine within the reach of suffering men and women. I shall never cease to recommend your medicine one or be without it; also I used your Pyramid Pills. Sallie A. Hearndon." Testimony like this should be more convincing than all claims and assertions, and should leave no doubt in the mind of the reader as to the merit of the remedy. Hold Up at Toronto Junction.

Toronto Junction, Sept. 25. — J. Vance, a resident of East Dundas street, was waylaid on the Keele street commons near the Canada Cycle and Motor Works at a late hour last night, and two thugs went through his pockets. Vance had been doing a little work on the town voters' list and was returning home by a short cut, when two men sprung from out of the bushes and began to beat him into insensibility. He carries a gash on his forehead, an abraison on his nose and a cut in his cheek as a result of the blows dealt him. All the papers from his inside pockets were taken, together with everything else they contained. Immediately after getting their booty which was in no way valuable, the miscreants ran off, taking care all the time that Vance did not get such a sight of them as to be able to recognize them again.

An attempt at his rescue was threatened, but the police shut Mr. O'Donnell in the waiting room of the railroad station.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—One year for forgery and a fine of $50 or six months additional imprisonment was the sentence meted out yesterday to Rudolphe Hetu, the deputy returning officer in St. James' Division. His Lordship Judge Ouimet's address to Hetu before pronouncing sentence was not long, but it was much to the point, and it indicated that the next man brought before him for sentence for a similar election fraud will get the maximum.

TARTE AT STRATHROY

The Minister Opens the West Middlesex Fair.

HE LOOKS AHEAD FOR 10 YEARS.

Marvellous Things May Happen in Canada in That Time—Premier Ross Also Speaks—The Canadian Tariff, He Says, Must Be Made to Suit the Canadian People—Business, Not Retaliation.

Strathroy, Sept. 26.—The rich agricultural district which comprises West Middlesex is justly proud of its Fall Fair, which ranks as one of the best of its class in the Dominion. The Fair of 1902, which from the number of entries and general excellence of the exhibits is fully up the the high standard set in former years, was formally opened by Hon. J. I. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, yesterday. He was escorted by Mr. W. S. Calvert, M.P., and Mr. J. P. Grigg, President of the Fair Board, to the grand stand.

Mr. Calvert, M.P., read an address welcoming Mr. Tarte to Strathroy. Hon. Mr. Tarte expressed his hearty thanks for the flattering address, and said it was a pleasure to him to be at the Fair. An Exhibition such as he saw around him was a fine education for both farmers and manufacturers. He congratulated his friend, Hon. Mr. Ross, for the manly stand he has taken on the question of the export of wood, and assured him his course has been admired in the Province of Quebec, Ontario possessed at Guelph one of the most advanced and best agricultural schools on the continent. The Government to which he belonged had, he said, done the best they could to develop the resources of the country. The country was progressing, and we have only to be true to Canada to see within the next ten years marvellous things. Our neighbors to the south are bigger people—and he was very much afraid that they had a swelled head at times—and think they are powerful enough to swallow everybody. We are not as big as they are, but he believed they cannot choke us. (Applause.) They cannot do it if we are true to our country and to ourselves. Mr. Tarte said he liked to travel through the English Provinces and show his face, because there are people who believe he is not precisely a good boy. (Laughter.) But he insisted he is a good Canadian and a loyal Britisher.

Ontario's Premier.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross was also called upon to address the meeting. He was given a very cordial reception, and expressed the pleasure it afforded him to pay his annual visit to Strathroy Fair, to renew old acquaintances. It was also, he said, very gratifying to him to meet his friend the Minister of Public Works in the western part of the Province. Mr. Tarte was quite right when he said we ought to know the people of Quebec better than we do. The people were glad to have representative men from that Province come to see them, men possessed of Mr. Tarte's insight into the interests of the country and apply ourselves with proper energy to whatever work comes to us in our respective spheres. He was glad to notice the response to Mr. Tarte's patriotic speech, to the Canadian ring which it contained. It was just such a speech as should be made everywhere, over and over again, for we are slow to believe that as Canadians we have such a great future, and that we are capable to keep and grapple with this country as he believed we are. Mr. Ross spoke of the great racial and social problems which Canada had settled for herself, and expressed his delight at hearing Mr. Tarte's observations as to the use to which we should apply our energies, so far as the development of the country is concerned. He spoke of the importance of the [illegible] and said of the complaint of a fruit-grower, who had been charged $1.40 to send a barrel of apples to Winnipeg, while the charge to Liverpool was only 60 cents. He approved the establishment of a line of steamers between Quebec and South Africa.

The Tariff Question.

Referring to the tariff questions, Mr. Ross said the Dominion Government had great difficulties in adjusting the tariff to suit everybody. The farmer may want a certain policy that would not be satisfactory to the manufacturer; but the people of Canada can be trusted to settle the difficulty. An adjustment of the tariff will have to be made from time to time for the next generation; there is no finality in it. He cared not by what name it is called. In West Middlesex they used to think they were free traders, and in 1878 they persuaded themselves that the nearer they were to free trade the better, and he believed so still, just as he believed the nearer we are to heaven the better. But free trade in this country is an actual impracticability. Then what are we going to do? Study our own conditions. He cared not who said "No," or who said "Yes." What we want is a tariff to suit ourselves first, last and always. It mattered not whether the Americans liked it or not. We have nothing to do with them, except to keep them on their own side of the line, if necessary. He did not talk retaliation, but, supposing our neighbors' cattle got into our farm and we put up our fences to keep them out, is that retaliation? No, no; we are simply taking care of our own. If we want to take our neighbor's fence down and turn our cattle into his farm that would be retaliatory, but he would build up his fences if he wanted to. This is a pure business matter, and he endorsed Mr. Tarte's motto, "Business is business." He subscribed thoroughly to Mr. Tarte's doctrine of manufacturing our own raw material and keeping our manufacturing industries here and building them up, and when we have done this we will have done all that as good Canadians we ought to do and can be expected to do.

FREE TO MILLIONS.

A Valuable Little Book Sent Free for the Asking.

Medical books are not always interesting reading, especially to people enjoying good health, but as a matter of fact scarcely one person in ten is perfectly healthy, and even with such sooner or later sickness must come.

It is also a well established truth that nine-tenths of all diseases originate with a breaking down of the digestion, a weak stomach weakens and impoverishes the system, making it easy for disease to gain a foothold.

Nobody need fear consumption, kidney disease, liver trouble or a weak heart and nervous system as long as the digestion is good and the stomach able to assimilate plenty of wholesome food.

Stomach weakness shows itself in a score of ways and this little book describes the symptoms and causes and points the way to a cure so simple that anyone can understand and apply.

Thousands have some form of stomach trouble and do not know it. They ascribe the headaches, the languor, nervousness, insomnia, palpitation, constipation and similar symptoms to some other cause than the true one. Get your digestion on the right track and the heart trouble, lung trouble, liver disease or nervous debility will rapidly disappear.

This little book treats entirely on the cause and removal of indigestion and its accompanying annoyances.

It describes the symptoms of Acid Dyspepsia, Nervous Dyspepsia, Sour Dyspepsia, Amylaceous Dyspepsia, Catarrh of stomach and all affections of the digestive organs in plain language easily understood and the cause removed.

It gives valuable suggestions as to diet, and contains a table giving length of time required to digest various articles of food, something every person with weak digestion should know.

No price is asked, but simply send your name and address plainly written on postal card to the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., requesting a little book on Stomach Diseases, and it will be sent promptly by return mail.

FELL INTO THE CANAL

Lockkeepers Dixon and Barden Drowned at Thorold.

AFFAIR TOOK PLACE AT MIDNIGHT

The Captain of the Tug Heard the Cry For Assistance When a Short Distance Above the Lock—Grappling Recovered the Bodies in Two Hours—Inquest Was Opened and Adjourned.

St. Catharines, Sept. 26.—George Dixon fell into lock 25 in the new canal near Thorold on Wednesday night and was drowned. William Barden, a comrade, who attempted to save him, also met a watery grave.

Lock 25 is the head lock, and when it is full of water there still remains eight or nine feet from the stone coping or footboards on the gates. Capt. Ross of the tug Meteor, while passing the guard locks near midnight, heard a cary of "Man in the lock." A man was sent to investigate and neither Barden nor Dixon, who should have been on duty, could be found. Assistance was secured and the work of grappling in the lock was commenced. About 1.30 yesterday morning the body of George Dixon was recovered and two hours later Barden's body was brought to the surface. The body of Barden was removed to R. Commerford's undertaking rooms and Dixon's remains to Williams' undertaking establishment.

It is thought that Dixon, on hearing the whistle of the tug, left the lock shanty and in the rain and darkness slipped or stumbled into the lock, crying out as he did so. His mate, hearing the cry, went to his rescue, throwing a heavy line into the lock. Dixon, being a much heavier man, it is thought that Barden was dragged in, or else lost his footing on the slippery stone coping and fell in.

Dixon was 46 years of age. His head was badly bruised. He leaves a widow and eight children. Barden also leaves a large family. An inquest was opened here last night.

Life was extinct when the body was found by some school children.

Oliver, Samsford, lost large quantities of wheat in stock; Robert McLean's separator was burned at Dauphin, together with a team of horses.

Burglar and Horse Thieves.

Port Rowan, Sept. 26.—On Wednesday night or Thursday morning, burglars blew open the outer door of C. S. Killmaster's safe, the inner door resisting the shock sufficiently to prevent the contents being removed. Tools were secured from W. Cratt's blacksmith shop. A. J. Countryman's horse and buggy was stolen the same night.

The New Treatment.

A large number of the better kinds of cattle and lambs were sold yesterday, and several hundred more were retained in the stables at the stock yards, or sent out to pasture, while about 900 cattle, 50 calves and 2500 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. The butchers having bought nearly all the meat they needed yesterday, there was an unusually dull market to-day, with lower prices paid all round. A few of the best cattle were sold yesterday at from 4¼c to 4½c per lb., but 4c was about the top of the market to-day, and from that down to 3¼c per lb., for medium cattle, while the common stock brought from 2c to 3c per lb., and a large number of this kind will have to be held over for a future market. Calves sold from $2.50 to $12, or from 3c to 5½c per lb. Sheep sold at from 2¾c to 3½c, and lambs at from 3¼c to 3¾c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at from 6¼c to 6⅝c per lb., weighed off the cars.

The Age of Brain Work.

"In these days half our diseases come from the neglect of our body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age the wear and tear of labour and intellect goes on without pause or self pity. We live longer than our forefathers but we suffer more. They fatigued only the the muscles; we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest medicine of this age, because it is best suited to the needs of the present age. It restores and revitalizes wasted nerve cells and makes the pale, weak and exhausted, strong, healthy and vigorous.

Mired in Live Coal.

Ingersoll, Sept. 25.—The 6-year-old son of William Todd was terribly burned on Tuesday by walking while in his bare feet into a mass of living coals.

For several days Mr. Todd had been burning weeds. There was a huge pile of ashes at the scene of the fires, but on the surface no fire was apparent. It was into this pile of ashes that the child accidentally stepped, and he immediately mired in several inches of burning coals. Both feet were badly burned, the one more seriously than the other, the burns extending above the ankle.

Say They Robbed the Bodies.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—William Scott and Charles Leitch, employes of the Evens firm, have been formally charged with robbing Edward Geen's body of $5, a watch and chain, a locket and a receipt, or I.O.U., for $3. The complaint was sworn to yesterday afternoon when the two men were arraigned on the complaints charging them with having stolen several small articles from the warehouse. The prisoners pleaded not guilty. They were refused bail.

Toronto Globe.; "The entertainment of the Tampa Cadets at the Grand Opera House last night attracted an audience that packed the theatre to the top gallery. Free Press, Detroit.—"Handel's Recitative, 'Deeper and Deeper Still,' and Aria, 'Waft her Angels,' from Oratorio. 'Jeptha,' were beautifully sung by Mr. Jarvis. Style, finish, artistic detail are enviable distinctions, but after all these are from the mind and when the heart is satisfied as well, when there is a personal appeal to one's inner self, when one feels what one hears, and good fortune is one to be appreciated and acknowledged accordingly." The above is said of two of the performers at Mrs. Morrow's concert, Wednesday night, October 1st. Have your seats marked, as the plan is almost filled.

With this end in view stock sheets are being circulated with a view of raising the necessary amount of money to take over the ownership of the present Driving Park, or in case satisfactory terms cannot be secured with the owners thereof, to purchase new grounds. GETTING READY.

The Eagle Lake Hunting Club had a Meeting Last Night.

The annual meeting of the Eagle Lake Hunting Club was held in the Commercial Hotel last night. There were present, Capt. Jack Cottingham, in the chair, and Messrs. Michael Tooley, Chas. Westlake, Chas. Gunsolus, George Fitzgerald, Sam Courrier, Tom Parker, Tivey, Richard Sheehy, A. Blado, Wm. Pearson, Harry Evans, Bill Creamer, W. H. White and Mark Dobson.

It was announced that Mr. Charlie James, one of the most popular members of the Club, who is now in England, would be home in time for the annual outing.

The election of officers resulted in Mr. Jack Cottingham being elected captain and Mr. Charles Westlake was elected secretary-treasurer. A committee was appointed to purchase an up-to-date stove to be the property of the Club.

The members will pitch tents on the Thursday preceeding the 1st of November, at Eagle Lake, and the prospects for a good outing are very encouraging.

CRESSMAN'S CLIMAX CLOTHING.

Mr. A. W. Cressman's New Stock of Gentlemen's Clothing and Furnishings to be Opened Oct. 4th.

Mr. A. W. Cressman, the enterprising dry goods merchant, is about to enlarge his business, and in effecting his plans, will occupy the store immediately north of his present handsome quarters, and which was, until recently occupied by Grafton & Co. The two stores will be connected by an arch-way. Cressman's Climax Clothing will, there is every reason to expect, become as popular among the men as are the goods in the present store approved of by the ladies. The merits of the new and up-to-date stock of gentlemen's clothing and furnishings which is to be placed in the adjoining quarters is the best summed up in Mr. Cressman's own words, "It is the finest clothing which good materials, good workmanship, and thorough knowledge can put together. The hats and everything in the stock will be strictly new. The clothing was made specially for us from selected cloths; it is well made and that to fit and retain its shape." Mr. J. C. Best, a thoroughly capable manager, formerly of Oak Hall, will have charge.

The intention is to re-model the entire premises in January next.

THE PRESENT COAL SITUATION

Mr. A. J. McClellan Interviewed by the Examiner.

He Thinks That There is no Settlement in Sight at the Present Time.

In view of the present coal situation the Examiner this morning interviewed Mr. A. J. McClellan, of the McClellan Coal Company, in order to obtain from that gentleman his views upon the outlook for winter fuel. Mr. McClellan said:—

"Coal advanced in Peterborough yesterday to $13.50 per ton. In Toronto coal of a cheaper quality is selling for $15, and can only be had in half ton lots."

Asked if he was warranted in charging so high a price, he said:—"It is a business proposition. We had a fair stock considering, the strike started when last year's business was hardly wound up and no warning had been sounded or time given to stock up.. The coal is cheapest in April, but it is usually May before the retailers stock heavily and the strike starting early in May prevented large stocks being secured, and as the present outlook points to no immediate shipments or in fact any shipments this winter in any quantity, a retailer with, say, half or third of his coal in stock, has to increase the price to a figure that will net him the same profit as if he had done a season's business at ordinary profit, and again we have an offer from a firm in Toronto to put the coal on cars here at $12.00 per ton. While we did not consider a moment, sending the coal out of town, it is only business to get as much here as we are offered elsewhere, and if the people of Toronto can afford to pay $15 and $20 a ton the people of Peterborough should appreciate it at $13.50."

As to the substitutes for hard coal he said:—"Coke which would have been the best, had advanced to a price higher than coal, and even at that was not to be had. Soft coal is some higher, it makes a strong heat and when properly handled would be fairly satisfactory, the principle draw back to it being the smoke, and dirt, but people will have to put up with a little inconvenience. I cannot see where an early settlement can be expected. President Mitchell says they have money enough to hold out all winter, and the operators have passed their word that they will concede nothing. If Mitchell is right no settlement can be looked for."

SOCIAL EVENING.

Last Night's Meeting of Court Chemong —Short Addresses.

Last night's meeting of Court Chemong, I.O.F., was one of exceptional interest. Bros. Mabee, P.C. R., and Sorsoleil, C.D., were present and gave a more or less faithful account of their doings at High Court. It was announced that the Court had been honoured in the person of Bro. Sorsoleil, who has been made one of the general deputies for eastern Ontario. Bro. Graham, who is about to leave for Carleton Place was present, and spoke with the deepest regret of his enforced separation from the Court. Bro. Graham has been a faithful attendant at Court and his advice at critical times has always been that of a matured mind, and a dispassionate temperment. That Bro. Graham will be missed at Court goes without saying, and Bros. Dale, C.R., and Powell, F.S., fittingly expressing the feelings of the lodge. At the close of the meeting the members betook themselves to Long's comfortable parlours, where an informal farewell supper was tendered Bro. Graham.

Regular Monthly Meeting Held Yesterday—Reports Read.

The monthly meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Auxiliary, which was the first since the summer, was held yesterday. The attendance was good and deep interest shown in the fall and winter work.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Brown, showed a good balance on the right side to start the season's work.

Arrangements were made for the Strangers' Teas for October and November.

The resignation of Mrs. James A. Hall, who for the past five years has so faithfully and well directed the work as President, was received with regret and the secretary was instructed to convey to Mrs. Hall a resolution of appreciation of her work, and the high esteem in which she is held by them.

A Nominating Committee was appointed, consisting of Mesdames Mason, Davidson and Nugent, to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The annual meeting will be held on October 29th.

The members of the Peterborough Board of Trade are reminded of the meeting that will be held in the Council Chamber this evening, when matters pertaining to the subject of "Franchise and Bonuses" and "How far can Peterborough assist manufacturers?" will be discussed. In view of the establishment of a number of new factories in Peterborough of late and a view of the probability of other factories locating here these subjects are deserving of due consideration and there should, therefore, be a large attendance.

THE FESTIVAL AT ST. JOHN'S.

The Congregation United in Giving Thanks Last Night.

Rev. Canon Welsh of St. James Cathedral, Toronto Delivered the Address —Special Music.

The Harvest Festival in connection with St. John's church, which was held last night passed off in a highly successful manner. The interior of the beautiful old edifice presented a most attractive appearance decorated as it was with all the fruits of the season. The windows were banked with various varieties of fruits and vegetables, the massive pillars were encircled with vines and leaves whilst the Chancel, was indeed tastefully and lavishly decorated. The work was accomplished under the direction of Mrs. Markwood, and was done chiefly by the ladies of the congregation.

The music too was of a special nature, the selections being sung with exquisit effect, the delicate shading of the hymns evidently being the result of careful training.

The special Thanksgiving service was taken by Rev. W. L. Armitage, assisted by Rev. R. D. Dickinson, of Warsaw and Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's.

THE SERMON.

The preacher of the evening was Rev. Canon Welsh, D.C.L., Rector of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, and his sermon was delivered with striking dignity and grace. He took for his text—I Cor., 15-38,—"To every seed His own body." He began by referring to the harvest so happily commemorated, which was the result of a painstaking sowing in the spring time. St. Paul had used this parable of nature to teach great truths in regard to human life. The first of these was the law of atonement through sacrifice. As in the case of the harvest men make present sacrifices for the future, and often less for the greater — a portion of the seed was returned to the earth in order that it might be given back a thousand fold, and so it was all through life. If we wanted to gain any valuable possession we must make up our mind to some sacrifice for it.

The second great truth which the text brought out was that of life through death, which the reverend gentleman dwelt on with much force.

The third law was the principle of continuity. The seed was given its own body and no other kind.

The proverb regarding the sowing of wild oats was a lie, and came from the father of lies. What a man chose to be and what his habits were gradually became his character, and it was the only thing that he took away with him from earth. Now was the time to form character which would follow us to eternity.

This morning Mr. T. J. Begley, secretary of St. Peter's T.A.S. Football Club, received a communication from Mr. Frank D. Woodworth, secretary of the O.R.F.U., stating that it would be impossible for that body to grant permits to Messrs. W. Crowley, W. Meagher, J. Dennaird, and L. J. Picard, in consequence of their being an intermediate team in town. The action of the O.R.F.U., was taskn as the outcome of other applications of a similar nature from teams throughout the province.

The T.A.S. team entered the junior series of the O.R.F.U. feeling that permits would be granted the abovementioned players. No action was taken by the club regarding the purchase of club supplies and lighting of the Murray streeet school grounds by electricity until the question of permits was settled by the O.R.F.U. When the communication was received to-day the officers of the club met and it was decided to withdraw the team from the O.R.F.U., as it was felt that without the services of Messrs. Crowley, Meagher, Dennaird and Picard, the club would out a sorry figure in the junior series, as the remainder of the team never figured in football conteats, and know little or nothing of the game. The executive meets this afternoon to draw up the schedule, and a telegram was forwarded by the T.A.S. notifying the O.R.F.U. that they with withdraw.

Lacrosse has its Minto Cup and hockey has its Stanley Cup, and the Dewar Shield, but so far football has neither cup nor trophy to represent the Dominion championships.

This is about to be remedied. Arthur Farrell, formerly a speedy forward on the Shamrock hockey team, Montreal, has sent out letters to several clubs with regard to the shape to be taken by the White Horse trophy to be offered for competition among the champions of the various football unions in Canada. The donors are said to be prepared to expend £50 sterling on the trophy.

LACROSSE.

The Millbrook junior lacrosse team went down to Port Hope yesterday and were defeated by the Victorias of that town by a score of 5 to 1.

BASEBALL.

George Sullivan, the pitcher on the Providence team, has resumed his situation as guard at the Penitentiary at Kingston.

POLO.

It will be difficult to get Rugby enthusiasts to take any interest in Polo. At a big Polo match in Toronto only one man was hurt and then only a collar bone was broken. The chrysanthemums accustomed to the red record of a Rugby match, can't enthuse over such a tame game as Polo, and have no ambition to become poloticians. Polo is played with a bat, a ball and a broncho.

THE TURF.

At Readville on Tuesday, Dan Patch equalled the world's racing record of 1.59 1-4, made by Star Pointer on the Readville track five years ago. Dan Patch was brought out for a warming up mile with a runner as pacemaker. Without an effort he went the distance in 2.13. Half an hour later the handsome black came out for his trial against time. No time was lost in scoring, and Myron McHenry nodded the first time down for the wire. The pacer had his stride from the word, and there was not a skip for the whole mile, his legs moving with perfect regularity. It was not until the third quarter that every one felt convinced that the record was in danger. Up the stretch came the pacer, beating out the runner and flashing under the wire in 1.59 1-4. Patch's trial was made at the New England Breeders' Association fall meeting, the programme of which has been curtailed through wholesale withdrawal of horses from fall campaigning on tracks in this State.

NEW USE FOR REFINED PARAFFINE WAX.

A new important use for Refined Paraffine Wax seems to have been discovered by a prominent resident of Ohio, living near Lancaster, who had two trees badly damaged by storm, one being a maple and the other an apple. In each case a large limb was broken down from the trunk, but still attached to it. The limbs were propped up and fastened securely with straps, very much as a broken leg might be fastened with splints, and then melted refined wax poured into and over all the cracks. The "surgical operation" was entirely successful. The Paraffine prevented the escape of the sap, kept out the rain and moisture which would have rotted the trees, prevented the depredations of insects, and the limbs seem thus far to be perfectly re-attached to the trees.

FIVE NATIONALISTS

They Attended the Royal Coronation and Want the Fact Known.

"We have been asked," says The Times, "to state that five Nationalist members were present at the coronation ceremony in the Abbey, and are anxious to make it plain that they rejoice in being loyal to the King and his Empire. They are Colonel Nolan, Mr. S. Young, Dr. Thompson, Major Jameson and Mr. W. O'Doherty. It is a real satisfaction to give the prominence they desire to the unusual position they occupy and the laudable sentiments they profess."

Colonel Nolan, though an old member of Mr. Parnell's party, has quarrelled lately with it, owing chiefly to some disputes between himself and his tenants on the question of gathering of seaweed on the shore. He is a colonel of artillery (retired) and a landowner.

Mr. S. Young, who sits for East Cavan, is a Protestant and a whiskey distiller in Belfast. Major Jameson, another of the five, is also interested in "St. Patrick's eye water," for he was for some years manager of his father's business, that of W. Jameson & Company, Distillery, Dublin. He, too, like Colonel Nolan, is a retired officer of the British army.

Dr. Edward Thompson, M. P. for North Monaghan, was returned at the first bye-election which took place after the General Election. Dr. Thompson has had an erratic political career. He contested Mid-Tyrone in 1892 and 1895 as a Unionist. He stood for North Fermanagh in November, 1898, as an independent Conservative. He contested South Tyrone in 1900 as a Nationalist, and Mr. T. W. Russell only defeated him by 90 votes. He was then returned at the Monaghan bye-election, but has already had troubles with the party with reference to the cheers at the announcement of Lord Methuen's capture. He has issued a pamphlet in which he defends himself against charges of disloyalty to the Nationalist party.

Mr. William O'Doherty, the last of the five, is a Londonderry solicitor, who has sat for North Donegal since the General Election. He is a coroner, and a member of the Derry Corporation.

HEARTBURN.

A Very Common and Very Painful Symptom of Indigestion.

This disease is sometimes known to medical men by the name of Acid Dyspepsia.

It is really the result of the fermentation in the Stomach of food that has been only partially digested.

Fermentation is in reality a kind of decomposition which produces gas.

This gas fills the stomach, distending the walls.

The pressure of the gas and consequent distention of the Stomach upward, frequently interferes with the action of the heart.

Smokers are usually very subject to Heartburn.

If not corrected this disease will surely terminate in Chronic Dyspepsia.

Many people make a serious mistake in using soda as a relief for Heartburn.

The alkali will certainly neutralize the acid and thus relieve the fermentation but soda is very injurious to the delicate mucous lining of the Stomach, and has been known to lie for days in the bowels where it frequently causes much distress.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a safe and sure cure for Heartburn, as well as for all other stomach derangements.

Heartburn is an impossibility if there is perfect digestion.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets insure perfect digestion and thus absolutely cure Heartburn.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Don't wait until your Heartburn has grown into chronic Dyspepsia, but correct it at once.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured very many cases of chronic Dyspepsia, but it is easier and cheaper and better in every way to root out the sapling, Heartburn, than it is to root out the full grown tree, Dyspepsia. Don't wait.

The Chancellor's Gown.

The gown of the Chancellor of the Exchequer is rarely seen by the public which is a pity. It is as handsome as it is costly, lending a stateliness to the figure unapproachable by the art of the modern tailor. I have, says Mr. Lucy, a vivid recollection of seeing Mr. Gladstone arrayed in it on the occasion of the opening by the Queen of the new law courts. Striking in appearance, even when he wore a shabby old cape endeared by association of two score years, he in this gracious robe of silk took a new dignity. A new gown costs £150 and as it may not be worn out of office it is customary for the incoming Chancellor to purchase his predecessor's robe at a suitable reduction. In recent times there have been two notable exceptions to the rule. When in February, 1868, Mr. Gladstone succeeded Mr. Disraeli at the Treasury the outgoing Chancellor declined to sell his raiment to his successor. There was a very good reason, which precludes the necessity of searching for personal animus to account for the departure from custom. The robe had originally belonged to Mr. Pitt, and Disraeli preferred possession of the historic relic to a check for £100. The other case was that of Lord Randolph Churchill, who possessed himself of Mr. Gladstone's Chancellor's gown. Mr. Goschen, who when playing his last card for supremacy in the Cabinet Lord Randolph "forgot," would have taken the Chancellor of the Exchequer's gown with his office. Lord Randolph would hold no truck with his successor.

Got Lame Back or Lumbago.

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic however if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere, in large 25c. bottles.

PASSING OF THE GREAT.

Our Young Old Men—Strenuousness of Old Age—Work of the Veterans—Where Age Sits Lightly.

There is always something pathetic in the passing of a man out of public life, and the face of public affairs has been changing rapidly of late, says The St. James Budget. Lord Salisbury has signed his last despatch. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has also probably framed his last budget. Lord James has passed out of the front rank of public affairs, and Lord Cadogan has taken leave of Dublin Castle and the Irish people. But yesterday they were on the active list of the nation's public men: to-day they belong to the thin line of great men whose work is over, and who live to find how fickle and short a thing is fame.

Many of them, in the natural order of things, may look forward to a long period of quiet life. Dean Bradley, the oldest of the group of public men who have stepped down from their pedestals during the past few weeks, is 80, but many famous men in the church are older than he, and Lord Salisbury has a dozen years to live before he reaches the age at which Mr. Gladstone laid down the reins. Lord Cadogan, who has given up the Vice-royalty of Ireland, may live almost a generation before he reaches the age of admirals on the active list, and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, who is no longer one of the ministers of the Crown, is quite twelve years younger than one of the members of Mr. Balfour's Cabinet, who has evidently no intention of resigning. Not for many years have there been so many retirements from public life as since the dissolution two years ago, but of very few of them can it be said that they were pressingly called for by old age.

The truth is that old age was never more strenuous than to-day. Lord Halsbury is 77 next month, but he is still vigorous enough to be drawing one of the highest salaries of the Empire, and presiding over the sittings of the House of Lords. Lord Roberts is 70, but nobody but Dame Rumor suggests that he is not active enough to command the British army, and Dame Rumor is likely to be a lying jade for some time longer. The last commander-in-chief was over 60, and his predecessor over 70. One finds much the same thing in the navy. The First Lord of the Admiralty belongs to the younger men, but two of the naval lords are over 60; and Sir John Fisher and Sir Edward Seymour; two of the most responsible seamen, have also passed threescore. Only one of the five admirals of the fleet is far off 70. Sir Newall Salmon is a young man of 67, but Admiral Lyons and Admiral Richards have all but reached the Psalmist's span, and so has Lord Clanwilliam; while Sir Harry Keppel is the youngest of them all at 98—young enough to have paid a call the other day on the Sultan of Johore in his own palace.

Dr. Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, at 81, is young enough to crown the King, and his brother of York, about five years younger, showed no sign of old age in crowning the Queen. Half the generals in the war were men whose best years had long since gone—Lord Roberts, Sir George White, Sir Redvers Buller, Sir Charles Warren and Generals Clery, Coke, and Kelly-Kenny are all over 60. Half the things the world is talking about to-day are the work of the veterans. It is Sir John Aird, verging on 70, who has built the great Nile dam. It is Lord Masham, verging on 90, who appeals to the Government to overhaul our fiscal system, and heads the appeal, "Who's Afraid?"

The men over 70 in Parliament could not be counted on both hands, and the number of those who have seen 60 is astonishing. Even Mr. Chamberlain is more than half way through the sixties; in four years before the legal life of the Cabinet is over, he will have reached the age at which man's work is supposed to be done. Who can believe it? Who can believe, either, that the editor of Truth is an old man of 70? Who ever thinks of Sir Henry Fowler as anything but a man in his prime? Yet he is 71, and the keenest debater in the House of Commons is still Sir William Harcourt, in active opposition at 74. Mr. Morley is a child of 63 beside him. Mr. Bryce is 64, and "C.B." is as old as Mr. Chamberlain, only four years off 70. Old age leads in the Lords—Earl Spencer is 66, and the Duke of Devonshire is 69.

All the world over the veterans lead the way. King Edward will have worn his crown only three months when he is 61. President Loubet is three years older. Italy, Germany and Russia have young men to reign over them, but Francis Joseph of Austria was 72 this week. Oscar of Sweden is 73, Leopold of Belgium is 67, and King Christian of Denmark is 84. The world's foreign relations are in the hands of men over 60 and 70. Lord Pauncefote was well over 70 when he signed his last treaty at Washington, Lord Currie is 68, Sir Charles Scott 60, and Sir Frank Lascelles 60. Lord Cromer, young enough to make another Egypt, is 60 also; and at the other end of Africa, a man of 70 reigns as Prime Minister of the Cape. If all the men who are old according to the almanacs were to resign to-night, the British Empire would not know itself to-morrow.

LOOK OUT FOR THE BORER.

We have been on our annual hunt for the borer in our orchard lately. This little beast is by all odds the biggest nuisance which the apple grower has to contend with, the cause of the death of more apple trees than all the other enemies with which the apple has to cope. Sometimes two and three borers are found at work on one tree, the tree as yet apparently in perfect health, but unless the borers are dug out it is as surely doomed as though it had been struck by lightning. Sharp eyes and a sharp knife are the only remedy we know that counts against them.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Formal Resolutions Which Called It Into Being July 26, 1852.

It has, for some time past, been in contemplation to establish a Stock Exchange in Toronto, for the purpose of affording to all parties interested in the transfer of stocks, and other public securities, greater facilities in effecting their respective operations, than are at present possessed, and also to extend the circulation of Canadian credit and establish a uniform charge for the transaction of all business coming within the range of Stock or Share Broker. With this object in view a meeting of gentlemen engaged in this business was held on Monday, the 26th July, for the purpose of taking the subject into consideration.

Mr. Barrow was called to the chair, and Mr. James Fraser requested to act as secretary.

After the subject had been thoroughly discussed, and the advantages of such an institution in Canada had been clearly set forth, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

1. Resolved—That the great increase of business in stocks and the importance now attaching to Canadian securities generally render it expedient to form a Stock Exchange in this city.

2. Resolved—That in consequence of the very low rate of interest obtained in the London market, capitalists have been induced to turn their attention to Canada, offering as it does, good security and better rate of interest on investments, and it is therefore desirable to fix that attention more firmly upon the advantages of Canadian securities generally.

3. Resolved—That Toronto being the most central point of attraction to capitalists seeking investments in Canada, this city is deemed and considered to be in every respect the most convenient locality in which to establish an Association of Brokers.

5. Resolved—That as citizens of Toronto we consider we are discharging an important duty in taking the lead in Canada by the establishment of an Association, as well adapted to promote and extend the general interests of this Province.

6. Resolved, therefore, that the gentlemen now present do constitute themselves an association to be denominated the "Toronto Stock Exchange."—From the Toronto Globe of Saturday, Aug. 14, 1852.

Dodging a Promise.

The youthful attorney secured a verdict in favor of the Irishman charged with murder on the ground of temporary insanity. He did not meet his client again for several months, when the following remarks were exchanged between them:

"Well, Pat, isn't it about time you gave me that extra $200?"

"Faith, an' what two hoondred is thot?"

"The $200 you promised if I saved that worthless neck of yours."

"Sure, an' did Oi promise thot? Oi don't ramimber."

"Why, Pat, you promised it me."

Pat scratched his head for a minute and then with a smile outlawed the claim with the remark:

"Oh, well, but ye know Oi was crazy thin."

A Bird That Cannot Fly.

Who knows of a bird that cannot fly?

Even a tame goose can fly, though very awkwardly. But I know of one, the auk, who cannot fly at all, for his wings are too short, and the poor fellow's legs are so short and are set so far back that he can hardly walk. How, then, does he get about and find his food? An old Irish sailor nine years ago explained that "all their walkin' was done by swimmin'." Their broad webbed feet are good oars, and their short wings are useful paddles. "They get over the ground by swimmin', which is the best way for thim, seein' the ground where they live is mostly weather."

Have You Escaped Itching Piles?

If so, you are one of the Few Fortunate Ones; if not, you can be Cured by Using

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Piles or hemorrhoids are among the most common as well as the most torturing ailments that afflict humanity. The keen distress caused by the itching, especially when the body gets warm, is almost beyond the powers of description.

The very mention of Piles suggests Dr. Chase's Ointment as it is beyond denial the only actual cure for this loathsome disease. If you ask your doctor, your druggists or your friends what to use for piles they will in nine cases out of ten advise Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. A. Oliver, farmer, Deseronto, Ont., states: "I had itching piles in the worst form, and can now testify that Chase's Ointment is a sure and positive cure for this dreadful ailment. I tried several other remedies, but could obtain no benefit from them, but am now cured, and have no doubt that the credit for the cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Dairy Cattle

Sometimes an otherwise excellent cow is rendered partially or totally worthless for the dairy because of a habit of leaking milk, says C. P. Goodrich in Hoard's Dairyman. This fault cannot always be detected unless the milk is seen to be leaking. It does not follow that because a cow milks easily that she will leak her milk; far from it. Still, these that do leak usually milk rather easy. Sometimes the milk seems to drip away from the teats nearly as fast as it is made, and the udder is always nearly empty. This makes a cow worthless as a milker, but can be detected any time except when she is dry. Other cows do not leak until the udder is well distended and they lie down, forcing the milk out in a stream and making quite a puddle of milk on the ground or floor. Sometimes the close observer will detect this.

Another fault that some cows have is the habit of sucking other cows or, worse still, of sucking themselves. My advice is never to buy such a cow under any circumstances if one can detect the fault. Such a cow may possibly be prevented from sucking, but she can never be cured of the inclination to do so and will surely be a source of vexation.

If the cow you are looking at has a ring in her nose or has her nose pierced for a ring, don't buy her. That was done for something and probably in a vain attempt to prevent her from sucking. If she has her tongue slit, it is for the same reason. But, no matter, she can suck just the same. If the hair is worn off about her head or neck, be sure that it is not caused by some toggery put there to prevent her sucking.

A Good Guernsey Heifer.

Sire, Champion of Homestead, 3,978, dropped Aug. 14, 1900; calved May 14, 1902, and from June 4 to June 10, inclusive, gave 220½ pounds of milk which tested by sample at Geneva experiment station 5.8 per cent, or 12 78 pounds butter fat, or 14.91 pounds butter. The picture is from Hoard's Dairyman.

EUNICE OF ELM PLACE, 13,234.

Selection of Cows.

A correspondent of the New York Farmer tells of a dairyman who had a chance to sell at a fair price five out of his twenty-five cows. He selected what he thought were the five poorest ones. The buyer took them home, tested them by the Babcock test and began feeding what he called a well balanced ration. He soon found he had five fair milkers whose milk showed a high amount of butter fat. The one who sold them is thinking that through ignorance of his business he sold the money making cows out of his herd. Since last March he has begun to weigh and test his milk, and he has learned that he underestimated some cows and overestimated others, and next fall will probably see some going to the slaughter. While we do not doubt this, we would say that from March until June is not a fair test, says the American Cultivator. The test for a year or from calf to calf again is the only true test. We have had cows give a large amount for four or five months, but little for the next three months and nothing for three months more, and we have had others that gave less when they were flush, but as much nine months after they were fresh as at first and did not go dry at all. We have had at least one that was bought two months before she calved whose milk for the first two months scarcely showed more than what chemists would call "a trace" of cream about as thick as a sheet of paper, while six months later, when she had reduced her milk to perhaps ten pounds a day, it had a cream on it that would be no discredit to a Jersey cow. But she was lean when we bought her, having had no grain and rather poor hay all winter, and when her calf was a month old we began to feed her liberally with grain, that she might be fit to kill in the fall. But if we cannot feed butter fat or cream into the milk it was her fault that she did not give richer milk earlier in the season.

Dairy Cows Wanted.

It is the herd of special purpose dairy cows we want and not the herd kept to furnish chores for the owner or hired man. It is not possible or wise for many farmers to own a herd of full blood cows, but it is every farmer's own fault who has been keeping cows for five to ten years and has not reached or passed the 300 pound mark in butter production.—Dairy and Creamery.

Type Not Accidental.

Dairy type is not an accident; it is not something that just happened. There are good reasons for every point of makeup. In studying the dairy cow all idea of beef should be abandoned. The cow with beef tendencies must differ in type from the dairy cow, and the dairy cow cannot have a beef form.

Rheumatism . . .

PROFIT-SHARING.

An Interesting Experiment by the Street Railway Company of Vancouver—Standard Wages, Too.

The adoption of a practical system of profit-sharing by the Street Railway Company of Vancouver is an experiment that will be of interest to all who watch the development of our industrial system. The Independent, a weekly, published in the interests of organized labor in Vancouver, B.C., gives a report of an address by Manager Buntzen of the Street Railway Company, to a mass meeting of workmen, which was also addressed by President Mahon of the Street Railway Men's Union of America. The meeting shows the harmonious relationship existing between the Street Railway Company and its employes. The company was voluntarily decided that the regular employes shall receive as their share of its profits, one-third of the amount available for dividends after the ordinary shareholders have received 4 per cent. This means, as estimated, that at the end of the first year each employe will receive about $80, at the end of the second year the share will be about $50, and in five years it will be $100. The men will receive the standard union wages. Manager Buntzen says that in his opinion the increased interest in the company's welfare on the part of the employes created by the new system will add so much to the company's success that the shareholders, as well as the men, will gain by the innovation.

The employes' proportion of the profits will be divided equally among them, all being considered as units in making the Company's business a success. In addition to this voluntary concession, the company pays as high wages for every class of work as are paid by other local employers, and, generally speaking, higher wages. The company also makes certain concessions in the way of uniforms, light and transportation, that employers in other lines of business are not in a position to grant. It is customary to look for rocks in the way of all such industrial experiments. Men do not work for low wages, nor under unfavorable conditions, voluntarily, but because they are forced to do so by the conditions of the labor market. The model employer, the man who voluntarily does more than he is forced to do, because he sees that there is something wrong and the men are entitled to more, is worthy of all honor. One of the difficulties of such a scheme is that employment with him acquires an economic value which the workman may be forced to pay to middle men or intermediaries. But it is time enough to look for such trouble when it begins to develop. A good relationship and a feeling of mutual interest have a value that cannot be accurately estimated in dollars, and these have been secured already by the Vancouver Street Railway Company. We may learn some day that an honest desire to do right can cure most of the industrial evils of modern society.

The King's Memory for Faces.

At the time of the King's recent operation the nurse who had been present to assist left the room on his recovering consciousness, but not before the King had caught sight of her face. Directly after, he asked one of his physicians, who she was, for he had seen her somewhere, and quite lately. The doctor admitted that this was so, for, but a short while before, His Majesty had presented the same nurse with a medal for her work in South Africa. That gift has been rendered doubly precious to its recipient, for the King asked for the nurse, shook hands with her, saying at the same time: "I have proved for myself how well you deserved that medal."

THE THREE FISHERS.

By Charles Kingsley.

Three fishers went sailing out into the west—
Out into the west as the sun went down.
Each thought on the woman who loved him the best.
And the children stood watching them out of the town;
For men must work, and women must weep,
And there's little to earn and many to keep,
Though the harbor bar be moaning.

Three wives sat up in the lighthouse tower,
And they trimmed the lamps as the sun went down;
They looked at the squall, and they looked at the shower,
And the night rack came rolling up ragged and brown!
But men must work, and women must weep,
Though storms be sudden and waters deep,
And the harbor bar be moaning.

Three corpses lay out on the shining sands
In the morning gleam as the tide went down,
And the women are weeping and wringing their hands
For those who will never come back to the town.
For men must work, and women must weep,
And the sooner it's over the sooner to sleep,
And good-by to the bar and its moaning.

Sketch of Charles Kingsley.

Charles Kingsley was born in Devonshire in 1819. He died in 1875. He went to Magdalen College, where he studied for the ministry. Kingsley was made rector of Eversley (1844) and was an earnest advocate of social reform. His "Alton Locke" gives his views on this question. His best known prose writings are "Hypatia," "Westward Ho!" and "Water Babies." His poetical works consists of "The Saint's Tragedy" and "Andromeda and Other Poems."

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Adress F. J. War Less Civilized Than of Old.

According to a Bengal native paper, war is less civilized in these days than of old. It unearths a set of rules purporting to be drawn up by opposing Generals in ancient India before war was declared.

(1) Animosity must end with the war, when the combatants must regard one another as friends.

(2) The fight must be between equals, that is to say, charioteer must fight the charioteer, cavalry with cavalry, infantry with infantry, etc.

(3) A man who is not strong enough to fight should be allowed to go scot-free.

(4) No man is to be struck without previous and distinct warning.

(5) A man who shows nervousness in war should not be interfered with.

(6) No one is to be taken a prisoner unawares on any account.

(7) No man who has been deprived of his arms or armor, or is badly armed, should be hurt.

(8) The persons of the following classes of people are to be considered sacred: (a) The man who drives a chariot, (b) the bearer who carries a wounded man: (c) the surgeon; (d) the military bandsman.

(9) Two are not to attack one.

(10) No tricks (ambushes, etc.) are to be allowed.

The Root of the Trouble.

It surprises some people when you tell them their nervous trouble is caused by a defective liver. Liver trouble causes constipation. Next comes dyspepsia, then impure blood with heart strain, and the result is nerve trouble. Merrill's System Tonic is a positive cure for liver trouble and constipation, and in this way remove the cause of other ills. 50c. per bottle at Ormond & Walsh's.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

It Opened Steady, and There Were Slight Advances.

Speculators Have Little Desire to Take on Stocks at the Present Time.

The Wall street market opened steady this morning and closed firm considering the rate of interest. There was heavy trading in St. Paul, M.O.P. and L. & N., the features of the market being the advance in St. Paul from 194 to 196 1-2, L. & N., from 151 to 153, Ill. Central from 154 1-8 to 156 1-8, and Lead. from 38 3-4 to 41 1-2. M.O.P. opened at 116 went to 117 and at the close dropped back to 116 1-2. Texas opened at 43 3-8 and closed at the same figure, having gone as low as 43 1-8. U.P. opened at 107 1-2 reached 108 1-2 and closed at 107 3-4.

Sales to noon were 355,200. Money opened at 14 per cent., and went as low as 11, closing again at the opening.

New York, September 26. — It is a good deal of a question what was the ruling rate yesterday for money until 1 o'clock; the rate fluctuated back and forward from 15 per cent. to 22 per cent. After half past one o'clock there were some large loans from 15 per cent. down as low as 8 per cent. In the last hour quotations ruled from 8 to 6 per cent. At these lower figures the loans were nominal. There was during the first hour of the stock market a good deal of the liquidation of the sort which brought about the declines, ranging from 5 to 14 per cent. In the active list in the past week at one time during the first hour, the market looked in a position to become as badly demoralized as it was on Wednesday or Tuesday. Its best support came from those who had previously sold out stocks and were in a position to take them back at very considerable profits. There was less bargain seeking, and in fact there was less speculative buying for a rise than for a few days. Very little confident bullishness is in evidence, therefore the total dealings were only about sixty per cent. as great as those of Wednesday.

New York, September 26th. — We expect to see a steady opening in the stock market this morning. The relief thus far provided for the money market, including anticipation of bond interest until June 30, 1903, should be able to care for the situation until gold imports can be arranged for, provided there is no broad buying movement. The main thing is the knowledge that the Government stands to do all that it can. We incline to the belief that unless the situation becomes unexpectedly acute again additional liquidation will be gradual, and not bring about a serious decline like that of Wednesday. We have maintained all along that while there were opportunities for quick traders to profitably go short rallies, the best plan was to buy on dips, and the action of the market thus far justifies our stand. Traders market is likely with drives at the shorts and specialty movements. S. P., and Man. may be started upward alone any moment, while U.B., W.U., and Atch. are good purchases. London market strong, with Reading up 3-4.

Public Scare Causing Bargain Offerings.

Messrs. Haight & Freese's letter is as follows:—

New York, Sept. 25th, 1902.—A scare has certainly taken possession of the public who led the stocks. The exorbitant demands for margins of unusual dimensions by many houses, and the newness in the business of many firms which have embarked in the past two years have accentuated the trouble. As was the case on May 9th, 1901, the timidity and inexperience of many stock exchange members caused undue and indiscriminate slaughter. These new houses, who have never been through dark days on the street, have become frightened and unwilling to carry their customers, save on enormous margins, however, forced indiscriminate selling, which the experienced bears have naturally taken advantage of, aggravating the situation by heavy offerings of phantom securities. It has brought stocks down to the bargain counter. Those who can buy and put up liberal margins, if necessary, will make the money after the timid have disposed of their holdings. Under the existing conditions it is not possible to state how low stocks may go. It is a market necessity, and not of values. Values are consequently slaughtered. To buy and be only able to margin five points with inability to protect their holdings, we advise purchases upon a scale. To those who cannot protect liberally, we advise waiting until the market has settled, and the storm is over. It will be indefinitely better for such to purchase at higher prices, after the frightened longs have gone ashore. Before October comes around may people will wonder why they did not take advantage of the lower prices. Not one bushel less of grain will be carried and sold, owing to the present market scare. Just as much freight will be offering as before, and earnings will not be decreased one dollar. Stocks are cheaper, and on the bargain counter. That is the only reason of the case. The time to exercise good common sense is here. Purchase only what you can protect, for even 10 to 15 points, if necessary, and hang on to it until the storm is over. Money was more easily obtainable to-day than yesterday, and did not loan as high. Stocks were extremely feverish, but much stronger, and fair gains recorded. Unless money is bid up materially higher than heretofore, it is probable that the lowest prices have been recorded. Stocks are selling at bargain prices at the present time, and if purchased now, with liberal margins behind them, should not only be wise to do, but profitable as well. The short interest has increased largely. Money closed at five per cent. Last loan, two per cent. Total sales, 830,000.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

THE PREVENTION OF CONSUMPTION.

There is nothing truer to-day than that consumption can be cured, except perhaps that it may be acquired, for it is seldom, if ever, hereditary. Over-crowding, defective ventilation and general insanitation are its prime promoters, while the wrecking by its creeping growth is aggravated by careless cookery, the use of unwholesome and of non-nutritive foods and of alcoholic beverages in excess. In Canada consumption and other forms of tuberculosis annually cause between 7000 and 8000 deaths. We now know that tuberculosis, especially in its pulmonary form, is an infectious communicable, preventable and, in many cases, curable disease; that it can be cured in nearly all climates where the extremes of temperature are not too pronounced and where the air is relatively pure and fresh; that it is not always necessary for a consumptive patient to travel long distances and seek special climatic conditions; but that in Canada, in most instances, he has a good chance of getting well in his own home climate. Consumption being a preventable and curable disease, the sooner the suspect or consumptive himself under the care of a competent physician the greater are his chances of recovery.

This is the work before the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Consumption and Other Forms of Tuberculosis, which has for its honorary president the Governor-General of the Dominion; for its acting president, Mr. W. C. Edwards, M. P.; for its honorary treasurer, Mr. J. M. Courtney, C.M.G., the Deputy Minister of Finance of the Federal Government; and as its honorary secretary, Dr. H. Beaumont Small, of Ottawa. The first year's contributions to the association amounted to $1,277 and disbursements to $909.32, leaving a balance to be carried to the current years account of $367.18. Any person who pays one dollar a year or more becomes an annual member, while the contribution of $100 entitles the donor to life membership.

LAKEFIELD.

Interesting Items From the Village to the North.

Mr. A. Linton, formerly of the Traders' Bank, Leamington, has arrived in town and taken the position of teller in James Linton & Co's Bank here.

On Saturday evening last Lakefield lost one of her best known citizens in the person of Mr. Milton Nelson, who died after a lingering illness. The funeral, which was under the auspices of the Masonic and Oddfellows' Orders, left the family residence at two o'clock on Tuesday and was very largely attended. Mrs. Nelson has the sympathy of the entire community in her bereavement.

Mr. C. B. McAllister of Peterborough, was in the village on Tuesday.

Mr. Robert McWilliams of Peterborough, was in the village on Tuesday attending the funeral of the late Mr. Nelson.

Dr. and Mrs. Bradd were in the village on Wednesday attending the fall fair.

Mr. Detcher, who was looking after W. J. Garbutt's team at the fair, walked up behind one of the horses, and laid his hand on the animal, without speaking. The animal, which was very nervous, replied with both feet, knocking down Mr. Detcher, who fortunately soon recovered himself, with no bones broken.

On Tuesday evening a concert was given in the town hall under the auspices of the Agricultural Society, and was well attended. The programme was rendered by Mr. White, of Toronto, assisted by Mrs. Ramsay, and Miss Alice Ramsey, of the same place. The dancing by Miss Alice was particularly well received. Mr. Benson was also very much in evidence during the evening.

A Complete Hospital.

That's what Merrill's System Tonic is. It is one of the most powerful blood purifiers and the best bowel regulator known, besides being a muscular and nerve tonic. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Out of the Ordinary.

It will be noticed that the Peterborough Bookstore announces an unique "Red Ticket Sale," commencing Wednesday morning, September 24th. This unusual event will furnish a good chance to secure special values in wall papers, window blinds, curtain poles, picture framing, etc. Every line offered will be designated by a red tag on which the regular and reduced prices will be plainly marked. This departure from "old traditions" ought to meet with the endorsement of buyers, as they will be able to see at a glance the actual saving in prices.

"A WHITE AUSTRALIA."

An Interesting Essay That won First Prize.

The Author is a Nephew of Mr. John Green of Town—From an Australian Magazine.

The Federal Record, an Australian magazine, contains a very interesting essay from the pen of Mr. — Hard, a nephew of Mr. John Green, of town, upon the subject of "A White Australia." The essay secured first prize at the Queenscliff A.N.A competitions. It is as follows;

The tide of emigration to Australian shores was at its highest fifty years ago. Before that time the inhabitants of old-world centres evinced in the main, but little interest in the "new-found, under-world," and even the gold discoveries failed to draw many of the industrial classes, these preferring the more certain opportunities offered by the better settled American cities.

But while the struggling artisans and tradesmen of Britain might reasonably count on happier conditions of life along the golden pathway of the setting sun, the more adventurous and energetic emigrants turned their faces to the sunrise; and braving the difficulties and dangers which beset the pioneers of a land far removed from great centres of civilization, they laboured unselfishly and successfully in the work of securely founding the Australasian colonies.

The population grew rapidly from without during the fifty years that followed the discovery of gold, but since the fifties the number of arrivals has become less with each succeeding year, till now immigration is almost a negligible factor in the increase of our population. Yet our island continent has steadily advanced in numbers and in wealth, and the period of growth, though short, has been just long enough to bring to the prime of manhood a race of native-born Australians, endowed with the energy of their ancestors, possessed of a spirit of freedom born of the democratic atmosphere which has nurtured them, and keenly alive to the importance of the great heritage committed to their care.

The rapid progress which our land was making in trade and manufacturers when the gold fever had somewhat subsided was unheeded or unnoticed by the mass of British workmen, and when at last they awoke to a comparison of the conditions of trade and of labour between the old land and the new, it was too late for many of them to derive any benefit by emigration to our shores. The channels of commerce, the avenues of trade, and the lines along which the earlier manufacturers proceeded, were quickly and definitely marked out, and being replete with labour suitable in quantity and quality, there has been no call for any marked addition from without to our population. The steady growth of our numbers during the past thirty years has been from within.

But though Australia does not now offer special inducements to the white European artisans, the coloured Asiatic races are beginning to view our resources and opportunities through optimistic glasses, and in their case it is not too late, for our land offers to them at least such possibilities as must ever be denied to them in their native lands. Hoping to speedily acquire what is to him a competence with which to return home, the coloured labourer is gradually gaining ground in Australia. The reports of the golden chances for them, and the frequent returns of successful countrymen, kindle in the Asiastic and Oceanic natives the desire to tread our shores; and though these immigrants have not so far been numerous enough to seriously affect our national progress, yet the influence has been felt in some branches of trade, and where hundreds have trodden thousands threaten to take a place, and await but a favourable chance to establish themselves within our borders.

Thus is set before our young nation this great question. Keeping steadily in view our purpose to make our land prosperous as a society, powerful as a nation, and happy in the conditions of life bestowed on every worker within its bounds, can we use this threatened deluge of coloured aliens so as to aid us in bringing about these conditions? On the other hand, shall we consider the promised invasion as of evil portent, menacing our social and national life, and utterly destructive of those objects which our young nationbuilders have set before themselves?

Our continent stretches out its arms towards the densely-crowded homes of the Asiatic races. For the Malayan there is but a step to our Northern gates. The Chinese and the Hindoos find our climate somewhat similar but more congenial than their own. It is not the typical industrious Japanese that menace the tropical ports, but rather those of the lowest class who are crowded out of the ports of their own land. The Kanakas have already, by the help of their own countrymen, found a recognized place in Northern Australia, from which it is a difficult matter to expel them. The gates through which any great immigration of coloured races must come are the northern parts of Queensland, the Northern Territory, and Western Australia. Thousands of Chinese, Japanese, Kanakas, and Malays are already settled along the coasts, where our continent is sparsely populated with with whites. There are two chief reasons for this sparsity of population—the great heat of these tropical regions and the unfruitful nature of the soil in large extents of territory. The sterile soil will not provide sustenance for a large number of even those whose requirements are as small as those of a Chinese or a Malay. In this respect the barrenness of the North is rather a barrier, or at least a check to Asiatic advance. It is a disputable question whether the heat of tropical Australia is too great to allow of white labour being employed, where the coloured labourer has been established. Professor Gregory lately noted that in mid-Australia, under almost record readings of the thermometer, the white labourer was performing constantly heavy physical labour apparently without distress. There is little doubt that if sufficient inducement is offered, the better-fed white labourer can at any rate equal, and in many cases excel the black worker under any climatic conditions to be found in Australia.

A GLIMPSE OF GASPE.

Beautiful Part of Canada Almost Unknown to the Tourist.

Far down the Gulf of St. Lawrence, at the eastern limit of the Province of Quebec, lies a most beautiful part of Canada, almost unknown to the summer tourist, writes a lady correspondent to The Globe. Although Gaspe is one hundred miles from a railway, it is very easily reached by water. Sailing on the Campana we arrived at Gaspe at 3 o'clock in the morning. The effect was very weird, as the dawn was faintly coming over the mountains, and we landed in perfect stillness with hardly anyone in sight. The approach to Gaspe is a marvellously beautiful sight. The boat sails down an inlet from the gulf for a distance of twenty miles from Shiphead Cape, the coast all this way being a succession of beautiful mountains, with little fishing hamlets nestling at their feet. Gaspe Basin is entered through a narrow channel, and presents the appearance of an almost landlocked basin surrounded by mountains. On either side there are what are called the northwest arm and the northeast arm respectively, leading in one case to the Dartmouth and in the other to the York River. These rivers, with the St. John, a few miles away, are very popular resorts for fishermen, as the salmon fishing there is unsurpassed. It is not easy to get any fishing on these rivers, as they are all preserved, but occasionally some of the pools may be rented.

Another way to Gaspe is by boat from Dalhousie. The steamer passes the famous Perce Rock, 45 miles below Gaspe, with its fine natural arch, rising 300 feet straight out of the sea. Bonaventure Island is right in front of it; behind lies the fishing village of Perce and Perce Mountain, with a colossal statue of Saint Anne on top. It is well worth taking the trip alone to see it at sunset with all the natural beauties of the surroundings. Gaspe waters are the home of the finest codfish in the world. It is essentially the country of fish, as besides cod we had salmon, lobster, herring, halibut, haddock and even horse mackerel, those huge monsters which weigh anything from 600 to 800 pounds. We saw several of these latter fish, and numerous parties were made up to harpoon them, some succeeding and others failing.

Gaspe Basin was settled by about 3,000 people, mostly from the Island of Jersey and descendants of U. E. Loyalists. They are the pleasantest and most polite people one could possibly meet. They appear to be, "as of old," a Godfearing race, and attend their different churches, Catholic, Episcopal and Methodist. Among the attractions is a Government salmon hatchery. They bring the salmon ova from St. John, N.B., and when the young fish are about an inch long they are sent to the salmon rivers tributary to Gaspe Basin. The fry have only a short way to travel. It seems to be all right, but when one thinks that this little tadpole thing takes seven years to grow into a ten-pound salmon its chances seem very slim of ever reaching such noble proportions as thirty pounds, and yet fish of that size are often caught in the Gaspe rivers.

A Canadian News Service.

"You are, I believe, in the hands of an organization, a press organisation, which is largely controlled in the United States, and your information filters through American channels. I have no doubt that the representatives of the press do their duty—they say they always do—(laughter)—but it is, perhaps, a misfortune that your press in Canada has not yet followed the advice of British journals. You need to buck up, because the news you want is the news most interesting to Canada, and you cannot have all that, or even most of it, if you are content to accept the news most interesting to the newspaper readers of the United States. (Applause.) It is eminently praiseworthy, from its own point of view that the organization of the United States should confine its principal news to the items most interesting to themselves. But the homoeopathic doses extended to you have aided to produce an appetite which would be better satisfied by an honest meal of news. (Laughter and applause.) I think that is the position you are in, if I mistake not. I think you want to get better news—better in the sense that you want more of that quality and kind which applies to your own particular interests rather than that of others. The affairs of your country are not of such interest to the citizens of the United States as they are to you, and it would not be wonderful if the news supplied to you, and relating to the other self-governing portions of the Empire, was rather scanty, as I find it is. It will be necessary for you, if you wish to do business with the Empire, to ascertain fully its conditions, its transactions, its history, its reverses and prosperity. You will not find these unless the dissemination and reception of them are in the hands of those interested in knowing them, and those are not the citizens of the United States, but they are the citizens of Canada. (Applause.)—Sir Edmund Barton in his speech at a Toronto banquet.

Brock's Monument.

The committee who are charged with the erection of Brock's monument met on Tuesday last, in the city, and received the plans for which they advertised. After some deliberation they selected the design laid before them by Mr. Thomas of this city. It is a very beautiful fluted column, measuring from the base to the head of the statue 185 feet, only eight feet less than the Nelson monument, London. The base will contain a vault for the reception of the remains of General Brock and Colonel Macdonald. The statue at the summit will be of stone, 16 feet in height. A staircase of 250 steps will run from the base to the openings of the capital.—From The Globe of Saturday, Aug. 14, 1852.

CHIPPEWA'S MURDER.

Mrs. Franks Had Been Badly Frightened the Night Before.

POLICE WORKING VARIOUS CLUES

Provincial Detective Greer to Go and Hear the Evidence at the Inquest on Monday — Theory of the Doctors Seems to Coincide With That of the Police Authorities—Can't Find Weapon.

Chippewa, Sept. 27.—Although the police were unanimous last night in saying they had no clue to the murderer of Mrs. Jessie Franks, it is well understood that they are investigating along a line that promises some interesting developments. The authorities refuse to believe that more than one man was engaged in the terrible tragedy, or that a hatchet was used, as at first supposed, to inflict the injuries which caused the unfortunate woman's death. The marks on the rear door, by which the murderer entered the house, would indicate that a small "jimmy," sharpened at one end, had been used to force an entrance and slay the woman.

The police now insist that the murder was committed after the apartments of Miss Thomas, in the north side of the house, who was reputed to have considerable money, had been ransacked. They are strongly of the opinion that Mrs. Franks was not in the house when the murderer entered, but that she came in upon him when he was in the act of carrying off the valuables in the place.

For the past 36 hours nothing else has been talked about in Chippewa but the brutal murder of Mrs. Franks. Villagers gathered about the site of the tragedy yesterday and groups discussed the case and advanced various theories. Each had his own opinion of the case, and the motive for the murder. Searching parties were organized, and the ground for some distance about the house was gone over carefully in the hope of getting some trace of the instrument used by the murderer to force an entrance to the place and kill the woman. The search was made under the direction of Constable Lymburner of Chippewa, who, with Chief Mains of the Ontario police, is investigating the case.

There are any number of places close to the scene of the tragedy where the murderer could secret his weapon, and it is not to be wondered at that it has not been found. There is a creek which flows to the north of the house, and there is a possibility that the weapon has been thrown into the water by the fiend after leaving the scene of the murder.

The most important bit of evidence yet secured is a statement made yesterday by an inmate of the home of Dr. Gray, who explained that the dead woman had called on the doctor last Tuesday, but failed to find him. She gave her reason for the visit that she had received a severe fright, the night before, and that her heart would never be right again. She wanted some medicine. After being told that the doctor was out she left, saying that she would come back again in a short time. On the way home she met Mrs. James Office, and again related the incident, which caused her to become alarmed. Judging from the conversation she had with the murdered woman, Mrs. Office came to the conclusion that a man had looked in the deceased's window when she was retiring.

The dead woman seemed to take seriously the action of the man, whose name she did not mention, and talked of going to Buffalo for the winter months to live with friends who had spent the summer with her.

Yesterday Chief Mains was engaged in tracing the movements of the woman prior to the murder, and from his investigation he is fairly well convinced that Mrs. Franks met her death between the hours of 4 and 6.30 o'clock. The dead woman was last seen about 4 o'clock at an auction sale, at a neighbor's house, at which hour she left for home. From the condition in which the lamps are at present, it would appear that darkness had not set in when Mrs. Franks was murdered. The lamps have no evidence of having been lighted on the night of the tragedy. A villager, who knew the deceased well, declared last night that he had been speaking to a lady who had seen the deceased at the auction sale as late as 5.20 p.m. This would seem to indicate that the deceased had gone home and had returned a second time to the place where the sale was in progress.

An important point which has puzzled the officers on the case will in all probability be cleared up when the inquest is resumed by Drs. McGarry, jr., and Gray, who performed the autopsy. It was the presence in the drawing room where the woman received her death blows of a second pool of blood under a secretary in a corner. The terrible injuries to her head, the doctors say, show beyond a doubt that the woman was struck at least twice. The pool of blood in the corner got there, the doctors will contend, when the woman was struck the first time.

The theory the doctors will advance at the inquest, it is understood, is this: The murderer forced the rear door when Mrs. Franks was at the auction sale and was ransacking the apartments of Mrs. Thomas when the deceased returned home. Mrs. Franks did not notice anything unusual till after she had prepared supper. She was sitting at the table in the kitchen, when she heard footsteps, which caused her to go to the drawing-room. The murderer heard her coming and struck the first blow, causing her to reel around the drawing-room and fall insensible with her head under the secretary, and while in this condition she was outraged. After the murderer had accomplished his purpose he dragged her about two feet, and then inflicted the blow which caused her death. The fiend then dragged the body to the spot where it was found, and where he thought it could not be seen from the street.

The doctors form their opinion that Mrs. Thomas' room was ransacked before the murder was committed, from the fact that no blood stains were found in the room or on anything handled by the man who is now being sought by the police. It is known that the murderer's hands were smeared with blood, by the presence of finger marks on the towel found lying on the chair in the kitchen. There is no evidence that the man washed his hands. The doctors will all contend that the murderer was someone acquainted with the interior of the house.

Chief Mains yesterday afternoon wired to the Attorney-General, imploring the assistance of one of the Provincial detectives. A reply was received, stating that they were all busy, but Detective Greer would be sent in time to hear the evidence to be submitted at the adjourned inquest, to be held next Monday, at 11 a. m.

A. Fleming, a brother of the dead woman, wired last night that he was leaving South Bend, Indiana, and would be here this morning in time for the funeral, which takes place at 4 p. m.

SOLDIERS DEGRADED.

Sympathized With Strikers and Were Drummed Out of Camp.

ASSAULTED TWO NON-UNIONISTS

Farmers Organize to Protect Their Property—An Atrocious Outrage by a Strike Party—Bribe of $2,500 Each Offered by Unknowns to Tempt Union Strikers Back to Work—More Arrests.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 27.—Comparative quiet reigned in the Lackawanna region yesterday, but several instances of rioting were reported. Two or three more arrests were made in the case of James Winston, who was killed during Thursday's rioting at Olyphant. As an effect of Thursday's rioting, 25 of the non-union men employed at the Delaware & Hudson Company's Grassy Island, Eddy Creek and Olyphant No. 2 collieries quit work yesterday. Twenty-one men employed at Johnson No. 7 colliery of the Ontario & Western Company also quit. They told their foreman that they were afraid to continue working.

Sergt. Malia and Private Bryden were yesterday court-martialed and dishonorably discharged from the service, stripped of their uniforms and drummed out of the camp. The men were found guilty of assaulting two non-union men who were on their way to work. After their dismissal from camp they were placed under arrest and brought to this city to stand trial before Alderman Kasson for the assault. Their victims were Thomas Jerome and Thomas Jones. Both defendants were held in bail to answer in court.

The people of Forest City, just over the county line, awoke yesterday morning to find two companies of the Thirteenth, under Major Field, located in the town. They had been ordered to Forest City during the night, in response to the request of Sheriff Maxey for troops, as a result of the outbreak of the night before in which the non-union employes of the Hillside Coal and Iron Company were stoned and compelled to run for their lives. A guard has been placed around all the collieries of the place.

In a statement issued yesterday, District President Nicholls accuses Michael Grimes, an ex-mine foreman, of being "at the head of a movement inaugurated by the local companies to bribe a number of mine workers, for $2,500 apiece, to vote to return to work." Mr. Nicholls declares at the close of his statement that his "informants stand ready to prove their assertions in court.

One of the most atrocious outrages of the strike was reported from Dickson City yesterday afternoon. John Williams, a fire boss at Johnson breaker No. 2 was held up by a crowd of strikers while on his way home from work and one of his ears was cropped off close to the head. Then he was allowed to go on his way with a warning to quit work. He alleges that not all of his assailants were foreigners.

The farmers of the townships around Scranton have organized so as to protect themselves from the depredations of the strikers. They have employed armed guards, who have been sworn in as deputy sheriffs. One farmer reports that he was compelled to stand helpless in his orchard while a striker drove off with eight bushels of apples that he had stolen.

Frank Bailey, a non-union pump runner at the Johnston mine at Priceburg at 8 o'clock last night committed suicide in the office of Justice of the Peace Williams by shooting himself below the heart. He had been much worried recently by strikers, who were hounding him, and when he came to the office of the alderman and found that he could not do what he wanted with his own property without having his wife sign a deed of transfer, which he knew she would not do, he killed himself.

The Socialism of Love.

Washington, Sept. 27. — United States Commissioner Carroll D. Wright, who represented President Roosevelt in an investigation of the anthracite coal strike, has, after a thorough study of the labor problem from the most favorable vantage points, come to the conclusion that only in religion will its solution be found. Man's treatment of man is the measure of his advancement, and Mr. Wright, perhaps, believes that the relations of capital and labor must be worked out through the domination of an altruistic religion in industry and commerce. The golden rule that man should do as he would be done by, will, when it comes to be universally observed, effect the abolition of strikes and lockouts; the general permeation of society by the Christian spirit of altruism will bring in a new era for both employers and employed.

Seven Fishermen Perished.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 27.—A severe gale has been raging along the coast for the past few days doing much damage to property. Three more Labrador fishing schooners have been lost with their cargoes, but the crews escaped. A fourth schooner has been lost and the crew of seven of this vessel perished.

667 Persons Killed.

Simla, Sept. 27.—Further reports received here regarding the earthquake in Eastern Turkestan, lasting from Aug. 22 to Sept. 8, show that besides causing other damage, the town of Artush was reduced to ruins, that 667 persons were killed, and that 1,000 others were injured.

Towns Want Free Meat.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—The Legislative Assemblies of Bremen and Hamburg have voted by large majorities in favor of opening the frontiers to foreign live stock.

HANGED ON AN APPLE TREE.

James Russell of Elmwood Took His Own Life Friday Morning.

Elmwood, Sept. 27.—James Russell of this village committed suicide by hanging himself on an apple tree near his own house at 5.15 yesterday morning. Russell got up at 5 a. m., asked his wife where the key of the door was, stating he wanted to go out into the fresh air. After unlocking the door, he went out. This was the last seen of him alive. About half an hour afterwards, Mrs. Russell went out to gather up the fallen apples, which she usually does every morning, and was horrified to see her husband, with a piece of clothes line, about his neck, hanging from the tree. The limb from which he was hanging was only about five and one-half feet from the ground, and when found his feet was resting on, and his knees almost touching, the ground. Mr. Russell was fireman in Goodfellow & Howson's saw mill, where he worked until about two weeks ago, when the mill closed down. A widow, a daughter and three sons survive him.

ROYAL CANADIANS IN RIOT.

Thousand of Them Threaten to Rescue Comrades Imprisoned.

Halifax, Sept. 27.—A number of Royal Canadian soldiers, who were disorderly on Barrington street last evening, came into conflict with the police and serious trouble followed. Several arrests were made, but the police were not nearly strong enough to disperse the one thousand people who gathered near the police station. When the soldiers made threats of rescuing their comrades, the Imperial authorities were notified, and fifty Royal Engineers were despatched to the City Hall and held in readiness for any emergency that might arise, while double pickets from the Royal Artillery were ordered out to patrol the streets. The Canadians soon after returned to the barracks, the streets were cleared and no further trouble occurred.

TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

Count Corwin Sarnecial and his mother, both of them most prominent Polish aristocrats, are on trial at Vienna for frauds involving $20,000,000.

Lying at the Toronto Morgue is the body of an unknown man, which was taken from the Bay on Friday morning. The body is that of a man apparently a laborer, about 50 or 55 years of age.

The store of Eli Shilson at Snowflake, Man., was entered by burglars Thursday night, the safe blown open with dynamite, and a large amount of money taken. So far there is no clue to the thieves.

The "Digger" Cases.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—The trial of the first street car digger case was completed yesterday afternoon. The jury remains in the custody of officers, however, and will not deliberate until this morning. The counsel completed their arguments too late to permit the instructions to reach the jury. A decision will probably be rendered this afternoon. The feature of yesterday was a blow to the defence, the judge ruling against the admissability of evidence showing that the different men had seen Detective Caulfield, the Pinkerton, robbing the company fare boxes, handling diggers and giving them to different men.

Body Washed Ashore.

Ridgetown, Sept. 27.—Last evening about 6 o'clock the decomposed remains of a man were washed ashore in the vicinity of Bate's fishing grounds, on the shores of Lake Erie. The remains were perfectly nude, with the exception of one shoe. The features were so badly decomposed as to defy recognition. It is supposed that the body may be one of the crew of the two boats that were in collision off Rondeau light some six weeks ago.

Can't Prevent Emigration.

London, Sept. 27.—The Government of Roumania, through its Minister in London, has submitted a long exposition of the question of the treatment of Jews from the Roumanian standpoint, explaining that the Government is not in a position to prevent the emigration of Jews.

Accepts the Honor.

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Sir Louis Davies has wired to Mr. Adam Brown, Hamilton, accepting the proferred presidency of the Canadian Association of Charities.

A Scotch View

The exports of Canada have doubled in ten years, and her imports in the same period have increased by sixty per cent. As an illustration of how Canadian trade is making its way throughout the world it is mentioned that of the produce of the mills of Canada, in which there are now 550,000 spindles running, the cottons find their chief market in Australasia, and that in Germany there is a large demand for agricultural implements of Canadian manufacture. It is in keeping with all this, and to some extent no doubt a result of it, that the sentiment of political independence as regards the United States, has become stronger of recent years. There is no talk or thought nowadays of annexation to the States. Canada has become vastly more conscious of its own strength as a self-governing, if not an independent state, and is more than content to work out its destiny as an integral portion of the British Empire.—Aberdeen (Scotland) Free Press.

GREAT BRITAIN'S MANUFACTURING "DECAY."

The enemies of Great Britain are busy commenting on the decay of that country. Napoleon Bonaparte referred to her as a "Nation of Shopkeepers," and the taunt has been amply justified. John Bull is still keeping shop at the old stand, and is still doing a comfortable business. Great Britain will have to decay a good deal before her manufacturing capacity sinks to the level of any two of the most prosperous nations of the world. Figures issued by the United States Bureau of Statistics at Washington show that during the fiscal year ending last June the exports of manufactured goods for the four leading commercial nations of the world were as follows:

	Exports of Manufactured Goods.	Population.
United Kingdom	£230,000,000	40,000,000
Germany	150,000,000	56,000,000
France	85,000,000	39,000,000
United States	30,000,000	76,000,000

Before the United States can come up to the United Kingdom in her exports of manufactured goods she will have to increase her exports to £480,000,000 in place of £80,000,000, and Germany will have to double hers to equal England. This is not bad for poor old purblind decadent England with her infatuation for "the tetish, Free Trade."

The United States journals have had great fun to themselves poking weak fun at Great Britain on account of the prolongation of the South African war, yet this war is over several months, while the Philipino war, began a year earlier is still dragging its slow length along. Late advices from the Philippines report the natives still in active insurrection, with United States forces on the spot calling for reinforcements before attempting to carry an entrenched position. Great Britain had to fight a brave foe in an impassible country armed with the most deadly of modern weapons, while the United States have had to contend with a weak enemy armed with spears and other primitive weapons. As fighters there is no more comparison between the Boers and the Filippinos than there is between a bull dog and a lap dog.

"HAUNTS OF FISH AND GAME."

This is the title of an artistic little book just issued by the Grand Trunk Railway Publicity Department, in which the sportsman, the angler, the tourist and those who are seeking for health and alert for pleasure, may find information that will guide them in the choice of a rendezvous for a gratification for their tastes or the exercise of their skill. It tells of the charms of the Diamond Lake, the Highlands of Ontario, the Thousand Islands, and the St .Lawrence River, the Rideau River and Lakes, and Lake St. John. An interesting account is given of the successful experiment made by the Grand Trunk and the Ontario Government to replenish the waters of the northern lakes by transplanting parent bass. In all some 10,000 small mouth bass were transplanted from Lake Erie and distributed where needed. The cover of this brochure will at once strike the eye of the sportsman as it shows the deer as it becomes the mark for the hunter's rifle. A copy may be obtained free by applying to J. D. McDonald, D.P.A., Toronto.

ALASKA-SIBERIAN ROAD.

Russia Approves of Scheme of Irkoutsk to Yukon City Railway.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—The Russian Government receives favorably the project of the Trans-Alaskan-Siberian railway. The project of M. Loicq de Lobel of making a railway through Siberia and Alaska, joining the continents of Asia and America at the Behring Straits, either by a ferry or tunnel, was recently placed before the French President by the originator of the scheme. M. Loubet gave him his patronage. The route proposed is from Irkoutsk, via Jakoutsk, East Cape, Behring Straits, Prince of Wales Cape, to Yukon City. The Russian press has displayed strong interest in the project as a means of developing the mineral wealth of Siberia as well as Alaska.

FARMERS' INTEREST IN GOOD ROADS.

The Manifold Advantages of Well Constructed and Maintained Highways.

Bad roads constitute the greatest drawback to rural life, and for the lack of good raods the farmers suffer more than any other class. Some of the benefits that would accrue to farmers through the construction of good roads are:—

"Good roads, like good streets, make habitation along them most desirable; they economize time and force in transportation of products, reduce wear and tear on horses, harness and vehicles, and enhance the market value of real estate. They raise the value of farm lands and farm products and tend to beautify the country through which they pass; they facilitate rural mail delivery and are a potent aid to education, religion and sociability. Charles Sumner once said, "The road and the schoolmaster are the two most important agents in advancing civilization."

CHARACTERISTICS OF GOOD ROADS.

The aim in making a good road is to establish the easiest and most economical line of travel. It is therefore desirable that roads should be hard, smooth, comparatively level, or laid out on the ground so that their grades may be such that loaded vehicles may be drawn over them without great loss of energy; that they should be properly constructed, the ground well drained, the roadbed graded, shaped and rolled, and that they should be surfaced with the best material procurable; that they should be properly maintained or kept constantly in good repair.

The road that will best suit the needs of the farmer in the first place, must not be too costly; and, in the second place, must be of the very best kind, for farmers should be able to do their heavy hauling over them when their fields are too wet to work, and their teams would otherwise be idle.

The best road for the farmer, all things being considered, is a solid well-built stone road, so narrow as to be only a single track, but having a firm earth road on one or both sides. Where the traffic is not very extensive the purposes of good roads are better served by narrow tracks than by wide ones, while many of the objectionable features of wide tracks are removed, the initial cost of construction is cut down one-half or more, and the charges for repair reduced in proportion. Where beds of good gravel are available this is the simplest, cheapest and most effective method of improving country roads. With earth alone, however, a very passable road can be made, provided the principles of location, drainage and shape of surface, together with that of keeping the surface as smooth and firm as possible by rolling, be strictly adhered to. In fact a good earth road is second to none for summer travel, and superior to many of the so-called macadam or stone roads. But the earth roads must be covered with some artificial material, if they are to be made firm and unyielding at all seasons and in all kinds of weather, with a surface smooth and impervious to water.

GOOD ROADS TRAIN.

The Department of Public Road Inquiries and the National Good Roads Association of the United States combined their forces a couple of years ago for the purpose of furnishobject lessons on the construction and value of good roads to farmers in a large number of countries. A Good Roads Train was equipped and run between Chicago and New Orleans, building short sample stretches of model road, and holding local conventions in various counties along the route. By this means splendid educational work was done in the direction of impressing upon the people the desirability of better roads, and the facility with which they can be constructed.

Realizing the great good that would be accomplished if a similarly equipped train were operated in Canada, an effort was made early in 1901 to arrange for work of this sort in the Ottawa district. Chiefly through the exertions of Mr. H. B. Cowan of Ottawa, secretary of the Good Roads association of Eastern Ontario, the Sawyer-Massey Company, of Hamilton, Ont., manufacturers of road-making machinery, were induced to supply free of charge all the necessary machinery for such an enterprise and also three or four experts to take charge of and operate the machinery. The Canadian Portland Cement Company of Deseronto, aided the enterprise by donating some 150 to 200 barrels of cement for the construction of concrete culverts, which are much more satisfactory than wooden ones for drainage purposes. Further assistance was given the movement by the Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk, Canada Atlantic and Ottawa and New York Railway Companies, which all agreed to transport the necessary machinery and experts over their lines without charge.

SAMPLE STRETCHES OF ROAD.

It is desirable that all heavy traffic roads should be macadamized or gravelled, wherever the materials are available for the purpose. In order to give an object lesson on the value of such roads and the proper manner to build them, the Good Roads train was employed to build a model stretch of stone road from a third to a half mile in length, in each of ten counties and to roll and grade an additional stretch. The selection of the various stretches of road was left with the county councils, with the understanding that the township councils should furnish all the necessary stone, teams, labourers, etc. Owing to the heavy expense incurred, each county council was asked to make a grant of $100 for each stretch of road built.

In building these sample roads, the first thing is to provide the necessary drainage, which is the fundamental principle of road making. The roadbed is then shaped with the grader, making the centre considerably higher than the sides so that the water will readily run off into the ditches. After rolling with the big steam roller a trench about eight feet wide and six inches deep is cut down the centre of the road. Into this trench is put first a layer of coarse broken stone, then a layer of fine stone, lastly a layer of still finer stone as a dressing. This last layer helps to bind all the stone into a solid mass, while the sides of the trench hold it all in place. The ten ton steam roller is run over each layer of stone as it is put on. The rolling is always done down the sides of the trench first, so that the stones will be crowded towards the centre. When the rolling of the sample stretch is completed, the stone should be about seven inches deep, which is sufficient to stand ordinary traffic. Such a road may heave to a slight extent in some localities, but the expense of keeping it in repair will be much less than for an ordinary clay road.

COST OF SUCH ROADS.

Roads such as these which have been built by the Good Roads train cost anywhere from $500 to $1000 per mile, according to management and cost of material. The average stone road costs from $600 to $750 per mile. Such roads need a certain amount of repairing, the same as other roads, but not much.

The number of cords of stone required for a mile of road depends altogether upon the depth of stone laid down. If laid on eight feet wide and eight inches deep in the centre, it would take about 220 to 240 cords per mile.

OUTFIT OF MACHINERY.

A traction engine for hauling the grader, and working the crusher, a crusher, elevator bins, spreading waggons, and a five or six ton horse roller, would cost altogether about $2,800, and this outfit would be sufficient to do all the work for any ordinary municipality. — F. W. Hodson.

"MADE IN CANADA."

Evidence of Large Imports of Iron and Steel Manufactures.

Mr. Thomas E. Aikenhead, of the Aikenhead Hardware Company, discussed with the Toronto Star to-day the question of why the imports of iron and steel manufactures into Canada ran away up into the millions of dollars annually.

"A lot of our hardware is made in Canada, all right," said he, "but there is pretty keen competition in many lines, especially from the United States manufacturers."

"Why is that?"

"Because the manufacturers across the line use the Canadian market as a dumping ground for their surplus products. That is, a manufacturer may sell 65 per cent. of his output in the United States at a profit of 50 per cent., and then he will be content to sell the other 35 per cent. at a profit of 25 per cent. It is good enough business I suppose on his part. He doesn't use the Canadian market unless he has a surplus he cannot dispose off at home, but if he has a surplus he comes over here and cuts prices.

"In plenty of instances he pays the whole duty into Canada. His traveller comes over here and finds locks cost the retailer here $30 a dozen, for instance, just what they cost him in Buffalo. If he quoted $30 a dozen to the Toronto dealer it would cost $39 a dozen to lay the locks down here, paying a 30 per cent. duty. So he cuts his price to $23, thus paying the whole duty. Of course he gets an abnormal profit at home.

"Naturally he seeks foreign markets only when the home market is hausted, and just at present the home market is very active. I returned only last evening from a trip though the Centre West, and to Cleveland and Pittsburg. What struck me was the enormous demand for steel everywhere. Box cars are being made of steel everywhere in the States now, and you can readily see what a demand that will oreate. Then the skp-scraper buildings, thirty or thirty-five storeys in height—you have no idea what a quantity of steel is consumed in one of those. The demand has gone up by leaps and bounds in the past three years, and steel production has increased two and a half times in that interval. Moreover they were filling orders out of stock then, and now one scarcely knows when one can get an order filled.

"A lot of our steel comes from Belgium. We had an order of 50 tons to fill for the new rifle ranges at Long Branch, and we had to go to Belgium for it. We inquired at Pittsburg, but they said it would be ninety days anyway before they could fill it. We then ordered by cable to Belgium, and we had the girders on the ranges in thirty days after the cable was sent, and at a cost of 20 per cent. less than the Pittsburg prices."

"Could steel girders not be manufactured in Canada?"

"Now, you had better ask the Nova Scotia Steel and Iron Company about that. They have been preparing in that line for five years."

Incidentally Mr. Aikenhead remarked that he thought the tariff was plenty high enough on hardware. The duty was about 30 to 35 per cent., and on some lines is very much higher. For instance, on table cutlery there is a specific duty as well as an ad valorem duty which sometimes runs the protection up to 100 per cent. in some cases.

"If the Canadian manufacturers can't compete with a protection like that they ought to quit," said Mr. Aikenhead.

CRIMINAL STATISTICS.

Charges and Convictions Both Lessened in 1901 as Compared With 1900.

The report of criminal statistics of the Dominion for the year 1901 has been published, and shows a decrease of 128 in the number of charges for indictable offences, while the convictions are 130 less than in 1900. The percentage of convictions is .51 less than in 1900.

The males convicted show a decrease of 92 against those of 1900, while the females convicted in seven years have decreased 2.93 per cent., and have a decrease of 38 cases in the last year. During the year England supplied 6.35 per cent. of the persons convicted; Ireland, 2.9 per cent.; Scotland, 1.07 per cent.; Canadian born, 72.01 per cent.; United States, 4.04 per cent.; other foreign countries, 16 per cent.; other British possessions, .13 per cent. This record shows that the foreign element furnishes proportionately the largest number of convictions.

The majority of serious crimes of the country were "offences against property." There has been a decrease in juvenile criminals of the female sex, while the juvenile criminals of the male sex have most disproportionately increased. The report says this fact should be studied carefully by judge, preacher and teacher. There has been an increase in the number of convictions for infraction of the liquor laws and 512 convictions for drunkenness over the returns for 1900. There were 1,207 women convicted out of the 12,727 convictions in 1901.

The increase of lunacy is 22.76 per cent. over the number of cases in 1891, while the population increased but 11.76. There was a decrease in crime in Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Ontario, the Yukon and British Columbia; the Territories showing an increased ratio, while Nova Scotia and Quebec show a small increase. The report of urban crime showed a proportion of 29.80 in every 10,000 inhabitants, 9the rural 2.35 in every 10,000.

In regard to the social evil the yearly average of convictions is 912. There has been an increase in the number of convictions.

Under the ticket of leave system 291 were granted, and only 5 were forfeited, the holders commiting indictable offences, or for other causes. During the year the death sentence was pronounced on six people, three of whom were executed, the others imprisoned for life.

The returns by occupation show the convictions in the agricultural, commercial, domestic, professional and labouring classes decreased. The industrial class only has not improved.

The percentage of the religion of the convicted is: Anglicans, 12.67; Methodists, 17.07; Presbyterians, 15.68; Baptists, 6.50; Roman Catholics, 41.50.

With regard to drinking the report says about one-third of the criminals were people who drank.

In regard to education the report shews that the number of those having elementary education who were convicted remains about the same in seven years, but the number of those convicted who were unable to read has decreased considerably. The convictions in the educated classes, however, have increased over 3 per cent. in seven years. The effect of matrimony is shown to be beneficial on the morals. In every 10,000 married men nearly 13 are criminals.

The report states that the number of married women convicted is greater than the number of single women.

Population in Australia.

Magnificent cities have arisen in Australia with a rapidity which has no parallel elsewhere. There has been in fact, an altogether abnormal aggregation of population in the chief capitals, and this has unquestionably retarded the material development of the States. The aggregation of population is most conspicuous in the cases of Melbourne, Sydney and Adelaide. The causes which have produced this serious state of things have, so far, not been successfully combatted, though statesmanship has attempted the solution of the problem. It certainly cannot be for the advantage of the community that the population of both Sydney and Melbourne should number close upon half a million, or more than one-third of the total population of each State. The amusements and variety offered in the metropolitan centres proves overwhelmingly attractive in comparison with the monotonous round of everyday duty prevailing in the rural districts.

"They who tell us that the Bush is dull are not so far astray,
For this eucalyptic cloisterdom is anything but gay."

Excluding the State capitals, there are only about six cities in the whole of Australasia with a population of over 40,000, and of these three are situated in New Zealand. The metropolitan cities all take a position of importance out of all proporation to their population. There are plenty of provincial centres in this country which would eclipse them in respect of numbers and wealth, and in some respects in architectural beauty, but which, nevertheless, are distinctly inferior to them in almost everything which represents general culture, social refinement and that wider outlook on life, which is usually characteristic of cities, enjoying metropolitan importance. Education is widely diffused throughout the states, but finds its chief expression in the capitals, where the universities are situated, and where a gay and joyous social life prevails, not without pronounced elements of luxury, and where a persistent search after pleasure, sport and relaxation is maintained, which greatly impresses the casual visitor. —The British Australasian.

Lord Rosebery one time sat next to a farmer at his estate dinner, and the confiding man whispered to the host when the ice pudding was brought, "The pudding has been frozen." DEAD EMPEROR OF COREA.

Ruler of "Hermit Kingdom" Ends His Notable Career.

Paris, Sept. 27.—Ch'ao-Hsien, Emperor of Corea, who is reported to be dead, ascended the throne in 1864. He did not assume the title of Emperor until Oct. 13, 1897. He was reckoned as the thirtieth in succession since the founding of the present dynasty of 1892. The heir to the throne is his son Eni Wha, a prince who has received a modern education and adopted European costume.

If the reported death of the Emperor is confirmed the affairs of the Hermit kingdom may give several of the European powers cause for uneasiness. Great Britain and Japan recently signed a treaty guaranteeing the territorial integrity of Corea. Russia has long been suspected of designs upon the kingdom, and Japan has assumed, without declaring, a protectorate.

Under the reign of Ch'ao-Hsien, Corea made a great advance in the road to civilization. Up to 1894, when the Chino-Japanese war began, Corea was an absolute monarchy under Chinese suzerainty.

The war emancipated the Coreans. The ruler granted a limited constitution in 1899. Schools were established, railroads built, and mines opened. Ch'ao-Hsien proved, in later years, a liberal monarch. He welcomed foreigners to the kingdom and opened a number of ports to the commerce of the world. Ch'ao-Hsien signalized the departure from Corea's traditional policy by sending envoys to the powers. He also opened Government schools in Seoul, his capital, to enable the Corean youth to study English, French, Russian and Japanese.

A Prominent Clergyman Says:

"Paine's Celery Compound Purifies the Blood and Revives the System."

No Other Medicine in the World Has Ever Achieved Such Wonderful Victories Over Disease and Suffering.

Paine's Celery Compound has wrought marvellous cures for suffering men and women in every section of the Dominion. It has the endorsation of some of the best men and women in Canada, because they have found the great remedy to be exactly what was claimed for it. Scores of prominent clergymen have written to its praise and recommend it when they have opportunity. Rev. D. J. Leishman, of Angus, Ont., gives his own personal experience as follows:

"I have always found Paine's Celery Tonic an excellent nerve tonic and have frequently recommended it to persons suffering from nervous debility and sleeplessness. I believe it to be a most powerful medicine. It also purifies the blood and revives the system. Give it a fair trial and it will in all these cases be found helpful."

Equal to the Situation.

An unfortunate mishap recently befel a theatrical company touring in Queensland. They could only muster one frock coat, which had to be used by the doctor and the villain of the piece in turn. One night the manager borrowed a pair of hand-cuffs from the local police station. At the right dramatic moment they were clicked on the villain's wrists, amid loud applause. Imagine the dismay when it was found that the key of the hand-cuffs had been forgotten, and the one and only frock coat was securely locked to the villain. The doctor, who was waiting in his shirt sleeves in the wings, had no alternative but to go as he was. He was equal to the situation, however, and at once explained that he had driven in his haste through pelting rain and left his frock coat outside to be dried.

The New Treatment.

Hundreds of people who have gone the rounds of physicians and patent medicines have found a cure in Merrill's System Tonic. This new medicine cures disease by toning all the principal organs in the body, thus enabling nature to throw off the disease. It is the greatest blood purifier known. Price 50 cents per bottle at Ormond & Walsh's.

A TORNADO OF DEATH

The Cyclonic Storm Lasted for a Whole Day.

A STORM PATH 124 MILES LONG.

Everything in the Line of the Storm Was Destroyed—Over Four Hundred People Perish—Railway Rails Torn Up and Hurled a Great Distance—Modica Town Badly Devastated.

London, Sept. 26.—A despatch from Rome to-day announces that a severe tornado has swept over Catania (a city on the east coast of Sicily). Catania is flooded, and many houses, including the villa Bellini, have been damaged. The railroads have suffered seriously.

The tornado also wrought havoc at Modica (a town of Sicily, 30 miles from Syracuse), where several persons were killed.

Mount Etna, a short distance from Catania, shows further signs of activity, and the volcano of Stromboli, off the north coast of Sicily, is still active.

MODICA'S BAD PLIGHT.

Masses of Mud and Heavy Stones Carried Everything in Their Course.

Syracuse, Sicily, Sept. 26.—A large portion of the low lying part of Modica has been destroyed.

The torrents rose suddenly and brought with them masses of mud and heavy stones and invaded the buildings of Modica. They carried away everything in their course. many houses were utterly wrecked and others were seriously damaged. Numerous animals perished. The number of victims is still unknown, but eighty corpses have been deposited in the morgue.

For twenty-four hours before the cyclone burst over the island a violent storm raged on the eastern coast of Sicily. The path of the cyclone was 124 miles long and everything in the line of the storm was destroyed. The sea swept inland for several kilometres doing enormous damage, while there were violent submarine agitations between Sicily and the main land. Along the railway from Catania to Palermo the forces of the cyclone was such that rails were turned up and hurled a great distance.

It is reported from Modica that a hundred bodies already have been found, but that the number of dead swept away by the torrent is unknown.

The newspaper Fracassa expresses the belief that some four hundred people have been killed.

The torrent destroyed everything on the ground floors in the houses in the lower portions of Modica. Bridges and roads have disappeared and damage amounting to many millions lire has been done. The survivors of the catastrophe have taken refuge in the hills. A relief committee and search parties have been organized at Modica. The disaster is supposed to have been due to a marine water spout. The German steamer Caprera was wrecked at Catania after a terrible struggle with the waves.

Evans Burglars Described.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—The Whalley inquest was again adjourned, after a fruitless night, until Oct. 10. Watchman Johnson related the circumstances of his talking with the man who attempted to fire the building the night of May 3. He said he did not get a good look at the man. "The man's back was towards me most of the time. He was about 5 feet 9 inches, young, dark, smooth shaven, cheek bones a little prominent, his hair was long and worn down over his eyes, and his hat was on the back of his head.

"I have seen a man resembling this one, but not enough to swear to it. That man was Arnott White, but Turner and I were not satisfied that White was the man we had seen that night."

J. B. Turner, who was a detective with the C.P.R. in May, but is not with the company now, corroborated Johnston's story. He said that Arnott White was not the man.

Other witnesses threw no light on the mystery.

A Fugitive Gains Liberty.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—Louis Cohen of New York, who was arrested here some time ago for extradition on a charge of stealing $15,000 worth of jewelry from New York merchants, is once more a free man. He was released yesterday by Judge Langelier of the Superior Court, on a writ of habeas corpus taken out by his counsel. The case bears considerable similarity to the Gaynor-Greene case, and Judge Langelier's decision is regarded as important.

BENT DOUBLE WITH BACKACHE.

A Severe Case of Backache, Urinary Trouble, Dizziness and Headache Which Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Cured Completely.

Another Lindsay Gentleman who has Reason to Thank Dr. Pitcher for His Splendid Remedy.

Not long ago we published in this paper an account of the remarkable recovery of Mr. Jas. Murdock, of Lindsay, Ont., who was cured of a very severe attack of kidney and bladder trouble by Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, after two prominent Lindsay doctors were unable to help him.

It was through hearing of Mr. Murdock's cure that led Mr. Geo. Duke, a well known and highly respectable Lindsay young man in the employ of Mr. W. S. Braund, of that town, to try Dr. Pitcher's remedy for the distressing backache and kidney complaints with which he was afflicted, and for which he could find no relief in ordinary treatment.

What Mr. Duke Says.

"I feel it my duty to add my few words in praise of a remedy that has such merit as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

"For some months I had been troubled with a severe pain in the back so bad at times that I was bent nearly double, and to stoop over or rise up caused me a great deal of suffering. My bladder was also affected, and at times it was irritable, and I had to go quite often, both day and night. Then again the urine was scanty and of a high colour. In addition to this, I was troubled with headache, dizziness and a general feeling of sickness.

"In the region of the kidneys there was considerable tenderness, and I could not bear to be touched on account of the pain. I noticed in the papers the testimony of Mr. Jas Murdock, of this town and made up my mind to try the Tablets. I am thankful I did. They worked wonders. They gave me relief and helped me after the first half box, and when I had used them for a time I was completely cured. I am feeling splendid now—not a pain or ache. Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets positively cured me, and I am glad to have this opportunity of telling what the Tablets have done for me.

(Signed) "GEORGE DUKE."

Mr. Braund's Confirmation.

"I may say that Mr. George Duke is a clerk in my employ, and was for a time in the condition above stated by himself.

"I know that he has been taking Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and that he is now well and working every day. He says he was cured by those Tablets and I believe him.

(Signed) "W. S. BRAUND."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the newest and most up-to-date treatment for backache, lame or weak back, swelling of the feet and legs, bloating and dropsical conditions, pain or distress in urination, sediment in the urine, too frequent calls during the day or night, rheumatism, dragging pains in the loins, mist before the eyes, persistent headaches, dizzy spells, kidney troubles of women, kidney weakness of children and old people, and all forms of kidney, bladder and urinary difficulties.

Price fifty cents a bottle or three bottles for $1.25 at all druggists or sent by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Company, Toronto, Ont.

WELSH COAL FOR CANADA.

Manchester Engineer at Swansea Taking on 7,000 Tons.

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—A private letter dated Sept. 12, received here from Wales, says that the fine new steamer Manchester Engineer, was due at Swansea in the course of a week to take 7,000 tons of locally worked anthracite coal for Montreal.

This is not only the largest cargo of coal ever shipped from Swansea, but one of the biggest on record from the Bristol Channel.

It also exceeds in tonnage any coal cargo that has been sent to the western hemisphere from the United Kingdom.

Another vessel was loading 3,000 tons and a third 4,000 tons also for Montreal and Quebec.

Milner Will Not Talk.

Cape Town, Sept. 26.—Lord Milner, British High Commissioner in South Africa, to-day declined to receive a deputation which wanted to discuss with him the questions of taxation and the charges on the new colonies. Lord Milner acted on the ground that the Government proposals were not yet known, and that it was useless to discuss newspaper forecasts of them.

Cured by Ozone of Scrofula.

The hideous evidences of scrofula are very embarrassing to everyone who is afflicted by it. The sores on one's face—disfiguring and unsightly—are exceedingly humiliating to everybody, particularly to some young girl who cherishes her appearance and longs to have a clear and beautiful complexion.

Miss Edyth Cooper of Cornwall, suffered severely with scrofula, and tried every possible means to get well. She could obtain nothing that could do her good until she tried Ozone. She's a warm friend of Ozone's now. Read the letter she sends us.

"After suffering from scrofula for a long time, for which medical aid seemed of no avail, I started to use Ozone, and to-day am thankful for the complete cure it has performed in my case. I could fill columns with words of gratitude, and then not express the joy I feel at having found such a wonderful product which cured me after physicians had pronounced my case incurable.

"I cannot recommend your Ozone too highly."

(Signed) Miss Edyth Cooper, Cornwall, Ont.

Physicians, druggists and men who know about it, endorse Powley's Liquified Ozone because it is so good in curing disease. Ask your druggist about it the next time you see him. He may know someone who has tried it on a bad case of scrofula and he can tell you just what the results were.

ENGLISH THEN AND NOW.

Boers Found Them Infinitely Better Than Did Sir William Wallace.

When John Balliol and Robert Bruce were contending for the throne of Scotland, Edward I. of England, as umpire, decided in favor of John. A few years later this arrangement was overthrown and Edward endeavored to conquer the country. He found his most powerful opponent in Sir William Wallace, who after the victory of Cambus Kenneth expelled the English. Edward speedily raised a fresh army, and returning to the attack defeated the Scotch at Falkirk on July 22, 1298. Thousands fell on the field, but Wallace escaped with a handful of men. A large reward was offered for his capture, and being taken he was carried to London in chains as a traitor, though he had never acknowledged Edward as his Sovereign and owed him no fealty. Stowe describes the sensation which the arrival of this famous warrior as a captive created in the Metropolis. Crowds assembled to gaze on him. He was conducted on horseback to Westminster by Sir John Segrave, late Governor of Scotland, with the Mayor, Sheriffs, and Aldermen of London in attendance. In Westminster hall he was insulted by being crowned with laurel when placed at the Bar, because he had been reported to have said that he ought to be crowned there. He was condemned as a traitor, and executed with every circumstance of ignomy at the Elms in West Smithfield on Aug. 23, 1305. To this place Wallace was drawn at the tails of horses, and after being hanged, while he yet breathed, his bowels were taken out and burnt before his face. His head was then struck off and his body divided into quarters, one of which was sent to be exposed at Newcastle, another at Berwick, a third at Perth, and the fourth at Aberdeen, his head being stuck on a pole on London-bridge. So much did they in that day fail to realize the everlasting infamy attendant on the unworthy treatment of the noble ones of our race—the intrepid defenders of the liberties of their country.

A Brilliant Passage.

From The Times' report of the final review by the King of the Indian troops the following brilliant passage may be extracted:—

What traditions these troops carried in their records, what memories of a century of war under the eastern sun; even of modern times, what stirring histories belonged to the row of medals which appeared on nearly every breast. It will suffice to refer to perhaps the most picturesque incident in that brilliant march past, the passing of the ancient colors of the 2nd Gourkhas, the regiment of which the King is honorary Colonel. They carried two sets of scarred and tattered ribbons on poles. The first had been carried by the regiment from 1844 to 1850, through the bloody campaign of the Sutlej—the carnage-swept fields of Aliwal and Sobraon. What a record of heroism lies wound among the blackened silks of those colors! The other set had been carried by the same regiment through the struggle of the Mutiny, and had been planted upon the shot-riven ridge at Delhi. And there were men supporting the King at this review who had seen them planted there. Is it to be wondered that every hand was raised in mute salute when those war-scarred harbingers of victory were carried past the King?

Saved His Laundry Bill.

A customer in our store put it uniquely recently by saying the 25c he spent for a bottle of Four T's saved him an extra quarter in laundry bills. The only thing he was out was the cold in the head. THE FUEL SITUATION.

Especially in the Matter of Wood—Local Consumers Have the Preference.

The public are anxious for information regarding the local fuel situation, and any contribution to this end will be read with interest.

To a representative of the Examiner this morning, Mr. Hicks, of R. Hicks & Co., said;

"Any coal we have on hand was sold or arranged for long ago. We have no favoured customers, and are not keeping any coal for anybody in particular."

In regard to wood, Mr. Hicks said; "We have plenty of hard wood, but we are trying to make it go as far as possible, and are trying to persuade people to accept a delivery of a single cord at a time, so that the supply may be more generally spread out, and that as many as possible may be supplied.

"We are selling hard wood at $6.50 per cord, and the wood is an extra fine quality of hard maple. We have been offered by Toronto buyers a good paying price for all our stock in the yards, and on the lakes as well, but we prefer to look first after the local supply — if we fail the public when there is a scarcity we can't expect their favours under ordinary conditions; you know 'The best friend is the friend in need.'

"The price of $6.50 for hardwood cannot be considered excessive under the circumstances. It is much less, in proportion, than the price of $9 per cord, for hardwood, which is paid in Toronto. As a general rule there is only a difference of 50 cents or $1 a cord between Peterborough and Toronto prices for hardwood. A difference of $2.50 shows the difference between Peterborough methods and those of some Toronto dealers."

It is understood, though not on their own authority that the remarks and attitude of Hicks & Company represent the fuel situation with regard to Messrs. Scott & Hogg, Wills & Good, and Fitzgerald & Co.

Deceased was one of the best known railway men on this division of the Grand Trunk, having been in the employ of the company for over tweenty years. Mr. Jobbitt had been ill for some months with kidney trouble and for the past few weeks has been resting at his home in Haliburton. On the 12th of March last he was married to Miss Lumsden, a daughter of Mr. Andrew Lumsden, of this town, and the earnest sympathy of a host of friends will go out to the young wife and to other relatives residing in this town.

LAID AT REST.

The Funeral of the Late Michael Reilley.

The funeral of the late Michael Reilley took place at nine o'clock this morning from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Joseph Kelly, Bethune street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery, for interment. The funeral was attended by many of the town's leading citizens, including a number of the employees of the Lock Works. The bearers were Messrs. T. H. Fortye, E. Ward, and Jas. Cochrane, representing the Lock Works, and Messrs. J. Clancy, J. P. Bryson and John O'Brien, representing the Foresters, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. John O'Brien sang the mass at the church and conducted the service at the grave. The local members of the Knights of Columbus attended in a body, the late Mr. Reilley having also been a member of that Order.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Murray Street Baptist Mission Band.

The annual meeting of the Murray street Baptist Mission Band was held last evening in the school room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. Miss Ada Bradshaw, Secretary of the Band, read the report of the nominating committee, and the following officers were elected for the coming year;

President—Mrs. G. K. Martin.
Vice-President—Mrs. Bastow.
Secretary—Miss Ada Bradshaw.
Treasurer—Miss Ella Cochrane.
Organist—Miss Vieva Hunter.
Asst. Organist—Miss Fanny Kemp.
Committee—Miss Annie Hardill, Miss Clara Kidd, Mr. James Ellis and Maxwell Yelland.

After the election of officers had taken place, the Treasurer's report was read by Miss Ella Cochrane, and Miss Ada Bradshaw read the Secretary's report. The following programme was then rendered—Chorus by eight members of the band; solo by Master Roy Scott; chorus by ten members of the band. Then followed the personating of the Missionaries, each one telling of the work the different Missionaries are doing on their respective fields. Mr. J. Ellis represented Mr. Reekie; Clara Kidd represented Miss Simpson; Vieva Hunter represented Miss Hatch; George Martin represented Mr. Davis.

The gathering was then favoured by a recitation by Morley Gurney, and then followed the most interesting part of programme — the "Toadstools." A number of little ones, representing toadstools, recited, and this was heartily encored. Miss Dixon, of the Young Women's Christian Association, addressed the meeting, and was followed by Clifton Kidd, who gave a recitation. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Dixon for her valuable address, which was enjoyed by all.

Citizens Becoming Interested in the Peterborough Agricultural Society.

It is understood that informal meetings are being held by those of Peterborough's citizens who are desirous of seeing the Peterborough Agricultural Society placed on a sound basis. The matter was up for discussion last night at a meeting at which there were present, Mr. J. M. Brooks, President of the Peterborough Turf Club; F. H. Dobbin, President of the Agricultural Society; A. Rountree, Secretary Turf Club; A. Elliott, Alderman Turner, T. E. Bradburn, R. Jackson, R. J. Munro and others.

After an informal discussion it was decided to ask the Mayor to call a general meeting of business men some evening next week, in order to take definite action.

Sunday Funerals.

The Directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company beg again to make it known that funerals cannot take place at this cemetery on Sundays, unless on certificate that it is actually necessary there should be immediate burial. This regulation was passed at the request of a number of ministers of the town some months ago, but the frequency with which the request is made for Sunday burial would indicate that the public is not aware of the rule, which will be enforced in future.

"A WHITE AUSTRALIA."

An Interesting Essay That won First Prize.

The Author is a Nephew of Mr. John Green of Town—From an Australian Magazine.

(Concluded from yesterday)

It then seems to be a question of wage. The planter, factor or grazier, can get black labour at a cost much less than what the white labourer demands. A great deal of this labour is mechanical, so that any skill or superior intelligence, such as white labourers possess in a greater or less degree, is of little account to the employer. On utilitarian grounds the case for the coloured labourer is a strong one. But he who takes his stand on that plank alone will quickly find that he is undermining the base on which his plank is resting. The aspect must be from a point which commands a far wider view. How does this matter affect our country from a social, a political — yes, even a national—point of view? Ever-increasing supplies of black labour, of coloured workers, of Asiatic competitors, would soon disturb the trades and manufactures which are established. The keener competition of the alien with the lowest grade of our workers would plunge thousands into poverty. The customs and vices which prevail in the suffocating cities of Eastern Asia, becoming engrafted on our society, would sadly lower the tone of its morality. There cannot be opinions regarding such a result. Unrestricted importation of coloured labour is not to be thought of.

The social condition of the United States is largely influenced by the millions of African blood who call that country their home. It is not a question of admission or exclusion that lies before the people of the United States, but of minimising the dangers that threaten from ever-increasing numbers of a mighty coloured race already securely settled within. This is a problem much more difficult than that with which Australia has at present to deal. The question may arise whether we have any reason to fear an invasion of coloured races from external causes — causes wholly beyond the control of the people of Australia, or even of the British Empire as a whole. A few years ago an eminent English military authority studied the possibility of the more advanced European nations being crushed by the power of greater numbers from the East. He made full allowance for the immense superiority of the West in military strength, colonization, wealth, commerce and industrial skill, and by careful weighing he arrived at the conclusion that all these potent factors would have to give way before the force of numbers, and that China with her multi-millions would steadily march onwards till she dominated the civilized world. The deduction seemed serious enough and was seriously credited by many who traversed the arguments. But what nation heeds China to-day! At the mere muttering of a European storm that country is shaken to its centre, its very existence dependent on the words of a few European statesmen. The mighty Mahommedan empire threatened to engulf the world, but the once irresistible stopped, receded and was rolled back upon itself by the march of the West towards the East. The instances afforded by ancient history but confirm us in the belief that force of numbers alone is not sufficient to displace superior nations. As a unit of the British empire our land is safe from any invasion by coloured races through external causes, whether peaceful or warlike.

The prospects of Australia in regard to this matter are wholly with ourselves. The danger threatens from within. Unwise importation will surely lead to economic and social disaster. On the other hand, harsh and unreasoning exclusion will possibly lead us into political dilemmas from which we may find it difficult to extricate ourselves. The mother land may not be able to support us should our legislators be influenced by the clamour of short-sighted demagogues. England has entered into a close alliance with Japan. We as part of the British empire feel that the union strengthens our position, and we regard the mutual agreement with a source of satisfaction. But is there not in this a call—yea, even a demand—for a policy of moderation in dealing with the admission to Australia of those of Japanese race? And this moderation may safely be extended to the best of the Asiatic races.

The future of our Australian nation is placed in able hands, but very keen watching of the coloured alien question is necessary, not for legislators only but for every person in the commonwealth. Restriction, not galling, but administered with wisdom and consideration, promises a happy issue to this troublesome question. Having a limited number of coloured workers with us they will gravitate to that class of labour from which the white worker is glad to be freed. Competition between black and white will be at a minimum, and by the peaceable subdivision of labour the wealth of the country will be enhanced, and contentment will prevail in the ranks of the humble toiler.

BOARD OF TRADE TALKS BONUSING.

Question of Attracting Manufacturing Industries.

BOARD BACKS THE COUNCIL.

Trent Valley Canal Completion Discussed—Hint of New Industries Wanting Location—Views of Aldermen and Leading Citizens.

A meeting of the Board of Trade of the Town of Peterborough was held in the Town Council Chamber last evening, when matters pertaining to the location of manufacturing establishments in Peterborough were discussed, and resolutions relative thereto were passed.

The meeting at the hour at which the president, Mr. D. W. Dumble, took the chair, was not very representative, but later on a number of the prominent business men of the town put in an appearance, and took part in the discussion which followed. Among those in attendance were Messrs. T. A. S. Hay, Robert Clinkscale, Joseph Batten, W. H. Meldrum, W. G. Ferguson, R. Kingan, Dr. Morrison, J. H. Burnham, A. L. Davis, Jas. Stevenson, John Nugent, J. H. Smith, R. B. Rogers, G. M. Roger, J. J. Turner, F. H. Dobbin, T. E. Bradburn, T. Q. Quartermaine, and a number of others.

The president in his opening address expressed his regret that there was not a larger attendance of members when matters of so much importance were up for discussion. They had all no doubt seen in the local papers that there were at the present time certain manufacturing establishments asking inducements to locate in Peterborough. The members of the council were desirous at all times of ascertaining the views of the ratepayers in regard to such matters, as without such views they were very often placed in an embarrassing position. There should be, the chairman thought, some definite line of policy laid down, by which the council might be governed regarding how far they might go in the inducements they might offer to manufacturers. That being the case the Board of Trade, which should represent the views of the people, should consider from time to time such questions, and keep the Town Council posted in that regard. Proceeding with his remarks the president spoke despondently of the small attendance. (His remarks on this line perhaps would not have been warranted had the attendance been as large at the opening of the meeting as it was later on.)

As to the system of bonusing, Mr. Dumble proceeded to say that he was satisfied that the prosperity of our town depended upon the success of our manufacturing institutions, and by a wide and prudent policy in the matter of bringing manufacturing establishments to Peterborough we might attain much success. He was against the principle of offering bonuses, but other cities were resorting to this system, and we must come to the front at a manufacturing centre if we want to be in the march of progress. If we are to offer inducements to manufacturers, we must have some fixed policy, so that the Town Council will have some idea of the extent of the concessions to be granted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

When the president asked for the reading of communications, the following telegram was presented;

Toronto, Sept. 26th, 1902.
T. Q. Quartermaine, Secretary Board of Trade, Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—Detained by business. Linen and Marble factories assured if town does its part. Hopes meeting takes strenuous action regarding capturing manufactories. This is Peterborough's chance of a life-time to corral American branches. Am taking big American trip shortly to secure several manufacturies, now preparing for removal. Hope for co-operation of town.

J. ALEX. CULVERWELL.

From Chas. Tiff, Secretary of the Hamilton Board of Trade, asking for a copy of the Peterborough Board of Trade's printed by-law.—Granted.

From Geo. Hadrill, Secretary Montreal Board of Trade as follows: This Board has under consideration the desirability of endeavouring to secure the holding in this city of the next Congress of Chamber of Commerce of the Empire, which will probably take place in September next year, and interviews with the Dominion Ministers and the Provincial Premiers have encouraged the Council in that idea; moreover the President of this Board when recently in the Mother Country, visited the leading trade centres there and sought to enlist the co-operation of the several Chambers of Commerce in the project and received sufficient encouragement to warrant the Council in continuing its efforts in the matter.

The Council is now about to issue a formal invitation to the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire to hold their next Congress in this city, and would like to be authorized to do so in the name of the Boards of Trade of the whole Dominion, and I am therefore to ask that you will advise me at the earliest possible date whether your Board will for itself give such authorization for that invitation to be issued, it being distinctly understood that its doing so will not involve any pecuniary responsibility on its part.

Mr. J. H. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. W. H. Meldrum, that the Board approve of the above action of the Board of Trade of Montreal as set forth in the above communication.—Carried.

MR. JAS. STEVENSON.

Mr. Jas. Stevenson opened the proceedings by declaring that he was against the policy of bonusing factories to locate in town, and he thought that the majority of the ratepayers were of the same opinion.

MR. A. L. DAVIS.

Mr. Davis thought that the position the town should be in was to be able to act promptly when a manufacturer talked of locating in town. There was first the matter of the site for a factory, which was a question of great importance. He thought the town should purchase property, not that they might give sites, but that they might be able to offer them at reasonable prices. Mr. Davis was further of the opinion that Peterborough's material advantages were sufficient inducement to any concern that really meant business. His experience in the Town Council was that generally the factories that asked the most money were the concerns with the least possibility of locating at all. Two very important features that are considered by manufacturers are, firstly — transportation and secondly—power. He thought as to the former we had excellent advantages, and as to the power there was no doubt that we could obtain it more reasonably than most towns. The only other question was that of a site as manufacturers desired to have sidings from both railway lines. With all circumstances considered he did not think that Peterborough should have to offer free sites or cash bonuses.

MR. MELDRUM DIFFERS.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum did not quite agree with Mr. Davis in the matter of giving bonuses. How many factories have located in Peterborough during the past 10 years that had not been bonused? The greatest bonuses he ever knew of any town giving was the bonus of exemption to the Cereal Company, but he was not complaining about it. The Deering people went to Hamilton, others went the same way simply because Peterborough did not bonus them and if Peterborough wants to stay as she is they had better adopt Mr. Davis' policy. He would like to see bonuses done away with, but if the other towns are resorting to the bonusing system Peterborough will have to do the same if she wants to keep up in the race. He was sorry that there was not a larger meeting for it the people do not take an interest in the affairs of the town it will not be the place that it should be.

Mr. Davis explained that he was not against the system of exemption.

MR. DUMBLE AGAIN.

At the request of some of the members Mr. D. W. Dumble, the President of the Board, expressed his views. While he did so Mr. James Stevenson took the chair. Mr. Dumble reiterated his assertion that he was against the principle of bonusing, but at the present time we must resort to it. He could not see that the advantages of Peterborough were sufficient, and looked upon the location of the Canadian General Electric Works here merely as a fortunate combination of circumstances. It has paid us many times over the bonus we gave to it. The Cereal Company was induced to come to Peterborough through the influence of one man, and the Cordage Company located here no doubt because it was the work of local enterprise. He believed in a policy of exemption from taxation for the present, not as a matter of principle, but as a matter of expediency. The Water Commissioners and the owners of power, he felt sure would deal favourably with manufacturers, and it remained with the ratepayers to say to what extent the Town Council should go in the matter of exemption from taxation.

MR. ROGER.

Alderman G. M. Roger thought that the fact that they had four members of the Town Council at the Board of Trade meeting it was evidence that they were desirous of obtaining the opinion of the ratepayers regarding such matters as might come up before them. In the Council it is realized that the future of the town lies in its manufacturing institutions, and as other towns are offering manufacturers inducements we must do the same. The trouble is that they hardly know just how far to go in offering bonuses or the like, and Ald. Roger recited the circumstances connected with the visit of several manufacturers to Peterborough, and the bonus they asked. They had been taking as a guide the proposition endorsed by the ratepayers last year, wherein the proposed shovel factory was granted a free site and exemption for 10 years. How much further the town was prepared to go he did not know. They could scarcely lay down a line of policy as each deal would have to be dealt with perhaps under different circumstances.

Mr. Roger thought that the general advantages and the generally attractive appearance of the town should be improved each year as much as possible, as it was these circumstances, as much as anything else, that would induce manufacturers to locate here. Manufacturers in locating desired the surroundings to be such that the class of employees they desired to bring to town could live contentedly here. He also agreed with Mr. Davis that genuine concerns do not, as a rule, ask unreasonable bonuses. Mr. Roger, too, expressed his regret that there was not a larger attendance as the people should discuss these matters and advise the council. The council could make propositions to manufacturers if they felt that they had the town at their back. One firm that had been looking here for location is going to Port Hope, not because of that council, but on account of the stand taken by certain citizens, who issued bonds for $25,000 in the company's interest, $18,000 to be spent in land and buildings, the town taking all risks. This is to be repaid at the rate of $2,000 a year.

MR. T. E. BRADBURN.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn thought that Ald. Roger was trying to shift the responsibility on to the ratepayers. He had never heard of such an offer having been made to this council, as Ald. Roger asserteed had been made to Port Hope.

ALD. MORRISON.

Ald. Morrison proceeded to recite the circumstances which led up to three large factories locating in Hamilton after first looking over Peterborough's advantages. One reason was Hamilton was on the Great Lakes, and another reason was that it was a large place and possessed a larger market from which to draw at any time. Hamilton, of course gave them free sites. The great difficulty was that of transportation and that being the case we must urge the early completion of the Trent Canal. Then we could compete with Hamilton, or any other town or city in Ontario. The matter of a site was not a serious one, as with the early resurrection of our street railway system, freight cars from either road could be handled over them and a factory could easily obtain a siding.

ALD. J. J. TURNER.

Mr. Turner agreed with Ald. Morrison that we needed the early completion of the Trent Canal, as he knew from experience that water rates were much cheaper than land rates.

Speaking again on the matter of the early completion of the canal, Ald. Morrison said that it was evident that some stress must be brought to bear upon the Government. We are face to face against the two influences, at Ottawa, of the C.P.R. and G.T.R. We have along the route of the canal about only one member who is friendly to the Government, and under those circumstances we perhaps have not the weight we might have. Men should be elected from the constituencies along the canal to pledge their support to no Government that will not undertake the early completion of the work.

Mr. Dumble thought that had we a good live member for West Peterborough favourable to the Government such as we have in the local House, we could accomplish more than at present.

Mr. Meldrum contended that it should not be a party question, but a national question; it is a national highway.

Ald. Morrison suggested that the Ontario Ministers in the Dominion Cabinet be invited to take a trip over the route, and this suggestion was favourably received.

Ald. Roger suggested that in addition the Montreal Board of Trade be invited. We can't get sympathy from Toronto and we might from Montreal.

A RESOLUTION.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum moved, seconded by Mr. John Nugent, That the Board of Trade appreciate the efforts of the Town Council towards securing manufacturing establishments for Peterborough, and urging them not to relax their efforts, assuring them of their hearty co-operation in case of any establishment offering sufficient promise to warrant the town of Peterborough to encourage them to locate here.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn moved, seconded by Mr. W. G. Ferguson, That the establishmentt of manufacturing industries in Peterborough and the promise of more make it of the greatest consequence that the Trent Valley Canal should speedily be opened from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario, and this Board respectfully suggest to the Dominion Government that the delay in the completion of the work is very embarrasing, as manufacturers count much upon it as a mode of carriage for grain and raw material, as well as for their finished products, and this Board respectfully asks for more energetic prosecution of the entire work.—Carried.

ALGONQUIN PARK.

Mr. T. W. Gibson Returns From Tour of Inspection—Wild Animals Are Increasing—Show No Fear.

Mr. Thos. W. Gibson, Director of the Bureau of Mines, has returned from an official tour of inspection of the Algonquin National Park, which is under the control of his branch of the Crown Lands Department. The Commissioner of Crown Lands accompanied him to the park, and inspected a number of the lakes in the neighborhood of headquarters, which are situated at Cache Lake. Mr. Gibson, accompanied by a couple of rangers, took a canoe trip lasting ten days across to the eastern boundary, and thence to the northwestern boundary of the park. Leaving Cache Lake, which is on the Madawaska waters, the party entered their canoes on Joe Creek, which is on the north branch of the Muskoka River chain of waters, and proceeded to the source of that river in Island Lake. They portaged over from Island Lake to little Otter Slide Lake, the head waters of the Petawawa River, and then through a chain of lakes, including White, Dry, Burnt and Catfish Lake to Cedar Lake, which is a body of water of considerable size, being about fourteen miles in length and three miles in width at the widest place. Then they went up Cedar Lake to the head of Cauchon Lake, where they left the Petawawa waters and crossed to Mink Lake, the source of one branch of the Amable de Fond River, thence into Kiosh Kequi Lake and up Manitou Lake into Tee Lake, the head of which touches the northwestern boundary of Algonquin Park, returning by the same route to headquarters.

Speaking of his trip, Mr. Gibson said: "The canoe route is an ideal one, the portages being comparatively short, and none of them excessively hilly. The worst portage is what is called the 'Five Mile,' between Catfish Lake and Cedar Lake, where the Petawawa is a rushing, turbulent stream, making enormous falls, two of them upwards of fifty feet in height. One portage there is a mile and a half long, over a steep hill, which provides a sufficiently arduous carry. For the most part the road lies through green, unburnt forest. A great deal of it has been lumbered over and most of the pine removed, but in some places the pine is yet very abundant, as, for instance, on Burnt Lake, Catfish, Cauchon, Mink, Manitou and Tee Lakes. At the head of Tee Lake there is an absolutely virgin forest. The limit has recently been purchased by Mr. J. R. Booth, of Ottawa, from Wm. Mackie, and we overtook a gang of lumbermen who were entering the limit for the purpose of making square timber. In conversation with the foreman I was informed that some of the trees were very large, and would make sticks of square timber up to 200 cubic feet. As square timber is worth 50 to 55 cents a foot, this would mean that each tree of this size would be worth $100 or over. On Burnt Lake there is also a large quantity of pine, and on Catfish Lake young pine can be seen growing up on limits that have been cut over. It was not the best season of the year for trout fishing, but some good catches of salmon trout and speckled trout were made, the speckled trout rising readily to the fly in the quiet pools below the falls on the Petawawa waters particularly.

"Deer were very numerous, showing themselves in twos and threes constantly along the edges of the lakes and in the marshes, and exhibiting little or no fear of the visitor. We saw a cow moose and numerous beaver houses and a good deal of freshly-cut wood. On White Trout Lake we heard the howling of the wolves from our camp at night. The rangers are very active in attempting to destroy them, but the only practicable way is to poison them. In the winter meat is put out, dosed with strychnine, and it is believed that many wolves were killed last winter, although only a few of the bodies have been found. A bounty of $15 is given for every wolf killed.

"One cannot but be impressed with the beauty of the forest, which is largely coniferous, but also contains many birch, maple, basswood and other deciduous trees. The first approach of autumn was beginning to be felt, and the soft maple here and there was turning to red and crimson. There has been a considerable number of visitors to the park this year, many of them Americans, and they are loud in their praise of the natural beauty of the place."

BRITISH TRAMWAYS

THEIR SUCCESSFUL OPERATION BY THE MUNICIPALITIES.

Birmingham, Though a Good Example of Leasing, Has Decided to Municipalize the Service as the Leases Fall In—Several Municipalities Make Profits, Which Go Towards the Reduction of the Tax Rates.

The policy of municipal ownership and operation of street railways is making rapid progress in the United Kingdom. Out of 218 undertakings, with a total mileage of 1,307, about 100, with a mileage of 689, belong to the local authorities. The tramways, owned by Birmingham, Edinburgh, Oldham and 24 other towns are leased, but the tendency is toward municipal operation. Birmingham is a good example of profitable leasing, but the corporation has decided to municipalize the service as the leases fall in. Edinburgh, with total rentals of £57,660, has a surplus profit of £5,280 after sinking fund payments, but is having trouble with the companies.

Tramways are operated as well as owned by 41 municipalities, and, as nearly all own their electric lighting supply, the introduction of electric traction is proceeding economically. The main objects of this policy are reduction of fares, symmetrical development of suburbs and the improvement of methods of traction, but when the investments required for equipment, construction account and the purchase of private companies have been liquidated by the operation of sinking funds, the tramway service will be a large source of profit for the relief of taxpayers.

Glasgow had last year a balance of £117,388 from horse and electric traction, of which £12,500 went to the common good, and the remainder of which was required for interest, depreciation, general reserve and sinking fund. Liverpool had a balance of £147,056, of which £16,045 was available for the relief of taxpayers. Leeds had a gross profit of £61,797, and a surplus of £31,058, after payment of sinking fund and interest, £21,058 being applied for the relief of rates. Sheffield had a working balance of £48,657, and £10,000 was transferred from the surplus account in relief of rates. The gross profits of other towns are: Bradford, £6,989; Aberdeen, £8,769; Blackburn, £12,423; Dover, £2,948; Halifax, £9,076; Southampton, £11,940, and Hull, £23,000.

Manchester is in the transition stage, but will have in the course of a few years 150 miles of electric lines under municipal operation. London has a working balance of £102,861 from its northern and southern tramways, but it is absorbed by interest and sinking fund payments. Huddersfield is the only town having a deficit for working expenses, although Dundee barely balances its account. About fifty new schemes for the municipalization of tramways are now in progress.—London Correspondence Toronto Globe.

HEARTBURN.

A Very Common and Very Painful Symptom of Indigestion.

This disease is sometimes known to medical men by the name of Acid Dyspepsia.

It is really the result of the fermentation in the Stomach of food that has been only partially digested.

Fermentation is in reality a kind of decomposition which produces gas.

This gas fills the stomach, distending the walls.

The pressure of the gas and consequent distention of the Stomach upward, frequently interferes with the action of the heart.

Smokers are usually very subject to Heartburn.

If not corrected this disease will surely terminate in Chronic Dyspepsia.

Many people make a serious mistake in using soda as a relief for Heartburn.

The alkali will certainly neutralize the acid and thus relieve the fermentation but soda is very injurious to the delicate mucous lining of the Stomach, and has been known to lie for days in the bowels where it frequently causes much distress.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a safe and sure cure for Heartburn, as well as for all other stomach derangements.

Heartburn is an impossibility if there is perfect digestion.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets insure perfect digestion and thus absolutely cure Heartburn.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Don't wait until your Heartburn has grown into chronic Dyspepsia, but correct it at once.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured very many cases of chronic Dyspepsia, but it is easier and cheaper and better in every way to root out the sapling, Heartburn, than it is to root out the full grown tree, Dyspepsia. Don't wait.

A Nervy Muskoka Man.

A short time ago a Muskoka man lost his wife, and in two weeks after he had laid her bones to rest he got married again. A charivari party assembled and commenced operations, when he went out and tried to hush up the crowd by telling them that they ought to be ashamed to make such a noise around a house where a funeral occurred so recently.

The Upright Piano.

Covers of oriental weave come for the backs of upright pianos, but they are by no means inexpensive. An experimenting housekeeper who wished but could not afford one of these bought as a substitute and at much less cost one Japanese portiere. This was too long and too narrow, but a piece taken from the bottom was fitted at the side, and a second piece was added at the top to go over the lid of the piano. A pattern in shades of gold in a striped effect was chosen, which lent itself readily to the piercing scheme, and the new cover is extremely effective.

Got Lame Back or Lumbago.

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic however if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere, in large 25c. bottles.

NEURALGIC PAINS.

Are a Cry of the Nerves for Better Blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make Rich, Red Blood and Drive These Pains From the System—Read the Proof.

A high medical authority has defined neuralgia as "a cry of the nerves for better blood," and to effectually drive it from the system the blood must be made rich, red and pure. For this purpose there is no other medicine so prompt and sure in result as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new, rich, red blood with every dose, and impart new life and new vigour to the person using them. Mr. John McDermott, Bond Head, Ont., offers strong proof of the certain results obtained from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind. He says: "A few years ago while working as a carpenter in Buffalo I got wet. I did not think it worth while changing my clothes at the time, but I soon began to suffer for my neglect. I awoke next morning with cramps and pains throughout my body. I was unable to go to work and called in a doctor, who left me some medicine. I used it faithfully for some time, but it did not help me. In fact I was growing steadily worse and had become so reduced in flesh that I weighed only 138 pounds. As I was not able to work I returned to my home at Bond Head. Here I placed myself under the care of a local doctor who said the trouble was neuralgia, which had taken a thorough hold upon my entire system. Misfortune seemed to follow me for the doctor's treatment did not help me, and I think my neighbours at least did not believe I was going to get better. I had often read and heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in this emergency I determined to try them. I had not used more than three boxes before I felt that the pills were helping me. From that on I gained day by day, and after I had used some ten or twelve boxes, I had fully recovered my old-time strength, and have since been able to work at my trade as a carpenter without any trouble. I have no pains or aches, and I now weigh 156 pounds. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an invaluable medicine and shall always have a good word to say for them."

When the nerves are unstrung, when the blood is poor or watery, or when the system is out of order, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the medicine to take. They cure all troubles arising from these causes, and make weak, despondent men and women bright, active and strong. Protect yourself against imitations by seeing that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or mailed post paid at 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Novel Trade War.

The great struggle which is going on at St. Helen's, Lancashire, says The London Daily Mail, between the Co-Operative Society and the retail tradesmen marks the beginning of a new form of trade war which has the appearance of spreading throughout the north.

In St. Helens, as in many other towns, co-operation has attained such proportions that it is embracing almost every phase of industry, with the result that retail tradesmen are either becoming absorbed or destroyed.

St. Helen's has a population of 86,000 inhabitants. Half of them are co-operators, and the number is increasing every day. During the last ten years the Co-Operative Society has wrested something like £175,000 worth of business from the retail tradesmen, and it is pushing its enterprise into every part of the town.

The already palatial headquarters are being enlarged to twice their present size. The society intends not only to cater for every kind of household want, but to provide a first-class restaurant with roof gardens. To protect themselves the retail tradesmen have formed a "defence association," the plan of campaign of which is to boycott all co-operators. They contend that, inasmuch as the purpose of the Co-Operative Society is to exterminate the private trader, so no retail dealer, or friend of the retail dealer, should either support the stores or any one who acts for or with the stores.

The strange position of affairs is well illustrated by the case of the Hartley Jam Works. The employes of this firm are well paid and participate in a profit-sharing system, and yet those of them who are co-operators patronize a society which forbids the buying of anything not made by the Co-Operative Wholesale Society.

St. Helens is fighting out a battle of great economic importance, and the contest will be watched with keen interest. The Co-Operative Society is sanguine.

Hatfield's Splendid Armory.

One of the most interesting features of Hatfield House is its splendid armory. This is on the ground A great hall 80 feet wide by some 200 feet long extends the entire floor, entered from the southern side, length of the southern exposure. Here one may see many coats of mail and the famous colors of great knights.

The hall is walled in by a trellis work of small windows, which extends from the ground to the second story, making a great "sun parlor" for the children to play in. On a balcony over the musicians' stand, in the great banqueting hall, one may see the colors which Napoleon had prepared for his own troops, but which were taken from Paris by the Duke of Wellington in 1814.

Almost all the famous kings and queens of England have at times stopped at Hatfield House. There are many rooms in the famous dwelling named after distinguished guests. For instance, there are King James' room, the walls hung in crimson damask; the "Queen and Prince Consort" room, after the late Queen, who visited Hatfield with the Prince Consort in 1845; the Queen Anne room, the Cromwell room, the Wellington room, and the rooms of Queen Charlotte, George III., and others. The Shah of Persia and the German Emperor have been the guests of the House of Cecil, though no rooms are named after them.

Besides the rooms occupied by royalty, there are apartments which have been occupied at one time or another by the famous statesmen who have been at the head of the Government for hundreds of years.

RAVENSPUR.

Waves of the North Sea Now Roll Unbroken Where It Stood—No Man Can Tell Exactly the Spot.

England has lost and gained more things than trade in the centuries that are passed. No fewer than three important expeditions that overturned one dynasty and set up another started their successful course at Ravenspur, says The London Daily Graphic, and yet no man can tell exactly where Ravenspur was.

When Edward Balliol assembled his 2,500 men in 1332 for the conquest of Scotland, he assembled them and embarked at Ravenspur. When Henry Bollinghroke, Duke of Lancaster, came to England in the beginning of July, 1399, he landed at Ravenspur, where he was quickly joined by the Earl of Northumberland and Harry Hotspur, his son, and soon there were 60,000 men round him, and all England at his feet. And yet again, on March 14, 1471, King Edward IV. landed at Ravenspur, waited two days in disappointment that England did not rally to him as it had done to Henry IV., then he marched to Beverley and York, but he contrived to wrest the crown from Henry VI., as Henry VI.'s grandfather had wrested it from Richard II.

Little did these princes and their knightly followers think that the place they landed would dissolve in a sea mist, and be altogether lost to England. But like old Dunwich, Reculver and Lyonnesse, it has gone beneath the waves, so that the sea now washes where the King pranced, and Ravenspur is confounded with Raverser Odd or Ravenarod, which was a distinct place, and in its day a prosperous seaport, but is now hidden under the sand between Spurn Point and Sunk Island, at the mouth of the Humber. Shakespeare mentions Ravenspur at least six times in his plays of Richard II. and Henry IV., and again in Henry VI., but it must have been washed clean away when Shakespeare wrote, and the interesting point for to-day is that there are still several doomed towns on the east coast that the sea seems quite determined to swallow up at no distant period. One of these is Southwold on the Suffolk coast, another is Hornsea, on the coast of Yorkshire, and Withernsea, a little further south, while at Dunwich, a little south of Southwold, there is hardly anything left to swallow, except the last dismantled poor ruin of a church, the last of the many churches which once adorned this ancient capital of East Anglia.

Restocking Lakes.

Mr. S. T. Bastedo, Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries, who has returned from the Lake of Bays district, described to a reporter the other day some new features in the method of distributing fish for restocking the lakes. While Mr. Bastedo was at Lake of Bays a carload of fish were distributed, the operation occupying a day and a night. Instead of using nets and letting loose one or two fish at a time, a large tub was filled with water and a number of fish put in it. Then when a likely spot in the lake was struck the whole tub full were dumped in, forming little schools of fish. While speckled trout have been caught occasionally, the people seem to be alive to the importance of having the waters stocked with a fish that can be taken during the tourist season of July and August, and likely to thoroughly establish themselves in the waters. The speckled trout have been practically exterminated by the large salmon trout that inhabit these waters. The Township Council of McLean, on the Lake of Bays, recognizing the importance of having the waters stocked, appropriated at a special meeting a sum of money to assist in defraying the expense of the restocking.

Have You Escaped Itching Piles?

If so, you are one of the Few Fortunate Ones; if not, you can be Cured by Using

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Piles or hemorrhoids are among the most common as well as the most torturing ailments that afflict humanity. The keen distress caused by the itching, especially when the body gets warm, is almost beyond the powers of description.

The very mention of Piles suggests Dr. Chase's Ointment as it is beyond denial the only actual cure for this loathsome disease. If you ask your doctor, your druggists or your friends what to use for piles they will in nine cases out of ten advise Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. A. Oliver, farmer, Desoronto, Ont., states: "I had itching piles in the worst form, and can now testify that Chase's Ointment is a sure and positive cure for this dreadful ailment. I tried several other remedies, but could obtain no benefit from them, but am now cured, and have no doubt that the credit for the cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A COUNTRY EDITOR

FISHES SALMON, BUT DOESN'T PRESUME TO BE A MILLIONAIRE.

The Fighting Salmon—Stories of the Fishing on the Restigouche—Mr. C. W. Young Tells of the Habits of the King of River Fish and How Others Than Millionaires Can Get Him.

Salmon fishing is not so far out of the reach of ordinary people as the Quebec correspondent of The Globe recently makes out, writes Mr. C. W. Young of The Cornwall Freeholder. He says that "salmon fishing is becoming so rare a sport that it promises to be in the near future the enjoyment of millionaires." The correspondent is the victim of a popular delusion, carefully nursed no doubt by the millionaires aforesaid, who want to keep a good thing to themselves. Even a country editor, who doesn't presume to trot in the millionaire class, has been able to enjoy good salmon fishing almost every year, at any rate whenever he felt like it, and most of the time, at any rate, under no particular compliment to anybody.

It is not generally known, but for a short distance above tide water on many of the best salmon streams there is excellent fishing on water that is practically free in May and June, when the fish are starting on their annual spawning excursions.

In old times the fishing went with the land, and the owner of a property abutting on a stream had the right to fish himself or convey the right to others. Then came decisions which took away the riparian rights. Although the owners of land previous to that time still retained their fishing privileges, those who acquired Crown land subsequently got nothing but what they paid for, the Local Government retaining the fishing, which in some cases has become very valuable. The private ownership of fishing, however, extends only as far as the tidewater; below there fishing is free to everybody, subject of course to the right of the owner of land adjacent to prevent trespass.

On the Restigouche.

On the Restigouche River, which, with its tributaries, is probably the best salmon stream in Canada, the best water is controlled by the Restigouche Club, but below the Intercolonial bridge at Metapedia there is a stretch of some seven miles above tidewater, owned for the most part by farmers, which is practically free, or at any rate as much as is necessary can be secured at the nominal price of a dollar a day per rod. From the time the fish begin to run (be it understood that in a salmon stream the salmon is the only fish, the rest are vermin), about the middle of May until mid-June or later, all the fish that are on their way to the headwaters of the Restigouche, Metapedia, Causapscal, Upsalquitch or Kedgewick, and that can escape the barricade of nets, must go over the water in question. According to the guides the salmon come up from the sea at night, find a congenial spot in the early morning, and stay there till night sends them on their way again. In the early season, when the river is full, there are no special pools or rapids visible, and while there are favorite halting grounds, one is likely to get a fish almost anywhere.

This year I had only three days to spare. Leaving Cornwall on a Wednesday morning, I reached Campbellton, N. B., on the Intercolonial Maritime Express about daylight Thursday, and taking an accommodation train a few miles up the Restigouche, was ready for fishing about 7 o'clock. Arrangements previously made having miscarried, I had to hunt up a canoeman for myself at Flat Lands, and found a genial old fellow, Delaney by name, who was willing to quit his work on the boom for a few hours to oblige a stranger. His outfit was not the most comfortable, and he could not get an assistant—two canoemen are needed for salmon fishing as a rule—but I managed to raise a salmon on the second or third cast a few feet from shore.

How a Salmon Fights.

With pardonable excitement I struck him as he took the fly, and away he went with a yard of the leader. Cautioned not to make the same mistake again, when another rise occurred the fish was allowed to have his own way, which he did to the tune of fifty yards or so, making the reel scream with the music so dear to a fisherman's heart. Meantime the anchor, a big stone, was lifted, and for half an hour the salmon had control of the proceedings most of the time, rushing madly up and down and across the stream, sulking at the bottom or jumping in the air, like a silver cordwood stick, as an irreverent pagan remarked, then gradually tiring and permitting himself to be coaxed towards a gravel beach, where a quick stroke of the gaff landed him—a 22-pounder, fresh from the salt water, with the sea lice still on his shining sides.

An old friend of mine, a veteran salmon fisherman, once advised me not to go salmon fishing, for, said he, "You can't afford much of it, and it will spoil you for other sport, and destroy your respect for Salmo Fontinalis."

Looking back after a score of years' experience, I am not disposed to agree with him. My earliest recollections are of catching speckled trout in the creeks and streams of the Townships of Esquesing and Caledon, and while I would not forego the excitement of killing the king of fish, the interest and pleasure of making a good catch of trout are as keen as ever.

Sea Trout Fishing.

So on the last day of the New Brunswick trip, the wind being very high and casting for salmon difficult and unsatisfactory, we fared down to tidewater for sea trout. Whether the brook trout and the sea trout are the same fish has been debated for years, and the discussion will not be continued here. They are both good fish, first cousins anyway, and both game to the last inch. As a rule the sea trout go into all the rivers on the Canadian Atlantic coast, but some are more favored than others. On the Gaspe and Anticosti Rivers they go with the salmon, stay with them on their journey up to the headwaters, and are so plenty as to interfere seriously with the salmon fishing. On the Restigouche, however, the salmon and trout keep apart. There are several runs of trout following the smelts up from salt water, and coming at times in almost incredible numbers. It was not my good fortune to encounter any of these large schools this year, but floating lazily down the river we cast in likely places, here and there raising a lusty fellow of a pound or so, which fought gamely for its life. Leaving the canoe at one point, we walked down a gravel shore for a mile or more, the water rippling along in gentle rapids. Here and there in a deeper spot there was a quick rise, a sharp conflict for a few minutes, and a sudden termination of the game with a landing net. Very pretty fish they were, glistening like silver, and while there were some small ones, the average was good, three nice specimens scaling thirteen pounds between them. If there were no salmon the trout fishing would be worth going for, and at the proper season the number caught would depend only on the conscience of the angler.

A Fine Achievement.

During the three days of my stay some thirty salmon were caught by different parties who were fishing below Metapedia bridge, many of them of large size, including one monster of forty pounds, which, strange to say, was taken on trout tackle, none too strong at that, by a young man from St. John, who had never killed a salmon before and was immensely proud of his luck.

While, as previously mentioned, the Restigouche and its tributaries are mostly controlled by the Restigouche Club, there are several stretches which can be leased at varying prices up to $10 a day, and the Government of New Brunswick has reserved the Upsalquitch for transient fishermen at $2 per day per rod.

There are quite a number of other streams in Quebec and New Brunswick where the same conditions as to free fishing exist as on the Restigouche. The officials of the Intercolonial Railway, which reaches almost every salmon river, are waking up to the importance of encouraging the transient sportsman, who, while he may not come in a private car, is nevertheless a profitable patron of the road. The passenger department is accumulating a good deal of information as to the desirable fishing streams, and intending visitors can always depend on a straight tip. Outside of railway fare, the necessary expense need not be more than $5 a day.

The Poor of London.

The best barometer of our social condition is to be found in the pauper statistics. The official return published recently gives a statement of the number of paupers relieved in England and Wales on the last day of May in each year since 1862. Forty years ago in England and Wales there were no fewer than 895,582 paupers, indoor and outdoor, giving a ratio of 44.5 to every thousand inhabitant; this year there were only 691,605, a ratio of 21.2 The aggregate has been diminished by a quarter and the ratio by more than half. In London alone the results are different. The number of paupers relieved, indoor and outdoor, has gone up from 97,601 in 1862, to 102,581 but the ratio per thousand inhabitants has fallen from 81.1 to 22.6. But while the comparisons with forty years ago are eminently satisfactory, there has been a disquieting recrudescence of pauperism in the last few years. In England and Wales, and in London alike, the numbers relieved and the ratio per thousand inhabitants relieved have steadily risen. In London the number in receipt of relief in a day in May last exceeded by 5,081 the number relieved on the corresponding day in 1900; while in England and Wales the excess in 1902 over 1900 was 24,378. These figures confirm the contention of Boards of Guardians that during the war pauperism has increased, and that there has therefore been reason for the rise in rates. It is an aspect of the cost of the war, in poverty and in suffering, that has attracted little attention, but it is an aspect that reveals what the war has meant to the widow and orphan, the aged and infirm.—London News.

Pranks of a Feel-Hardy Employe at the Building of Niagara Bridge—But He Got the Glory.

"I remember," said a bridge contractor some time ago while on the subject of workmen's dare-devilties, "while working at the big bridge across the Niagara, when the two cantilever arms had approached within fifty feet of each other a keen rivalry sprang up among the men. A long plank connected the two arms, leaving about two and a half feet of support at each end. Strict orders were issued that no one should attempt to cross the plank upon penalty of instant dismissal. At the noon hour I suddenly heard a great shout from the men, who were all starting up. Raising my eyes, I saw a man step on the end of that plank, stop a minute and look down into the whirlpool below. I knew he was going to cross, and I shouted to him, but he was too high up to hear. Deliberately he walked out until he reached the middle of the plank. It sagged far down with his weight until I could see light between the two short supporting ends and the cantilevers on which they rested. He saw the end in front of him do this, hesitated and looked back to see how the other was. I thought he was going to turn. He stopped, grasped both edges of the plank with his hands, and throwing his feet up, stood on his head, kicking his legs in the air, cracking his heels together, and yelling to the terrified onlookers. This he did for about a minute—it seemed to me like forty. Then he let his feet drop down, stood up, waved his hat, and trotted along the plank to the other side, slid down one of the braces hand over hand and regained the ground. We discharged him, of course, but what did he care? He got all the glory, his fellows envied him, and he could command work anywhere."—Casiser's Magazine.

The Czar's Language.

W. W. Booth, chief engineer of the United States cruiser Albany, which has visited Russian waters during the summer, has written home giving an interesting description of a visit paid by the Czar and a number of Court nobles and ladies to the ship while it lay at Cronstadt on Aug. 9. Mr. Booth writes that the Czar showed great interest in the engineering department, and was so unassuming and agreeable that the writer almost forgot that he was talking to the Czar of all the Russias. Mr. Booth further writes: "The Czar speaks perfect English, and, in fact, his questions were so well put and showed such knowledge of the subject that I said to him, 'I notice, your Majesty, that you speak perfect English.' You can imagine my surprise when he answered by saying, 'Yes, we speak English entirely at home, using Russian but very little.'"

The Age of Brain Work.

"In these days half our diseases come from the neglect of our body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age the wear and tear of labour and intellect goes on without pause or self pity. We live longer than our forefathers but we suffer more. They fatigued only the the muscles; we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest medicine of this age, because it is best suited to the needs of the present age. It restores and revitalizes wasted nerve cells and makes the pale, weak and exhausted, strong, healthy and vigorous.

Talking Through Their Fur Caps.

Prof. Macoun has been examining the plants of the Klondike region, and on their evidence declares that Dawson has a better climate than Ontario. That reminds us of the early days in Winnipeg, where the fur-clad citizen, sitting close to a fire of poplar poles, in a shack through which the blizzard played tag, had the habit of saying to the tenderfoot: "Oh, ye-e-s, it's c-c-cold according to the ther-r-mometer, b-b-b-but the air's s-s-so d-d-dry that you d-d-don't f-feel it."—Hamilton Spectator.

The Root of the Trouble.

It surprises some people when you tell them their nervous trouble is caused by a defective liver. Liver trouble causes constipation. Next comes dyspepsia, then impure blood with heart strain, and the result is nerve trouble. Merrill's System Tonic is a positive cure for liver trouble and constipation, and in this way remove the cause of other ills. 50c. per bottle at Ormond & Walsh's.

A DISTINGUISHED CANADIAN.

Still Further Honors for Sir Edouard Percy Cranwell Girouard.

The London Gazette of August 19, contained the following announcement:—

The King has been pleased to give and grant unto Captain and Brevet-Major (local lieutenant-colonel) Sir Edouard Percy Cranwell Girouard, K.C.M.G., D.S.O., R.E., his Majesty's royal license and authority that he may accept and wear the insignia of the second class of the Imperial Ottoman Order of the Medjidie, conferred upon him by his Highness the Khedive of Egypt, authorized by his Imperial Majesty the Sultan of Turkey, in recognition of his services as President of the Council of Administration of the Egyptian Railways, Telegraphs and Port of Alexandria.

One the same page of The London Times in which the above were republished there appeared an article from its Johannesburg correspondent upon the Imperial Military Railways of South Africa, and their management during the war. In the course of the article it is said:

"The situation that presented itself to Col. Girouard, the able founder and organizer of the Soudan Military Railways, on the voyage out to South Africa, to take over the duties of Director of Railways, was in many respects a complete novelty. Without any precedent to serve as a guide, a set of instructions had to be drawn up on board, apportioning the several duties of the staff and laying down the lines on which the civil administration of the railways to be used by the army would be amplified by military officers corresponding to the existing officials. As time went on, these instructions, good as far as they went, but necessarily incomplete, were revised and improved upon, until the effective organization that obtained at the conclusion of peace, and which will doubtless be found a tradition in the British army, was evolved . . . . . When the circumstances of its establishment are taken into consideration, the absence of skilled officials, the never-ending interruptions of the normal working of the line, it must be owned that the Imperial Military Railways performed their task well. When peace came and people had time to look around and see what progress had been made at Pretoria and Johannesburg, they realized that they owed something to the Imperial Railways, while the presence of special mining trucks and the placing of large orders for rolling stock over a year ago testified to the foresight, energy and ability of the Commissioner of Railways, Sir Percy Girouard."

Australian Eloquence.

Here is a rare burst of eloquence, the utterance of Hon. Daniel O'Connor, one of the members of the City of Sydney, who claims to be a lineal descendant of the last King of Ireland: "In rough and brutal philology a deputation called them barmaids. I call them ladies of the bar. The white beauty of their character is unimpeachable. Why should it be less degrading to hand out a roll of flannel at a draper's shop than a stimulant at a respectable hotel? You can see these noble little ladies on any Sabbath morning wending their way, after a late Saturday night, to a cathedral to worship the Eternal God. I defy these brutal calumniators to besmirch their characters."

ARE YOU A PRISONER?

THOUSANDS of men are prisoners of disease as securely as though they were confined behind the bars. Many have forged their own chains by the vices of early youth, others fell victims to contagious disease, or the excesses of manhood. They feel that they are not the men they ought to be or used to be. The fire, vigor, and vitality of manhood are lacking. Are you despondent and dispondent? tired in the morning? have you lost confidence in yourself through the day's work? have you little ambition and energy? are you irritable and excitable? eyes sunken, depressed and haggard looking? memory poor and brain clogged? have you weak back with dreams and losses at night? Spoilt in urine? weak sexually?—you have

THE WALL STREET MARKET

It Remained Quite Steady This Morning.

L. & N. Took a Drop of 5 3-8 Points—Several Interesting Letters.

The Wall street market opened fairly strong this morning and remained steady until the close, with the exception of trading in L. & N., which had a sharp re-action, falling from 54 to 48 5-8, a net loss of 5 3-8 points. M.O.P. remained steady losing only 1-4 of a point, opening at 16 1-4 and closing at 16. C.P.R. closed at 40 1-2. Money was quoted at 6 per cent.

Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co., stock brokers, have received the following from Messrs. McIntyre and Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

Annual meeting of St Paul Road will be held in Chicago to-day. Besides annual statement of earnings, it is expected that announcement will be made of extra issue of stock, giving certain rights to stock holders. Although Chairman Miller denies this and states that there is nothing more than a traffic alliance agreed on between St Paul and Mop. Generally believed that Rockefellers practically control property, and have a scheme for operating it in connection with Goulds greater Mop, and the general expectation is that the stock will sell much higher, as the company is to-day mailing cheques in anticipation of its quarterly dividend on common stock, although payment not due until Sept 30th. We look for a steady trading market and would secure profits on any bulges.

McIntyre and Marshall say: The Bank statement to-day was an agreeable surprise and turned market up sharply from break which occurred during the first hour. The selling was mainly liquidation of speculative accounts, which had been carried over the break early in the week, and of stocks which had been taken on to support the market. The rally from the morning's decline was much sharper than the break but the losses were not wholly recovered, and it was noticed that the rally did not hold, but that liquidation was resumed on as heavy a scale as in the previous break, and it seemed to come from the same source. The better showing by the banks has been principally by vigorous calling of loans which has been at the expense of the stock markets liquidation. The banks will no doubt take good care not to allow common houses to increase their loans again, and we therefore see no probability of sufficient relief to come to the money market to provide funds to permit the development of renewed bullish operations. On the contrary we look for a continuance of comparatively high money for the next week or two at least, and in consequence we expect to see a continued unsettled market with more probability of lower prices. It will be some time before the equilibrium of money market will be established, so that speculative interests in the markets and common houses generally can provide themselves with sufficient time money to resume active operations. The relief by the Government to the money market has been more sentimental than real.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

Hardheaded Common Sense.

Messrs. Haight & Freese's letter is as follows:—

New York, Sept. 26th.—Don't become panic stricken if interested in the market. Be conservative at the present time and do not overtrade. It is just at present a dangerous thing to overtrade. It is not at present, as we said before, a market based on values, but a marked based on people's necessities. Stocks are on the bargain counter, and cheap beyond question. They may be cheaper, owing to the inability of many holders to hang on, as they have more stocks than they can care for. If there be many of this class still in the market, then prices are scraping upon bottom. For the man who can buy and who is able to hold, should stocks go lower for the above reasons, there is no doubt as to the profitable results for such as would pay upon small margins with inability beyond extent of same to additionally protect loss might be his portion. We advise buying with the understanding margin can be placed on the account if necessary. Scare has carried prices lower than they should have gone.

New York, Sept. 26th, 1902.—St. Paul was the feature of to-day's market, keeping remarkably strong all day. L. N. sold up six points from yesterday's closing, and lost some of it before the close. The high priced stocks were all in special demand and very firm. All recording advances. Lead Car Foundry and P. R. S. were largely traded in, the latter and Lead selling higher than the last recorded prices. We believe that low prices have been made, and that stocks are a purchase on every concession.

Money closed at 12 per cent. Sales, 767,800.

THE TOP RAIL.

It is the top rail of the fence that does the business. Look out for the first break. Never begin to do evil, and your fight with the devil will be one sided in results. It is the little foxes that spoil the vines. It is the small evils that make the big rents in character.

"Vice is a monster of such fearful mien,
That to be hated is but to be seen;
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her faces,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

The first time you did a crooked thing you thought over it for a week, and it cost you many a regret. It wasn't half as hard to do it the second time, and although you had made up your mind and vowed you would never do it again, you have repeated the act. You have done it so often that you dare not count up the times if you could. That which once caused sleeplessness is now dismissed with the excuse that others do it who are as good as you. If this were the only result of your taking down the top rail, it might not be so bad. You took down the second, and the third, and the fourth, until to-day your life is foraging ground for all the roaming herds of the devil. It was the top rail that did it. It has cost you your manhood, and your peace of mind, and it also may be, your reputation. It may be that the whole fence is gone, and the prospect of rebuilding has practically been given up. Put it up rail by rail. Put up the notice to greed, passion, passion, and the host of invaders, to "keep off." Young man, if you are tempted to take down the "top rail" of conscience—don't! Beware of the first breach. Err on the side of right, rather than wrong. Give conscience the benefit of the doubt. If you are tempted to give way in the matter of duty a hair's breadth, don't! Keep up the top rail. Make this your life's motto. It will save you years of pain and give you an eternity of joy.—Solomon, in Baker and Confectionery.

Health and Hope.

"He who has health has hope; and he who has hope has everything." But hope flees at the approach of kidney disease with the dreadful pains which accompany it. With the the flesh gradually failing, the back aching, and the despair which often comes to victims of this ailment, only the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will restore hope, confidence and health. One pill a dose; 25c a box.

MATTERS MILITARY

BY SENTRY.

The Midland Field Battery is fast becoming noted for its prominence in social circles, and the following account of an afternoon tea that was given by the officers of the 14th will be of interest—

A very bright and enjoyable affair was the large and fashionable tea on Friday last, given by Major MacNachtan and the officers of the Fourteenth Field Battery, C. A., at their camp in Cobourg. It was a perfect summer day, and the surroundings were of such a picturesque character that the reception was an assured success. The society people of the town and the American visitors turned out in large numbers, and were received by Mrs. MacNaughton, wife of the commanding officer. The officers, under whose auspices the tea was given, were Major MacNachtan, Capt. Fisher, Lieut. Victor Hall, Lieut. Bradburn, Lieut. Ackerman and Dr. Elliott. Refreshments were served in a large marquee erected on the grounds; the table decorations were most military in their character, consisting of a very beautiful floral Union Jack, banked by maple leaves. Among the many distinguished guests present were: General Fitzhugh, General and Mrs. Bingham, Gen. and Mrs. Wilcox, Gen. Card, Col. Vincent, Col. Irwin, Col. and Mrs. Skill, Major and Mrs. Snelgrove, Major Floyd, Capt. and Mrs. E. A. Macnachtah, Senator and Mrs. Kerr, Canon and Mrs. Spragge, Rev. Mr. Beattie, Mr. James Crowther, of Toronto, Mrs. Luke Beatty, of Barrie, Dr. and Mrs. Small, of Toronto, Mrs. F. W. F. W. Lount, Dr. and Mrs. Ferris, Mrs. W. J. Crossen, Mrs. W. L. Allen, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. and Miss Eyre, Mr. Von Spreckelson, of Baltimore, Md., Miss Leah Walker, of Toronto, Dr. and Mrs. McNichol, Mr. Henry Fitzhugh, Mrs. Armstrong, of London, Eng., Mrs. (Dr.) Douglas, Mrs. Douglas, of Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. John Odell, Mrs. David McNaughton, Miss Field, Miss Weller, Miss Pypon, and Misses McNachtan, the Misses Kerr, the Misses Gulton, Miss Crossen, Miss Charlotte Taylor, Miss Helen Holland, Mrs. A. I. Hewson, Mr. Holmes, of Nassau, Mr. F. D. Boggs, Mr. Fisher, Miss Miss Robertson, and Miss Renwick, of Port Hope.

The unfortunate young man, Wm. Falconer, the fireman who was killed in the railway wreck near Lindsay on Sunday morning, had recently returned from South Africa, where he went with the last contingent, seeing service with Capt. Bruce Carruthers and his gallant band at Hart's River.

The regimental skeleton force of the 45th Regiment consists of 75 officers and non-coms. The force represents the 8 companies now comprising the Regiment; Little Britain and Bobcaygeon companies, now being formed, having each sent a few officers and men. Col. Robt. Sylvester is in command; Major E. H. Hopkins is acting Quartermaster; and Capt. Henley is Adjutant.

• • • •

The Militia-General orders published to-day announce the appointment to a 2nd Lieutenency in the 3rd Dragoons of Capt. T. J. Johnston, from the 46th Regiment. Capt. Johnston has commanded the old Springville Company of the 46th for a long time, and generally has the crack company of his Regiment. He is a brother of Major Johnston, 2nd in command of the Dragoons, and is an enthusiastic soldier. Capt. Johnston's retirement from the 46th will, of course, be regretted by the officers of that corps, and he will be received with enthusiasm by the officers and men of the 3rd.

• • • •

The announcement is made to-day of the transfer of Lieut.-Col. John Hughes, of the 46th Regiment, to the reserve of officers. Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers, formerly of the 57th, is also placed on the retired list.

EAST LONDON.

The Eastern Quarter Not So Bad as It Is Often Represented.

But if one knows West London at all, it is difficult to be without preconceptions of the character of the eastern quarter. I own frankly to having conceived of it as a labyrinthine city of slums. I knew vaguely that within half a century it had spread itself over a vast area to the east and northeast of the "city" to the River Lea and beyond, absorbing in its progress many old hamlets, of which such names as Wapping and Stepney and Bethnal Green and Spitalfields and Isle of Dogs cling to one's memory. But it is not a little strange, when one thinks of it, that a trip through East London should be regarded as something of an adventure. Desperate crimes have been committed there, and criminals are, no doubt, to be found there, but it would be difficult to discover a section of London of which the same is not true. The truth is, if there is a single quality which eminently characterizes East London, it is that of respectability.

It is easy to account for an outside reputation for viciousness. The rapid growth of the city and the fearful congestion that has here and there manifested itself have been accompanied by outbursts of vice and crime that have taken at times appalling forms. A series of murders which horrified the world went far to create the impression of a desperate community. A search for adventure took often the form of expeditions through the East-end under police protection. Not only is police protection no longer needed, it is no longer to be had in the form of police-conduct for parties of slummers. The present authorities at Scotland Yard, decline to foster viciousness or even its appearance, by helping to create a demand for it in the interest of morbid curiosity. And when companies of largess-dispensing sightseers ceased to pass nightly under police guidance through parts of East London, the city assumed its natural aspect, the aspect that all who knew it knew it to be normal to it, that of perfect safety and of a degree of respectability rather to distinguish it among all quarters of London. I personally have never seen at any hour in Whitechapel nor through all the length of Mile End Road, nor in Leman street, a faint suggestion of the nightly horror of Piccadilly and Regent street.—From "Among London Wage-Earners," by Walter A. Wyckoff.

Where the Day Changes.

Longitude, you know, is the distance around the earth from east to west, and by common consent this distance is reckoned from the observatory at Greenwich, England. The whole circumference of the earth is reckoned as 360 degrees, the one hundred and eightieth degree, half way round, being exactly on the opposite side from Greenwich. So that when we speak of a place as being 75 degrees east we mean 75 degrees east from Greenwich, and 75 degrees west is 75 degrees west of Greenwich. The point exactly opposite to Greenwich, on the other side of the earth, therefore, is 180 degrees east, and also 180 degrees west.

Now, this point, or meridian, is the place where, by universal consent, the day changes and it is called the international date line. Let us see how the change is made, and note some of the curious conditions that the change gives rise to. Suppose two ships are sailing toward that line, one sailing east and the other west. On the ship sailing toward the east the day is Sunday; on the ship sailing toward the west the day is Monday.

Suppose, further, that it is 9 o'clock in the morning, and at that hour both ships stop, one east of the line, the other west of it, but within hailing distance of each other. It is 9 o'clock in the morning, remember, as indicated by the sun, but on one ship it is Sunday, on the other it is Monday, for the day of the week and the day of the month both change at that line.

Then the ships sail on, and the instant they cross the date line the one going east changes the day from Sunday to Monday, and the one going west changes the day from Monday to Sunday; so that the first ship gains a whole day and the last ship loses one.

ANIMAL LIFE.

It is estimated that there are now only 1,000 buffaloes alive on the North American continent.

No wonder the fish crop is never "short." The flounder lays 7,000,000 eggs annually, several others from 1,000,000 to 3,000,000, while the turbot is credited with depositing from 11,000,000 to 12,000,000 during each breeding season.

A camel possesses twice the carrying power of an ox. With an ordinary load of 400 pounds, he can travel 12 or 14 days without water, going 40 miles a day. Camels are fit to work at 5 years old, but their strength begins to decline at 25, although they usually live to 40.

SIDE OF THE MINERS.

Reply to Mr. Baer of the Anthracite Coal Trust.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL'S LETTER.

Says Public Must Be Final Arbiter of Coal Strike — Demands of the Strikers— No Greater Perversion of the Facts Than to Say That Mine Workers' Union Is a Lawless Organization.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers' Sunday night gave out the following statement:

"The recent utterances of Mr. Baer, spokesman of the anthracite coal trust, Mr. Hewitt and other interested persons, disclose a well-defined purpose to confuse and cloud the real cause which resulted in the coal strike, and an attempt to divert attention from the actual issues involved; however, misleading as are their utterances, it is a relief to know that they now admit that the public has rights and interests which cannot be ignored with impunity, and inasmuch as the public must be the final arbiter of the coal strike, it is imperative that it shall not be deceived by statements which are at variance with the facts, with the purpose of correcting some of the false impressions and misrepresentations contained in the statements of the gentlemen referred to, I issue this letter.

"Mr. Baer states that the wages paid in the anthracite coal regions are, compared with the wages paid in like employment, fair and just. By 'like employment' Mr. Baer must refer to bituminous coal mining. I am willing and prepared to demonstrate that wages in the bituminous coal fields are from 20 to 40 per cent. higher than those paid for similar classes of work in the anthracite fields. The fact is that the minimum wage received by any class of adult mine workers in the soft coal mines is 26½ cents per hour, while the minimum wage paid to boys is 12½ cents per hour; in the anthracite coal mines men performing precisely the same labor receive from 13 to 20 cents per hour, boys are paid as low as 5 cents per hour, and rarely receive to exceed 8 cents per hour. The bituminous miner works a maximum of 8 hours per day, which is two hours less than men in the anthracite field are required to work; moreover, the anthracite mine worker labors under the further disadvantage of being more liable to be killed or injured, the casualties being 50 per cent. greater in the anthracite than in the bituminous mines.

After proving that the miners did not limit the output of the mines, Mr. Mitchell continues:

"Since the very inception of this strike, the aims, objections and ideals of the United Mine Workers' of America have been wilfully distorted by a small army of critics. We have been unjustly maligned and our motives and purposes maliciously impugned. We, therefore, take this opportunity to repeat specifically that we do not seek to interfere with the management of the coal properties or with the proper discipline of the working force; but we do demand:

"First. An increase in wages for men employed on piece work.

"Second. A reduction in the hours of labor for men employed by the day.

"Third. Payment for a legal ton of coal;

"Fourth. That the coal we mine shall be honestly weighed and correctly recorded; and

"Fifth. We favor incorporating in the form of an agreement, the wages that shall be paid and the conditions of employment that shall obtain for a specific period. As to the reasonableness of these demands, we have proposed to submit to and abide by the award of any impartial board of arbitration.

"There could be no grosser perversion of truth than the assertion of the operators that the Mine Workers' Union is a lawless organization. During the past 20 weeks the whole power of the union has been exerted to preserve the peace among a voluntarily idle population of three-quarters of a million.

"Reverting to the demands of the miners for increased wages and improved invironment. Mr. Baer declared that he cannot possibly pay an increase in wages that would amount to 10 or 15 cents per ton to the miners, but he and [illegible] presidents admit that they can afford to sacrifice, temporarily, a large market and lose millions of dollars rather than pay this increase; nevertheless, without advancing the miners' wages one cent the operators did raise the market price last year from 80 to 50 cents a ton, and at the present time Mr. Baer and his fellow presidents are forcing the public to pay from $6 to $10 excess upon a ton in order to save this same public 10 or 15 cents.

"Mr. Baer claims that the average pay per working day in his mines is $1 89. Admitting, for the sake of argument, the correctness of his figures, this would make upon the average number of working days in 1901, a grand annual total of $368 per employe, or an average of $7.05 per week; thus, as a result of the strenuously opposed and bitterly regretted advance wrung from the operators by the strike of 1900, the average adult employe of the Reading Coal and Iron Company is permitted to spend upon himself, his wife and his children, the munificent sum of $1.01 per day.

"In closing this statement, I desire to say that we have entered and ate conducting the struggle without malice and without bitterness. Involved in this fight are questions weightier than any question of dollars and cents. The present miner has had his day; he has been oppressed and ground down, but there is another generation of little children prematurely doomed to the whirl of the mill and the noise and blackness of the breaker. It is for these little children we are fighting."

"John Mitchell, president United Mine Workers' of America."

Receiver For Railways.

Boston, Sept. 29.—A committee of citizens, headed by the publishers of a Boston newspaper, Saturday sought relief in the courts from the present coal shortage and high prices by asking for a receiver for the coal companies and coal carrying roads. A bill in equity was filed in the Supreme Court against the following named corporations: The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, the Delaware and Hudson Company, the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company, the Erie Railroad Company, the Pennsylvania Coal Company and the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company.

Implore Roosevelt's Aid.

New York, Sept. 29.—Petitions are being circulated throughout the country by members of the various organizations comprising the American Federation of Catholic Societies, asking President Roosevelt to use his good offices to end the coal strike.

No Signs of Settlement.

New York, Sept. 29.—Facts gathered by The Herald during an exhaustive examination of present conditions in the anthracite coal regions all point to the conclusion that there is absolutely no change in the coal situation, no indication that a settlement of the great strike is near at hand. Both sides are firm in maintaining the same position they have done for months.

MET A VIOLENT DEATH.

Two Killed at a Paris Railway Crossing.

W. EDGAR'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. Allen Edgar and Miss Gourlay the Victims—Son of the First Was Carried Forty Rods on the Engine— Both Ladies Died in a Few Minutes—An Inquest to Be Held.

Paris, Ont., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Allen Edgar and Miss Agnes Gourlay met with a violent death at the G.T.R. crossing on Grand River street at 12.10 yesterday afternoon, as they were driving home from church, and Wallace Edgar, son of the former, was seriously injured. Two eastbound freight trains, running a few minutes apart at a good rate of speed, came along just as the congregation of the Presbyterian church, which is situated on River street, one block from the crossing, were making their way homeward. Some had gone over the crossing before the trains came up. The others waited for them to pass. The Edgar rig and another rig halted when Flagman Skelly held them back, and when the first train passed they moved on, not expecting another to follow so close after the first. They discovered the second when they were too near the crossing to turn, so they made an effort to cross, with the result that the rig and horse were struck fairly in the side by the engine with tremendous force. The horse was killed and the rig was demolished. Mrs. Edgar was thrown against the fence and died from her injuries in a few minutes. Miss Agnes Gourlay of Ayr was hurled about 100 feet and was killed instantly. Strange to say Wallace Edgar, aged 15, son of Mrs. Edgar escaped with his life, though he was carried on the front of the engine over the Grand River bridge, a distance of 40 rods, before he was rescued from her perilous position by the conductor. The boy was taken to Mr. Thomas McCammon's house near by and cared for. It was found that Wallace had no bones broken, but that he suffered from severe bruises and shock, though he had regained consciousness by the time he was placed in bed. Mr. Allen Edgar, whose wife was killed and son injured, lives on a farm about two miles west of Paris. He was in terrible distress when he was brought from home to view the dead bodies. His four children are left motherless. Miss Gourlay's parents reside in Ayr. She had lived with the Edgars only a few months. She was 32 years of age. A number of people who were on their way home from church witnessed the accident. Many of them claim that the whistle of the second train did not blow, while others are positive that it did. The accident appears to be due to two causes — the Edgar horse was wild and hard to manage, and secondly, the trains ran so close together that the people did not receive sufficient warning, notwithstanding the fact that a flagman stood on the crossing. Dr. Sinclair, Coroner, has empannelled a jury, and an inquest will be held this morning.

Eight Men Terribly Burned.

McKeesport, Pa., Sept. 29.—Eight men, with charred faces and terribly burned bodies, were taken to the McKeesport Hospital on account of an explosion of a furnace at the Carnegie blast furnace plant, Duquesne, Saturday night. Two of the victims have since died, and there is little hope that any of the others will recover. All were caught in the fierce blast of flames and ashes which followed the blowing out of a bell while the men were at work. They were sent up to the dangerous place about an hour before. Something had gone wrong with the working of the furnace.

Sir Cavendish to Meet Rand.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 29.—Sir Cavendish Boyle, Governor of Newfoundland, left yesterday for England. He will go by way of New York, sailing from that city next Saturday on the Cunard Liner, Etruria. While in New York Governor Boyle will confer with Premier Bond with regard to the negotiations for reciprocity between the United States and Newfoundland and other colonial questions, in order that he may discuss them with the British Colonial Secretary.

Soldiers Fire at Strikers.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 29.—Late Saturday night shots were fired by soldiers at strikers for the first time since the troops went into the field. At the Grassy Island Colliery, two soldiers were stationed in a patch of underbrush, stones were thrown at them and one of the soldiers was felled to the ground. The soldiers fired and a relief detail scoured the fields in a fruitless search.

Deputy Shoots Slav.

Wilkes-Barre, Sept. 28.—James Sweeney, a deputy, employed at the Piles Mine at West Mantiooke, on his way home last evening, fired at Joseph Gillis, a striking Slav. The bullet entered Gillis' back. He is in a precarious condition. Sweeney was locked up. He says he shot in self-defence.

CANADIAN PULP PULPWOOD AND PAPER.

A British journal known as The Paper Maker, recently published an editorial bearing upon the relationship existing between Canadian pulpwood and American paper. The Paper Maker says:

"The visit of representative manufacturers to Lord Strathcona is a step which ought to bear fruit in the relations existing between Canadian paper-makers and British machinery manufacturers. Some few months ago we were discussing the question of Canadian tariffs, and pointed out that it was obviously the duty of Canada, instead of bothering about trifling alterations in the tariff on "news," to take a strong stand in the direction of preventing the export of pulpwood to America. There is probably no other country in the world which "favours protection" which would allow its raw material to be carried a few yards across its border, the finished product to be returned again to compete with its own manufacture. Canada ought to—and probably will within a very short period—make it impossible for this competition to exist, and, as a natural consequence, it will go one step further, and, in addition to sending over to us very large quantities of half stuff, will make a greater proportion of paper and sell the finished article."

The Ontario Government as representing an important pulpwood supply has provided that no pulpwood shall leave the country in an unmanufactured condition. It remains for Canadian enterprise to meet the demands of "The Paper Maker" to have Canadian paper manufactured here from Canadian pulp for the Americans.

The wires report the robbery of a Perth county farmer while ploughing in his field. One robber held a pistol to his head while another hpld his grip on $110, which he found in the ploughman' spocket. How did the robbers know he had the money? Of the thousands of ploughmen to be found any day at work in Ontario, not many would have as much as ten cents in the pockets of his overalls, except in some cases in the form of a block of "Bobs" chewing tobacco.

AS OTHERS SEE IT.

British Estimate of Canada's Premier.

The British papers arriving by late mails indicate that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Canada are still among the principal matters discussed. The Francophobe journals in Ontario will hardly be pleased when they read the very eulogistic articles which our British contemporaries put before their readers. The Edinburgh Scotsman discourses as follows;

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has the happy gift of quickening the sympathies without stirring the prejudices and antipathies of race. He knows how to blend harmoniously the spirit of loyalty with the spirit of nationality — how to speak the apt and true word in the presence of men of diverse blood, religion and language without setting his audience by the ears. His visit to Paris has yielded him peculiar opportunities of exercising to admiration this rare and precious talent, the secret of which is the possession of a combination of wit, good feeling and good sense.

And the London World, instead of seeing some enormity in Sir Wilfrid's visit to Paris, sees quite the reverse for it sees good in the visit and says very frankly that—

Not the least of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's services to the Empire has been rendered in the course of his recent visit to the land of his fathers, where he has discomfited the exponents of rapid Anglophobia by reminding his countrymen of the loyal attachment of the French Canadians to British rule, and of the liberty and prosperity which they enjoy under the flag of the Empire.

And the very Conservative St. James' Gazette echoes the same sentiments. It says;

The Dominion of Canada has been of late much in men's mouths, and their thoughts. The presence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, in the land of his ancestors, has been the occasion of much sentiment that may have a practical and useful outcome mingled perhaps with a little suggestion of things that may come to pass. Such suggestions, however, have not been due to Sir Wilfrid, who is known as the happiest example of the happiest arrangement in the history of colonization. With a sincere and unmistakeable affection for the land of his race, he combines the truest allegiance to the British throne and government, overlaying each attitude with great qualities of genuine and far-seeing statesmanship. Each of these points have been marked very strongly in the speech which he delivered at the banquet in his honour at the Palais D'Orsay Hotel in Paris.

And such citations could be extended almost indefinitely so generally and unanimously has the British press spoken. The difference between this impartial criticism and that provoked by racial prejudice and political and party narrowness in sections of the Canadian press is very marked, and should put some of our Canadian writers to the blush. — Ottawa Journal.

CURE FOR SCARLET FEVER.

Announced at the Congress of German Doctors at Carlsbad.

London, Sept. 29.—The conference of German doctors, which is now in session at Carlsbad, has announced the discovery of a new cure for scarlet fever which has repeatedly proved to be successful. Mr. Moser, the assistant physician at St. Ann's Hospital for Children, at Vienna, is the discoverer of the new serum. During the last two years he has tried it on 400 patients. The mortality has decreased to between 8 and 9 per cent. The rate at the other hospitals is double this. The Congress has been informed that the Government will vote a considerable sum of money in order that the serum may be made in large quantities and distributed to all the children's hospitals in Vienna.

Reciprocity With Canada.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 29. — Henry Cabot Lodge, speaking Saturday night, touching upon reciprocity with Canada, maintained that the Republican party had always favored such movement, and had done all that had ever been accomplished toward that end. He declared that the Democrats had simply talked reciprocity. Mr. Lodge was not optimistic regarding the advantages to be gained by the United States in reciprocity with with Canada, however. Reciprocity would give Canada an added market of 80,000,000 people, and it would give the United States an additional market of only 5,000,000.

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—The case of W. T. R. Preston v. Journal was concluded Saturday night at 9 o'clock with a verdict for the defendant. The case was an action for damages arising out of an alleged slander, and was one of the most interesting heard for some time in this section. Mr. Justice Meredith presided.

Sea Birds as Fog Signals.

BRITISH NAVY MAY USE OIL.

Experiment on Torpedo Boat Destroyer May Drive Out Coal.

London, Sept. 29.—The Sunday Times yesterday reports that the torpedo boat destroyer Surly has tested oil fuel on a seven-hour run, and that this experiment, with others that are secretly progressing at Portsmouth, has encouraged the belief that oil will supersede, or at least materially reduce the consumption of coal.

The Sunday Times says that the difficulty of neutralizing the smoke of oil burning in warships has practically been overcome by pumping into the furnaces enough hydrogen to neutralize the excess of carbon caused by burning crude petroleum. The paper adds, however, that oil is dearer at present than Welsh coal.

TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

Dr. Spencer, professor of medical jurisprudence in Toronto University, died on Sunday evening, after an illness of over two years.

The Montreal Field Battery came out victorious in the artillery competition at the Deseronto ranges, and the Challenge Cup will go to Montreal.

James B. Craft, a wealthy resident of Glen Cove, L.I., was murdered Saturday, and his body decapitated, in a "tenderloin" resort in New York.

Lady Henry Somerset, president of the World's Christian Temperance Union, is a passenger on the Atlantic Transport Line steamship Minneapolis for New York.

Burglars visited Meaford some time during Saturday night. The jewelry store of T. F. Rixon was entered and several watches, silverware, etc., taken. The steam barge Major was also robbed.

The mystery surrounding the death of several cattle at Beachville, Ont., has been cleared—they died of anthrax. It has also been established that Marmon Cook, who lies at death's door, has contracted the same disease.

The body of a young man, supposed to be William Griffith of Hamilton, who was drowned about seven weeks ago, was found on the shore about a half mile east of Newcastle, Ont., Sunday morning. David Griffith, a brother, left on the first train.

Gordon Garner, a seven-year-old Toronto boy, was run over on Saturday afternoon by one of the heavy wagons of the Kentucky Ice Company, T. R. Fleming, driver, while he was engaged in playing horse with his chums on the street. He died in a few minutes.

President Again Under the Knife.

Washington, Sept. 29. — Secretary Cortelyou at 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon issued the following statement:

"Dr. Newton M. Shaffer, of New York joined the President's physicians in consultation this morning at 11 o'clock.

"The increase in local symptoms and a raise in temperature rendered it necessary to make an incision into small cavity, exposing the bone, which was found to be slightly affected. Thorough drainage is now established, and the physicians feel confident that recovery will be uninterrupted.

"The operation was performed by Surgeon-General Rixey, assisted by Dr. Lung, and in conjunction with Surgeon-General O'Reilly and Doctors Shaffer, Urie and Stitt. (Signed.) George B. Cortelyou, Secretary to the President."

Uncle Sam's Pension Bill.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The annual report of Commissioner of Pensions Eugene F. Ware, made public yesterday, shows that the total enrolment, comprising 738,809 soldiers and 260,637 widows and dependents. The aggregate includes 4,695 pensions outside the United States. The report says that the death rate among pensioners for the coming year will be about 40,000, and the losses to the rolls from other causes will be about 6,000. The total amount paid for pensions during the fiscal year was $137,504,268, and the yearly cost of operating and maintaining the bureau and the agencies outside of the payment of pensions proper aggregates $3,590,529.

Two Woodstock Banks Victimized.

Woodstock, Sept. 29.—The police are working on a case of forgery. In the exchange of cheques between the city banks Saturday morning it was discovered that two cheques had been drawn on the Woodstock Wind Co', for which there was no record. The Bank of Commerce got one and the Imperial Bank the other. They were sent along to Molsons Bank, where it was found that they were forgeries. One of the cheques was for $11 and another for $14, and both bore the forged signature of Mr. Watson, secretary-treasurer of the Woodstock Wind Motor Co. The police are looking for the man who drew the cheques but so far have failed to locate him.

Crowd Saw Gen. Booth Off.

London, Sept. 29.—Gen. William Booth of the Salvation Army sailed from Southampton Saturday for New York on the American Line steamship Philadelphia. Great crowds assembled at Waterloo Station to see the Commander-in-Chief of the Army off. The General was attired in the regulation uniform of the Army with a heavily braided overcoat. He wore a silk hat, however, instead of the Army peaked cap.

SWIMMERS' CRAMP.

It Is Not So Very Dangerous if the Victim Will Keep Cool.

If swimmers could be trained to keep cool under all circumstances, there would be comparatively little drowning among bathers and summer pleasure seekers. Cramp is usually assigned as the cause when some good swimmer drowns. But cramp ought in reality to be nothing serious. Usually is affects only an arm or a leg or maybe only a hand or foot. Any moderately good swimmer can keep afloat with one arm or even without the use of that, yet good swimmers drown often as a result of cramp. If such fatalities were analyzed, they would be more properly classed as drowning from fright and loss of nerve. This comes from the fact that every one is taught in childhood to fear the water and comes as a grown man and a swimmer to fear cramp. The average opinion is that the man who is attacked when swimming in deep water is as good as drowned. Therefore, when a swimmer feels a leg or arm begin to cramp he is frightened in most cases entirely out of his wits. He loses his head, begins to splash and paw and struggle and then goes down.

What the swimmer should remember is that he can keep afloat with very, very little effort if he will turn on his back and keep his chest inflated. It is the simple matter of floating, which every swimmer knows and finds very easy. If the swimmer will keep cool and float, the cramping limb will frequently relax after a little and he will find himself as well as ever.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles.

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles, with which nine out of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure aseptic pepsin, (government test,) golden seal and diastase. The Tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive powers of Stuart's Tablets show that one one grain of the active principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3,0000 grains of raw meat, eggs, and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pills and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines, without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion it will very soon recover its normal vigour, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago, and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple, because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is properly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack, and unless that lack is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills" and cathartics, which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and the regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit better than any other argument.

Royal Zulu in Columbia.

New York, Sept. 29.—Pixley Ka Isaka Seme, a Zulu of the royal blood from Natal, South Africa, will enter Columbia University next week and stay there for seven years, when he thinks he will be fit to return to his native country and do missionary work in behalf of the Zulus.

Hamburg, Sept. 29.—The delegates to the International Maritime Conference spent Saturday in discussing jurisdiction in collision cases. The debate was highly technical. Prior to disbanding, at the close of the day's work, congratulatory speeches were exchanged

THE SICILY TEMPEST.

Details of the Storm Multiply the Number of Deaths.

RECOVERY OF 500 BODIES SO FAR

Three Hundred Lives Were Lost at Modica—At Sortino, Sixteen Miles From Syracuse, the Cyclone Continued For Fifteen Hours—The Whole Country About Mount Etna Has Suffered Greatly.

London, Sept. 29.—Advices received at Rome show that the tempest that worked such damage on Sicily island is still raging. Details of the storm multiply the number of deaths. On the east coast 370 bodies have been recovered, and the sea continues to give up corpses which were swept down by the torrents from the interior. It is estimated that 500 bodies have already been recovered.

Three hundred lives were lost at Modica. The churches there are filled with dead, and the cemeteries are wastes of mud, rendering the interment of bodies of the victims impossible. Salvage operations continue, troops and peasants working without intermission.

At Sortino, sixteen miles from Syracuse, the cyclone continued fifteen hours. The rains which have followed the cyclone have aggravated the disaster in the country, sweeping down bridges and interrupting railway traffic.

The whole country about Mount Etna has suffered greatly. Mount Etna is sending up a thick column of steam from the vicinity of the scene of the eruption of 1892.

Two fresh craters have opened on Stromboli since Sept. 14.

A special despatch from Rome, after confirming the report that Stromboli has been in full eruption for some time past, says:

"The night scene was grand, but terrifying. Lava streamed down the mountain sides seaward, while huge bowiders were hurled from the crater to a great height, falling into the sea, fully two and a half miles from the shore.

"The director of the observatory at Mount Etna says there has been no earthquake in Sicily, but that probably there has been a submarine eruption between Stromboli and Sicily.

"One hundred and fifty corpses have been recovered at Modica. Hundreds of victims were drowned in the open country."

Fresh Storm Broke.

Syracuse, Sicily, Sept. 19.—A fresh storm burst over the district of Santa Maria yesterday. It is now believed that 300 persons perished at Modica during the tornado.

The village of Sortino has been practically destroyed, and 48 persons were drowned. The total damage as the result of the cyclone is expected to amount to over $2,500,000.

Pinkerton Is Discredited.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—The first of the "digger" cases was concluded Saturday in the acquittal of ex-Conductor Louis Bailey, and James Whittington will be placed on trial next. Just what day is not certain. These are the cases in which the Toronto Railway Company, with the aid of John Caulfield, a Pinkerton detective, caused the arrest June 5 of seventeen conductors and motormen for robbing the fare boxes. Bailey went on trial Thursday and was acquitted Saturday afternoon, the jury being out but one hour. This is not the first time a Canadian jury has refused to accept the testimony of a Pinkerton detective.

The Aurania Arrives.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 29.—The troopship Aurania, from Southampton, with the 5th Royal Garrison Regiment on board, and others, to replace the Royal Canadian Regiment, on garrison duty, in Halifax, arrived here yesterday afternoon. The trooper left on Sept. 20, and had a good passage. There are 997 officers and men on the trooper. They are all dressed in khaki, the service uniform. The steamer also brought one hundred Royal Artillerymen for the garrison at Esquimalt, B. C. The new regiment will disembark on Tuesday morning.

Planned to Collect Insurance.

Collingwood, Sept. 29.—It is claimed that agents of a Toronto insurance company are here trying to unearth an alleged attempted fraud on the company. A man living near Collingwood concocted a plan to collect $1,500 insurance on his mother's life, and as the lady is in good health yet, the statement is made that he made a proposition to an ex-insurance agent to spirit her away. The story is told by the ex-agent, but the details have not leaked out.

Shot His Brother.

Burk's Falls, Sept. 29.—While hunting in the Township of Laurier, Wellington Middleton accidentally shot and killed his brother George. The two had separated in a quest for game, and Wellington, noticing a movement in the bush, fired the gun in that direction, with fatal results. The coroner decided an inquest unnecessary.

Husband May Live.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 29.—Morton McNutt, who shot his wife and attempted to commit suicide at Truro, is still alive and comparatively strong. The condition of his wife is not so encouraging.

Owner and Guests Drowned.

Vienna, Sept. 29.—D. Jide, a Black Sea port ship owner yesterday invited a party of guests aboard a new yacht. The vessel was caught in a squall and capsized, and 20 of those aboard were drowned.

Thirty Miners Killed.

London, Sept. 29.—A despatch from Madrid says thirty miners have been killed at Mazarron, Province of Murcia, by poisonous gas.

HIDDEN NEWS CHANNELS.

Remarkable Rapidity in the Dissemination of News—Arabs Knew Hellegraph 1,000 Years Ago and Used It.

There have always been prophets in the world who have professed to be able to predict the course of events, and whose pretensions have been more or less successful, says The London Spectator, but there is another phenomenon which not unfrequently forces itself upon the notice of Europeans in their dealings with men of other races, and this is the extraordinary and accurate knowledge which they sometimes possess of events happening at a distance, and of which they cannot apparently have received information through ordinary channels of communication, though when news of the events subsequently arrived it fully confirmed the native rumors.

Some years ago we remember reading a statement that at the time of the disasters in Afghanistan in 1842 it was reported that the whole British army had been annihilated with the exception of one man several days before the Europeans received the news from other sources. If this story stood alone it might have been imagined that a pre-arranged plot had been known in India, but similar stories are not infrequent. A lady, writing in The Spectator of Feb. 15 last, mentions that the death of the Ameer of Afghanistan was known in the bazaars in October, 1901, well in advance of the official news, and also that when the Roumania was wrecked it was known on a Saturday that a big steamer carrying piece-goods had been wrecked in the Red Sea, though the agents of the line did not receive the news till the following Monday. News travels with equal celerity in Africa. We read in Wilson's "Behind the Scenes in the Transvaal":—"Again and again have Kaffirs reported events hours and even days before the news could possibly have got through by the ordinary channels. 'I remember, for example, how the Kaffirs in Pretoria, detailed the account of the capture of Malaboch at least four hours before the first telegram arrived in Pretoria, and numbers of people who have passed through the experience of native wars in South Africa have testified to similar instances. It may be that the items of news are shouted from hill to hill, as suggested by some matter-of-fact persons who do not know the Kaffir or his country. but it is passing strange that no white person ever appears to have heard this shouting, not even in districts where every white man understands the Kaffir language as thoroughly as his own. Whatever the true explanation may be, it has not been brought forward yet, and the fact remains that the Kaffirs have some means, unknown to whites, by which they can transmit intelligence vast distances under conditions that preclude the possibility of their having any agency that we are familiar with."

The present writer has been told by a friend who knows South Africa well that it is there said that the Kaffirs have a peculiar kind of horn that can be heard at an immense distance, and is used to transmit intelligence (presumably by a code of signals), but that the sound would not be noticed by anyone who did not know what it was; and that news thus received is taken up and disseminated by runners. But this seems to be popular rumor, and conjecture rather than explanation. We believe that during the New Zealand war it was euually impossible for the British troops to carry out any movements unknown to the natives, who were always fully informed of or prepared to meet them. This is no new thing in war, for we are told that when the King of Syria called together his people and inquired who had betrayed his plans to the enemy, one of them answered, "None, my lord, O King; but Elisha, the prophet that is in Israel, telleth the King of Israel the words that thou speaketh in thy bedchamber" (2 Kings, vi., 12). In the same way the attempts of daring travelers to penetrate into Thibet without permission have usually failed, for however carefully they may have arranged their plans, they are always met at the most unexpected places by the Thibetan guards, who make them prisoners, or compel them to return.

The heliograph was employed by the Arabs to transmit intelligence from city to city throughout their Empire nine hundred years ago; and there is a curious passage in the writings of Cornelius Agrippa, who lived about the same time as Henry VIII., which may relate to the heliograph (the moon being substituted for the sun, as a blind, to throw the uninitiated off the track of the secret), or else may relate to some other more or less similar means of transmitting intelligence, probably derived from ancient sources, which came down to the time of Agrippa, but which did not descend to our own time. Agrippa alludes to the magic lantern and the camera obscura, and proceeds: "If anyone should take images artificially painted, or written letters, and in a clear light set them against the beams of the full moon, whose resemblance being multiplied in the disc, and caught upwards, and reflected back again with the beams of the moon, any other man that is privy to the thing, at a long distance, sees, reads and knows them in the very compass and circle of the moon, which art of declaring secrets is indeed very profitable for towns and cities that are besieged, being a thing which Pythagoras long since did often do, and which is not unknown to some in these days; I will not except myself" ("Three Books of Occult Philosophy," London, 1651, pp. 15-16). Here we have nothing more, whatever may be the real phenomena alluded to, than some optical contrivance on the same footing with the magic lantern and the camera obscura.

The King of Ranges—"Buck's Happy Thoughts"

Buying a Range

There are three essential things to consider when buying a Range,—Quality, Consumption of Fuel, and the Price. The price is the least important. A good Range will last many years, and when it saves in fuel it pays for its self, while a cheap Range is constantly adding to its price in extra consumption of fuel. The is the lightest fuel consumer in the world, and the most perfect Range constructed. It is a perfect cooking apparatus.

"Happy Thought" Range

The Season's Leading Attraction.

One of the most notable attractions booked her this season is the production of Anthony Hope's famous story "Rupert of Hentzau." Mr. Harry Leighton and his supporting company gave a fine performance of this thrilling romance, which fascinated thousands during its phenomenal New York run. This is the same company that played the Grand Opera House all last week in Toronto. We can highly recommend this attraction to the people of Peterborough. The advance sale opened this morning and the plan is fast filling up. Plan at Ormond & Walsh's.

GIRLS AT A PREMIUM.

The Opening of the Cereal Works Creates a Lively Demand—Extensive Shifting of the Basis of Employment.

At no time in the history of Peterborough has employment been so plentiful as at the present moment, and employees so difficult to get. In another column is recorded the instance of an agent of a New Ontario lumber company spending two or three days in town hiring, or rather trying to hire, men for the camps, and had to go with only seven men in his gang, out of the half hundred or more required. It is extremely difficult to get an odd-job man, and boys are hard to get at what would be men's wages a few years ago.

But it's the girls that are at a premium, and the opening of the Cereal Company's Works to even partial operation has produced a demand for girls in this and other industries which it is difficult to supply. The numbers leaving perhaps less remunerative positions, create vacancies which will have to be filled from the sources of domestic supply. Within the past several days large numbers of girls, scores perhaps, have left places where they are employed to seek positions with the new industry. While this may create temporary inconvenience to employers the situation will perhaps soon readjust itself. Girls not now employed and many who would not, a few months ago have entertained the idea of working for remuneration, will doubtless be induced to seek employment. Though the times are prosperous, yet they are, for special rasons, hard times. The extravagant prices of fuel forecast a winter in which every available penny will be employed and even new sources of income contemplated. The general advance in the cost of living, added as an influence, may tempt many a household to lend one or more members to the ranks of honourable employment.

We in Peterborough have been working to develop an increase of manufacturing industries on the ground, among others, that our citizens might have employment and when the demand comes and even creates temporary inconvenience, it will have to be borne philosophically.

The larger the proportion of our population employed the greater its purchasing capacity, and this being increased will in time redound to the benefit of those enterprises dependent upon the patronage of the general public. The more money earned in the town the more will be spent.

LATE MRS. GILLESPIE.

She Passed Away Yesterday—Interment Will Take Place at Keene.

The death occurred yesterday at her late residence, No. 32 Division street, of Elizabeth Gillespie, widow of the late John L. Gillespie. The deceased had been ailing for some time, but a hemmorhage was the immediate cause of her death.

The late Mrs. Gillespie was a native of Scotland, and came to this country when quite a young girl, and has lived in the vicinity of Peterborough ever since. She was a highly respected lady, a kind and loving mother, and wife, and a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Her husband predeceased her about 12 years. There remain to mourn her demise the following sons and daughters—Hugh, of Ashburnham; John, of Oregon; Mrs. William Newton, of Keene; George, of Central Smith; Peter, of Hastings; and Adam, Margaret and Frank, of town.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, No. 32, Division street, at one o'clock, on Tuesday, and proceed to the Keene cemetery for interment.

FIRST ANNUAL FIELD DAY

Of the Y. M. C. A. Athletes on Saturday.

The Winners of the Various Events—Some Records Broken.

The first annual field day of sports in connection with the Y.M.C.A., took place on Saturday afternoon on the Nicholls Oval and was attended with so much success that there is reason to believe that hereafter the annual field day will be enthusiastically looked forward to and will be even more largely attended than were Saturday's contests.

The winner of the senior series is Mr. Sandford Hall, with Bert Cameron a close second. Master Harold Daly carried off the honours in the intermediate class with S. Caniff second, while Master Edwin Daly won out in the junior series with Master Fred Richardson as second.

The events were divided into three classes, junior, intermediate and senior, and the finishes in many events were exciting to say the least. The championship of the senior events is yet in doubt, as the five mile race is yet to be run. However, it looks as if Mr. Sanford Hall was carrying off the honours in this line. The winners are decided by the number of points obtained out of all the events and the trophy for the championship of the senior saries was donated by Hon. J. R. Stratton. The trophy for the intermediate class was donated by Mr. James Gerrard, while Mr. Sandford Hall donated the trophy for the junior series.

The officials for Saturday's events were as follows:

Judges—W. S. Robinson and Jas. Gerrard.

Timer —W. Cochrane.

Clerk of the Course—Harry McNellis.

Referee and Starter—H. E. Ayers.

The entry list was large and the contests throughout were eagerly watched by the spectators. The results of the events were as follows:

JUNIOR.

100 yard dash—Richardson, Daly.
Throwing baseball—Daly, Robinson.
Standing broad jump—Daly, Robinson.
Running broad jump — Richardson, Daly.
Running hop, step and jump—Richardson, Daly.
Third of mile run—Richardson, Daly.
Three-legged race—Robinson and Daly Richardson and Lang.
Wheelbarrow race—Robinson and Daly, Richardson and Lang.

INTERMEDIATE.

100 yards dash—Daly, Hodgson.
Throwing baseball—Daly Gillespie.
Standing broad jump—Daly Hodgson.
Running broad jump — Caniff, Daly.
Running hop, step and jump—Caniff, Daly.
Third of mile run—Daly, Tully.
Three-legged race—Sanderson and Gillespie, Hodgson and Daly.
Wheelbarrow race—Hodgson and Daly, Duncan and Tully.

SENIOR.

100 yard dash—Hall, Cameron. Time 11 seconds.
Standing broad jump—Hall, McFadden.
Putting 18 lb. shot—McFadden, Dunford.
Running broad jump—Hall, Cameron.
Running hop, step and jump—Cameron, 40ft. 7 inches; Hall 40 feet.
220 yard run—Hall, Cameron.
Five mile race—Yet to be run.

NOTES.

Cameron beat his Labour Day record in the running hop, step and jump by three inches, the longest jump yet recorded in Peterborough.

Hall ran the 220 yard race in 25 seconds.

Richardson, of the junior class made an exceptional run in the 3rd mile. His time was 1.18 4-5.

NEW RIFLE SHOOTING TROPHY.

The "Stratton Trophy" to be Shot for at the Coming Meet of the Rifle Association.

Hon. J. R. Stratton has offered a cup or shield or an equivalent of that description to be decided upon, to the Peterborough Rifle Association, to be competed for at the coming and future annual competitions.

A meeting of the officials of the Association will be held to-night to consider the conditions upon which the trophy shall be won, and the character of the events in which scoring shall count in the competition. It is very probable, however, that the competition will be fixed on some special form of shooting which will encourage excellence in our volunteer soldiers, which the experience of the late South African war has shown to be desirable, such as firing at a moving target, or rapid firing—a certain number of shots in a given time—at any rate something tending to increase the practical efficiency of the rifle in the hands of the soldier, and help to make the Canadian soldier equal in the use of the rifle to his proven courage, dash and military intelligence.

RALLY DAY

At Grace Church Sunday School Yesterday—Some Addresses.

A very interesting Rally Day service was given yesterday afternoon at Grace Methodist Snday school. The superintendent, Mr. G. W. Powell, was assisted in the opening and closing exercises by Messrs. J. J. Hartley, William Might, and William Eyres. Instead of the usual lesson two very profitable talks were given by Mr. W. J. Francis and Mr. D. W. Dumble. The former had for his subject, "Egypt to Canaan," illustrating his remarks by means of blackboard sketches. Mr. Dumble's address dealt with the central figure of the past quarter's lessons, Moses. A pleasing musical programme was also given, consisting of solos by Miss Bertha Parnell, and Mrs. W. W. Daly, a duet by the Misses Chasty, and a quartette, "When Night is Near," by Misses Butcher and Detcher and Messrs. Doidge and Maguire. All together a very enjoyable and profitable session of the school was held.

The success of Miss Ellen Francis, the palmist, at the National Hotel, is phenomenal. Don't neglect to have one of her wonderful readings. All her patrons are delighted. 2d

A PETERBOROUGH PEACH.

A "Peach" of a Peach Grown to Maturity in Peterborough.

If Mr. Rudyard Kipling, should come to town and recite "Our Lady of the Snows," we could silence his poetical slander by cramming a Peterborough-grown peach into his mouth. The Examiner was this morning favoured with a beautiful peach, one of the first crop of about half a peck. The tree, grown from a stray peach pit, belongs to Mr. W. J. Martin, Dalhousie street, and is about four years old. This peach is a 'peach," about eight and a half inches in diameter, and the flavour is delicious. The flesh is white and very juicy, and Mr. Martin has possibly discovered a new variety of peach, which might be developed profitably.

AT ST. JOHN'S.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Conducted the Service—Special Music.

There was an exceptionally large congregation at St. John's church last night, the services being of a somewhat special nature, in view of the fact that the harvest festival decorations were left on view, and the musical service of the harvest festival was repeated. In addition to this Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's, conducted the service and delivered a very impressive address.

The music was a very interesting part of the service. Turner's "Magnificat" was rendered in a most delightful manner, by a carefully trained chorus. "Fear Not, O Soul," an anthem by Cooke, was an exceedingly well rendered selection. In fact, the the work of the choir yesterday throughout showed careful training, the choruses being well balanced. Mr. Gliddon is indeed to be congratulated upon the high standard of efficiency his choir has attained, and the members of the choir have responded ably to his training. The congregation joined in the service most heartily.

ALL SAINTS' NOTES.

A PRESENTATION

At St. Luke's After the Morning Service to Miss Armstrong.

After the morning service yesterday, the officers and teachers of St. Luke's Sunday school, and the members of the choir, assembled in the Vestry to make a presentation to Miss Minnie Armstrong, who left to-day for Davisville, N.Y., where she intends preparing herself for the nursing profession. The Rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, read the following address,—

Miss Minnie Armstrong, Peterborough;

Dear Miss Armstrong, — The officers and teachers of St. Luke's Sunday school, and the members of the choir, having heard of your leaving town, to prepare yourself for the noble profession of nursing the sick, desire most heartily to express to you their sense of the loss sustained by your approaching separation.

As a Sunday school teacher, and as a member of any organization of our church, you have always been faithful to your accepted responsibilities and duties, in the performance of which you have been an example to your fellow workers.

We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a token of our regard for you, and as a token of our appreciation of the many good services you have rendered the church.

May the Almighty Father go before you and bless you in your new sphere of work and life, and may you also take with you loving remembrances of St. Luke's church, and your fellow workers.

On behalf of the Sunday school and choir of St. Luke's.

E. A. LANGFELDT, M.A., Rector.
E. A. PECK, Supt. of S. S.
R. B. ROGERS, Pres. Choir Guild.

The address was accompanied by a beautiful gold crescent, set with pearls.

In the afternoon the boys of Miss Armstrong's class also made a presentation to their teacher. Norman Geale read the address and presented Miss Armstrong with an ebony manicure set.

SPECIAL SERVICES

At George Street Methodist Church Yesterday—The Music.

Two most interesting sermons were given yesterday at the George street church by the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson. Mr. Wilson, who has just returned from the General Conference held in Winnipeg, took for his subject in the morning, "Notes from the General Conference," and a most interesting description and report was given. The evening sermon was "The Wheat Fields of Manitoba, and the Lessons they Teach.

In the morning the anthem, "Zion," was sung by the choir, and in the evening the anthem 'I am He that Liveth," and the unaccompanied chorus, "Through the Day Thy Hand Hath Led Me," were given.

IN LATEST SPORTING CIRCLES.

Will not Enter a Team in the Junior Series.

Rugby Executive met on Saturday Evening—Mr. Burnett Beat Mr. Hamilton in Golf.

RUGBY.

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club was held in the Oriental Hotel on Saturday night. There were present Mr. Hal Burnham, president, and Messrs. H. R. H. Kenner, A. W. McPherson, W. Crowley, Frank Bradburn, Harold Armstrong, Ed. Dillon, A. J. McClellan, and E. S. Clarry, secretary.

The first matter taken up was that of placing a team in the junior series of the O.R.F.U. It was felt that it was all a matter of finance and that in view of the fact that there was no means of collecting a gate, and that the funds of the club have to be raised almost entirely by voluntary contributions, it would be unwise to attempt putting a junior team in the series this year. It was considered that under existing conditions it was difficult enough to finance an intermediate team, and a championship team, at that. The executive, however, fully appreciated the fact that Rugby must be fostered among the young boys of the town and that due attention must be given to the junior 15. It was therefore decided to get on several exhibition matches at once, and with that object in view the secretary was instructed to communicate with T.C.S., and other clubs.

The secretary was also authorized to procure membership tickets at once.

The matter of getting on something special for Thanksgiving Day was taken up and an effort will be made to have the Port Hope game which is scheduled for October 18th here, changed to Thursday, the 16th.

With a view of raising some money for the club it is quite possible that an entertainment will be gotten up at an early date.

* * * *

Saturday was an ideal day for rugby and the practice game on the Nicholls Oval was watched by several hundred people on Saturday afternoon. The oval appeared to be looking its prettiest and the 30 sturdy athletuics scrambled over the green sword with all the old time agility. The teams were supposed to represent the T.A.S. and the Peterborough's, although there was a little shifting around in order that the team smight be somewhat more evened up, as a matter of fact the Peterborough's won by a score of 15 to 5. Mr. R. F. McWilliams, ex-President of the Club, officiated as referee and the boys were given a real good work-out. A good deal of practicing on kicks and tries was participated in.

"Tick" Thornton played with the T.A.S. fifteen in order to complete the scrimmage, which will likely consist of Langford and Burtobise. The latter was into the game for all it was worth and made things lively. Cameron and Lee gave a good account of themselves, and there are other juniors who are coming along equally as well. "Mack" McClellan, to the disappointment of many stood at the side of the oval instead of getting into the game. It is to be hoped [illegible] to turn out. Rickey handled quarter in a satisfactory manner.

The O.R.F.U. are very anxious to have Lindsay enter a team in the junior series. Secretary Woodworth has written making a very advantageous offer, and a meeting will likely be held next week for the purposes of organizing a club. Several good players are located in Lindsay, who will turn out and coach players.

* * * *

The turn out at the Rugby practices so far have been most encouraging, and the teams are getting down to shape in good style. The players are evincing an earnestness in practice that bodes well for their work, when the championship games really commence. It is regarded as probable that Gordon Crawford will be selected to captain the senior team. He is a player of long experience and would be popular with players and management. —London Free Press.

* * * *

Merrill, an ex-Queen's player, and one of their crack halves of last season, is now residing in Ottawa. He has expressed himself as willing to play with Ottawa. The team is still badly in need of a quarter back.

* * * *

In another week the football season will be in full swing and till Thanksgiving Day the knights of the gridiron will command attention in every section of the country. The game has a greater following than ever, and this season promises to excel many others that make up footnall history.

* * * *

Cameron, Craig and Frank Bradburn, are three promising juniors that may catch places on the senior fifteen.

* * * *

"Mac" McClellan, with his usual forethought, has an announcement to make that will be of interest to Rugbyists. While Mr. McClellan may have been forced through circumstances, to raise the price of coal, in town, he proposes to even up matters as far as possible by offering his new Rugby outfit for far lower than cost. This is a snap for some one.

GOLF.

On Saturday Messrs. Hamilton and Burnett played off one of the rounds in the championship golf tournament now going on at the local links, Mr. Burnett winning on the play off at the 19th hole. Both gentlemen were at the top of their game, Mr. Hamilton's score by strokes being 84, while Mr. Burnett, who made two bad holes, took 88. This leaves Messrs. Burnham, Ray and Burnett in the final game for the championship which will come off in October.

ATHLETICS.

The Pastime Athletic Club, will hold its organization meeting in the Y.M.C.A. parlours to-night at 8.15 p. m. A full turn out of those interested is requested. Besides organization, there is other important business to be considered.

SEPTEMBER TIME.

Hail to the days of ripe September,
Cheering, smiling here,
Crowning all the year!

Hope, once so active, now in resting,
Tells in golden grains
That Fruition reigns.

Fair Nature's fine artistic brushes,
With a grace all quaint,
Now begin to paint

In dreams of amber on the ivy
Pendant from the eaves;—
Carmine on the leaves

Of prematurely ageing maple
Near the high-way side;
(Justly too our pride.)

How calm and still! Too much the glory!
Noisy tongue may tell
Lesser stories well;

Out of the full, grand garner'd summer
Only stillness can
This ripe beauty span!

Softest tints, blue, pink and purple
Deck yon summer sky
When the day goes by.

'Tis thus with life, an active story,
In its summer rays,
Or the vernal days.

The silence falls, and days for ling'ring,
When some bird'ling's fled;
Or, the dearest—dead.

Oh, Thou supreme and holy "Ish!"
Make this sacred time,
(Strangely still) the prime!

(MRS.) H. I. FARNUM,

FROM ALGONQUIN PARK.

Mr. J. J. Elliot for Turner & Company Here Looking for men—Men Hard to get—Game in the North Plentiful—But Only to Look at.

Mr. J. J. Elliott, of Peterborough, who has been at South River, near North Bay, for three months, as clerk in the offices of the Turner Lumber Company, is in town for the purpose of securing a gang of an many men as he can get. He offers $28 per month and board, with fares advanced. Even at this price he finds it difficult to get men at present, at least,e verybody being employed on work in progress in town. He has secured seven men, with whom he leaves for the north to-day, and will probably return to town later when perhaps the rush of work being over he will be able to find more employed. The Turner Lumber Company is operating in Algonquin Park, cutting the pine, which is of fine quality, all other timber being reserved. Their camp is on the shores of a lake, and Mr. Elliott says he often sees moose, which are very plentiful, swimming across the little lake, and as many as seven at one time. Red deer are plentiful, and bears abound, being as common and as harmless to meet as squirrels in Ontario. Other game is also abundant — ducks and partridge galore, and no end of loon. This abundance of game is a great temptation to a man of sporting instincts, and is accounted for by the fact that all sorts of game are preserved in this park, the close season being permanent, no man being allowed even to carry a gun in the park. Mr. George Ritchie, of Peterborough, occupies the responsible position of foreman for Turner & Co. Mr. Elliott mentions a circumstance which is of interest in relation to the fuel situation, with wood at $6.50 per cord. In coming out to the front a few days ago, he saw a large pile of sawn hardwood, and on asking the price was told that it was sold in the village at $1.25 per cord.

Out of the Ordinary.

It will be noticed that the Peterborough Bookstore announces an unique "Red Ticket Sale," commencing Wednesday morning, September 24th. This unusual event will furnish a good chance to secure special values in wall papers, window blinds, curtain poles, picture framing, etc. Every line offered will be designated by a red tag on which the regular and reduced prices will be plainly marked. This departure from "old traditions" ought to meet with the endorsement of buyers, as they will be able to see at a glance the actual saving in prices.

THE WARS OF THE ROSES.

Dramatic Coronation of King Henry VII. on the Final Battle Field.

Morton, the exiled Bishop of Ely, joined Henry, Earl of Richmond, in his exile, and induced him to take advantage of the horror with which Richard III. was regard by his own party. It was proposed to unite both parties in Henry's favor by a promise of marriage with Princess Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Edward IV. The result of this policy was seen as soon as the Earl landed at Milford Haven, and advanced through Wales. On the evening of Aug. 21, 1485, the two armies lay encamped near the little town of Bosworth. Richard is said to have passed that night in the most agonizing state of restlessness and uncertainty. The deeply-rooted disaffection of his troops destroyed his confidence though he nominally had 30,000 troops opposed by Richmond's 6,000. The King went through the camp examining secretly the state of his outposts, and, finding at one of them a sentinel asleep, he stabbed him, saying: "I find him asleep, and I leave him so." The battle was begun by the archers of both armies, and soon became furious. No sooner was this the case than the Stanleys wheeled round, seizing the critical moment to join the enemy, and fell on Richard's flanks. This manoeuvre struck dismay through the lines of Richard, and the King saw his only hope was to make a desperate assault on Henry's van. Dashing forward, Richard cried, "Treason! treason!" and killed Henry's standard bearer with his own hand, struck Sir John Cheyney from his horse, and aimed a desperate blow at Henry. Sir William Stanley's followers, however, surrounded Richard and slew him. The body of the fallen tyrant was stripped of armor and valuables, and the crown which had been found in a hawthorn bush was placed upon the head of the conqueror, who was saluted by the army with "Long live King Henry VII." With his accession ended the long bloodshed of the Civil Wars, in which twelve princes of the blood, two hundred nobles, and a hundred thousand gentry and common people perished. The union of the Roses was duly effected by the marriage of Henry with the Princess Elizabeth in 1486.

A WELLAND MERCHANT.

He Says he is now Feeling Better Than he has for Many Years.

An Open Letter in Which a Prominent Citizen Gives a Strong Recommendation for Dodd's Kidney Pills, a Remedy Which He Says Restored Him to Good Health.

Welland, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Special.) Mr. J. J. Yokom, grocer and provision merchant of this place, has given for publication, an open letter as follows:

"For a year or more I had been ailing with Kidney Trouble in all of its worst forms. I had a very depressed feeling in my head and little or no appetite, a constant feeling of langour, and I became greatly reduced in weight.

"At times I was entirely incapacitated.

"I have spent considerable money in medicines of different kinds but did not get any good results. I also doctored with a physician of vast experience, but got no benefit.

"At last I became discouraged and hopeless of ever being well again. One day by luck I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began to use them.

"From the first they seemed to suit my case exactly, and when I had taken five boxes my old trouble had entirely disappeared, and I was feeling better than I had in many years.

"I am now in splendid health and able to stand great exertion, in fact my general health is better than it has been in a long time.

"Since my recovery I have told many others of Dodd's Kidney Pills and how they cured me to stay cured Many of them say it seems impossible and yet they know it is true."

(Signed,) J. J. YOKOM.

Mr. Yokom has been a resident of Welland for years and is known to every man, woman, and child in the town. He was born in the neighbouring township of Crowland, within three miles of his present home, and is known as a man of Christian principles who would not make a statement that would in any way be misleading.

The Gulf Stream.

PAJAMAS A LA MODE.

Ideal Lounging Garb For the Slender, Svelte Young Woman.

Whether or not men are to be blamed for suggesting the idea is a difficult point to settle, but the fact has suddenly come to light that bifurcated apparel is by no means unusual among up to date young women, according to the New York Herald, which has the following to say about the fad:

So far it is confined exclusively to garments intended for the hours devoted to gentle sleep, and there is no reason to believe that the fashion will extend beyond the walls of milady's dainty boudoir. But feminine pajamas have met with great success already. True, pajamas cannot be called particularly attractive looking apparel, especially when worn by stout women. The jaunty trousers and coats render such creatures far from being visions of beauty. A slender, svelte figure, on the contrary, lends rather a chic air to this somewhat ungraceful style.

SHE LOOKS AS PRETTY AS SHE CAN.

For lounging and genuine comfort there is nothing more fitting that pajamas, if they are cool and thin. Of course there are some fair creatures who wouldn't for the world exchange their dainty lace and ribbon trimmed garments for the prettiest pajamas made, and they are very sensible to stick to their feminine fripperies.

By no means is it essential that pajamas should be homely garments. In their way they may be as quaintly pretty as the most elaborate night robe. The curious little Chinese loops and cords that have always been a characteristic of men's pajamas are in the latest models dispensed with entirely, and in their place are used large flat pearl buttons. Not even the soft neck finish in the form of an ordinary collar has been deemed desirable on the new apparel. Another noticeable difference is seen in the sides of the coat. There are no slits, and the necessary spring is secured by curving the seam.

While the new feminine pajama trousers are apparently cut exactly like a man's, they really are sloped in over the hips in order to do away with any unnecessary fullness. A fancy tape is supplied for drawing them up around the waist. Quite the quaintest feature in the new pajamas was presented in the trim trouser legs. These are sufficiently loose and long to be comfortable, and around the extreme bottom is a fold of the white fabric that rolls up in a very piquant, mannish fashion.

The jaunty little rolls make the feet seem all the smaller, and the chic bedroom slippers are much more fascinating when peeping from beneath this enveloping fold.

Silk garments are very popular for summer wear, and pale blue, dainty blue and soft yellow silken pajama suits are fetching enough to win over a prejudicial person.

Pajamas will never be universally worn, for the reason that all women do not find the fashion possible. It promises, nevertheless, to become an immensely popular fad, and among those with whom it has already found favor may be mentioned college girls.

Long Lived Fish.

Carp are said to live hundreds of years, and pike are also hardy old fellows.

Paid For Burying Cables.

One curious post in connection with ocean cables is that of "cable burier." At different places certain men are paid a small sum to keep the cable buried by the sand on the shore from the cable station to as far out at sea as it is possible to work. This is to preserve the cable from injury by exposure to land influences.

Sing on the Wing.

Besides the skylark, a number of other birds sing as they fly. Among these are the titlark, wood lark, water pipit, sedge warbler, willow warbler and whinchat.

Beetle Strength.

A beetle one-third the size of a horse would be able to pull against more than a dozen horses.

Plucking Fowls.

If you are hurried in the plucking of a fowl, place the bird in a bucket of boiling water and let it remain there a couple of minutes. Then you will find that the feathers will come off quite easily.

Forest Fires.

Fires caused by lightning are frequent in the immense forest belt stretching across northern Canada from the Atlantic to Alaska. The abundant pitch feeds the flames, and these fires have been known to travel at the rate of fifteen miles an hour.

Ancestors.

Ten generations back the ancestors of each person now alive numbered 1,024; twenty generations back, or 600 years, they numbered 1,048,576.

AN ADMIRER OF BURNS.

Began to Muse on Poet's Features When He Looked at Toronto's Monument.

An ardent Toronto admirer of "Bobbie" Burns contributes the following:

I was seated on a bench under an umbrageous maple in the Horticultural Gardens the other afternoon enjoying the beauty of the day, admiring the verdant trees and the variegated flowers, when my eyes fell on the colossal bronze statue of Robert Burns. Robert Burns! How many hearts thrill at the mention of that name! Wherever the English language is spoken, wherever the red flag of England has been unfurled, Scotland's ploughman poet has cast his magic spell over the hearts of men. Soldiers around the camp fire have shed a sympathetic tear as they listened while some comrade read aloud the lines. "To Mary in Heaven," Sailors on the "vasty deep" have had their lives cheered and their lots brightened by his beautiful songs. Roues have repented of their sins and felt the blush of shame mantling their brow as they perused "The Cottar's Saturday Night," when Burns burst forth:—

"Curse on his perjured heart, dissembling smooth,
Who could with studied, sly, ensnaring art,
Betray sweet Jennie's unsuspecting youth."

Great was Robert Burns, but his was not the greatness of intellect. It was something better. It lay in the breadth of his sympathies, in his sweet humanity, filled as he was with the milk of human kindness. True, he had his faults, but, the defects in his character were those which too often accompany the poetic gift and a fervid imagination. Shakespeare, Dryden, Goldsmith—all were equally devoid of ballast, but we know that men who could pen such thoughts as they could not be bad at heart. We know that Burns, who wept at the inadvertant destruction of a mountain daisy and write about it a poem which has not been excelled, must have been a good man, one of nature's nobility.

Like most of the world's greatest sons Robert Burns was born in humble circumstances, and the current of his life was rough and uneven. The talent for accumulating wealth is not a concomitant of poetic genius. That is why in this age when Mammon has been enthroned poetry is dead. Burns, improvident to the last degree, was always in want. His fortunes were ever at a low ebb and it was not, as is generally the case, till after his death that the world gave him that honor which was his due, now his name is a household word, and monuments such as we have in the Horticultural Gardens, are everywhere erected to his memory.

Spells of Weakness and Dizziness

The Accompaniments of Nervous Exhaustion and Weak Heart Action.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

To many people peculiar spells of dizziness and weakness are a source of almost daily annoyance and distress. Some see flashes of light before them, and become blind and dazzled; others experience severe attacks of headache. The cause is exhaustion of the nervous system and deficiency in the quantity or quality of the blood. In all such cases Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most certain, as well as the most thorough cure obtainable.

Mrs. Symons, 42 St. Clair street, Belleville, Ont., states: — "Some weeks ago I began a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found it a very satisfactory medicine. I was formerly troubled with nervous exhaustion and a weak, fluttering heart. Whenever my heart bothered me I would have spells of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of this treatment my nerves have become strong and healthy, and the action of my heart seems to be regular. I can recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as an excellent medicine."

EXCELLENT RECIPES.

GOOD AND PLEASANT THINGS THAT SATISFY THE PALATE.

Bluefish Stuffed and Baked—Bluefish Salad and Boiled Salad Dressing. Melons at Their Best and Ways of Serving Them.

Bluefish Stuffed and Baked.—Melt one-fourth a cup of butter in one-fourth a cup of boiling water and stir into one generous cup of soft bread-crumbs. Add a dash of black pepper, one-fourth a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of "poultry seasoning" or powdered sweet herbs. Mix thoroughly and use to fill the open space in a bluefish. Before filling the fish with the dressing wash and wipe the inside, making sure that it is clean along the backbone. Then sprinkle with salt and pepper. Run a trussing needle threaded with twine through the tail, the center of the body and the head, and pull and tie the thread to secure the fish in the shape of the letter S. Score the fish on the sides and press a narrow strip of fat salt pork into the spaces. Rub over the outside with salt and pepper. Bake in a moderate oven about ten minutes to the pound, basting each ten minutes with butter, salt pork or bacon fat, melted in hot water. Slide from the fishsheet to the serving dish, and remove the threads used in trussing and holding in the dressing. Garnish with parsley and slices of lemon. Serve with tomato or drawn butter sauce. Chopped olives, pickles, capers or parsley may be added to the drawn butter sauce.

Bluefish Salad (excellent).—Separate the remnants of a baked bluefish into flakes, discarding skin and bones. Set aside, covered, until cold. About an hour before serving sprinkle with salt and pepper and (for a generous pint of fish) the juice of a lemon. When ready to serve, dispose heart leaves of lettuce on the edge of a salad plate and turn the fish into the center, letting it come out over the stems of the lettuce leaves. Pour a boiled dressing over the top and spread evenly with a silver knife over the fish. Put a tablespoonful of chopped pickled beet at the stems of each group of leaves, a ring of the beet near the top and figures cut from the beet between.

Boiled Salad Dressing.—Heat one-third a cup each of vinegar, butter and hot water with half a teaspoonful of salt to the scalding point; then pour over the yolks of three eggs, beaten with half a teaspoonful of mustard and a few grains of paprika. Stir constantly until the mixture thickens, then set into cold water, lest it curdle. Strain when cold and when ready to use fold in one-third a cup of double cream, beaten solid.

Sour Cream Biscuit.—Sift together two level cups of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, a scant half teaspoonful of soda and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix to a dough with one cup of thick sour cream and turn on to a floured board. Pat into a sheet three-fourths of an inch thick and cut into rounds. Bake about twelve minutes in a quick oven.

SOME "KNIGHTED" WOMEN.

The Female "Sirs" of Several Countries—They Are Entitled to Military Salutes and to Wear Trousers.

Perhaps the best known foreign order to which women are entitled is the French Order of the Legion d'Honneur. The celebrated animal painter, Rose Bonheur, was a member of the Legion d'Honneur, and Mme. Dieulafoy, the well known explorer, who is the only woman permitted to appear in men's clothes, is also entitled to wear the crimson ribbon. An interesting fact in connection with the members of the famous French Order is that the holders of the decoration are entitled to a military salute, and the sentries come out and salute the ladies thus decorated equally with the men.

There are in England only four orders for women, and these are all, with the exception of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, of quite recent institution. The Royal Order of Victoria and Albert was founded by Queen Victoria in 1862. The Imperial Order of the Crown of India, instituted also by Queen Victoria, was founded in order to commemorate her assumption of the title of Empress of India, and the Royal Red Cross was founded in 1883, to reward services rendered in nursing the sick and wounded of the Imperial services. The Order of St. John of Jerusalem was introduced into England in the twelfth century. The Queen is the only Lady of the Order of the Garter.

After Her Majesty the Queen and Princesses of the blood, perhaps the lady who is entitled to wear the most orders in this country is Mrs. George Cornwallis West, better known as Lady Randolph Churchill, and curiously enough an American by birth. Mrs. West is entitled to wear the decoration of the Order of the Crown of India, the Royal Red Cross and the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. The last-named honor she shares with Baroness Burdett-Coutts, Georgiana Countess of Dudley, Miss Agnes Keyser, Countess Howe, Lady Sarah Wilson, Lady Edward Cecil, and Mrs. Josceline Bagot, all of whom rendered good service during the late Boer war.

The Matchioness of Lansdowne and the Duchess of Buccleuch are members of the Order of Victoria and Albert, to which belong all the Princesses of England besides the Empress of Germany, the Empress of Russia, the Queen of Roumania, and the Queen of the Netherlands. Other well-known Englishwomen who belong to the order are the Dowager Lady Lytton, Lady Cadogan, Lady Ponsonby, the Hon. Mrs. Malet, and Lady Biddulph. The decoration of the order (first and second class) is a medallion of the late Queen and Prince Albert set in diamonds, surmounted by an enameled and jeweled crown attached to a bow of white moire ribbon. The third class of the order has the medallion set in pearls, and the fourth class an intertwined monogram of V and A in pearls.

The Imperial Order of the Crown of India has the sovereign as its head, and consists of Princesses of the royal house, wives and other female relatives of Princes of India, and wives and relations of any person holding the office of Viceroy or territorial Governorships in India. Among the ladies entitled to wear the insignia of this order are the Marchioness of Ripon, the Dowager Lady Napier of Magdala, Countess Roberts, Lady George Hamilton, and others, in all over thirty European ladies, besides the royal Princesses and about ten Indian Princesses. One of the last people to be decorated with this order by Queen Victoria was Lady Curzon of Kedleston. The insignia of the Order of the Crown of India is particularly pretty, consisting of her late Majesty Queen Victoria's cipher in diamonds, pearls, and turquoises, encircled by a border of pearls, surmounted by an imperial crown enameled and jeweled, the whole being attached to a bow of light blue watered ribbon with a white edge.

Besides Mrs. George West there are several other women entitled to wear the little enameled crimson cross which forms the simple but distinguished insignia of the Order of the Royal Red Cross, among them Miss Nightingale of Crimean fame, Lady Wantage, Lady Roberts, a number of Nursing Sisters, Lady Sarah Wilson, and the Hon. Mrs. Goldmann, Lord Peel's daughter.

Mrs. E. J. Firth is the only woman who holds the Kaisar-i-Hind Medal, which was instituted to reward important services rendered to the sovereign in the Indian Empire.

The most ancient order actually instituted for women was the Order of the Slaves of Virtue (Ordre des Dames Esclaves de la Vertu), founded in 1662 by Eleanore of Gonzagua, widow of Frederick III., the Emperor of Austria, whose object it was "to encourage in the ladies of her court the sentiments of wisdom and piety." The Empress herself was Grand Mistress of the order. All those desirous of becoming members of the order, which was limited to thirty, had to prove their noble origin.

The Bavarian Order of Elizabeth, founded in 1766 by the Electress Elizabeth Augusta, had an exclusively charitable raison-d'etre, and the Order of Queen Marie Louise (1792) was of a similar nature, and imposed habits of kindness to the poor and charity upon the members of the order.

Lady Chesham, who was one of the chief organizers of the Imperial Yeomanry Hospital in South Africa, is entitled to wear the famous Red Cross (an honor which she shares with Miss Florence Nightingale) and the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. All the orders mentioned have been much in evidence during the coronation festivities.—London Mail.

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Fashion.

Fashion was the old name for a certain disease of the horse. It is alluded to in "The Taming of the Shrew," where Petruchio's horse is said to be "infected with the fashions." The complaint is a common one now, but not among horses.

The stick insect of Borneo, the largest insect known, is sometimes thirteen inches long. It is wingless, but some species of stick insects have beautiful colored wings that fold like fans.

To Soften Water.

A simple expedient for softening the water one washes in as well as giving it a pleasant and most refreshing scent is to drop the rind of an orange or lemon (the latter is best) into the bedroom jug over night. It acts as a splendid skin tonic.

The Age of Brain Work.

"In these days half our diseases come from the neglect of our body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age the wear and tear of labour and intellect goes on without pause or self pity. We live longer than our forefathers but we suffer more. They fatigued only the the muscles; we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest medicine of this age, because it is best suited to the needs of the present age. It restores and revitalizes wasted nerve cells and makes the pale, weak and exhausted, strong, healthy and vigorous.

Diphtheria.

Emphasis is laid upon the necessity of watching closely for the first fluttering of the pulse in diphtheria. Such a fluttering predicts dangerous heart failure.

Heavy Wedding Rings.

On the upper Kongo wedding rings are made of brass and worn round the neck. They sometimes weigh thirty pounds.

Prune Pudding.

For a prune pudding beat two eggs until thick; add a pint of milk and flour to make thick batter; flour a dozen prunes, stir them into the batter and beat in a teaspoonful of baking powder; steam two and one-half hours in a buttered mold and serve with sauce.

The Root of the Trouble.

It surprises some people when you tell them their nervous trouble is caused by a defective liver. Liver trouble causes constipation. Next comes dyspepsia, then impure blood with heart strain, and the result is nerve trouble. Merrill's System Tonic is a positive cure for liver trouble and constipation, and in this way remove the cause of other ills. 50c. per bottle at Ormond & Walsh's.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

Stocks Took Another Tumble To-day.

The Bears Still Having the Best of the Situation—Money Closed at Three Per Cent

To-day was another hard day on Wall street bulls, and considerable covering was necessary. The market opened somewhat weaker than Saturday's close, and for a time showed signs of steadiness. However towards 3 o'clock a decided slump occurred, and stocks fell inside of an hour from one to two and even three points. U P disappointed its friends by dropping from 106 1-4 to 102 1-4; Mop opened at 115 and fell to 112 1-4; L and N, which has shown a decided weakness of late, kept up its pace, and after opening at 145, which was disappointing enough, closed at 139 1-2; C P R, out of sympathy with the remainder of the board, touched as low as 137 3-4, after opening at 139; Sloss, too, was weak, opening at 72 1-4 and falling to 68 1-2; N Y C opened at 159 and closed at 156, while Pennsylvania took a slump of 3 1-2 points, from 168 points, its opening quotation; B O opened at 107, its close was 104.

Money opened at 15 per cent., and closed at 30 per cent., which was to a large extent accountable for the downward tendency. The general belief is that the market will be lower and there is very little buying being done.

Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co., have reed the following despatch from Messrs. McIntyre & Marshall, stock brokers, New York and Chicago;

New York, noon, Sept. 29th. — Market quieted down, but don't show any rallying power, which does not look well for a bull market in the near future. Money 20 per cent. on call. There is no time money to be had, and as the loans mature, the banks as well as the trust companies demand payment.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

To Messrs. Haight & Freeze,—

New York, September 29. — We look for an irregular stock market to-day. There ought to be some further short covering, and a little outside buying on the good bank statement, but we believe it will be the best policy to take profits, if you have them, and on rallies, provided you are in very close touch with the market, sell short for scalping. The safer plan is to await for developments, and buy for moderate profits. This plan we especially commend to those who are not in a position to watch the tape. We view the present as a trader's market, with somewhat wider fluctuations than usual. The small decrease comparatively in the loan account of bank statement is an indication to us of the likelihood of a further contraction of loans this week. We can see no opportunity at present for a resumption of a bull market. Your purchases on dips should be confined to WU, UP, Man, S P and Atch. We also regard favourably in this connection, Pa. Can. Pac. Car and Foundry

HAIGHT & FREEZE COY.

Situation Clearing.

To Messrs. Haight & Freeze:

New York, Sept. 27th.—Things market-wise are looking better. It looks now as if the storm were over. Shaw has again come to the aid of the money market by offering to anticipate interest up to June next upon Government Bonds The heavily loaded, upon comparatively slender margins, have been compelled to liquidate, and owing to the indisposition of stock exchange houses this week to make any purchases, save for cash or the best upon colossal margins, stocks have naturally drifted into the hands of powerful holders—people who are capable and will hang on to them until such time as they may be marketed at good profits. The steady and persistent liquidation throughout the week must have worked wonders in relieving the banks through reduction of loans. The The bank statement of to-day will probably show this point strongly. The whole unfortunate business was brought about, not through fear or timidity, but through the poor method of Government finance, which permits enormous sums collected and held by the treasury without power to place it in the arteries of trade and business, which through its very activities has use for lots of money. Good times and prosperous times created a natural demand for cash to carry same on. We, as it were, the temporary victims of the very prosperity we are enjoying. Look at St. Paul. After its enormous advance, again up to practically, its previous high prices, many recoveries are large. It will be perfectly natural for the market to be more or less feverish and erratic for a while. The sea is always more or less turbulent after a storm, it will consequently probably be advisable to take profits for the time on bulges. After purchasing on the dips, margin your account well and do not overtrade. The low range of prices at present are certainly attractive and should be taken advantage of. Those who have lost money in the flurry, if they will now buy the standard stocks, not purchasing more than they can, if necessary, put up 10 per cent. margin upon; if they will hold, will make back what they are out. There are many stocks which, if bought at present time, 5 per cent. margin, should hold safe.

Summary.—First half hour the market declined quite sharply under heavy realizing sales to secure the profits created by yesterday's sharp advance and was accelerated by the tendency to even up market contracts for the week. At the appearance of the bank statement, showing $5,000 increase in reserves, the upturn in the market was remarkably sharp and rapid. Shorts hastened to cover and bidding was spirited. It was an unusually active Saturday. We are still of the opinion that the low prices have been recorded. Money closed at 6 per cent. Sales 513,400.

Y. M. C. A. INTERMEDIATES

Open the Season With a Grand Banquet.

The Success of the New Department Assured—Speeches and Songs.

Friday evening in the Y. M. C. A. Assembly Hall the Intermediate Department of the Association, composed of working boys between the ages of 14 and 18 years, met to celebrate the opening of their department, and start the work for the coming season. The meeting took the form of a banquet, and a right royal one it was. The hall was prettily decorated with red, white and blue bunting, and the tables, arranged around the room, were loaded down with all the good things of the season.

Boys are, generally speaking, a hungry class of individuals, but one would be forced to believe, by the way the eatables disappeared from view, that every boy was breaking a week's fast. There were upwards of 100 present, and the waiters were certainly kept hustling.

It was some time before all appetites were satisfied, but at length the rattling of dishes ceased, and Chairman W. S. Robinson, of the Committee of Management, welcomed the boys to the Association in a neat speech. He explained the many good things that had been provided for them. This is the first time the Intermediates have been a separate department, and he hoped they would take advantage of the many schemes devised to meet their needs, along spiritual, social and physical lines.

Mr. Gerrard followed with a song, "We're British to the Core" and also gave a reading, both of which were enjoyed. Master Bert Peters next favoured the audience with an instrumental, and Mr. Moin received loud applause for his song, "Will I find my Mamma There?"

Mr. A. C. McCallum was then called upon, and gave a most interesting and helpful address on "Concentration." It is seldom indeed that one is privileged to listen to such an address as he gave. He held the undivided attention of his hearers and the words he spoke struck home to each one.

He was followed by Messrs. Froude, Williamson and Pearson, who joined in welcoming the boys to their department, and hoped that the pleasure enjoyed throughout the evening would be but a taste of that to come.

Master Murray Miller, president of the Intermediate Department, was also called upon for a few words, as was Master Maynard Brown. They promised to do their best to fill the offices they had been placed in, and further the interests of the department generally.

Mr. M. A. Sonsoleil received an ovation as he came forward to address the gathering. In his characteristic, earnest and forcible manner he explained the necessity of clean sport, of a business ability and a desire in each one to act the part of a man. His address was a practical one, and the trend of his remarks will not soon fade from the minds of those who sat before him.

The singing of the National Anthem brought a most pleasant evening's programme to a close. Before the assembly dispersed Mr. Green obtained a photograph which will serve as a souvenir of the occasion.

THE EMPIRE TOBACCO CO., LIMITED

AN AUGUST REVERIE.

By W. W. Campbell.

"There is an autumn sense subdues the air,
Though it is August and the season still
A part of summer, and the woodlands fair,
I hear it in the humming of the mill,
I feel it in the rustling of the trees,
That scarcely shiver in the passing breeze.

"'Tis but a touch of winter ere his time,
A presaging of sleep and icy death,
When skies are rich and fields are in their prime,
And heaven and earth commingle in a breath;
When hazy airs are stirred with gossamer wings,
And in shorn fields the shrill cicada sings.

"So comes the slow revolving of the year,
The glory of nature ripening to decay,
When in those paths, by which, through loves austere,
All men and beasts and blossoms find their way,
By steady easings of the spirit's dream,
From sunlight past the pallid starlight's beam.

"There are a thousand beauties gathered round,
The sounds of waters falling over-night,
The morning scents that steamed from the fresh ground,
The hair-like streaming of the morning light
Through early mists and dim, wet woods, where brooks
Chatter, half seen, down under mossy nooks.

"The ragged daisy starring all the fields,
The buttercup ablim with pallid gold,
The thistle and burr-flowers hedged with prickly shields,
All common weeds the draggled pastures hold,
With shrivelled pods and leaves, are kin to me,
Like-heirs of earth and her maturity.

"They speak a silent speech that is their own,
These wise and gentle teachers of the grass;
And when their brief and common days are flown
A certain beauty from the year doth pass;
A beauty of whose light no eye can tell,
Save that it went; and my heart knew it well.

"I may not know each part as some men know them,
As children gather beasts and birds to tame;
But I went 'mid them as the winds that blow them,
From childhood's hour, and loved without a name,
There is more of beauty in a field of weeds
Than in all blooms the hot-house garden breeds.

"For they are nature's children; in their faces
I see that obedience to the sky
That marks these dwellers of the wilding places,
Who with the season's being live and die;
Knowing no love but of the wind and sun,
Who still are nature's when their life is done.

"They are a part of all the haze-filled hours,
The happy, happy world all drenched with light,
The far-off, chiming click-clack of the mowers,
And yon blue hills whose mists elude my sight;
And they to me will ever bring in dreams
Far mist-clad heights and brimming rain-fed streams.

"In this dream August air, whose ripened leaf,
Pausing before it puts its death's glories on,
Deepens its green; and the half-garnered sheaf
Gladdens the haze-filled sunlight, love hath gone
Beyond the material, trembling like a star,
To those sure heights where all thought's glories are.

"And Thought, that is the greatness of this earth,
And man's most inmost being, soars and soars,
Beyond the eye's horizon's outmost girth,
Garners all beauty, on all mystery pores;
Like some ethereal fountain in its flow,
Finds heaven where the senses may not go."

Sketch of W. W. Campbell.

William Wilfred Campbell is a distinguished as the "Lake Poet" among the group of Canadian writers of verse who have added lustre to our poetic literature. His work is as marked by its dramatic quality as is Mr. Carman's by its lyrical charm. He is more an admiring observer of nature than one who perceives in natural beauty the prefiguration of the ideal world. This is the consequence of a somewhat gloomy philosophy of life which finds expression in an insistent note of melancholy in his writing. Mr. Campbell is a native of Berlin, Ont. He is a graduate of Toronto University, and studied for the Church of England ministry at Cambridge, Mass., and was ordained in 1885. But he retired in 1891 and entered the civil service at Ottawa, where he is still on the staff. His poems met with speedy recognition, and he has long had a connection with the best periodicals in the United States. His first volume of verse appeared in 1889, and was entitled "Lake Lyrics." A second collection, "The Dread Voyage," was published in 1893, and two dramas, "Mordred" and "Hildebrand," were put forth in 1895. The volume from which the above poem is quoted is his most recent, and is entitled, "Beyond the Hills of Dream." It contains selections from the earlier volumes and some new poems, among the former a revised version of "The Mother," a poem in which he has well-nigh attained greatness, and which is considered by many the most remarkable contribution to Canadian poetry

Body Found in Welland Canal.

St. Catharines, Sept. 29.—William Nesbitt, express man, was found drowned in the old Welland Canal near the Hedley Shaw mill Saturday afternoon. There was a cut on his head, and one of his legs was badly swollen. He evidently having struck something in his fall. It is undoubtedly an accident, as he was in the habit of passing this way at night. Deceased was 45 years old and left a widow and four children. Coroner Goodman has decided that an inquest is unnecessary.

Currant Crop Fails.

London, Sept. 29.—The Athens correspondent of The Standard draws attention to the exodus of emigrants to the United States, probably due to the failure of the currant crop in Greece. Official reports say that 8,000 persons have emigrated during the last year, and that this exodus continues.

Health and Hope.

"He who has health has hope; and he who has hope has everything." But hope flees at the approach of kidney disease with the dreadful pains which accompany it. With the the flesh gradually failing, the back aching, and the despair which often comes to victims of this ailment, only the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will restore hope, confidence and health. One pill a dose; 25c a box.

Twenty-Six Killed.

M. ZOLA'S TRAGIC END.

Famous Novelist's Career Cut Short by a Bedroom Stove.

ASPHYXIATED WHILE HE SLEPT.

Mme. Zola Nearly Shared the Fate of Her Distinguished Husband, But Was Resuscitated After Prolonged Efforts by the Doctors—Causes a Sensation—Story of the Novelist's Life.

Paris, Sept. 30.—Emile Zola, the novelist, who gained prominence in recent years because of his defence of the Jews and of former Captain Dreyfus, was found dead in his Paris house yesterday morning from asphyxiation. M. Zola and his wife retired at 10 o'clock Sunday night. Madame Zola was seriously ill when the room was broken into yesterday morning. At about noon she was removed to a private hospital, where she recovered consciousness for a short time and was able briefly to explain to a magistrate what had happened.

M. and Mme. Zola returned to their Paris home from their country house at Medan Sunday. Owing to a sudden spell of cold weather, the heating stove in their bedroom was ordered to be lighted. The stove burned badly, and M. Zola was asphyxiated by fumes from the fire. The pipes of the stove are said to have been out of order. To the magistrate Mme. Zola explained that she woke early in the morning with a splitting headache. She wakened her husband and asked him to open a window. She saw him rise and attempt to move toward a window, but he staggered and fell to the floor unconscious. Mme. Zola fainted at the same moment, and, therefore, was unable to give the alarm.

Mme. Zola does not yet know of her husband's death, and it is feared she may suffer a relapse when informed of it.

The death of M. Zola, which only became generally known at a late hour yesterday afternoon, has caused a great sensation in Paris, and last evening there was a constant stream of callers at the Zola residence. Last night M. Zola's remains lie upon a divan in the centre of the drawing-room of the house, under a canopy of rare and ancient hangings.

It is believed that Mme. Zola will survive.

The servants of the Zola household, not hearing any movement in their master's apartments yesterday morning, entered the bedroom at 9.30 o'clock and found Mme. Zola lying on the bed inanimate. M. Zola was lying half out of bed, with his head and shoulders on the floor and his legs on the bed. Doctors were summoned, but they failed to restore M. Zola to life. After prolonged efforts they resuscitated Mme. Zola.

It is now said that Mme. Zola was informed of the death of her husband before she left her house for the hospital. She at first refused to believe the news, and was terribly affected. She did not wish to leave the house, but the physicians finally persuaded her to allow herself to be removed to the hospital. A large crowd assembled in front of the Zola residence last evening. Among the callers were almost all the literary celebrities of Paris.

M. Zola had been resting from literary work since he finished his book called "The Truth," which is being published in serial form in the Aurore.

The obituary notice pays tribute to M. Zola's high literary talent. The Temps says French letters have suffered a loss which will be keenly felt.

The newspapers judge M. Zola's role in the Dreyfus affair according to political bias.

Sketch of His Life.

Emile Zola, whose works are perhaps better known than those of any other French writer, was born in 1840. His father, Francois Aola, was an engineer of Italian origin, and the constructor of the Zola Canal at Aix in Provence. The novelist's youth was spent in the south, but he went to Paris later, and was educated at the Lycee St. Louis. When eighteen years old he obtained a position in Hachette's well-known publishing house as clerk. All his leisure time he devoted to literary work, and he tried hard to secure a place on the press, writing frequently for The Evenement. In this journal he defended the painter Edouard Manet, whose fantastic pictures had been refused by the Salon jury. His championship of Manet paved the way for his justification of the daring realism which was to make for him so important a place in letters.

Although actively engaged in journalism, it was as a novelist that Zola first became known. After several early attempts, a collection of stories called "Contes a Ninon," published in 1864, was well received. Following this came a psychological novel, "La Confession de Claude" (1865), which indicated the realistic tendency of the author. Then came "Therese Raquin" (1867), a strong picture of the agonies and hallucinations of remorse, and "Madeleine Ferat" (1868), a study of hereditary influence. After several less notable works came "L'Assommoir," one of the most successful of Zola's novels, and perhaps his masterpiece, and "Nana," which was widely advertised as surpassing in audacity anything the author had yet written. Among his latest notable productions were the series, "Les Trois Villes," "Lourdes," "Rome," and "Paris."

M. Zola gained world-wide sympathy by his daring efforts to secure a fair trial for Dreyfus.

Killed by Own Gun.

Winnipeg, Sept. 30.—While out shooting on Saturday, W. H. Sinclair, the new M.P.P. for Saskatoon District was accidentally shot and killed. He was replacing a gun in the wagon when it went off, and the charge lodged in his left breast. He died in a few minutes.

Independent Companies May Grant Miners' Demands.

NON-UNION MAN KILLS A STRIKER

Troops to Be Called Out Only When There Is an Outbreak to Suppress, and They Will Not Do Police Duty or Be Placed Behind Barricades at the Mines—Public Opinion.

New York, Sept. 30.—The Times has the following from its special correspondent in the mining region, now at Pottsville, Pa.:—A prominent individual coal operator in the Schuylkill coal region stated last night that the independent operators will make concessions to the striking miners this week, and it is expected that the collieries in that section will be allowed by the Mine Workers Union to resume work at once. The operators have, it is said, been contemplating making a concession for some time, as they are not able to stand the great financial losses occasioned by the shut-down and falling away of all their former customers. At several of the collieries in this section union miners will be placed at work to-day to clean up the gangways preparatory to the expected resumption.

Unmarried Men to Leave.

Terrence Ginley, National Organizer for the United Mine Workers, stated yesterday that all unmarried men will be removed from the anthracite region this week. Transportation will be secured for them to other parts of the country, and the relief list will be shortened by 15,000 names. This movement has been in contemplation for some time, but was deferred as long as there was any prospect of ending the strike.

GOADED TO MURDER.

James Sweeney Shot and Killed His Tormentor, Joseph Gillis.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 30.—Pursued and stoned by a crowd of strikers, James Sweeney last night shot and killed Joseph Gillis and then had a narrow escape from the mob which surrounded him. Sweeney is a non-union worker at the Bliss Mine, and was on his way to work this evening when a crowd tried to interfere with him.

Five weeks ago Sweeney's brother, a watchman at the Bliss colliery, was murdered near the place where the shooting occurred last night, and five foreigners are now in jail awaiting trial for the crime.

Last night when Sweeney started for the mine a crowd was waiting for him. He ran and they stoned him, and as they approached he drew his revolver, and, taking aim, fired. Joseph Gillis, one of the leaders, fell with a bullet through his body and this checked the others.

Sweeney gained the shelter of his mother's house and there a crowd collected calling for vengeance. The borough police acted promptly, however, drove the crowd away and rushed the prisoner to the borough lockup, at the same time notifying Sheriff Jacobs of the situation. Deputies hurried to the scene; the crowd rushed after the police to the jail and a few minutes after the prisoner was safe inside and a guard at the doors, several hundred angry men were gathered outside.

Sheriff Jacobs says that the troops will be called upon when there is an outbreak to suppress, but that they will not do police duty, and no soldiers will be placed behind the barricades at the mines.

Mob Stoned a Train.

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 30.—The miners train on the Pennsylvania Railway, bound for the Richards colliery, near Mount Carmel, was stopped by a mob yesterday morning who refused to allow the train to proceed. The train was so stoned that only two window panes were left unbroken.

Man's Home Dynamited.

Mahoney City, Pa., Sept. 30.—The home of Michael Weldon, here, was dynamited at midnight. The front of the house was shattered and the windows of all the other houses in the block were broken. Weldon was not at home when the explosion occurred. His family escaped without injury. Weldon has been doing non-union work at Schuylkill colliery.

Preachers on the Strike.

New York, Sept. 30.—After a stormy session, resolutions calling upon President Roosevelt to appoint a commission of mediation, looking to ending the coal strike, were adopted yesterday at the weekly Methodist preachers' meeting.

The Presbyterian Ministers' Association of New York city, at their meeting yesterday, adopted a resolution on the coal strike, to the effect that the ministers of the association be required to offer special prayer for divine guidance and the right solution of the question.

Mysterious Conference.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—A mysterious conference took place in this city yesterday between President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers' of America, Secretary-Treasurer W. B. Wilson, District Presidents Nicholls, Duffy and Fahy, and an unknown person, whose identity the other parties to the conference refused to divulge. At the office of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company it was stated positively that no official of that company had been present at the meeting.

CANADA'S GROWING TIME.

The Movement of United States People and Money Into the Dominion.

The New York Tribune considers that the recent influx of United States people into the Canadian Northwest has created a feeling of alarm in Canada lest the new settlers should become a strong element in favour of annexation. If there is much alarm among our people upon this subject they have been remarkably successful in concealing it. As a matter of fact, no class of immigrants is more welcome to Canada than the farmers of the Western States, because no class is likely to make better settlers. They understand their business and are accustomed to climatic and other conditions similar to those prevailing in Canada. Some years before they will be numerically strong enough to materially affect our politics and by that time their vested interests will be identical with those of Canadians generally, and it is highly improbable that they will want to make any radical change in Canada's political relations with the United States. There is but one opinion on the annexation question among Canadians of all origins, and it is not to be expected that the immigrants from the United States will be an exception to the rule. Many of them are already British subjects, or descendants of those emigrated to the United States, who have come to the conclusion that the conditions of life are more favourable to them north of the frontier. Those who are not British subjects will have to be naturalized before they can exercise the slightest political power. Canada has gained immensely in recent years by the influx of American people as well as of American capital. Some of the most distinguished capitalists of industry in the Dominion are of the United States origin and to-day the King has no more loyal subjects. It would be unfortunate if anything should be done to check the present movement of population from the United States into the Canadian wheat district, or if the impression should get abroad that these people will not be received with the utmost cordiality. This perfectly natural movement is due to the filling up of the available agricultural lands of the Western States. The future prosperity of the whole Dominion depends more upon the filling up of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories with a good agricultural population than upon anything else. One good effect that should result from the influx of American settlers is the promotion of the most cordial business relations between ourselves and our neighbours. We believe and hope that the present movement of United States people and capital into Canada is destined not only to continue but to attain very considerable proportions within the next five or ten years.—Finance Chronicle.

GIBRALTAR'S BI-CENTENNIAL.

The Rock Taken by the English Almost Two Centuries Ago.

One hundred and ninety-eight years ago the rock of Gibraltar fell into our hands by assault, says the London News. The Prince of Hesse Darmstadt commanded the troops, and Sir George Rooke the fleet, and in the remarkably short time of four days the stronghold surrendered. Many times the Spaniards attempted to get back the key to the Mediterranean, but without success, though on one occasion they got 500 men within the fort, but failed to re-enforce them. In 1726 it was in the minds of Ministers to give back the rock to Spain, but so great an agitation arose against such a step that it was abandoned. There followed a siege by Spain and France, which lasted from 1727 to 1738. On Sept. 13, 1772, no fewer than 40,000 men constituted the besieging army, and in the grand attack delivered on that day, 200 heavy guns, 47 ships of the line and 10 battering ships were employed and upwards of 5,000 red hot shot were fired at the fortifications. Since then English possession of Gibraltar has remained undisputed.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Adress F. J. HARVEY EXHIBITION.

A Highly Successful Exhibition Held on Sept. 24th.

The eight annual exhibition of the Harvey Agricultural Society was held at Lakehurst on Wednesday, September 24th, and it was in every way a splendid success. The weather was favourable and the attendance was large, while the exhibits were of a most gratifying and creditable character.

It is eight years since the Harvey exhibition was inaugurated, and very great progress has been made, both in the high character of the exhibits, and in the evidence they afford of the advance made in stock raising, as well as general farming.

This was specially noticeable in the class of horses, in the ring, which was very superior, if not in numbers, in quality. To specify more particularly, there was one two year old colt—a general purpose beast—which a gentleman who is a judge of horse flesh, said on the grounds, could not be surpassed in the province. In no department, perhaps, as in horses, is the improvement so pronounced; and if the farmers of Harvey keep up the same rate of improvement in horse flesh for four or five years, as they have done in the past two years, they will find the side lines and concessions of the township scoured by horse buyers, as Smith and Cavan are now.

In the cattle pens there was a fine exhibit of cattle. Among some fine stock may be especially mentioned a yearling bull, owned and exhibited by Mr. John Smith, which a visitor asserted, compared very favourably with any shown at the Industrial Exhibition at Toronto. In all the other departments the show was fair. The display of grain and other farm products, and of ladies' work, was very creditable, and gave evidence of the progressive improvement in quality and quantity which is so noticeable in connection with the Harvey Exhibition. The visitors were much pleased with the interesting speeding events.

Taken altogether, the Harvey Exhibition was a gratifying success, and the wisdom and public spirit of those who projected this fair, has been amply justified, and those who helped it upon its feet, have every reason to feel proud of the success which has attended it. The friendly competition among the farmers it has excited, to see who would excel at the annual fair, has led to an improvement in stock, in both horses and cattle, which had been worth thousands of dollars to the farmers of Harvey. And this benefit is not confined to those who have exhibited, but all have been benefitted by the opportunities afforded to improve the stock of horses and sheep by the superior animals imported by enterprising exhibitors. It is no exaggeration to say that in no township in the province has the benefit of well-conducted exhibitions been so evident as in the Township of Harvey.

The list of prize winners will appear in our next issue.

TOO GREAT EXPENSE

Not the Reason.

It is not because Pyramid Pile Cure is so expensive that many people decline to give it a trial, but because they find it too great a tax on their credulity to believe that the published letters bearing testimony to the merit of this remedy are genuine and bona fide; especially to those who have realized the suffering incident to piles is it incredible that any one who has been afflicted twenty-five and thirty years with the worst forms of protruding and bleeding piles should be cured by the application of a simple remedy, when their physician has assured them that the only relief is in a surgical operation. This is rightly viewed with dread by all those afflicted, as it means at the least a great shock to the nervous system, with more than a possibility of utter collapse and death; in a majority of cases, too, there is a return of the complaint, owing to the fact that the cause is not removed.

The proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure agree to forfeit one thousand dollars to anyone who will show a single published testimonial to be not genuine and unsolicited; this latter feature is most gratifying, inasmuch as these letters are written solely out of gratitude and with the hope that those who are afflicted as the writers have been may learn that relief is at hand, at a comparatively trifling expense. Pyramid Pile Cure is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price.

Mr. Wm. Lichtenwalter, head of the largest printing house in Canton Ohio, says, "It is with the utmost pleasure and satisfaction that I can say I believe I am cured of protruding and bleeding piles after suffering more than twenty years. I have been in bed for two weeks at a time. I have not suffered in the least for over a year, and I used only three fifty-cent boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure. I advise every person suffering with this distressing and painful complaint to give this remedy a trial. I have every confidence in it." Write to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their book on the causes and cure of piles.

Nightshade Caused Death.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—Some time ago a number of cattle died suddenly at Owen Sound under mysterious circumstances. William Stubbs, ex-M. P., veterinary surgeon for the Department of Agriculture at Toronto, was sent up to investigate, and found that the animals had been feeding on a weed that grew by the roadside. A quantity of this weed has been sent to Ottawa, and has been identified as the deadly nightshade.

No corroboration of the report can be obtained in official circles here.

VERY PLAIN WARNING

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach on the Education Bill.

OPPONENTS NOT TO THREATEN.

Said Sir Michael: "The Courts Know How to Deal With Those Who, by Refusing to Pay the Rates, Range Themselves on the Side of Anarchy" — Criticises the War Office.

London, Sept. 30. — Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the former Chancellor of the Exchequer delivered a speech at Bristol last night, in which he outlined the attitude of the Government with respect to the opponents of the education bill, who had declared their refusal to carry out the provisions of the bill if it is enacted, or to pay the rates required.

Sir Michael said the strongest nonconformist could not believe that Parliament would abolish denominational schools. That being so, the bill provided the only way of meeting the difficulty namely, the extension of elementary education. The former Chancellor of the Exchequer said the bill might need some alteration, but if the matter was to be settled peaceably there must be no more threats of resistance to the will of Parliament by local authorities, or by ratepayers to the payment of rates. If the local authorities failed in their duty, said Sir Michael, Parliament would entrust their work to others. "The courts know how to deal with those who, by refusing to pay the rates, range themselves on the side of anarchy."

Sir Michael criticized the War Office as chiefly responsible for the increase in national expenditure. He said the South African war did not compare to the war in the Soudan in economy and efficiency, and that there was necessity for drastic reforms in the War Office, on the military, however, rather than on the civil side. He declared he had told his colleagues as much, and that he intended to continue his warnings.

INQUEST ADJOURNED.

Mrs. Edgar and Miss Gourlay Died From Their Wounds.

Paris, Ont., Sept. 30.—An inquest was called yesterday to inquire into the death of Mrs. Edgar and Miss Gourlay, who were killed on the Grand Trunk crossing here Sunday afternoon. Only two or three of the eye-witnesses to the accident were examined. Drs. Dunton and Burt declared death to be caused by compound fracture of the hip and scalp wound in the case of Mrs. Edgar, and fractured hip in that of Miss Gourlay. An adjournment was made until Oct. 8 to await the outcome of the injuries sustained by Mrs. Edgar's son, and procure further information as to the cause of the accident. Mrs. Edgar was 38 years of age. Her husband is a farmer living near Paris. There are three children, all younger than the injured boy. Miss Gourlay was employed by Mrs. Edgar. Her parents reside in Ayr.

The Age of Brain Work.

"In these days half our diseases come from the neglect of our body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age the wear and tear of labour and intellect goes on without pause or self pity. We live longer than our forefathers but we suffer more. They fatigued only the the muscles; we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest medicine of this age, because it is best suited to the needs of the present age. It restores and revitalizes wasted nerve cells and makes the pale, weak and exhausted, strong,

NEW ORLEANS STREET CAR STRIKE.

Not a Car For Passenger Traffic Left Barns Monday.

New Orleans, Sept. 30.—Not a car for passenger traffic on the street railways left the barns in New Orleans yesterday. Early mail cars were sent out, however, and accomplished their work with but one instance of molestation. A mob of strikers near one of the barns swarmed upon a car as it was being run out and stole the controlling handle. One arrest followed. All the electric linemen in this city were called out in a sympathetic strike yesterday afternoon. This means that the city of New Orleans will be in darkness. No telephone, telegraph, electric light or trolley wires can be mended now. Policeman D. O'Ayala was struck on the head and badly hurt yesterday afternoon while attempting to protect a street car.

Britain Lost Iron Orders.

London, Sept. 30.—The complaint is rife in British iron and ste markets that, although inquiries still come liberally from the United States for pig iron and steel billets, the resulting business mostly goes to the Continent. Large American orders have been placed in Germany, and some in France, at prices below those obtaining in Great Britain, and it is feared that the whole trans-Atlantic demand will become diverted to foreign producers. Some Welsh works are even buying German iron in preference to the dear Cumberland metal.
